Todd James Beahm, son of Rev. and Mrs. A. Ray Beahm, Crellin, recently completed basic training at the U.S. Navy's Orlando Recruit Training Center. Beahm earned an E3 rating as an electrician's mate and will remain in Orlando to attend nuclear engineering school.

Beahm is a 1987 graduate of Southern High School.

Eric Eaton, a member of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, was recently promoted to the rank of first lieutenant.

Lt. Eaton, who has been a member of the National Guard for six years, attended the Engineer Officers Basic Course and was also a student at Alderson-Broadbent College, Philipps, W.Va.

A resident of Ridge, St. Mary's County, Eaton is employed by Diamond Tool Company as a sales manager in Oxon Hill.

Henry Niner, a member of Company C, 121st Engineer Battalion, Maryland Army National Guard, Oakland, was recently promoted to the rank of staff sergeant.

Sgt. Niner is Company C's nuclear biology chemical non-commissioned officer. He has been a member of the National Guard for four years and served nine years with the U.S. Army's 101st Airborne Division, which included a three-year tour of duty in West Germany.

Niner is employed by William Goldsborough as a surveyor.

American Legion Auxiliary Meets

A regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary, Unit No. 71, was held Monday, October 19, with the president Leona Beckman presiding.

It was announced the next District Meeting would be held on Sunday, November 15, at Fort Cumberland Unit. All members are urged by Mrs. Beckman to attend.

The membership voted to donate $100.00 to Hospice of Garrett County in memory of Maxine Hinebaugh.

There will be a trip to Martinsburg Veterans' Hospital this Sunday, October 25.

In addition to a Unit donation of $25.00, all members are urged to bring gifts such as books, shaving articles, writing materials, cookies, candies, etc., to the Legion Post Home so they can be sent down with those going.

Mrs. Beckman attended the Fall Conference Workshop in Hagerstown, October 3-4. The theme of the conference was "Unite — Get Involved — Make It Happen — That's What It Is All About." Emphasis was placed in areas of serving America, stressing Americanism, serving children, members of the auxiliary, Hospice, veterans' hospitals, scholarships, knowledge about America, leadership and Radio Free Europe.

Workshops included presentation of a Guide Book for Officers and Chairmen; Completion of Reports; Duties of District President and District Representatives; Rules Review; Duties of Secretaries and question and answer periods.

U.S. Navy Petty Officer First Class Michael Beard recently qualified as the nuclear repair coordinator on board the USS Orion.

The Orion is a forward deployed submarine tender homeported in La Maddalena, Sardinia, Italy. Beard's duties include all aspects of nuclear repair and radiological controls associated with the critical maintenance to the nuclear propulsion plants of the nuclear attack submarines on deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Western Atlantic. Beard is only one of three nuclear repair coordinators stationed in the Mediterranean.

Petty Officer Beard is authorized to wear: silver dolphins, designating him qualified in submarines; good conduct medal, expert pistol medal, expert rifle medal, and two sea service ribbons.

A 1981 graduate of Southern High School, Beard is the son of David and Beverly Beard, Swanton.

Grantsville Ford Dealer Receives Top Sales Award

Gregory T. Diehl, sales manager at Diehl's Ford Sales, Inc., Grantsville, has been named a top sales achiever by Ford Motor Company for the second straight year by being awarded a Specialist Status.

The Specialist Status award is based on sales and quality points received from customer questionnaires regarding such areas as knowledgeability, courtesy, helpfulness, and overall customer satisfaction.

Diehl was also named to the list of the top 50 salesmen in the Pittsburgh District for year-to-date sales. He has also received an award from the Pittsburgh District office for his ideas submitted concerning how to maintain customer satisfaction.

A 1984 graduate of Northern High School, Diehl is currently working toward a degree in business administration and management at Frostburg State University.

Local AARP Group Travels To Southwest States

The local chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP) sponsored a recent bus tour to the southwestern part of the United States, which included a short excursion to Juarez, Mexico.

The group saw a performance of "The Stephen Foster Story" in Bardonia, Kentucky, before traveling to Dallas, Texas, for a bus tour. While there they drove through Dealy Plaza, where President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. They also visited the famed "Dallas" South Fork Ranch.

The tour continued to Carlsbad, New Mexico, where the group witnessed the bat flight spectacle where bats fly through the entrance each evening at sunset for night feeding. They also hiked through the underground caverns.

The group then stopped in El Paso, Texas, and Juarez, Mexico. After crossing the desert, they toured San Diego, Calif., and visited the zoo there. The group stopped at Knott's Berry Farm on the way to Los Angeles. While in Los Angeles, they toured the Hollywood Bowl, Grauman's Chinese Theatre, Beverly Hills and Universal City.

Heading east, the tour stopped at Calico Ghost Town, near Barstow, Calif. It was once a thriving silver mining town. The travelers then viewed the famous hotels and casinos of Las Vegas, Nev.

A visit to the Hoover Dam in Arizona was the next stop. At

Flagstaff, the group saw the Meteor Crater, which was used by Apollo astronauts as a training area before landing on the Moon.

On the return trip, the group visited the Painted Desert, the Petrified Forest, and Mesa Verde National Park.

A Salt Lake City, Utah, tour included Bingham Canyon copper mine, Great Salt Lake, the capitol building and Temple Square, which houses the temple, tabernacle and historic shrines of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

In St. Louis, Mo., the group went to the top of the Arch on the riverfront, which signifies the Gateway to the West.

Future Trips

Future trips planned for 1988 by AARP include: a seven-day trip in May to Philadelphia, Hershey, and Atlantic City ($409 for a double); a five-day trip to the Pines in the Catskills ($294 double); a Caribbean cruise in July ($1,196 double includes air and bus fare).

An Alaskan trip is also being planned for 1989. Persons interested in additional information about the trips may contact Ernest Spoerlein at 334-4868.

FSU Teacher Interns Serving In Local Schools

Dr. David J. Fell and Dr. Alice Alexander, coordinators of student teaching assignments for Frostburg State University, recently announced various intern assignments in Garrett County schools from September 9 through October 23.

At Northern High School is William Mott, Oakland, with Jim Boord in music and band.

Student teaching at Bloomington Elementary School is Susan Keadle, Petersburg, W.Va., with Mrs. Marie Magruder.

Patti Dixon, Oakland, is teaching at Red House Elementary School with Mrs. Helen Carroll and assigned to Route 40 Elementary School are Crystal Brown, Salisbury, Pa., with Mrs. Dorothy Minick, Susan Worthington with Mrs. Judy McKenzie, and Jill Gracie, Swanton, with Mrs. Betty Smith.

PSC To Review Winter Heating Protection Plan

The Maryland Public Service Commission has announced that it is reviewing regulations governing terminations of gas or electric service to low-income residential customers during the winter heating season. The review will focus on the Winter Heating Protection Program (WHPP) which was implemented by PSC in 1984.

The PSC is soliciting comments and recommendations from the public in preparation for hearings scheduled for December 3, 1987. Interested parties are encouraged to submit written information to the PSC at 231 E. Baltimore Street, Baltimore, Md. 21202 by November 4, 1987. Comments should address the effectiveness of WHPP and provide suggestions for continuing, modifying or replacing the program.

vice terminations during the winter months, so long as the households make specified minimum monthly payments. WHPP allows eligible low-income households to pay a portion of their winter heating bills each month during the winter and defer the unpaid balance to the non-heating season. Last year, 33,000 Maryland households participated in the program. WHPP was implemented on an interim basis to allow the PSC to evaluate its effectiveness. The commission's present review will determine whether any changes in the program are appropriate to safeguard low-income households during the winter.

AURORA-EGILON NEWS

Buckwheat Supper

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be held at the Maple Spring Church of the Brethren, Eglogon, on Saturday evening, October 24, with serving from 5-8 p.m. Fresh cider will be available. Donations for the meal will be $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children under 12.

Trick-Or-Treat Hours

On October 30 the communities will be allowing children under 12 to go house to house for tricks or treats from 5 until 7 p.m. Parents are asked to strictly observe these hours.

Halloween Party At Aurora

The annual Halloween Party will be held on October 31 at the Aurora School with the doors opening at 6:30 p.m. Dress parades begin at 6:30 p.m. and there will be games, prizes, food and activities for the whole family.

Open House

A former teacher at Aurora will be honored with a birthday open house. All friends of Mrs. Fern Jamison are invited to the event to honor her on Sunday, October 25, at the Cathedral Ole Towne Shoppe at Aurora from 5 until 6:30 p.m. It is requested that gifts be omitted.

Aurora PTO Meets

At the October 13 meeting of the Aurora PTO, there was a letter informing the organization of a donation which will be used to purchase physical education equipment for the school. Island Creek Coal Company made a donation for the equipment.

There will be no membership drive; all who are interested and wish to attend are welcome and considered members. Work on yearbooks has begun and the project of secret teacher pals has continued for this year.

Selected for the main thrust of effort for the year will be improvement of the grounds and playground areas at the school. A committee to formulate plans consists of Bill Matthias, chairman, and Ms. Baker, Nancy Sisler, Mary Stemple, Judy White, Betty Selders, Bonnie Harsh, Connie Stemple, Lori Durst and Marcia Rumer.

Plans continue for the October 31 Halloween Party. There is still a need of help with the activities. Those willing to serve in this capacity are asked to call Lori Durst or return the section of the note sent home with the children. Donations are also needed for harvest basket raffle (non-perishable items), door prizes, or glassware suitable for nickel pitch. Any of these may be sent or taken to the school now.

Dress parade for preschoolers through kindergarten will be at 6:30 p.m. with other ages following in sequence.

WV IOOF-Rebekah Convention

Lorain Hanline and Rennie Conrad represented the Aurora IOOF and Rebekah chapters at a four-day state meeting in Charleston last week at the Grand Lodge Convention of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Rebekahs Assemblies of West Virginia. Both were appointed to Grand Lodge offices for the coming year.

Center Plans Made

Plans for the year were made in an October 14 meeting of parents and instructor at the Preston Child Development Center in Eglogon. There were 16 in attendance and activities upcoming will be a raffle with a drawing during the first week in December as a fund raising effort; a Halloween party and hayride on October 28; invitation to Richard Roberson, Sheriff's deputy, to speak to the group concerning safety for children.

Personal Notes

Martha and Dan Bowen, Anderson, S.C., were in this area Saturday seeking information concerning Mrs. Bowen's Bush ancestry.

Paul and Melanie Myers of Pittsburgh, have recently purchased the Old Stone Tavern at Aurora and are beginning improvements to make it a dwelling.

Ella and Norman North of Easton, Md., visited briefly in this area on Sunday. Mrs. North is a daughter of the late Arvie and Nina Miller, an Eglogon native.

On Saturday evening Robert and Helen Henline and Bessie Beckman of Mt. Lake Park and Merle Smith of Crellin, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lorain Hanline on Mt. Top.

Willis Harsh of Stemple Ridge is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital undergoing tests and observation.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Harsh have been spending time at their retreat on Stemple Ridge and visiting them last weekend were all of her sisters and other family members. They were Ruth and Bill Spessert, Brenda and Bob Windon, of Clarksburg, Md.; Reba and George Spessert and Jean Harsh, St. George; Rodney and Billie Spessert of Buckhannon; and Virginia Friend of Parsons.

Guests this weekend of Mr. and Mrs. Herb Starr, Stemple Ridge were Mr. Starr's mother, Annie Starr, and his sister and husband, Delores and Bill Collins, Twinsburg, Ohio. Sunday visitors there were David and Madeline Ford and their children, David and Melanie of Akron; Claud and Eldean Poling and Harold Harsh, local; Robert and Dorothy Spaid, Aurora; Nancy Sisler, Annette, Diane, David and Kathy of Cranesville.

Mrs. Cleota Hoisington and her granddaughter have arrived from Ohio for a few days visit with her mother, Mrs. Lydia Harsh and Robin Lipscomb at Aurora.

Visiting Mrs. Mildred Wilt in Eglogon on Sunday evening was her grandson, Eugene Wilt and his family, Linda and sons, Adam and Travis, of Rowlesburg.

Several groups of hunters have returned from western trips. Don Roth and Norman Feather of Horse Shoe Run and Johnny Roth of Red House returned from Colorado with their prizes. Also returning this weekend were Robert Shaffer, Walter Shaffer, Brad Shaffer and John Foster, also loaded down with trophy meat.

Visiting in this area are Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kaminski of Warren, Mich., who are visiting with her sister, Mrs. Zella Snyder, at the Morgan Manor Nursing Home in Morgantown. Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Teets returned last Sunday to their home at Silver Lake after a week's vacation, during which they spent part of the time in volunteer service at the Church World Service Center in New Windsor, Md., and also visited their children in Virginia.

Hancell Teets returned to his home near Aurora last Thursday following tests at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Note From Correspondent

During the next two weeks, the Aurora-Eglogon correspondent will be at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, for hip surgery. Persons who have news or announcements are asked to call Mildred Wilt at 735-3872 or send them to Linda Lewis at P.O. Box 25, Eglogon.

Mountaineers Begin New Year Reorganization meeting for the 1987-88 year was held October 12 at the Eglogon Memorial Building by the Eglogon Mountaineer 4-H Club. There were eight new members and parents present and 16 older members of an evening of learning about parliamentary procedure, the program presented by Linda Lewis, leader. Small groups worked on finding mistakes in the minutes of bogus meeting, then in taking turns learning to make motions and acting as president.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

No Trick-Or-Treat
There will be no trick-or-treat in the town of Grantsville, according to the Mayor and Town Council.

WOW Banquet
The Woodmen of the World Lodge No. 41 Annual Banquet was held at the Grantsville Fire Hall on Saturday evening with 153 persons in attendance. Thomas O. Bender was master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by Walter Younk.

The meal was served by the Ladies Auxiliary. Phyllis Bender, president of Lodge No. 41, gave the welcome. Allen and Alta Birkby provided musical entertainment.

The Lodge officers were introduced as were nine Jurisdictional officers, wives and friends. Thomas Bender presented 25-year and 50-year pins. He then introduced the state manager, Ronald Ford, who introduced his wife and son, and made remarks and presented awards. A conservation plaque was presented to the Ernest Ganoe family from Finzel. A surprise award was presented to Walter Younk for "his service and outstanding citizenship." The next two were also surprises, which went to Thomas O. Bender, as Mr. Woodman and Phyllis Bender, as Woman of Woodcraft.

The dried floral arrangements made by Ann Bender and presented by Thomas Bender went to Mabel Brennenman, Ronald Ford, Bright Warnick, Spencer Graham and Arthur Friend.

The meeting adjourned with an invitation to all members and friends to an open house for the new building on Miller Street on November 8 from 2-4 p.m.

Annual Dinner
The fifth annual Aid Association of Lutherans dinner will be held Saturday, November 7, from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the Northern Middle School cafeteria. Adult tickets are $5.00 and children under 12 years, $2.50. Many crafts, baked goods and homemade candy will be on

The proceeds will be matched by AA Branch 5821, the sponsors of the dinner. The money will be sent to the National Braille Workers Inc. to help purchase materials to produce Braille literature.

Personals
Curtis Savage is a patient in the intensive care in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland.

George Teets is a patient in the Myersdale Community Hospital.

Mrs. Rhoda Livengood has returned home from Memorial Hospital.

Joseph Wenger remains a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hetrick, Mt. Airy, and Mrs. Vadine Henline, Silver Spring, were weekend visitors of their father, Loy Miller.

Miss Stacey Wable has returned home from Ocean City to spend several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wable. On Saturday she entered Boyd Traveling School in Pittsburgh.

Rev. Paul Yoder will be filling the pulpit at the Maple Grove Church on Sunday, October 25.

Mr. and Mrs. David Beachy hosted a turkey dinner for her father, Robert Glatfelter, for his 70th birthday. His grandchildren, Priscilla and Savilla and Curtiss Arby from Accokeek; Mr. and Mrs. Clark Glatfelter and his wife, Beulah Glatfelter, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Glatfelter, all of Grantsville, attended.

Family Crisis Offers Volunteer Training Course

A training course for volunteers or the Garrett County Family Crisis Resource Center is slated to begin November 7.

The course will provide training for volunteers to increase the awareness and understanding of domestic violence and sexual assault. It will enable participants to relate to the victims in a helpful and caring way. The course will also discuss what medical and legal options are available for victims of abuse. Community resources available to the victims will also be explored.

The course will be held on Saturdays, November 7, 14, and 21, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at 212 South Third Street in Oakland.

For more information or to register, call Leslie Eisenberger or Ruth Oliverio at the Family Crisis Resource Center at 334-9701. The deadline for registration is October 30.

Wheels For Life Coordinator For Grantsville Named

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital officials today announced that Mrs. Kay Layman will coordinate the Hospital's "Wheels For Life" Bike Ride in Grantsville. This ride will raise funds to support the hospital's battle against childhood cancer and other illnesses being studied there.

Founded in 1962 by entertainer Danny Thomas, St. Jude Hospital has become the world's largest center for the study of childhood cancer, and is the only institution dedicated solely to the treatment and study of catastrophic childhood diseases. The Hospital is non-sectarian and interracial.

In addition to direct treatment of patients from 39 states and 29 foreign countries, St. Jude has provided the world's doctors with the best ways of treating their own young cancer patients. This life-saving knowledge is given freely and with no charge to any other hospital or private physician.

St. Jude Hospital's dramatic progress has been made possible primarily by voluntary contributions raised through events such as the "Wheels For Life" bike rides organized by concerned citizens all over America.

Aurora-Egdon

The teen leaders presented devotions using "Autumn" as their theme. Julie Lewis, Nathan Teets, Debbie Rinehart and Mark Utterback participated. Two camp songs were led by members of the music committee.

Project ribbons were given out, enrollment cards collected, and a report on National 4-H Week given.

Countywide officers training will be held on November 7 at West Preston, 9:30-11 a.m. The county achievement dinner will be at the Fellowship School on November 14 at 6 p.m.

The club voted to have a local achievement dinner for members and families. This is a carry-in dinner to be held on November 13, at 7 p.m., at the Aurora Fire Hall. (As this date is different than decided that night, please note date change).

Again this year the club is selling raffle tickets for quarters of beef, lamb and pork to benefit the Preston County 4-H Foundation and also benefiting the local clubs. Each family is urged to sell at least one book of tickets with the money due by October 26.

Kevin Corbin led the group in a game before refreshments were served by the Moore and Utterback families. Attending were Kevin and Brian Corbin,

Jeremiah Feather, Julie Lewis, Danny and Billy Moore, Donna and Patty Mullenax, Debbie and Donald Rinehart, Natalie Snyder, Aaron and Kevin Teets; John, Mark and Matt

Utterback and new members Shane Dixon, Nathan Feather, Carroll Joe Hartsell, Amy Matthes, Regina Shaffer, Rebecca Snyder, Katie Utterback and Elizabeth Wolring.

Leaders Linda Lewis and Elaine Roth and other adults, Judy Shaffer, Cheryl Dixon, Brenda Hartsell, Linda Snyder, Carolyn Mullenax, Sue Corbin were also present.

Garrett Farm Bureau Kicks Off 50th Year; Bill Clem To Speak

Bill Clem, "The Voice of Maryland Agriculture," will be the guest speaker at the annual Garrett County Farm Bureau Banquet, tomorrow night, as the county moves into its 50th year of Farm Bureau involvement.

Garrett County Farm Bureau was organized in 1937 and the county group joined the state Farm Bureau in 1938. Three surviving charter members, Wayne Hamilton, Charlie Miller and Bill Wildesen, will be recognized during the evening's activities. Hamilton will speak on the early years and the changes he's seen. The Farm Bureau Women's Committee will also recognize past Farm Bureau presidents.

Clem's topic will be "Farm Bureau as the farmers most important tool," and will tie in with the 50 years of Garrett County Farm Bureau.

Clem was raised on a Frederick County dairy farm and was very involved in 4-H work. He graduated, in the top of his class, from the National Academy of Business and Broadcasting in Washington, D.C., in 1961.

He worked at radio stations in the D.C. and Hagerstown areas until April 1964, when he joined the Maryland Farm Bureau to operate their radio news department. There, he was in charge of a 30-station network providing the stations with a weekly program of farm news. He also served as field man for 10 Western Maryland counties, including Garrett. During that time, he helped to start the Safemark Farm Supply Group Purchasing Program in Maryland in 1967, making him one of the original eight state service company managers in the United States.

From 1972 through the present time, he has been the full-time manager of the program in the state. He completed his radio news work in 1980 when Jack Matthews became information director.

Clem and his wife, Pat, who is also from a dairy farm, live in Frederick County. The couple are the parents of a 24-year old son, Charles, and a 21-year old daughter, Deborah.

Farm Bureau President Clark Kolb reminds members that tickets for the 7 p.m. banquet will be available at the door for those who did not receive them in the mail this week.

Ocean City Is Site Of MFB '87 Convention

Ocean City awaits Maryland's farmers and the annual Maryland Farm Bureau Convention, December 6-9. The Ocean City Sheraton will again play host to the four days of meetings, seminars, food and fun.

Delegates from every county in the state will convene to vote on policy which will guide the organization through 1988. "We expect quite a bit of debate on the land preservation program, and water issues in particular," said MFB President Robert Wilson.

Top-notch speakers are slated to appear this year. Maryland Senator Barbara Mikulski and American Farm Bureau President Dean Kleckner top the list of people who will speak to the more than 1,000 farmers expected to attend. Wilson said. Entertainers will include the 4-H choral group, "New Beginnings," and "The Checkpoints," a dance band.

Convention reservations are still available through county Farm Bureau secretaries, or by calling the Maryland Farm Bureau office (301) 922-3426.

Wilson's advice to Maryland's farmers is: "Get out your bathing suit, put on your convention hat, and start up the car. Maryland Farm Bureau is going to 'reach the beach' in Ocean City this year."

September Weather Was About Normal

The September 6-18 period was warm, but the remainder of the month continued mostly normal temperatures. Tropical depressions brought heavy precipitation, but only relatively high winds and no hurricanes.

Precipitation averaged 5.41 inches, 2.0 inches above normal for September. Soil moisture went from short to adequate during September, but many crops were already developed, and the overall condition of crops did not improve significantly.

As of Sunday, October 4, the only general killing frost in Maryland had occurred in Allegany and Garrett counties. Topsoil moisture was adequate overall, although some lower Eastern Shore counties were short. Subsoil moisture was short to adequate.

Corn was 65 percent harvested for grain, 15 percent ahead of normal and 20 percent ahead of 1986 on this date. The condition of corn remained fair overall. The condition of soybeans was fair to poor, mostly fair. Soybeans were turning color on 75 percent of the acreage, five percent below average, but five percent ahead of last year. Five percent of the soybeans were harvested. Apples were 45 percent harvested, 25 percent behind the average pace. The fall planting of winter wheat was 10 percent complete, five percent below average. The condition of small grains was good.

Alternatives To Chemicals Found In Biotechnology

Biotechnology will become more important in providing a cost-effective and environmentally sound alternative to chemical weed and insect control, according to a scientist who spoke at an American Farm Bureau Federation meeting last week, and reported in the October 19 "Farm Bureau News."

"Pesticides are having problems because it costs up to $80 million to invent and test and 10 to 15 years just to get it to the market," said Jerry Caulder, a scientist with Mycogen Corporation, a San Diego-based firm that specializes in microbial insecticides.

In contrast, he said, products produced through biotechnology, which are naturally occurring, take only three years and about $500,000 to get on the market. "We can afford to work in an extremely small market," Caulder said. "Larger pesticide companies can only afford to look at big markets such as corn and soybeans. We're not limited by that due to the small number of dollars we have to spend on product development. Our production plants are also far less costly."

The scientist explained the natural and regulatory advantages of using gene technology. "When you're dealing with bio-insecticides they are all broken down very quickly." Such products, he said, "don't have the negative baggage like ground-water contamination or residues in food" that conventional pesticides have.

And, Caulder noted, under existing EPA regulations, "If its biological, the toxicology tests have to prove it guilty; then they will not let you use it. If it's a chemical product, it's almost the other way around. A synthetic chemical is considered guilty until all the tests prove it is innocent."

Caulder said biotechnology is progressing rapidly in Japan. The Japanese are eager to invest money in their country and the U.S., said Caulder. "They are less concerned about the products developed but rather the technology and the intelligence," he added. "We have a competitive lead in the science right now. I'm not sure we have the lead in the actual technology."

One positive development, he said, is that the U.S. is beginning to resolve the regulatory problems which had slowed the industry's growth. "The statutory apparatus which currently exists is adequate to deal with biotechnology. The last thing we need is another super agency," he said.

Second Women's Agricultural Forum Set For Nov. 18 & 19 In Annapolis

The second annual Women's Agricultural Forum will be held Wednesday, November 18, and Thursday, November 19, at the Annapolis Holiday Inn.

Sponsored jointly by The University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service Home Economics Department, the Maryland Extension Homemakers Council, the Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee, the Maryland Grange and the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the two-day forum will cover such topics as small farm alternatives and communicating effectively.

Interested persons (male or female) may attend either or both days at a cost of $30 for two days, including four meals, $25 for Wednesday only, including two meals, or $10 for Thursday only, including lunch. A special rate has been arranged with the Holiday Inn for Ag Forum participants who wish to stay overnight. For rate and reservation information, those interested may call the Garrett County Extension Office at 334-1990.

The forum will begin with registration at 9:30 a.m. on Wednesday, followed by an opening session titled "Green Cows, Quags and Mummies" at 10 a.m. During that session, Dr. Lowell Catlett, ag economist, University of New Mexico, will discuss what the future holds for production agriculture and the consuming public.

The next session will deal with small farm alternatives for Maryland — an emerging profile for Maryland agriculture by Bud Kerr, administrator, USDA Alternative and Small Farms Program. A responder panel will include Moderator Dr. Raymond Miller, vice president for agricultural affairs, Dean Colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences at The University of Maryland, and panel members from the chemical industry, Maryland Department of Agriculture, a commodity group representative, and someone from the consumer industry.

Lunch, featuring Maryland's agricultural harvest, will include a speaker on "Women and Agriculture."

The first afternoon session will deal with "Communicating Effectively." Participants will learn how to be media smart and make their words count. In charge of the session will be Sara Wyant, editor, Agri-Pulse Newsletter, and Marsha Purcell, director women's

Garrett County To Be Site Of State Young Farmers Annual Retreat

Young Farmers from across the state will come to Western Maryland for a weekend of relaxation and discussion November 6-8. Young Farmers members, ages 18-35, will meet at the Wisp Resort on Deep Creek Lake.

"We are looking forward to getting away from our farms for a weekend, and learning as much as we can from each other," said state Young Farmer Chairman Charles Coles.

The retreat will include a tour of Garrett County farms followed by a hayride and cook-out. "The farming in Garrett County is different from what many of us are used to, and I think we can learn from that," Coles said.

Saturday night dinner will include a talk by West Virginia Farm Bureau Field Representative Bill Aiken. Aiken, who farms his family's farm in Accident, worked for Maryland Farm Bureau before taking the position in West Virginia. He has more than 13 years experience working for Farm Bureau.

All Young Farmers are welcome at the retreat. A registration fee of $75/single or $100/couple includes lodging and meals. Garrett County Young Farmers who do not desire lodging will be charged $4 for the Saturday night banquet and $4 for the hayride and cookout. The fee for others interested in attending will be $9 for the banquet and $9 for the hayride and cookout. For more information and reservations, persons may contact Garrett County Young Farmer Chairman Paul Miller at 826-8616.

THE MYSTERY TRIP!

Can you imagine the outcome of a long trip by car to a strange city if you packed your things, serviced the car for the trip, got everyone in the car, and then started down the road WITHOUT A MAP?

It sounds like the beginning of a horror story, doesn't it? Just imagine the wrong turns, the hours wasted backtracking, and the numerous stops to ask directions along the way. Yet, we've all had such an experience during our lifetime.

Without some preparation, buying a home can result in a similar experience. That's why it pays to do a little planning first.

For instance, what is your timetable? By what date do you intend to make a decision. When would you like to move?

How much money do you have saved for a down payment, for monthly payments, and what price home do you plan to purchase? What physical features are necessary to house your family comfortably? How many bedrooms, baths, etc.? What size lot will you require?

What style home best suits your tastes? And, what about location and convenience to shopping, work and schools?

Before choosing your real estate agent, decide on the direction you wish to take. Then, be prepared to share your ideas, needs, and ability to purchase with your agent.

Understanding real estate dilemmas and their solutions is our business, and we'll happily share our knowledge with you. Why not give us a call at 387-5303 or drop by our office at McHenry Plaza.

Maryland Equine Research Council Is Formed

Maryland's horse industry will get a boost, thanks to the newly-formed partnership between the Maryland Horse Breeders Association and The University of Maryland. Together, they have formed the Maryland Equine Research Council (MERC).

The purpose of MERC is to increase communication between horse industry leaders and university officials so they can enhance the state's horse industry, according to Dr. Raymond J. Miller, vice president for Agricultural Affairs and dean of the colleges of Agriculture and Life Sciences at The University of Maryland.

One of MERC's first objectives will be to determine the critical needs of Maryland's horse industry and the role The University of Maryland can play in meeting those needs, according to Richard W. Wilke, executive vice president of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association.

Wilke added that from an economic, agricultural, sports, and tourism standpoint, The University of Maryland should be involved in developing the kinds of research and education programs that are vital to the state's horse industry.

"The council will help us to move in that direction," Wilke said.

The 15-member council will consist of eight representatives from the University and seven representatives from the horse industry. Issues to be addressed will be determined during council meetings, which will be held two to four times per year.

14th ANNUAL MID-ATLANTIC NO-TILL CONFERENCE

This year the no-till conference will be held at the Maryland State Fairgrounds at Timonium on December 16. Anyone interested in attending may obtain information from my office. Lunch tickets are available at $3 each.

PRIVATE PESTICIDE APPLICATOR'S LICENSES

I have planned two training sessions for those of you who would like some help in preparing for the pesticide test. The first workshop will be held on Tuesday, November 3, at 11 a.m. at Penn Alps in Grantsville. The Grantsville Southern States will sponsor your lunch. You must make lunch reservations by calling Grantsville Southern States. I will repeat the same program on November 4 at 10 a.m. at the Extension Office in Oakland. It is not necessary to attend the workshop. You can study the manuals at home. However, it is necessary for everyone who is planning to take the test to contact my office right away so we can send you the appropriate materials (334-1990). The exam will be given on Tuesday, November 17, at 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett Community College.

VACCINATE AT WEANING

Weaning time is a good time to vaccinate the calves and pregnancy check and boost vaccines for the cow herd.

Weaned calves should receive:

- A. IBR/PI3/BVD Vaccine (Killed)
- B. Blackleg/malignant edema booster
- C. Enterotoxemia Vaccine (7-Way is common)
- D. Brucellosis to replacement heifers between two and 10 months of age
- E. Haemophilus somnus (optional)

Cows should receive:

- A. Leptospirosis Vaccine (3-Way at least)
- B. Vitamin A or A-D-E (optional)
- C. Enterotoxemia and scours vaccine to protect calves (optional)

Treating external parasites and deworming of all animals is recommended.

U.S. House Seeks Delay Of EPA Pesticide Plan

Legislation to delay the Environmental Protection Agency's planned pesticide labeling program, which would restrict pesticide use to protect endangered species in 900 counties, "will keep farmers from being unnecessarily victimized by a program that wasn't fully thought out," according to American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner.

Under a bill introduced last week by Rep. Pat Roberts (R-Kan.), the pesticide program, scheduled to start February 1, 1988, would be delayed for one year. The measure (H.R. 3489) would require EPA and USDA to conduct a joint study assessing the endangered species program's economic impact on agriculture. It is co-sponsored by Reps. Madigan (Illinois), Marlenee (Montana), Emerson (Missouri), Schuette (Michigan), Shumway (California), Craig (Idaho) and Smith (Nebraska).

Under the program, pesticide labels will list the counties in which the use of the product may threaten a rare plant or animal. Pesticide users in those counties are then supposed to obtain a "county bulletin" that specifies the areas in which use of the chemical is restricted.

Roberts charged that EPA is "speeding" ahead "with a stunning and callous disregard for the economic impact this would have on entire regions of the country. Scientific fact and common sense have been sacrificed to quick implementation of a pesticide ban."

Citing the "far-reaching impact" of the program, Roberts said that "agriculture as we know it in the affected areas could be shut down, further lowering property values and adding distress to communities and producers suffering economic hardship."

Kleckner noted that EPA pushed the program forward without giving the agricultural community the chance to comment on its impact. "EPA apparently also went ahead faster than wildlife officials were able to pinpoint the exact areas where pesticide use would be restricted. Obviously, everyone involved needs more time to assess this program," the farm leader said.

Fish and Wildlife Service Director Frank Dunkle has asked EPA to delay the program, saying there have been problems with the maps that outline the range of some endangered species. "Apparently, the information provided has resulted in the identification of entire counties to be subject to restrictions when, indeed, the species involved are located in only a very small portion of the county," he said.

Several senators also are expected to mount a campaign to delay the EPA program.

New Test:Right™ can add points to your fat test

Is fat test a problem on your farm? New Test:Right dairy feed from Agway is the answer.

You're probably aware that feeding whole cottonseed can increase the fat level in your milk. But if you've fed cottonseed in the past, you're aware of the handling and storage problems.

New Test:Right is the only pelleted dairy feed that includes whole cottonseed, regulated protein solubility, and regulated carbohydrates in an easy-to-handle, easy-to-feed pellet. And it's also easy to see the difference that an increase in fat test can make in your milk check!

If you want to increase your milkfat content, and your profits, talk to your Agway Farm Enterprise Salesperson about new Test:Right. He can balance your feeding program with the on-farm Ration Balancing Computer System and prescribe the correct Test:Right feed for optimum milk production and fat test results on your farm.

Expired Commodity Certificates May Be Exchanged For Cash

Olin S. Davis, Jr., chairperson, Maryland State ASC Committee, said generic commodity certificates that have not been exchanged or transferred to another person by the expiration date may be redeemed for a cash percentage of the certificate's face value.

"Original holders (farmers) of expired commodity certificates may submit a written request for cash payment to their county office, along with the expired certificates," Davis said. Certificates must be redeemed at the same county ASC office where they were issued.

Generic commodity certificates are issued to farmers and others as payment for participation in government programs.

According to Davis farmers have until October 31 to request 85 percent of the face value of commodity certificates which expired between December 31, 1986 and April 30, 1987. Farmers who have certificates with a May 1, 1987, or later expiration date, have six months to request 85 percent of the certificates face value.

"Original certificate holders who miss the October 31 or the 6-month deadline, have up to 18 months after the expiration date to request 50 percent of the face value of these certificates."

For instance, Davis said, a commodity certificate with a December 31, 1986, expiration date may be exchanged as late as June 1988 for 50 percent of its face value.

The ASCS official said 4.3 percent will be deducted from cash payments for certificates issued under the 1986 Price Support and Production Adjustment Programs in accordance with the Balanced Budget and the Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985.

Maryland Harvest Weather Reported

During the week ended October 11, Maryland experienced several frosts. Some high elevation cropland had only light frosts which caused no damage, while some lower areas had more severe frosts which are causing soybean leaves to turn brown. As of October 11, widespread killing frosts had been limited to the western counties. There were 6.0 days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Topsoil moisture was adequate. Subsoil moisture was adequate to short, mostly adequate. The largest areas with short moisture were in the lower Eastern Shore counties.

The condition of corn was fair. Corn was 98 percent mature, three percent ahead of average. The corn for grain harvest was 75 percent complete, 15 percent ahead of average and last year. Corn silage was 95 percent cut, equal to the average pace.

The condition of soybeans remained fair to poor, mostly fair. Virtually all the soybeans had set pods. Soybeans were 85 percent turning color, five percent below average. Soybeans were shedding leaves on 65 percent of the acreage, the same as average and last year. Soybeans were 15 percent harvested, five percent ahead of the average and last year.

The fall planting of winter wheat was 30 percent complete, equal to the average. Barley fall planting was 55 percent complete, also equal to the average. Oats were 10 percent planted, 25 percent behind average. The harvest of apples was 80 percent complete, equal to normal. The hay supply was adequate overall.

During the week ended October 18 Maryland experienced several frosts and only light precipitation. The cool nights and dry weather advanced soybean maturity and helped the harvest of corn and soybeans. There were 6.6

days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Topsoil and subsoil moisture ranged from short to adequate. Most of the shortages were located on the Eastern Shore.

The condition of corn remained fair. Corn was 98 percent mature, the same as normal. The corn for grain harvest was 80 percent completed, 10 percent ahead of normal. Corn silage was 98 percent cut, equal to the average pace.

The condition of soybeans was poor to fair on average for the state. Most of the soybeans in poor condition were in middle eastern shore counties and southern Maryland. Soybeans were 90 percent turning color, five percent behind average. Soybeans were shedding leaves on 75 percent of the acreage, equal to normal. Thirty percent of the soybeans were harvested, 10 percent ahead of normal.

The fall planting of winter wheat was 50 percent complete, five percent ahead of normal. Barley and rye were 75 and 70 percent planted, respectively, both equal to the average pace. The fall planting of oats was 55 percent completed, five percent behind average. The condition of small grains was good overall, but precipitation is needed.

The harvest of apples was 95 percent completed, 10 percent ahead of the normal pace. The hay supply remained adequate.

Weather

Weather for the week ended October 16 was cool and dry. Temperatures averaged 51.4 degrees, 5.0 degrees below the normal 56.4 degree average for this week in the year. Low temperatures dipped into the 20s and low 30s in Western Maryland and the mid 30s elsewhere. High temperatures for the week ranged from the mid 60s to mid 70s. Precipitation for the week averaged 0.04 inches with most stations receiving very light amounts, ranging from a trace at Snow Hill and Baltimore Airport to a high of 0.10 inch at Oakland.

Grain Stocks Up

Old crop corn stored in all positions on September 1 is estimated at 4.88 billion bushels in the United States. Indicated disappearance from all storage positions during June-August 1987 totaled 1.45 billion bushels up 53 percent from the comparable period last year. The September 1 carryover of old crop soybeans is 436 million bushels, 19 percent below September 1 last year but 38 percent above the September 1, 1985 stocks level. Indicated disappearance during June-August 1987 totaled 428 million bushels, 37 percent more than the corresponding quarter last year. Wheat stocks in all positions on September 1 total 2.96 billion bushels, six percent less than stocks on hand September 1, 1986.

Operate Farm Tractors Safely

Though today's farm equipment is the safest ever from an engineering standpoint, tractors still are involved in many agricultural accidents. Most could be prevented.

- Follow operating, maintenance and safety instructions in your operator's manual.
- Make sure all tractor operators are well trained and competent.
- Don't allow extra riders.
- Keep all shielding in place. Make certain hydraulic lines are properly connected and leak-free.
- Stop the power before unclogging or fixing a power-driven machine.
- Match ground speed to operating conditions. Watch where you are going. Avoid obstacles, ditches and steep slopes. Watch for overhead powerlines.
- When on the road, use your flashing lights. Make sure the SMV emblem is clean and visible. Obey all traffic rules.
- Turn off the engine before refueling. Don't smoke.
- Mount a fire extinguisher and first aid kit on the tractor.

SUCCESS FLOOR COVERINGS

Liberty St., Oakland, Md.

Md. HIC License No. 16358

Because October 19-23 is National Forest Products Week and because one of Garrett County's major industries is wood and forest production, the following article was prepared by the American Forest Council and released locally by the Maryland Tree Farm Committee.

FOREST MANAGEMENT PROVIDES HEALTHY, PRODUCTIVE FORESTS

Over the past 25 years — since the time the first baby boomers entered high school — a remarkable thing has happened to American forests: they've grown to contain 100 billion cubic feet more wood today than they did in 1962.

Despite all the population pressures and the rapid urbanization of the past quarter-century, the growing stock in the nation's forests has grown about 603 billion cubic feet in 1960 to about 711 billion cubic feet today. The result is a renewable American resource capable of furnishing an important raw material not only for our rising domestic use, but for expanding global demand as well.

With the application of modern forest management techniques, the productivity of American forests is unrivaled in the world. Largely as a result of this achievement, in the past 25 years, the U.S. built 46 million new housing units and produced 1.7 billion tons of paper and paperboard — 7.2 tons apiece for every man, woman and child in the country today.

Today the use of wood products extends far beyond home construction and paper. Wood flour and melamine resins using cellulose filler are principal components of dinnerware, telephone housings, radio and TV cabinets. Torula yeast, a high-protein product made from wood sugars spent in the pulping process, is used in baby foods, cereals, baked goods, and dietary preparations. Ethyl cellulose is used in products as diverse as sausage casings and photographic film.

Given this rising demand for both the traditional uses of wood and futuristic applications of wood fiber, it's surprising that the nation is harvesting only about the same volume today as it did at the turn of the century. It's all the more surprising since per capita paper consumption has risen 800 percent and the production of lumber and other wood products has climbed 70 percent during the same period.

The reason we can satisfy rising demand and still harvest less of our forest is because first managers are committed to good stewardship of the land. Use of genetically-improved seedlings — the so-called "super-tree" — and improved methods for controlling nature's predators, such as wildfire, insects and diseases, conserves more of the forest for a variety of uses — from products to recreation. That way, modern forest management gives Americans better use of their forestland.

In addition, forest products companies today find ways to use wood for more effectively than was ever thought possible. Logging residues, tree-tops, limbs and salvageable dead trees that were formerly discarded as waste are now used productively in the modern manufacturing process.

Our forestland today totals about 757 million acres. Of that total, about one-third — 225 million acres — is set aside in parks and wilderness areas, or is otherwise unsuitable for growing repeated crops of trees. This third of the American forests is bigger than Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Austria, Switzerland, Holland, Belgium and Israel combined.

The remaining 482 million acres of the total forest base is called "commercial forest" — land capable of producing repeated crops of trees, and where production and harvesting is permitted by law.

American forests have a variety of owners. Those with the most acreage are the roughly four million private landowners, who control almost 58 percent of the commercial forests — about 275 million acres. Government is the second major forest owner. About 136 million acres of commercial forestland — 28 percent — is publicly held, mostly by the U.S. Forest Service.

The forest products industry comes in a distant third, with about 14 percent of the commercial forest — something like 69 million acres. Nevertheless, industry provides over 30 percent of the national forest harvest. Private, nonindustrial landowners supply 48 percent of the harvest and government-owned lands account for 22 percent.

Approximately 88 million acres of privately owned and industry forests are certified in the American Tree Farm System, a nationwide program that encourages private forest owners to manage trees as a crop for harvest. About 58,000 individual and corporate landowners in all 50 states currently participate in the program.

Domestic Violence Brochure Available

Every eighteen seconds a woman is beaten somewhere in the United States, according to the National Coalition Against Domestic Violence. Domestic violence is a serious crime punishable by-law that accounts for 18 percent of all violent crimes in this country.

A new brochure published by the Maryland State Bar Association explains what persons can do to legally protect themselves from domestic violence. The brochure gives a step-by-step description of the police and court procedures one must follow when filing charges against an abuser, and provides a complete list of programs and shelters across the state of Maryland that can assist those who are the victims of domestic violence.

"Domestic Violence: You Can Live Without It" is one of 13 legal issues publications produced by the Maryland State Bar Association which are available free of charge to the public. Other titles include: "Your Legal Rights If Arrested," "Rights of Landlords and Tenants," "Divorce and Separation," "Juvenile Court," "Responsibilities of a Guardian," "Wills and Estates," "Being a Witness," "What To Do In Case of an Auto Accident," "So, You've Received a Traffic Ticket," "When You Need a Lawyer," "Lawyers and Legal Fees" and "Nursing Home Admissions Contracts in Maryland."

For free copies of these informational brochures, persons should send a self-addressed, stamped (73c) envelope to: Brochures, Maryland State Bar Association, 520 West Fayette Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201.

The Maryland State Bar Association is a professional, non-profit, voluntary membership association comprised of more than 12,300 attorneys across the state of Maryland, which monitors judicial and legislative issues in the state, offers legal education opportunities and promotes leadership within the legal profession.

New Bereavement Program Offered By Local Hospice

Hospice of Garrett County held a continental breakfast on October 14 to explain the new bereavement program which is offered to anyone who has lost a loved one.

The structure and organization of the new program was explained to a group of approximately 40 persons including ministers, school counselors, insurance agents, physicians, hospital officials and volunteer caregivers, as well as the general public by Mrs. Martha Jachowski, director of Bereavement Services for Hospice of Garrett County. A question and answer period followed her presentation.

Wayne R. Johnson, executive director, welcomed the group, thanked them for coming and offered any help Hospice may be able to give. "We were very pleased to have this many people take their valuable time and come to this presentation," he said. "Hopefully, they will be able to spread the word to encourage those who need assistance to come to the sessions."

The Bereavement Group will meet for eight successive Wednesdays at 7:30 p.m. at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The sessions are planned on a more structured basis than those of the previous group. Topics will be geared to persons who have lost a spouse, child, grandparent, relative or close personal friend. Participants need not talk if they so desire, but may just listen, Johnson said.

CHRISTMAS LIGHT DONATION — The Oakland Woodmen of the World made a $100 donation to the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) for their Christmas lighting project. Presenting the check to Nancy Helbig of GOBA is former Senator Spencer Graham, a 75-year member of Woodmen of the World. The former senator, who is 93 years old, served in the Maryland Senate from 1962-66 and was the last state senator to be elected from Garrett County. One of the 24 Christmas light units being purchased by GOBA is on display in the Helbig Building across from Englander's Pharmacy in Oakland and is lit 24 hours a day for all to see. Donations are still being accepted by GOBA, whose fund-raising project has collected over $8,000 so far, which is just over half of what is needed for the new Christmas lights. The 24 units will be installed around Oakland and lit the day after Thanksgiving to swing into the Christmas season.

The contact begins by the Bereavement Committee sending a sympathy card to the bereaved person. In time, other information and an invitation by letter and a phone call to the bereaved person are made. If no interest is expressed, the Bereavement Committee does not continue to make contacts. Should persons later decide they're interested in the group, all they need do is call the Hospice office at 334-8111 or 895-3111 or Mrs. Jachowski at 387-4639.

The Bereavement Committee is comprised of Mrs. Martha Jachowski, director, Mrs. Jane Sealing and Rev. Dan Nascem-

ben. There is no registration fee for this program.

News From Grantsville School

The Grantsville Elementary School PTA hosted its annual school staff luncheon at Penn Alps on the first school work day and a PTA meeting was held September 29.

Officers this year are: Judy Sebold, president; Rebecca Broadwater and Anita Schunk, vice presidents; Linda Theriot, secretary; and Kathy McMillan, treasurer.

Plans have been made to have the annual Halloween Social on Wednesday, October 28, beginning at 12:30 p.m.

Principal Matthew Stieringer announced dates of scheduled events and introduced Mrs. Mary Bergman, a new member of the faculty.

Bernadine Friend's class had its annual Outdoor School Day on Thursday, Oct. 1. They visited Sam Beachy and Sons cider mill and applebutter factory, Keystone Lime Company, High Point Lake, Mt. Davis Recreation Center, fire town and historic sites. Parents attending were Mrs. Dawn Younkin, Mrs. Lori Stephens, Mrs. Hilda Wilburn, Mrs. Anna Colmer, Mrs. Joanne Swauger, and Mrs. Sharon Rounds. Mrs. Genevieve Miller was the bus driver.

Tonja Couch, a sophomore sociology major at Garrett Community College, is doing observation work in the classes of Mrs. Joanne Harris, Mrs. Friend, Mrs. Maryanne Robertson, and Ms. Sarah Halberstadt. Doing student teaching at the school are Amy Puffinburg, Sherry Smith and Denise Springer, all students at Frostburg State University.

Correction Noted

It was stated in last week's issue of The Republican that Robert W. Wildesen, Swanton, was sentenced on two counts of bad checks. The name should have read Richard W. Wildesen, Swanton.

The Republican regrets the error and apologizes for any inconvenience.

Local Baby Wins "Cutest" Contest

Jessica Marie Crocco, 6½-month old daughter of Roger and Kimberly Crocco, Oakland, has won first place for the cutest girl in the "Cutest Kid" contest sponsored by a local business establishment. Jessica received a 13-inch trophy trimmed in silver and purple.

The contest was for children from the age of four weeks to those 12 years old.

Jessica's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stowell and Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Crocco, and her great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence "Lobe" Welch, all of

World Community Day Observance Set For Nov. 6

Plans are being finalized for the World Community Day observance in Garrett County, which will be held Friday, November 6, at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church.

This annual worship event is sponsored by Church Women United and brings together Christian women who affirm their mutual commitment to "work for a world that is peaceful and just for all persons, regardless of race, religion or national origin," according to a CWU spokesman. The ecumenical gathering is held in some 1,800 communities across the United States.

The theme for the 1987 observance is "Sojourners for Justice," which will focus on the plight of refugees coming into the United States seeking freedom.

Cherry Glade Mennonite Church is located four miles east of Accident along the Accident-Bittering Road. Registration will be held from 12:30 to 1 p.m. on Nov. 6 and the worship service will begin at 1 p.m. Following the service, the following women will be installed as officers for the 1988-89 term: Charlotte Mousch, president; Lori Schmuck, vice president; Evelyn Steyer, secretary; and Martha Glottelty, treasurer.

Swanton Otterbein To Hold Revivals

The Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church will hold revival meetings October 25-31 at 7 p.m. each evening, according to Pastor Richard Ogden.

The Rev. Lynn Beckman, New Creek, W. Va., and formerly of Garrett County, will be the guest evangelist.

There will be special singing each evening and the public is invited to attend.

FRIENDSVILLE PARK GROUNDBREAKING CEREMONY HELD RECENTLY — A number of county and state officials were on hand September 17 for the groundbreaking ceremony at "Friendsville Community Park," where events have already been scheduled for this fall and early spring. The park is located on land recently purchased by the town on the banks of the Youghiohony River, and is open to use by surrounding communities as well as by the residents of Friendsville, according to Spencer R. Schlosnagle, mayor. Northern High School band performed two songs during the ceremony which was held in conjunction with the Bicentennial anniversary of the signing of the U.S. Constitution. Pictured above are participants in the ceremony, left to right, George Edwards, delegate; John Braskey, Ernest Gregg Jr., and Elwood Groves, Garrett County commissioners; Joe Sessa, Friendsville Town Council president; Tom Fike, Friendsville councilman; Spencer R. Schlosnagle, Friendsville mayor, and Nina Conway, Western Maryland representative for U.S. Senator Paul Sarbanes. Not pictured but in attendance were DeeDee Ritchie, Department of Natural Resources, Carroll Forsythe and Alice Spear, council members, and Pastor Stephan F. Yelovich, Grace Lutheran Church, who gave the invocation. Also in attendance were Mrs. Julia Sines, member at large of the park committee, Mrs. Jane Fox, principal at Friendsville Elementary School, along with several students from each grade there who then reported back to the student body about the events of the day. Shown below, right, is Hazel Meyers, past commander of the DAV Auxiliary, Mtn. Top Unit 29, who presented Mayor Schlosnagle with a flag from that unit for the park. The Mayor and Town Council are currently in the process of applying for funds from Program Open Space for facilities at the park.

New WRA Director Named For Md. DNR

Dr. Torrey C. Brown, secretary, Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), named James W. Dunmyer as the new director of the Water Resources Administration (WRA) for the department. Dunmyer comes to the post from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers where he was a senior policy maker in the Policy Branch at the office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, D.C.

Secretary Brown said, "We are most fortunate in being able to obtain the services of Dunmyer. He brings to the administration extensive knowledge of water resource regulatory programs and has broad management experience."

Dunmyer succeeds James W. Peck who has been director since 1983. Peck has been named an assistant secretary of the DNR with supervisory responsibility for these five department units: Water Resources Administration, Maryland Environmental Service, Maryland Geological Survey, Power Plant Siting Program and Hazardous Waste Facilities Siting Board.

As WRA director, Dunmyer

will head an agency with 122 employees and an annual budget of more than $7 million. He will be responsible for conservation, management and development of Maryland's water resources including wetlands, water supply, watershed and flood management, dam safety, non-fuel surface mining, geo-technical services and coal mining.

Dunmyer has extensive experience with the Corps of Engineers in the management of water resources.

Following graduation from West Point in 1962, he subsequently earned a Master of Science degree from the University of Illinois and a Master of Business Administration from Pepperdine University. Dunmyer resides in Annapolis with his wife, Vallery, and son, Mike.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

AFRAID TO SAY WRONG THING

Many quite close and caring friends avoid a family which has suffered a loss, or keep silent about their feelings, for fear "of saying the wrong thing." To begin with, this is not an unusual reaction. Often it is because individuals have not come to terms with their own sentiments about death. Because they are unsure of their feelings, they are afraid their words will come out all mixed up.

Try not to worry. There is no one "right" attitude toward death and grief. Besides, many people are as confused and ambivalent about it as you may be. In fact, it would not be amiss to share your concerns. It might even open the door for family members to express their own doubts and feelings.

The important thing is to be with them, and to show that you care. It is very rare that an honest display of humanity will be resented and misunderstood. Absence or silence, on the other hand, might be.

Frostburg State Offering New Evening Program

Frostburg State University is now offering an evening program leading to a bachelor of science degree in business administration with a concentration in general management according to Dr. Joseph F. Malak, Dean of Graduate Studies and Extended Education.

Specific courses necessary to complete degree requirements have been identified and a schedule established to enable an individual to complete the entire degree by attending classes in the evening. Courses meet for one or two evenings a week, Monday through Thursday, and are scheduled as follows: 6:00 to 7:15 p.m. or 7:30 to 8:45 twice a week, and 7:30 to 10:00 once a week.

A special registration period is planned for undergraduate students who are pursuing the business administration program through part-time and evening study only. This registration enables these part-time students to enroll in evening business and general education courses to ensure their progress toward the degree. The special registration period will be held on October 28 and 29 from 6 to 9 p.m. in room 103 Old Main. A full-time business administration faculty member will be present to advise.

For individuals who have completed an A.A. degree, the bachelor of science degree in business administration can be completed in three to four years by taking two courses each semester (6 credits) and two courses over three summers. For students already admitted to the institution, they may participate in this program immediately with their spring semester of 1988. All others may begin in the 1988 summer session or the 1988 fall semester after they have been admitted to the university and the program.

"For those who have graduated with A.A. or A.S. degrees from either Allegany Community College, Garrett Community College, or other community colleges, the program may be attractive," stated an FSU spokesman.

For further information on evening programs or other programs, persons may contact FSU's Office of Graduate Studies and Extended Education or phone 689-4231.

Oakland Rotary Club To Help Wipe Out Polio

The Oakland Rotary Club has announced it has appointed a team to lead the club's participation in the worldwide PolioPlus Campaign. PolioPlus is a program of Rotary International to immunize all the children in the world against polio. It has a $120 million fundraising goal.

Oakland Club President Frank J. Eberly said he has named Barry F. Conger chairman of the PolioPlus Committee. Other members are Maurice S. Brookhart, Thomas B. Dabney, Edward G. Kennard, Richard H. Peake Jr. and P. Daniel Miller.

"Achievement of the Oakland Rotary Club's goal of $15,000," Eberly stated, "will provide funding to immunize 120,000 children against polio and five other preventable childhood diseases in developing countries worldwide."

In its fight against polio, Rotary is in partnership with UNICEF and the World Health Organization and supports WHO's goal of conquering six dreaded childhood diseases that can be prevented by vaccination: polio, measles, tuberculosis, diphtheria, pertussis (whooping cough), and tetanus.

While polio has been virtually eliminated in industrialized countries, it remains a serious health threat in the developing nations, Eberly said. It is a special danger to children under three years old.

Performance Of Children's Play To Be Repeated

A repeat performance of "Whisper Down The Lane," a children's play dealing with death and the grieving process, will be held Friday, October 30, at 7:30 p.m. at the Garrett Community College auditorium.

The play will be performed by the Children's Repertory Company (CRC) which performed their play, "Bibblyonian Encounter," last evening.

"Whisper Down The Lane" was written by CRC utilizing interviews with children and drawing on a qualified advisory board in an effort to educate children and parents on the subject of the acceptance of death and grieving.

CRC is an adult touring company that brings professional theatre to audiences of all ages. In the past nine years, CRC has produced 16 plays and performed over 1,800 shows to an audience of 590,000.

"Whisper Down The Lane," is recommended for children, ages eight or nine or over. Admission to the show is free.

THE GOVERNOR'S CERTIFICATE OF DISTINGUISHED CITIZENSHIP was presented to 13-year-old John Houser Jr. yesterday at New Germany State Park for saving two other 13-year-olds from drowning in a July 22 incident. The distinguished certificate was presented by Don MacLauchlan, director of the DNR Forest, Parks and Wildlife Service, on behalf of Governor William D. Schaefer in a ceremony at New Germany State Park. Houser rescued the two teens, Roger Lindeman and Patty Broadwater, after Lindeman went into water over his head and Broadwater tried to help him. She in turn yelled for help. Houser saw them go under and went to their aid. Pictured above, left to right, during the ceremony are: Jim Rogers, New Germany State Park manager; Don MacLauchlan; Delegate George C. Edwards; Houser; Senator John N. Bambacus; and Houser's parents, John and Mary S. Houser.

AN ADDED ATTRACTION — The House of Delegates Appropriations Committee's two-day tour of Western Maryland had an added attraction yesterday when they had the opportunity to watch Garrett County DNR Wildlife Manager Al Bourgeois and his crew collect vital statistics and collar a female bear which had been caught in a DNR trap Tuesday night in the Bear Creek area of the county. Bourgeois, left, explained the operation to the delegates after the bear was tranquilized. Leading the tour was Delegate George C. Edwards (not pictured), a member of the committee, and Senator John N. Bambacus, standing third from the left above. While in the area, the committee also visited Meadow Mountain Youth Camp, Rocky Gap State Park, Bear Creek Fish Hatchery, Savage River State Park, Frostburg State University and Dan's Mountain State Park.

Autumn Glory Festival Runner-Up In Best Fall Event Competition

The 20th Annual Autumn Glory Festival was selected as a runner-up in the Governor's "Special Event of the Season" competition for fall 1987. The announcement was made at a ceremony on October 7 at the World Trade Center in Baltimore. Lieutenant Governor Melvin A. Steinberg presented the first prize award to the winner and certificates to the runners-up.

The winner of the Fall Event Competition was the Waterfowl Festival, which will be held in Easton, Talbot County, November 13-15. Garrett County's 20th Annual Autumn Glory Festival was one of three runners-up and received a citation from Governor William Donald Schaefer "in recognition of an outstanding event which has gained an excellent reputation for fun and entertainment."

The other runners-up for the fall event were the Oyster Festival, held in Leonardtown, St. Mary's County; and the Maryland Wine Festival, Westminster, Carroll County.

Edwin Walthall, president of the Deep Creek Lake-Garrett County Promotion Council Board of Directors, was on hand to accept the citation and presented Lieutenant Governor Steinberg gifts of one-half gallons of Garrett County maple syrup for himself and Governor Schaefer.

This is the second time for the "Special Event of the Season" competition, which is sponsored by the Department of Economic and Employment Development. Criteria for the competition include submitting an event that is in its third year, attracts at least 1,000 people, and demonstrates the diversity of the state's tourist attractions. John Zerke, director of State Marketing, noted that the special events around the state play a major role in stimulating tourist development of both in- and out-of-state visitors. This event competition will be held every quarter.

Tom Cat Being Sought By G.C. Health Dept.

A dark gray, 10-pound tom cat is being sought by the Garrett County Health Department and the Garrett County Animal Shelter to rule out the possibility of rabies.

The animal, one of two which were being taken to the Garrett County Animal Shelter by Larry Suter, became frightened, bit the man, and fled into the woods near the Animal Shelter. The cat reportedly had not received a rabies vaccination, and must be found to rule out the serious disease to prevent painful post-exposure shots to Suter.

Anyone who thinks they may have seen the cat should call the Health Department at 334-8980 or the Animal Shelter at 334-3553. After hours, call Emergency Management at 911.

Proposal Drafted For Rehabilitation Of Defunct Bradley Manor Complex

The now defunct low-cost housing complex, Bradley Manor, may be getting a facelift if a proposal set down by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, the Maryland Department of Housing and Development, and developers, Harkins and Associates and Garrettland Realty is approved.

Reportedly, Garrett County Community Action has also been involved with negotiations between the developers and Housing and Urban Development (HUD). HUD holds the mortgage for the property which is currently owned by Morton Sarubin, the developer who built the complex in 1970. Unconfirmed reports indicate that foreclosure proceedings had begun against Sarubin for payments in arrears.

Meeting with members of the Oakland council last Friday was Jacqueline Rogers, secretary of the Department of Housing and Community Development.

Former Local Resident Given 25-Year Sentence

A former Mtn. Lake Park resident this week was sentenced to a total of 25 years in the Allegheny County Jail on two drug charges by Allegheny County Circuit Court Judge, J. Frederick Sharer.

Carl Dennis Martin, 34, more recently of Keedysville, was sentenced Monday on a charge of possession with intent to distribute cocaine, for which he received the maximum sentence the law allows — 20 years — and received a $10,000 fine as well.

He received an additional five years, to run consecutively with the 20-year term, and a $5,000 fine on a charge of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute. Sentencing on two other drug-related charges, possession of cocaine and marijuana, were merged with the first two counts, and he received a $500 fine for possession of drug paraphernalia.

Martin was arrested in November of last year when approximately a kilogram of cocaine and a large quantity of marijuana were discovered in his possession. He had been found guilty of all five counts in a previous jury trial in Allegheny County Circuit Court.

Drug-related charges are also pending against him in Washington County, and he is also under federal indictment for drug offenses.

State Approves Abandoned Mine Reclamations

The Maryland Board of Public Works approved several pending abandoned mine reclamation projects last week. The board, made up of Governor William Donald Schaefer, Comptroller Louis Goldstein and Treasurer Lucille Mauer, had initially held up their approval, questioning whether landowners would improperly benefit from use of the federal reclamation money to improve abandoned mine sites.

After a letter of explanation of the abandoned mine program from State Senator John N. Bambacus, and a reminder that the state share of federal reclamation funds could be lost unless the board took action, DNR Secretary Dr. Torrey Brown recommended that the Board of Public Works approve the projects.

"Action was deferred only until we determined whether a need existed to improve the program with regard to private landowner benefits and related policies," Brown said, and added that those concerns are "sufficiently addressed by policies governing the program in federal and state laws" and that he "sees no need to further postpone projects under the program."

In his letter to Brown, Bambacus reminded him that the delay in approving the projects delayed the creation of jobs which would improve the area's economy as well as the environment. "The industry and the environmentalists are together on this," he said.

The Board of Public Works is required to approve abandoned mine reclamation projects because the reclamation will be done with money collected from mine operators in the form of a federal tax. The three projects which were awaiting approval since April are estimated to cost $210,000.

Pyramid Equipment Company's bid of $160,603.60 was approved to reclaim an abandoned mine at Pheasant Ridge, about three miles northwest of Kitzmiller. A mine pit there drains into the Wolfe's Bend Run and the north branch of Lost Land Run. Bureau of Mines Director Anthony W. Abar said some of the contaminated water flows into the source which feeds the Kitzmiller reservoir. "So we're hoping to clean it up to benefit Kitzmiller," Abar said.

Also approved was the Table Rock-Backbone Mountain Project. John Duckworth Coal Company was awarded the contract.

Two Young Brothers Killed In Trailer Blaze Saturday Afternoon

A trailer fire resulted in tragedy for a Garrett County couple Saturday afternoon, as both of their young children were killed in the blaze.

The cause of the fire which killed Charles Bernard McCrum III, 3, and his brother, Nathan Brown McCrum, 2, is still under investigation by officials from the state fire marshal's office, but it is believed that one of the two youngsters may have been playing with matches.

The boys' mother, Robin Lee McCrum, told investigators that she was in the west end of the trailer, located about one mile south of White Church Road near Gorman, when she smelled smoke at about 12:45 p.m. She said she attempted to reach her sons who were in a bedroom in the east end of the 12-by-40-foot trailer, but she was turned back by heat and smoke. She reportedly then went outside and attempted to enter the door at the east end of the trailer, but was again unable to reach the children.

A spokesman for the Garrett County Office of Emergency Management said Mrs. McCrum apparently had only seconds to make the call for help over 911 before she was forced to leave the trailer.

It was also reported that two other persons visiting the McCrums also fled the trailer unharmed. The bodies of both children, which were found in the bedroom area, were burned beyond recognition. An autopsy report concluded that the children died of asphyxiation by smoke inhalation.

Charles Bernard McCrum Jr., the boys' father, was not at home at the time of the fire.

Responding to the scene were the Gorman and Oakland volunteer fire departments, the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and the county air cascade vehicle presently being housed at Bittinger VFD. Upon their arrival, firemen found the structure fully involved in flames, with most of it

Grantsville Woman Shot And Killed, Sixteen-Year-Old Youth Charged

A Grantsville woman was shot and killed late Tuesday night, according to Maryland State Police, and the suspect, a 16-year-old male relative, was charged the following day with first-degree murder. The youth is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail without bond.

Lula Belle Shives, 49, was found at her residence by State Police at approximately 11:45 p.m. with a gunshot wound to the head. She was then transported by Northern Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, where she was pronounced dead by Dr. Francisco Reyes, deputy medical examiner for Allegany County.

Police estimated that the shooting occurred at approximately 11 p.m. at Shives residence on Durst Road, west of Rt. 495. Garrett Central Alarm was notified at about 11:43 p.m. and dispatched an ambulance.

According to Detective Sgt. C.H. Hinnant, Investigative Division Supervisor for Maryland State Police, the youth is being charged as an adult. The investigation is being handled by both the McHenry and LaVale detachments, with Sgt. R.E. Friend and Cpl. Michael Mattingly heading the investigation. The Western Maryland Specialized Crime Scene Search Team was called to the scene Wednesday morning.

Shives' body was taken to the medical examiner's office in Baltimore where an autopsy is being conducted.

Born July 10, 1938 in Meyersdale, Pa., Mrs. Shives was the daughter of Mrs. Martha (Beal) Wellington, Winchester, Va., and the late Irvin Ohler.

Mrs. Shives was a housewife and a member of the Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings. She was an active member of Branch 8483 of the Lutheran Brotherhood and was formerly a Girl Scout troop leader.

Also surviving are her husband, Bob Shives; one son, Kevin Shives, at home; one daughter, Kathy Shives, Cumberland; two brothers, Bruce Ohler, Somerset, Pa., and Perry Ohler, Meyersdale; four sisters, Verna Ohler, Meyersdale, Mrs. Jeff Durst, Friedens, Pa., Mrs. Paul Handrickson and Mrs. William Lambert, both of Rochester, N.Y.; and four half-sisters, Mrs. Dane Fisher, Meyersdale, Mrs. Keith Buckley, Boynton, Pa., Mrs. Randy Fike and Mrs. Douglas Schardt, both of Pocomoke, Pa.

Long Distance Dialing Patterns Change Nov. 1

Beginning November 1, C&P Telephone customers in Maryland must remember to dial 1 plus the area code plus the number for all long distance calls, even if those calls are within Maryland, according to C&P spokeswoman Nancy Nemith.

"All customers have received information about the change in their September or October telephone bills," explained Nemith.

The change is caused by the tremendous growth in C&P's operating area. To meet growing customer service demands, C&P is expanding the pool of available exchange codes by making use of numbers previously reserved exclusively for area codes.

The new dialing pattern will actually be simpler for customers, since now all long distance calls will be dialed the same way, Nemith said.

FIRST AND ALMOST LAST TO FLY JET — Retired Lt. Col. Robert Railey, Deep Creek Lake, made a bit of history this past weekend when he flew the same jet airplane he had flown 34 years before. Col. Railey, the first person ever to fly the T-33 jet trainer, piloted it one last time Sunday afternoon at Andrews Air Force Base during a retirement ceremony for three of the planes. He first flew the same aircraft in 1953 with the District of Columbia

Air National Guard and it has been in continuous service since then with the same unit. Railey had flown the T-33 for over 20 years in the service, as well as a variety of other tactical fighters, such as the P-51, F-80, F-86 and F-100. Now retired from the Air Force, Railey owns Lakeside Realty and Ramrod Builders, Deep Creek Lake. Pictured above with Railey is Capt. Hollis Reese, the current instructor pilot for the T-33.

Stolen Vehicle Is Recovered In Anne Arundel Co.

A 1985 Subaru four-door sedan stolen from a Friendsville resident last Thursday has since been recovered in Anne Arundel County, and a suspect apprehended by the police department there sometime Wednesday, according to Maryland State Police, McHenry detachment.

Sarah J. Sines, Friendsville, reported that her car was parked outside the Friendsville Town Hall building, with the keys inside, when it was taken. The vehicle is valued at $8,900. Investigating officer was Tfc. G.R. Chaney.

No further information was available about the suspect in the crime.

In other news from the Maryland State Police, Mark M. Sweeney, Rockville, reported a breaking and entering and theft that occurred sometime between September 27 and last Friday.

According to Sweeney, his summer cottage on Stocklager

Road was broken into through a window and the following items were removed: a 19-inch portable television set, an RCA VCR, silver in color, a pendulum mantel clock, a Sony clock radio, silver in color, an O'Brien slalom water ski, a Sanyo AM-FM Dual Cassette "boom box," a Fischer component stereo with receiver, cassette player and turntable with equalizer and a pink rotary dial telephone.

Total loss amounted to $2,360, according to investigating officer, Tpr. R.T. Wilson.

Another breaking and entering and theft was reported by Robert S. Skipper, Massillon, Ohio, that occurred sometime between October 19 and last Friday.

According to Skipper, someone entered his unsecured garage at his summer residence on a private road off Mayhew Inn Road and took a Lincoln 225 electric welder, valued at $200. Sgt. R.E. Friend is investigating.

The theft of a citizen's band radio and antenna, valued at $175, was reported by Glenn A. Ford, Corriganville, who told police that the items were removed from his drilling rig

The truck was reportedly locked at the time of the incident which occurred sometime between last Thursday and Sunday. Tpr. Paul R. Brown is investigating.

Oakland Infant Injured Tuesday In Auto Mishap

A three-month-old Oakland youth was treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after she was injured in a one-vehicle accident that occurred Tuesday at 12:20 p.m. on the Oakland-Deer Park Road.

Maranda Funk was a passenger in a 1980 Subaru 600 four-wheel drive vehicle, operated by Robin L. Funk, 27, also of Oakland, when the driver lost control on the wet roadway while rounding a sharp curve.

The vehicle then spun off the right roadside, according to a report by investigating officer.

Tfc. C.R. Smith, Maryland State Police, struck an embankment and overturned, coming to rest on its side. Smith charged Funk with failure to transport a child in a safety seat.

Funk and another passenger, Tamara L. Redman, 18, Terra Alta, W.Va., were reportedly not injured.

A 14-year-old Oakland youth was also treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital following injuries she sustained in a three-wheel recreational vehicle accident Sunday at 1:44 p.m.

According to police reports, Stephanie C. Piper was operating the 1985 Kawasaki 110 CC three-wheeler on a dirt trail off of Oakland-Sang Run Road when the vehicle struck a large rock, causing it to overturn. Piper was then thrown from the vehicle. Tpr. J.K. Moore investigated the mishap.

Another Oakland resident was injured Sunday at 10:40 while operating a 1983 Subaru SW southbound on Dilly Road.

Tamala C. Michaels, 21, was treated for injuries at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released following the one-vehicle accident when she reportedly applied her brakes after hearing a clicking sound in the front wheel and ran off the right roadside, striking a tree head-on. Tpr. J.K. Moore charged Michaels with negligent driving.

Simon H. Harvey, 24, Deer Park, was treated at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released after sustaining injuries in a two-vehicle accident that occurred Sunday at 3:30 p.m. on Rt. 219.

Harvey was operating a 1978 Kawasaki 650 motorcycle southbound when an unknown vehicle, traveling in front of him slowed to avoid striking a third vehicle, also southbound. Harvey failed to slow down, striking the second vehicle in the right rear, and his vehicle then overturned. Reportedly, the second vehicle, after stopping, left the scene.

A passenger on the Harvey vehicle, Stuart I. Harvey, 18, also of Deer Park, was reportedly not injured. Tfc. D.G. Riggelman charged Simon Harvey with following another vehicle too closely.

Donald R. Michaels, 52, Harrisburg, Pa., reportedly sustained injuries in a tractor-trailer accident that occurred Monday at 1:30 a.m. on Rt. 48.

According to a report filed by investigating officer, Cpl. G.A. Berkebile, Michaels was transported to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment but hospital officials were unable to verify his arrival.

According to Michaels, the accident occurred when a car with no lights on forced him off the road and his vehicle went up an embankment, rolled onto its side and slid back onto the roadway.

Michaels was charged with driving while intoxicated, consumption of an alcoholic beverage while driving on a highway and failure to enclose a loose material while transporting it.

A three-vehicle accident Wednesday resulted in two W.Va. men sustaining injuries. Edward W. Downton, 51, Ridgeley, and David R. Sines, 20, Terra Alta, were both taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released.

The accident occurred at 2:17 p.m. on Rt. 135 at Mtn. Lake

Industrial Park Zoning Discussed At Public Hearing

A public hearing regarding the application for the Southern Garrett Industrial Park to be accepted in the state's enterprise zone system was held in the Garrett County Commissioners' meeting room on Tuesday morning.

Commissioner Ernest Gregg chaired the meeting and introduced Tom Jones, Garrett County Economic Development director to explain the background and full purpose of the proposed measure. Jones noted the advantages of the park's being accepted in the Enterprise Zone. He said it would produce state income tax incentives based on the number of employees added each year and bring about real estate tax abatements.

Fred Walter, owner of the Mtn. Lake Park Cabinet Company, already located in the industrial park, asked if any new manufacturer prospects were likely to be added in the near future. Jones said that one local company is planning to build in the park next year and that special emphasis is being given to attracting new businnesses to that park as well as the Central Industrial Park.

Clarence Savage, a resident of that area, inquired if the designation of an enterprise zone would have an adverse effect on adjoining property values. Jones stated that he felt the designation would have a negligible effect on adjoining properties.

Lisa Bohrer, representing Bausch and Lomb, Inc., delivered a statement of her company's support for the proposed designation.

Jones said that an application has been submitted to the Department of Economic and Employment Development.

THIS BEAUTIFUL BLACK BEAR, being held by Garrett County DNR Wildlife Manager Al Bourgeois, weighed in at 300 pounds after being caught in a DNR bear trap near Bear Creek Tuesday night. The bear, which was tranquilized, was weighed, measured and fitted with a radio collar before being released. Thrilled to be present for this operation were members of the Maryland House of Delegates Appropriations Committee, who were touring the area at the time.

Man Receives Two-Year Sentence On DWI Charges

During Garrett County District Court, traffic court proceedings, held recently, Judge Jack R. Turney sentenced one person to six months in the Garrett County Jail after finding him guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Gregory Alan Schrock, 19, was also found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol, and received a 90-day sentence, to be served concurrently with the first charge. All but 20 days of the sentence was then suspended.

Schrock was then placed on 18 months supervised probation and fined a total of $1,000 for the two charges. He was arrested July 3 on Oak Street in Oakland and August 20 at King's Run Road.

The following persons were found guilty of driving while intoxicated and fined $500, $300 of which was suspended and placed on 12 months supervised probation.

Michele Annette Larock, 25, was arrested June 19 on Rt. 219 in Red House.

Glenn Walter Shandle, 49, was arrested July 25 on Rt. 219.

The following persons were found guilty of driving under the influence of alcohol and received a $500 fine, $300 of which was suspended, and placed on 12 months supervised probation.

Tammy Lee Upole, 21, was arrested July 9 at Memorial Drive in Oakland.

Edna Virginia Shriver, 47, was arrested July 10 at Pysell Road.

A charge of consuming an alcoholic beverage while operating a motor vehicle, filed against Stanley Michael Dzon, 21, was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement. He was arrested September 4 in Swallow Falls State Park.

Deer Park Man Sentenced For Resisting Arrest

During Garrett County District Court proceedings held last week, a Deer Park man was found guilty of resisting arrest, for which he received a 30-day suspended sentence, and disturbing the peace. Presiding judge was Paul J. Stakem.

Douglas E. Fitzwater, 30, was then placed on two years unsupervised probation and fined $150 and court costs for the charge of resisting arrest. He was fined $150 and court costs for the disturbance charge.

Fitzwater was found not guilty on three other charges — failure to obey a police officer, hindering police, and battery. Charges were filed against him by Oakland City Police Chief, John K. Sines, following an August 8 incident on Center Street in Oakland.

According to Sines, Fitzwater was operating a modified tractor and, when Sines attempted to place him under arrest, resisted, and physically struck Sines. Gorman E. Getty III represented Fitzwater.

Judge Jack R. Turney ordered a pre-sentence investigation for Harry A. Kees, 22, Fairmont, W. Va., after he was found guilty of misdemeanor theft. Charges of breaking and stealing shop and malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted because of plea agreements.

Sgt. R.E. Friend, Maryland State Police, filed the charges following a September 30 incident in McHenry when Kees reportedly broke into The Perfect Touch, a paint store owned by Humberson Homes Inc., and allegedly stole $27.93 in cash. He also reportedly stole 12 checks made out to the store. They were later recovered in a dumpster outside the building, according to Friend. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Kees.

The following cases were placed on the Stet Docket by Judge Turney.

Vicki J. Rush, 35, and Lonnie D. Rush, 33, both of Oakland, charged each other with battery following an August 10 incident at their residence. Robert E. Watson represented Mr. Rush.

Milton C. DeWitt, 35, Oakland, was charged with battery by Donna DeWitt, also of Oakland, following a September 6 incident at their residence.

POW/MIA Walk For Freedom To Pass Through Grantsville

The Illinois contingent of the Last Patrol, Vietnam Veterans, are walking from Decatur to Washington, D.C., to draw public awareness to the POW/MIAs who remain hostage in Southeast Asia. This National POW/MIA Walk for Freedom will be passing through Grantsville tomorrow, October 30, and the Grantsville American Legion Post 214 invites other veterans groups to join in "Walk a block, walk through town, walk all day, or stand by the road and cheer them on," they say.

The 30 members of the Last Patrol began the walk on October 3 and plan to cover the 800 miles to Washington, D.C., by Veterans Day on November 11. Many other veteran groups from other states plan to join them along the way, including West Virginia and Ohio members of the Forget Me Not organization, veterans from southwestern Pennsylvania, and a group of Texas veterans who started a northbound Washington trek September 5. These marchers will all meet with others at Arlington Cemetery to march into Washington, D.C., for Veterans Day.

The intent of the group and the purpose of the march is to ask the government to renew investigations and make an accounting of all those still classified as missing in action in Southeast Asia, and to get all Americans set free.

The march in a rally, not a protest, and according to Rodger Walker, coordinator of the Last Patrol's walk, "With your help it will become the last time we must march to the Capitol. Over 2400 Americans are missing, and we need your help to bring them home. Remember," Walker says, "if one American is held hostage, then none of us are truly free."

County Receives Emergency Food, Shelter Funds

Garrett County has been chosen to receive $1,919 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area, according to the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc.

The selection was made by a national board made up of affiliates of national voluntary organizations and chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA). United Way of America will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent. The Board was charged to distribute $10 million appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs. Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must: 1) be non-profit, 2) have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, 3) practice nondiscrimination, 4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 5) if they are agencies in high-need areas around the county.

A local board will determine how the funds awarded to Garrett County are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter program run by local service organizations in the area. The local board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program.

private voluntary organization, they should have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

Garrett County has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously, with Garrett County Community Action Committee participating.

Further information on how a nonprofit agency may receive funding may be obtained by contacting Pam Nelson at 334-9431.

A Major Error . . .

While we generally attempt to address our editorials to Garrett County concerns, we occasionally zero in on specific issues within the municipalities that we believe to be of great importance.

We focus our attention this week on the Mayor and Town Council of Oakland, which apparently for several weeks has been negotiating with state and county officials about the possibility of rehabilitating the defunct Bradley Manor housing complex in Oakland. Much to our surprise, we discovered through the grapevine this week that, not only have there been negotiations, but also the striking of agreements with the state to proceed with the project.

Not only were we, the local media, unaware of what has been transpiring, but the vast majority of Oakland residents have also been kept in the dark about the matter. Those who reside near the Bradley Manor ruins have expressed great concern this week upon learning of the project, vividly remembering the various problems that existed when persons were still housed at Bradley Manor. There is even some evidence that certain meetings have been scheduled at times when at least one Town Council member who is opposed to the project has been unable to attend.

At no time has our office been contacted by the town government about special meeting dates and times, or about the project itself. Granted, council meetings are open to the media and the general public, unless they are executive sessions, but it is unlikely that much of the public or the media will attend if they are not informed of the meetings.

At this point, we are keeping an open mind about the project itself. Perhaps the plan is a good one, one that would provide GOOD low-income housing, which is certainly needed in Garrett County. Maybe it would not be a revival of the old Bradley Manor that we all knew and hated.

Our beef, however, is that the Oakland city government has proceeded with the plan without informing its citizenry along the way. Such methods serve only to make it appear the council is operating under the table, even if that is not the case. Now, apparently after the fact and with the cat out of the bag, a public meeting has been scheduled for next Tuesday night.

We strongly believe that all the members of the Oakland Mayor and Town Council are solid, intelligent citizens, who want only the best for Oakland. But we think they have made a major error. Hopefully, all can be resolved in the coming weeks.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The weekend of the Autumn Glory Festival, I experienced some car trouble while attending the craft show at the Masonic Hall.

I would like to thank all of those people who helped me. I don't know any of your names except Laurie Grant, but I'm sure you'll know who you are.

Your display of friendship shown to me was deeply appreciated. What a great bunch of people you are!

Thanks once again.

P.S. The moral of this story is never borrow someone else's car and always use the right key in the ignition.

To the Editor:

With the start of another winter season, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Garrett County Roads Department for the excellent job they have done over the past year.

As new residents of this county, we heard a lot of horror stories about the snow and the drifts and how hard it is to get around in the winter. Well, we did not find this to be the case at all. We were always able to get into town because the County Roads crews did such a quick and efficient job of clearing snow during and after it fell.

The County Roads Superintendent, Paul Shockey, was always willing to listen to our comments and suggestions in a patient way.

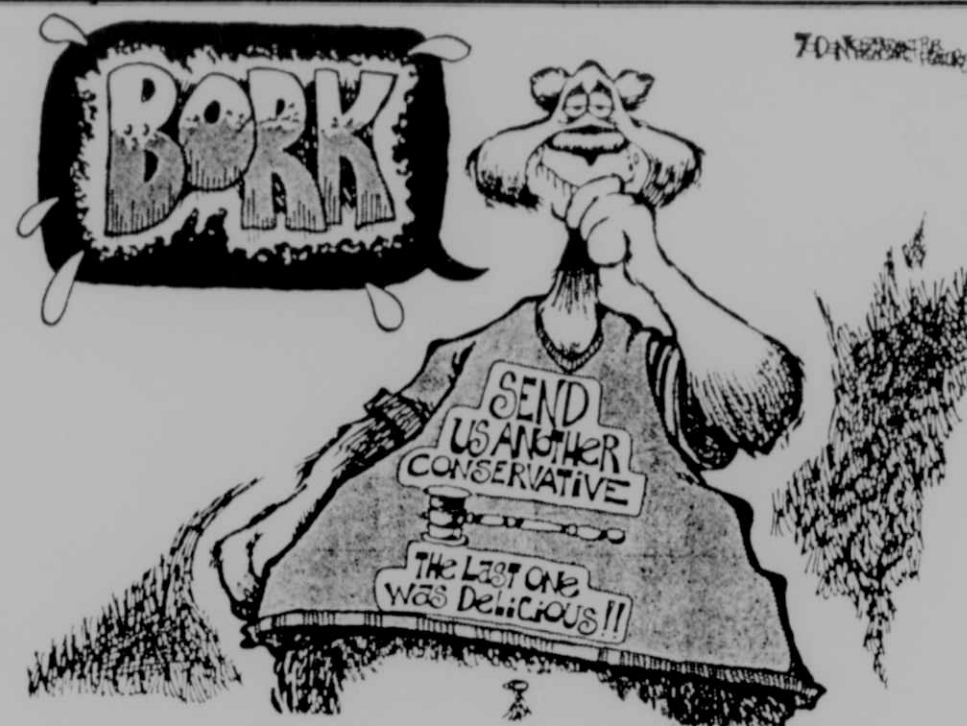

Thank you, road crews, for a job well done and we look forward to the same good job this winter.

Sincerely,
Wendy J. Bauer,

To the Editor:

We are very alarmed by the followers of Lyndon H. LaRouche who have set up tables outside post offices in Frederick and other Maryland counties to disseminate false information about AIDS. As volunteers for H.E.R.O. (Health Education Resource Organization), an organization that battles the spread of the disease through community education, we feel that the misconceptions spread by these LaRouche followers are dangerous to our Communities' health.

Knowing the facts about AIDS is the best way to prevent the spread of the disease. People must understand how the disease is transmitted, and take reasonable precautions. We cannot be misled by the perception that AIDS only affects homosexuals. In fact, nearly 30% of all persons with AIDS are not homosexual or bisexual men. Persons who contract

FRIENDS OF THE RUTH ENLOW LIBRARY

by Sull McCartney

A lot of people when asked to join "Friends" want to know what they "get". Most of them probably won't read this, but this is what in my opinion, they "get".

You hear a lot these days about rights — citizen's rights, individual rights, consumer's rights, women's rights, etc. What you don't hear very much about are the responsibilities which must necessarily accompany rights. Except for utility companies, who because of their monopoly status aren't bashful about sending out pamphlets spelling out your rights and responsibilities as a customer, the words duty and responsibility aren't very popular. The Ruth Enlow Library is a public facility. Anyone has the right to make use of all library services. All that is required is a library card. By asking for a library card you are explicitly obligating yourself to obey all of the attending rules that the library has established for users. You also incur certain implicit obligations. By this I mean that, just as every citizen has the duty to be a conscientious upholder of the responsibilities involved in a democracy, every library user has the duty to be a conscientious user and supporter of the library.

The following are examples of what I mean by implicit responsibilities. You have the right to use the library. It is also your duty to not abuse it. You are obligated to take care of all materials and equipment, to use the facilities in an orderly manner, to respect everyone's right of use and to do your best not to create extra work for the staff. I also believe that all users have the responsibility to do everything possible to support the library. The Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library is merely a tool to do a better job of being conscientious users. What you "get" for you two or three dollar membership is help in fulfilling your responsibilities.

"Friends" help you by making known library needs, by raising money for the library and by sponsoring programs for the public. Do yourself a favor and be a Friend of The Ruth Enlow Library.

AIDS through heterosexual contact are the fastest growing percentage group of people with AIDS in our country. An individual who is infected with the Human Immunodeficiency Virus can spread the disease even if they do not have disease symptoms.

A common misconception about AIDS is that it can be spread through casual contact. There is simply no evidence that the virus can be transmitted in this way. There is no risk of contracting the AIDS virus by sharing public places, work places, restaurants, or even our homes here. An infected person cannot give you AIDS by coughing, breathing, sneezing, or kissing you.

The facts are: thousands of health care workers treating AIDS patients do not contract the disease when they follow the procedures recommended by the Centers for Disease Control; family members living with persons with AIDS do not develop AIDS; researchers investigating the AIDS virus, using safe laboratory techniques, have not become infected. It is only transmitted through sexual contact and direct transfer of blood or blood products, by sharing needles, or by transfusions.

The aim of H.E.R.O. is to provide information about AIDS for the public and to support people with AIDS. We can tell you where to go to be anonymous.

In just a few weeks, Northern Rescue Squad will be concluding 15 years of volunteer service to Northern Garrett County and surrounding areas.

Over the years we have received continual support from these communities, both financially and physically. For this support we extend our gratitude and heartfelt thanks. Recently, though, we have witnessed a gradual decline in manpower. Northern Rescue is not at all unique in this situation. All service organizations are experiencing this very same problem. To what do we owe this disinterest? Indifference? Uncertainty? Possibly. However, I choose to believe that "time" is the culprit here. Especially in this fast-paced world we live in, we sometimes have barely enough time to do the necessary tasks of daily living. But, what if, 15 years ago a group of dedicated young men and women didn't have the time to become involved for their community? These individuals chose to sacrifice their time to promote a valuable service for all citizens. They also chose to give of their talents and energies to support the service after its inception. If it were not for these pioneers of emergency care, perhaps the Emergency Medical Services (EMS) system would not have evolved in Garrett County as early as it did. Their initiative and willingness to participate in this novel project took determination, courage, and commitment. Above all, this undertaking took time.

To the citizens of Garrett County, we make an urgent appeal, to become involved in a service organization that desperately needs your help. Being a professional volunteer, one can experience the self-satisfaction of assisting those in need as well as the sharing of concern, compassion, and learned skills with our fellow man.

Northern Rescue will be co-sponsoring an EMT class in conjunction with Garrett Community College in the near future. Further details will be announced shortly. If interested, contact us at 895-5520, 826-8500, or the training officer at 826-8883.

Thank you for your consideration in this worthwhile endeavor.

In community service,
Patricia A. Bowser

To the Editor:

If tyranny is the goal of intervention, which has always been the case with the Soviet Union, then intervention is bad.

If freedom is the goal of intervention, as it has always been with the United States of America, then intervention is good.

Intervention in and of itself is neither good nor bad, but a tool of power with no inherent mind of its own. It is like unto a sword. Will the sword stay sheathed, or will it be drawn? If it is drawn, what do you intend to use it for? To free a people, or to coerce them into slavery?

A woman is being raped in a back alley. A policeman hearing her cries, doesn't stop to debate the pro's and con's of intervention, but acts immediately to rescue her. Only a coward and a fool would stand by and do nothing.

If intervention can bring peace and freedom to the Nicaraguan people, then America should intervene and do so quickly. All people of good will have a stake in saving all future proponents of Nicaraguan Liberty from languishing in Sandinista internal security prisons.

Our Turn

BOO!
by Susan Alvarez

Water slopped from apple-bobbing
Splashed upon the floor
Bright, red ink and oozy slime
That smeared for blood and gore.

Sticky, gooey candy apples
Stuck to the velvet chair.
Hair spray, face paint, lipstick, rouge,
Bathroom's beyond repair.

Pumpkin seeds and candy wrappers
Compete for counter space.
Clown wigs, magic wands and hats
Thrown around the place.

Threads and shreds of fake fur costumes
Cling to all the rugs.
Hot chocolate poured to warm 'em up
Has mostly missed the mugs!

Sequins, ribbons and bandanas
Litter up the hall.
Eek! Is that fake spider
Super-glued right to the wall?

Ghosts and goblins never spook me,
Nor does eye of newt.
Witches flying on their broomsticks
Can't conjure up a hoot.

Monsters and demons creep around
To frighten us on Halloween.
Yet, what actually scares me most
Is what I have to clean!

An open letter to The Proctor-Kildow American Legion Post No. 71 members:

We, the children of Wendell W. Durst, wish to express our gratitude to the Proctor-Kildow Post and its members for their remembrance of a "fallen comrade." The respect and honor you paid our Dad at his funeral service should make all of you proud. To provide an "Invisible Honor Guard" was a stroke of genius, and what Dad would have expected from you. Our hope is that each of you are honored with the same "Detail."

A letter is being sent to R. Lee Fisher, State Commander of the American Legion, informing him of the apathetic manner in which you handled our mother's request, and the wishes of a fellow member of the American Legion.

To the Editor:

In my film, Star Trek IV, we saw a future in which man had turned his back on the fate of the whales, causing their extinction. Today, we have the unique opportunity of helping ensure the survival of these magnificent creatures.

When filming Star Trek IV, I had the opportunity of having WWF whale expert, Roger Payne, as my consultant. Working with Roger was an eye-opening experience — learning about whales from one who has studied them for two decades.

What I took away from my experience, and what I tried to convey in my film is this: We must do all we can to save these animals from the threat of extinction — before it is too late.

Japan has the only major whaling fleet in the world. And unless we decide now to do something to prevent the fleet from sailing this fall, not only 875 whales will die, but thousands more may follow their fate.

I wholeheartedly support WWF's historic campaign to save the whales and am count-

Nelson-Rees Survey

Should the federal government raise our taxes?

While everyone is worrying about a teetering stock market and the possibility of full-scale war in the Persian Gulf, congress is meeting with the president in an effort to quietly slip a $19 billion tax increase down our throats. Our politicians must certainly be overpaid when they can't sense that the rest of us are already grossly overtaxed.

In 1982 President Reagan was persuaded to allow a $98.3 billion tax hike which backers said would reduce the deficit that year from $137 to $115 billion. Instead, the deficit soared to $208 billion. A recent Ohio State university study showed that since 1947 every $1 of tax increase has been accompanied by a $1.58 increase in spending.

Raising taxes to balance the budget is a bait and switch tactic by politicians who know the public is more likely to accept a tax increase if they think it will be used to balance the budget. The same politicians know, however, that the bulk of the money will end up in additional spending programs benefiting constituencies. For example $2.4 billion of the $19.3 billion presently being asked for by Congress "to help balance the budget" will be spent on highways and tunnels in Ted Kennedy's Boston. Unlike businessmen who earn profits by keeping income above expenses, politicians earn votes by keeping expenses above income.

The answer to the deficit is not an increase in taxes, but a lid on spending. The 1987 deficit was cut from an estimated $220 billion to $155 billion by holding spending growth to less than three percent while enjoying an 11 percent revenue increase in an economy not crippled by additional taxes.

If you agree that a tax increase is pure insanity, call the number below.

Let your vote be counted! Results of the Nelson-Rees Survey go to the White House, the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives, and all major television networks and newspaper wire services, in addition to reaching over 10 million Americans nationwide through over 250 participating newspapers. Calls will be accepted by AT&T's 24-hour answering service up until 2 p.m. Central Time, Saturday, Nov. 7. Results will be published in this newspaper. AT&T charges a long distance toll of $1.00 per call.

WHEN THE FROST IS ON THE PUNKIN

by James Whitcomb Riley

When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock,
And you hear the kyouck and gobble of the struttin' turkey-cock,
And the clackin' of the guineys, and the cluckin' of the hens,
And the rooster's hallylooyer as he tiptoes on the fence;
O, it's then's the times a feller is a-feelin' at his best,
With the risin' sun to greet him from a night of peaceful rest,
As he leaves the house, bareheaded, and goes out to feed the stock,

When the frost is on the punkin and the fodder's in the shock.

Hit-And-Run Incident Probed By Oakland Police

A hit-and-run destruction of property incident that occurred Saturday is currently under investigation by the Oakland City Police Department.

Ruby D. Ashby, Oakland, reported that her Chevrolet Blazer, parked at the American Legion parking lot in Oakland, sustained $1,000 worth of damage when an unknown person backed into it and ripped off the back fender. The incident occurred at approximately 7:30 p.m. Sgt. Roger L. Lewis is the investigating officer.

A breaking and entering and theft that occurred Monday night is also being investigated by Oakland Police.

According to Chief John K. Sines, the tool shed at the Oakland Cemetery was broken into when the lock was disabled, and approximately $520 worth of items were removed. They included two weed-eaters, a hedge-trimmer and a red plastic container filled with gasoline.

Deer Park Man Charged With Battery On Deputy

A Deer Park man was arrested this week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department after he allegedly resisted arrest by Detective L.E. Gnegy and struck the officer during the incident.

James H. Weeks Jr. was charged with assault and battery, resisting arrest and disturbance of the peace following the incident that occurred at his residence on Garrett Road in Deer Park Saturday. He was then transported to the Garrett County Jail where he was incarcerated and later released on his own recognizance.

A STORY AFTER LUNCH — Since September 14, 20 fifth grade students from Dennett Road Elementary School have been walking to Dennett Road Manor Nursing Home each Monday to participate in a special reading program directed by their teacher, Linda Fleming. While at the nursing home, students, in groups of two, meet with a patient for approximately 25 minutes to read to them or write letters for them. Students work with the same patient for the duration of the program which will conclude on November 23. Pictured in the photo are students, John Breen, left, and Michael Giotfelty, reading to resident, Nellie Cosner.

According to Detective Gnegy, he was responding to a call of a disturbance there and, upon attempting to arrest Weeks, was assaulted by him.

Robert J. Barkley, 52, Bayard, W. Va., was arrested on a charge of failure to appear in Garrett County District Court in August of 1983. According to the arresting deputy, Detective L.E. Gnegy, Barkley posted a $50 bond and was released from the Garrett County Jail.

David A. Enlow, 44, Terra Alta, W. Va., was arrested by Deputy Russell Drenning and charged with battery and destruction of property following an August 20 incident.

According to the complainant, Sharon F. Enlow, Friendsville, Mr. Enlow physically struck her at her residence and destroyed several "No Trespassing" signs on her property. Enlow was incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail and later released on his own recognizance.

Gary G. Giotfelty, 42, Deer Park, was charged with a violation of a domestic violence petition last Thursday. He was charged by Deputy P.J. Pratt.

A criminal summons was served to Gladys M. McCrobie, Oakland, charging her with harassment by Robert R. McCrobie, also of Oakland, following an October 17 incident. Deputy Drenning served the summons.

College, Philadelphia, and a juris doctorate degree in 1979 from The American University, Washington, D.C. He has been admitted to practice law in both the State of Maryland and the Commonwealth of Virginia, as well as before the United States Courts of Appeals for the Third and Fourth Circuits.

Deputy State's Attorney, Barry R. Levine, asked that Martin receive the maximum sentence allowed by the law in view of his two prior convictions for drug offenses, and noted that Martin had been caught with the largest amount of cocaine ever in Allegany County.

Phillip Armstrong, attorney for the defense, reportedly stated that Martin's convictions all stemmed from a single incident, and added that Martin had offered to cooperate with the state.

Martin now has 30 days to file an appeal or have his sentence reviewed by a panel of three judges. Speaking in his own defense prior to sentencing, Martin stated that he wanted to "get my life back together and have a family."

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

THE CONDOLENCE CALL

The condolence call is distinct from attendance at the viewing or funeral. It is a personal home visit made to a bereaved individual or family by relatives, friends, neighbors, associates, acquaintances soon after they have learned of the death. However, the individual who fails to go early to the bereaved home need not assume that he may not go later. Condolence calls may be made at any time, before the funeral or after, during the first weeks of grief.

The condolence call has several purposes. It expresses sympathy and offers help in a difficult time. The bereaved should know that they are not alone in their grief, that there are people who care about and understand their sorrow. It also helps maintain ties between that person and the society. This not only demonstrates community support, it can help the mourner from slipping too deeply into grief.

MSTA Convention To Open Friday In Ocean City

The 120th annual convention of the Maryland State Teachers Association will open Friday, October 30, in Ocean City, where more than 2,000 educators and public school employees will gather for the two-day meeting.

Five educators from Garrett County, all members of the Garrett County Teachers Association, which is affiliated with MSTa, will attend. They are: Cheryl Henderson, Dennett Road Elementary School; Irene Sigel, Loch Lynn Elementary School; John Helmick, and Mike Pula, Northern Middle School; and Vicki Carlson, Broad Ford Elementary School.

The MSTa Representative Assembly will meet in the Crystal Ballroom of the Sheraton-Fontainebleau Inn, Friday and Saturday. About 650 delegates from throughout the state will participate in the deliberations.

A major issue before the assembly is a proposal to allow membership in MSTa to educational support personnel, or classified employees, within the public school systems of the state.

MSTa is currently affiliated with the Maryland State Educational Services Council, which represents educational support personnel in 18 counties, but such personnel are currently not members of MSTa.

Other possible action includes MSTa endorsements in the forthcoming primary elections.

U.S. Senator Paul S. Sarbanes, D-Md., is expected to receive MSTa's endorsement in his bid for re-election to the U.S. Senate.

Sarbanes will be the keynote speaker at the convention. His address is scheduled for 11 a.m. Saturday. A press conference is scheduled for noon, in Conference Room 2 at the Sheraton-Fontainebleau Inn, immediately following his speech.

The Representative Assembly is also expected to consider endorsements of presidential candidates in the March primaries.

MSTa President Beverly L. Corelle will deliver her annual stewardship address, outlining the major issues facing the association, at the Stewardship Dinner, to be held at 7 p.m., Friday, October 30, in the Crystal Ballroom of the Sheraton-Fontainebleau Inn.

In conjunction with the MSTa Convention, several educational organizations are holding their annual meetings in Ocean City next week, including the Maryland Association of Science Teachers, Maryland School Food Service Association, Maryland Association for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, Maryland Department of School Nurses, and the Maryland State Educational Services Council.

More than 100 firms and organizations that deal with educational services, materials and equipment will have exhibits Friday and Saturday at the Ocean City Convention Hall.

Parenting Skills Group To Meet During November

A parenting skills workshop will be conducted by Penny Kostka from the Garrett County Mental Health Department at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, from 10 to 11 a.m. on Tuesday mornings, November 3, 10, 17 and 24.

According to Kostka, the workshop will be a "learning, sharing and practicing" experience, and will cover such topics as fantasy versus reality in parenting, parenting rights and responsibilities and the child's development within the family circle.

Kostka noted that there would be no child care available during the meetings. Anyone desiring more information is asked to call the Garrett County Mental Health Department at 334-8111.

Broad Ford PTA Meeting Slated

The Broad Ford Elementary PTA will meet on Monday, November 2. The business meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

After the meeting, a jump rope demonstration will be presented. Participants will be fifth graders. Approximately 20 children will participate. They will be doing Double Dutch jump rope. It will consist of warmup, hot pepper, footwork tricks, partners, and a special routine. The jump rope program is under the supervision of Oren Yoder, physical education teacher at Broad Ford.

Also, Mrs. Diane Spoltart art teacher at Broad Ford will present an art display. This is Part I of the school's Arts Festival. At the December PTA meeting, the Arts Festival will continue with Dave Zimmerman, music teacher and Mrs. Mary Ann Green, gifted and talented teacher presenting a program.

PTA membership at Broad Ford has exceeded 340 members. At the November PTA meeting a drawing for a floral arrangement donated by Green Acres will take place. To be eligible for a chance to win the floral arrangement, a person must be a member of PTA.

Refreshments will be served. There will also be a drawing for a door prize.

Other important dates to remember are: November 4, Parent Advisory Council at Kitzmiller. For more information, contact Carolyn ... at Broad Ford School, 334-9445.

On November 11, pictures will be taken using a pre-payment plan.

A November 18 Project Reach Program is scheduled from 1 to 3 p.m. The topic will be, Child Sexual Abuse Prevention — Tips to Parents. Mikal Moomau of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, will be the speaker. All interested persons are invited. Babysitting will be available and refreshments will be served.

Continuing Ed. Classes Offered By Garrett CC

A variety of Continuing Education courses is now being offered by Garrett Community College. Persons desiring more information about the courses should call the Oakland Center of the college at 334-8266.

DEATH & DYING: SKILLS FOR COPING

A course entitled Death & Dying: Skills for Coping and Therapeutic Intervention is being offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College. This six-session course, scheduled for the Oakland Center of the college, will begin November 9, and will meet every Monday from 6 to 8 p.m.

This course is designed to give individuals an understanding of the dying process. Help with care giving and intervention for the dying and the family will be the central themes.

Individuals who desire to register for this offering may do so at the Oakland Center, 104 E. Center Street, Oakland, or at the McHenry Campus, McHenry.

RETIREMENT, ESTATE PLANNING

A course entitled Retirement & Estate Planning is being offered by the Continuing Education Division beginning November 12. This course will consist of two sessions each held on Thursday from 6 to 9:15 p.m. at the Oakland Center of the college.

Students will become more aware of the importance and benefit of proper retirement and estate planning. They will review Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) and Keogh Plans along with Medicare and Social Security considerations. They will also learn about estate planning and the value of making a will. This course will be instructed by William B. Grant, executive vice president and senior trust officer of the First United National Bank & Trust, Oakland.

Maryland senior citizens,

over 60, may enroll tuition free.

HUNTER SAFETY

A Maryland Hunter Safety Course is being offered by the Continuing Education Division beginning Tuesday, November 3. This course is scheduled to be held Tuesdays and Thursdays from 6:30 to 9:45 p.m. at the Friendsville Elementary School four sessions. This will be the last offering of the course for this year.

This course is designed for the hunter wishing to gain or increase knowledge and skills related to hunting safety. This course will meet and support the Maryland State Law requirement for new hunters in time for deer season.

Enrollment for this course is limited and will be taken on a first-come first-served basis.

COMPUTER LITERACY II

A course entitled Computer Literacy II is being offered by the Continuing Education Division. This seven-session course, scheduled to be held at the Grantsville Elementary School, will begin on November 10, and will meet each Tuesday between 5:30 and 8:45 p.m.

For those who have introductory computer operation skills, this course should help students develop specific application skills beyond the introductory level. Topics will include word processing, database and spreadsheet management.

Mtn. Lake Park History Presented To Civic Club

The early history of the Mtn. Lake Park Civic Club was featured at a meeting of the Oakland Civic Club held Tuesday at the Will O' the Wisp.

The Mtn. Lake Park Club was organized in 1905 and continued until it merged with the Oakland Civic Club, according to Mary I. Love, local historian and guest speaker. She was introduced by Lollie Fridinger, chairman for the month of October.

Ms. Love noted the club's early activities, their building of tennis courts, bowling alleys and a library. The club was also instrumental in organizing the Western Maryland Tennis Tournament which is still an annual sporting event.

Special guests of the club were officers of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs and district chairmen. They included: Katherine Mizell, president; Bette Brust, first vice president; Mary Ann Shultz, second vice president; and Edna Jean McCaslin, recording secretary; all from the Maryland Federation, and Sara Lindsay, president; Martha Hyson, first vice president; Lollie Fridinger, second vice president; and Mary Ruddell, corresponding secretary, all from the Western District; Jean O'Gorman, Eastern Shore District president; Barbara Nunnari, Montgomery County District president; and Frances Lehmann, Prince Georges County District president.

Marin Day, club president, introduced Mrs. Mizell, who congratulated the club for its outstanding achievements this year.

A general report was given on Autumn Glory activities by Bobbie Henderson, chairman, who said 370 hours of volunteer work had been given. She also noted a greater profit this year than any previous year. Profits benefit various civic activities in the county. It was announced that Mrs. B. Miller, Oakland, had won the quilt that had been raffled by the club.

The club collect, normally said at the close of each meeting, has been set to music and was sung by Ann Bell Boltz.

Other members of the October committee were Phoebe Goodwin, chairman; Ruth Calderwood, Margaret Dean, Mabel Hauser and Margaret Robay.

Husky Rally Falls Short In 16-14 Loss To Valley

A second-half comeback fell short for the Northern Huskies Friday night and the result was a 16-14 defeat to visiting Valley, the Huskies' sixth loss in eight games.

Coach Tom Vent's team battled back from a 16-0 deficit, but a safety recorded by the Black Knights in the second quarter proved to be the winning margin.

Jeff Grove, who ran for 176 yards and a pair of touchdowns for the Knights scored the first points of the game with a two-yard run in the first quarter. The kick for the extra point was no good.

Grove capped a drive in the second period with another two-yard run and then carried the ball in for the two-point conversion to give the Black Knights a 14-0 advantage.

Valley added the deciding points midway through the second quarter when Chris Winebrenner made a tackle in the Northern end zone.

The Northern offense assumed the momentum late in the second period when Todd Wagner connected with Darren McKenzie on a 23-yard touchdown pass to narrow Valley's lead to 16-14 at halftime.

Rodney Lipscomb capped a Husky drive in the third period with a 16-yard run and Wagner passed to Ed Tabor for the two-point conversion. However, the remainder of the contest was a defensive standoff, and the Black Knights returned home with their second win in eight games.

The Huskies had an opportunity to record a field goal on their first drive of the game, but the kick was called wide on a controversial call by the referees.

"We still have a lot of work to do," Coach Vent stated, "but we have really improved a lot, too. We have fallen just short in three or four games this year."

The Huskies lost three games in which they finished with better statistics than their opponents', plus they lost to one team by one point and to Valley by two.

"The sad part is," Vent said, "with just two more wins, we would be right in the thick of things in the Region I Class C ratings. But, we're just not there yet. We are working to build a total, year-round, solid program, and it's going to take time."

Vent did point out the outstanding performances of Todd Wagner, Darren McKenzie and Kevin Wassel in the Valley contest.

"Todd had an excellent game," Darren made a great catch for the touchdown, and Kevin plays hard on every single play," he said. "Kevin is probably the real unsung hero on our team this year."

Another formidable foe awaits the Huskies this week, as West Preston will travel to the Cove for a game tonight, rather than Friday night as was originally scheduled. Vent and his staff decided that the game attendance might be better this evening than tomorrow evening since there is no school today or Friday.

West Preston comes to Northern with a 4-4 record, including three straight victories and a big come-from-behind 34-14 win over Clarksburg Roosevelt-Wilson last week.

The Panthers are led by running back Scott Wodzinski, who has not only been their leading ground-gainer, but is also a strong receiver. He finished with 99 yards on 17 carries plus a 78-yard screen pass reception for a touchdown last week. In the pre-season, Wodzinski was predicted to be one of the best backs in the area, but had to sit out the first five games following knee surgery.

Jets Nip Rams For Youth League Championship

The Southern/Tucker County clash last Friday night in Parsons was not the only thrilling Garrett County/Tucker County contest this past week, as the Oakland Jets edged the Thomas-Davis Rams Sunday afternoon, 20-18, in the championship game of the Mt. Top Youth Football League.

Played on the Northern High School field, the game ended with a failed two-point conversion attempt by the Rams that, if successful, would have sent the game into overtime.

The Jets scored first in the game when Richie DeWitt intercepted a Rams pass on the third play of the game and ran it back 45 yards for a touchdown.

Shane Skipper's kick for the conversion would later prove to be the winning margin.

Later in the same quarter, the Rams defense pinned the Jets on their own two-yard line and forced them to punt. DeWitt's punt was blocked by Shawn Cutright, who fell on the ball for a touchdown. The extra-point attempt was no good.

The Rams went on top 12-8 in the second quarter when Joey Cooper connected with Brian Zirk on a 25-yard scoring pass. The conversion attempt again failed.

The Jets thought they had taken the lead once again in the second quarter, but DeWitt's 70-yard run for a touchdown was called back because of a penalty.

DeWitt put the Jets on top for good in the third quarter when he broke loose for a 62-yard touchdown run to make the

THERE WAS JUBILATION by the Oakland Jets, their coaches and fans Sunday afternoon following the Jets' 20-18 exciting win over the Thomas-Davis Rams in the Mt. Top Youth League Championship game, held Sunday afternoon at Northern High School. It was the second straight title and second straight undefeated season for the Jets. Above, the Jets celebrate their win by carrying their head coach, Brian Sanders, who was awarded the game ball. Above right is the entire coaching staff of the Jets, including, left to right, Bill Ferry, assistant defensive coach; Raymond Sherwood and Rich DeWitt, assistant coaches; Denver Welch, assistant defensive coach; Brian Sanders, head coach; Paul Harvey, assistant offensive coach; John Rinker, assistant coach; and Rich Skipper, assistant offensive coach.

A one-yard run by Skipper in the fourth quarter completed the Jets' scoring.

Following a Jet fumble late in the fourth period and a controversial penalty call, Cooper fired a nine-yard scoring strike to Jimmy Sutton to bring the Rams within two with 1:40 remaining. However, their attempted kick for the extra two points was blocked by Jerry Welch and Bill Ferry.

DeWitt led the Jets in rushing with 106 yards, while Skipper picked up 60 yards on the ground and threw for 35 more.

Pacing the Jet defensive charge were Garth Glatfely, Scott Glatfely, Mark Metz, and Scott Myers.

This was the second straight championship and second straight undefeated season by the Jets, which is a record accomplishment for the League. The Jets have a two-year record of 14-0.

"We just didn't play like the Jets in the first half," stated Coach Brian Sanders. "But we came around in the second half. Our goal line defense did an outstanding job."

The Jack Lear Memorial Trophy will be presented to the Jets at their annual banquet, details of which will be announced later.

Incredible Rally Propels Rams Over Lions, 33-26

In what was certainly the most exciting game in the area this season, and probably the most exciting game in the history of Southern High School, the Southern Rams scored an incredible 26 points in the fourth quarter Friday night to come from behind and defeat the home-standing, undefeated Tucker County Mountain Lions, 33-26.

All of the pre-game hype billed the game as one of the greatest clashes of the decade, as both teams entered the contest unbeaten. Most oddsmakers had rated the Lions a two- or three-point favorite because of their highly-touted skilled players, plus the home field advantage. Among the Lions are two of West Virginia's five top-rated high school players in senior quarterback Jed Drenning and 307-pound senior tackle Shawn Long. Tailback Shane Haddox and receiver Carmen DeSignore are also All-State candidates for the second year in a row.

Some believed that the Rams could win the game, despite the fact that Tucker apparently had more highly skilled players. The Rams had the tougher of the two schedules and also possessed outstanding weaponry in personnel such as junior quarterback Zack Gibson and running back J.R. Bosley, who leads the area in rushing. However, it was thought that the Rams would have to play flawless football in order to win.

While the game was not played flawlessly by either team, it did indeed turn out to be even beyond the expectations of each of the several thousand fans in the stands. While Drenning, Long, Haddox and DeSignore played extremely well for the Lions, Gibson, Bosley, and a host of other Rams finished with truly outstanding performances that made the difference down the stretch.

Although the Rams stayed close throughout most of the game, when Tucker County held a 26-14 lead with less than four minutes to play, even the most dedicated of Southern fans believed that the Rams' undefeated status was about to come to an end. But the players and their coaches refused to accept defeat and proceeded to score 19 points in just over three minutes against the second-ranked team in West Virginia.

The Lions took the opening kickoff and marched right down to the field for a touchdown, as Haddox scored on a 20-yard run. The run for the two-point con-

The Rams responded with a drive of their own, which was capped by a one-yard run by Bosley. John Milligan's kick put Southern on top, 7-6.

Tucker came back late in the second quarter to take a 14-7 advantage when Haddox scored from two yards out and Drenning passed to DeSignore for the conversion.

The Lions extended their lead in the third period when Drenning connected with DeSignore on an 80-yard pass/run play. The drive, which took only four plays, covered 99 yards, after Jason Park's punt pinned the Lions on their own one-yard line. The conversion was no good, leaving the Lions with a 20-7 lead.

The Rams came back early in the fourth quarter with a five-yard scoring run by Bosley and Milligan's successful extra-point kick.

The situation became rather grim for the Rams midway through the final stanza when Drenning hit Jim Ambrose with a 25-yard scoring pass to give the Lions a seemingly insurmountable 26-14 advantage.

However, the rest of the game belonged to Gibson and the Southern offense.

The Lions squibbed the following kickoff and the Rams took possession at midfield. After moving the ball to the Tucker 19, the Rams were forced back on two sacks and a penalty, leaving them with a fourth down and 31 situation.

Gibson, from the shotgun position, spotted Richard Mann behind the secondary and fired the ball over 50 yards through the air for a 42-yard touchdown with just 3:04 remaining on the clock. Milligan's kick was just wide, leaving the score at 26-20.

The next play was a perfectly executed on-side kick by Milligan, which went 11 yards, bounced straight up into the air, and down into the arms of Southern's Marty Sharpless, giving Southern possession just over midfield.

Again Gibson went to the shotgun formation and again he was sacked repeatedly by the aggressive Tucker defense. Then with a fourth and 18, Gibson scrambled again, looking for a receiver. Finding none open, he saw some daylight up the middle, and ran from his own 38 all the way to the Lions 16 for a first down with about one minute remaining.

Bosley then carried the ball four yards on a sweep, giving Southern a second and six at the 12. Gibson scored the winning touchdown on the next play, taking the ball around the right side on a bootleg and breaking a pair of tackles inside the five for the score. Milligan's kick gave the Rams a 27-27 edge with 48 seconds remaining.

In order to keep the ball away from DeSignore and Haddox on the ensuing kickoff, Coach Tom Woods had Milligan squib the kick, however it did not travel quite the distance Woods had hoped, giving Tucker possession near midfield.

Drenning engineered a drive to the Ram 12-yard line and, with just five seconds left on the clock, the Lions attempted a field goal. The snap sailed through Drenning's hands, the kicker picked the ball up and passed it, but Southern lineman Gary Long pulled it out of the air and raced 88 yards for a final touchdown.

Bosley finished with 138 yards on 28 carries, giving him a total of 1,128 yards so far this season. Haddox was the leading rusher for Tucker with 117 yards on 19 attempts.

Drenning completed eight of 16 passes for 217 yards, while Gibson connected on 10 of 15 for 142 yards.

Gibson also led in tackles from his secondary position with 10, while Randy Tichnell finished with nine. Woods was also pleased with the play of his linebackers, Bobby Bernard, Chris Helbig, and Brent Sanders.

Gibson's outstanding performance, both offensively and defensively, earned him the title of Player of the Week by the Cumberland Times-News, making the Rams the only team in the area to have a player receive the award three times this year. Bosley earned it the other two occasions.

game. "The crowd noise was just incredible," he said. "Each time we got behind, the crowd helped pick us up, and then when we would rally, the crowd would rally. It was a very important aspect of our win."

"We felt going in that if we could stay close and if the outcome of the game was going to be determined in the fourth quarter," he continued, "that we would really shine, because these kids continued to believe in themselves, even when we were so far behind. We were somewhat lucky, of course, but we believe that you create your own luck, good or bad."

Woods said that the Ram defense played well against the Tucker County option offense, "plus, if you take away Drenning's 80-yard touchdown pass, he had only about 125 yards," he said.

"I have never had a team with so many players who have such a burning desire to excel," he said. "It's just a unique group of young men."

Coach Woods noted that he has been "bombarded" with requests by persons desiring to have a video tape of the game and he said arrangements are now being made to have them available at a nominal cost. He said details on how to obtain copies will be announced next week.

The season is still not over for the Rams, however, and they are still not 100 percent guaranteed a spot in the Class B playoffs. So Woods and his staff have turned their attention to the Petersburg Vikings, whom the Rams will meet this Friday night at Petersburg.

Although the Rams will be a heavy favorite going into the game, Woods is reminding his players that the Rams were undefeated and headed for the playoffs two years ago when they were upset by Northern late in the season.

"Fortunately, I feel that the

Once-In-A-Lifetime Victory . . .

Rarely do we place editorial comment on the sports pages of The Republican. However, it seems fitting to do so in the issue following the most exciting win in football history at Southern High School. A straight news story about the game just doesn't seem to be enough this time.

There are many games, at all levels and in all sports, the outcomes of which are decided in the final moments on an outstanding play. That last-second pass or long run or interception or blocked kick or fumble recovery that turns the tide and wins a ball game is really not so rare.

However, the display presented by the Southern Rams last week in Parsons, W. Va., against Tucker County was that once-in-a-life time victory, that impossible rally against overwhelming odds, that really did happen right before our eyes.

There was not one, or two, or even three incredible plays by the Rams in those final moments, but at least four: the 50-yard plus pass by Zack Gibson on fourth and long for a touchdown; the perfectly-executed onside kick by John Milligan; the run for a first down by Gibson on fourth and 18; the interception and 88-yard return by Gary Long. All of this happened within just over three minutes and against one of the finest high school teams in the state of West Virginia.

The thrill of victory has never been so pronounced as it was in the hearts and minds of the Southern fans during that rally, the intensity of which was equalled only by the agony of defeat for the Tucker County Mountain Lions and their loyal fans.

The execution by Zack Gibson, under such incredible pressure, was nothing short of extraordinary. The running of J.R. Bosley was truly remarkable. The play-to-play efforts of all the Rams were outstanding.

To Coach Tom Woods and his fine staff, and especially to all of the young men who have so exemplified the true definition of the word "team", we congratulate you, we thank you, and we wish you the best of luck with the rest of the season and in the playoffs.

Southern Rams Number One In Maryland Ratings

By virtue of their big win over Tucker County last Friday night and losses by a few other teams, such as Allegany, the Southern Rams have been ranked the number one Class B team in the state of Maryland this week.

The Rams went into the Tucker County contest ranked fifth in the state and second in the Region behind Allegany. The Campers, who were defeated soundly by Jefferson County last week, dropped to second in the Region standings.

The Rams hold a 9.0 in points, compared to 8.1 for Allegany and 8.9 for Cambridge-South Dorchester.

If the playoffs were held today, the Rams would face Walkersville, an at-large team currently ranked eighth in the state in Class B. Cambridge-South Dorchester would face Bennett, Allegany would face Fairmont Heights, and Aberdeen would meet Damascus.

This is the first time Southern has ever been the number one team in the state rankings.

Great Teams . . .

Editor's note: The following poem was presented last week to the Southern High School football coaching staff by a fan who wished to remain unidentified. His prediction about the Southern/Tucker County game came true.

Great teams don't start out great,
Unbeaten seasons are sometimes fate.
Good teams try to improve each day,
For fear some opponent may be greater than they.

And everyday the challenge is new,
For down the road is someone better than you.
You work for the next opponent in sight,
In hopes that things might turn out right!

Now Tucker Co. is the next foe on hand,
Some believe them the best in their land.
It doesn't matter where their team may rate,
The Southern Rams seem to be destined for great.

These Rams have met the demands of Coach Woods, They've beaten the teams that he knew they should.
Three others have fallen that coach thought pretty tough,
Thus assuring the Lions just don't have enough!

The Lions are big, with a fine Q. B.,
Them hillbillies worship him more than Thee.
The crowd will be plenty, most armed with snuff,
All thinking the Rams' chances are merely a bluff.

But those Rams will be ready and full of fire,
They'll play with guts and endless desire.
For 48 minutes they'll hold nothing back,
And sooner or later the Lions will crack.

The team's certainly on a mission this year,
They've stopped wing-T's and they'll stop the veer.
So Drenning and company, you may call it fate,
But the Rams will surface as the team that's great.

Northern Girls

Fall Victim To Savage, Rockwood

The Northern girls' varsity volleyball team fell victim to two of the area's top teams this past week, losing to undefeated Mt. Savage last Wednesday night and then falling to Rockwood, Pa., on Monday.

The Huskies were topped by the Indians in three straight games, 15-3, 15-7 and 15-10, and lost to Rockville, 15-8 and 15-11.

Debbie Rounds and Julie Yommer paced Northern's scoring against Mt. Savage with eight and seven service points, respectively. Five of Rounds' points were scored on ace serves.

"Mt. Savage has a good defensive team," stated Northern Coach Vonda Yunker. "They wait for the opponent to make a mistake and then capitalize on it. We weren't able to generate much offensive power either."

Northern's junior varsity lost its match to Mt. Savage, 15-2 and 15-9.

"The best team we have faced in years" is how Coach Yunker described Rockwood, despite the fact that the Huskies remained fairly close in all three games.

Rounds again led the Huskies with nine service points, while Laura Sines and Kim Frantz each recorded six. Rounds had four ace serves, Frantz had two, and Pam Brenneman and Kim Hinebaugh each scored one.

"Even though we lost, I was pleased with the overall play of our team," Yunker said. "Rockwood had excellent athletes who not only hit the ball well, but also handled the ball with finesse. We played one of our best defensive matches all season. They had to earn every point they got."

"I think an intense match like this will prepare us for the remaining two matches of the season," she added.

The jayvee Huskies also lost to their Rockwood counterparts, 15-0 and 15-2.

Northern hosted Flintstone last night (details next week) and will entertain Southern next Wednesday in the final regular season match.

a multiple-I on offense and utilize four or five different defensive formations, with the 5-2 monster as the basic one.

Offensively they are led by senior quarterback Scott Smith (5-8, 140); junior tailback Jamie Berg (5-10, 155); senior tight end Brian Ginder (6-2, 188); and senior split end Eric Allen (5-9, 145).

"Smith is a left-hander who throws pretty well," Woods said. "Berg has good quickness, much like the Gidley boy from Central Preston, and Ginder is also an outstanding kicker and punter." Ginder has a 43-yard field goal to his credit this season.

Pacing the Viking defense is junior nose guard Tony Lofton (5-9, 190); Ginder at defensive end; Mike Meek, a 5-11, 172-pound junior corner; and junior tackle Brad Helmick (5-10, 187).

"They are pretty close to our size and they have good overall team quickness," Woods said.

A win would clinch the Potomac Valley Conference title for the Rams.

pany made a $19,000 bid to reclaim an abandoned mine which Abar said is located along Route 50 between Gorman and Red House.

A third project which is expected to be approved at the Board's November 18 session is a $27,700 bid by Delta Mining to do work at Frank Brennen Road.

Bradley Manor

Bradley Manor issue is on the agenda for next Monday," Moyer stated, "but we feel it would be much better for those citizens to attend the public hearing where the entire evening can be spent on that single issue. There will be other issues to discuss at the regular meeting besides Bradley Manor."

Several members of the council were also to meet with Robert Schoenberger, general deputy assistant secretary, from the office of Housing and Urban Development in Washington, D.C., but that meeting has been postponed until November 4.

In a letter to Hank Seifert, president of the council, Rogers stated, "The provision of resources to Garrett County is a priority for both Governor Schaefer and me and I am pleased that the state is able to participate with you and the private sector on this project."

The resources to which she referred are:

1. Coordinate a concerted effort from highest level officials to convince the Department of Housing and Urban Development to forestall foreclosure of the project and accept the proposal for redevelopment of the project.

2. Provide financing of the rehabilitation to the developer at rates and terms needed to provide affordable housing and a viable, sound real estate development.

3. Provide Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) or other monies to the town of Oakland for development of recreational facilities for the town, including improvements to the town's existing senior center, or such other facilities as may be mutually agreeable.

On the same day as the meeting with Rogers, the town council drafted a letter to her, extending their "sincere appreciation" for her efforts and concern regarding the Bradley Manor issue.

"As a result of today's meeting, the Mayor and Town Council wish to inform you of our support for making this project a reality," the letter stated. "Specifically, we wish to encourage the state's involvement in this project so as to prevent a foreclosure by the Department of Housing and Urban Development."

The council's support of the project is contingent upon the following conditions:

1. The Town of Oakland will have the right of approval for each step of the project.

2. The Mayor and Town Council must hold a public hearing for the benefit of our residents to apprise them of the actions being considered.

3. A three-acre tract of land presently owned by Mr. Sarubin near the site will be deeded to the Oakland Mayor and Town Council.

4. A pre-treatment sewerage facility must be installed at the Bradley Manor site (Moyer explained that this condition of the agreement would prevent construction at the complex from interfering with the town's new waste water system.)

5. The project will be limited to a 40-unit complex, comprised solely of one- and two-bedroom units. (Moyer noted that the apartments would be available to most people in the county and would be geared to middle-aged people with no or older children, although if units were empty, other applicants would be screened.)

6. The development project is to be a joint venture between Harkins Associates and Garrettland Realty. Garrettland Realty would perform all management functions.

7. Block Grant funds made available for this project shall not necessarily be limited to the Bradley Manor site. (Moyer stated that a grant of up to $400,000 and more, if necessary, had already been promised.)

Additionally, the town agreed to contribute local resources to complement the state's contribution, including access to the sewage treatment plant and maintenance of the streets within the complex, provided they are built to town standards.

The town will also consider providing recreational programs for the facilities being developed.

Moyer stressed the need to raise the residential tax base in Oakland. "We realize the track record of many housing projects have disillusioned the town residents, but this is a solid proposal that could greatly improve the tax base. The people living there will use local businesses which will also improve the tax situation," he stated. "If these types of projects aren't approved, town taxpayers will be paying even more taxes because of businesses moving out of the town limits."

Moyer said he knew the developers, Harkins and Associates, and said that they "were a very reputable firm."

Some residents in the immediate area of Bradley Manor said they are reserving judgment on the project proposal until they have more details, but contend that the town council should have released more information to them when discussions began about rehabilitating the complex.

already collapsed. The mobile home was owned by Jutta White, Baltimore.

Robert Thomas, assistant chief deputy state fire marshal, who happened to be in the Cumberland area at the time of the blaze, James Martin and Guy Carola, fire investigators for Garrett and Allegany Counties, are conducting the investigation. Thomas stated that there are "no suspicious circumstances" surrounding the incident.

The deaths increased to 87 the number of persons killed in fires in Maryland so far this year, which is 22 more than had died during the same period last year.

Charles B. McCrum III was born November 28, 1933, in Oakland, and Nathan B. McCrum was born November 30,

1984, in Morgantown, W. Va. Besides their parents, the brothers are survived by a half-brother, Tommy Sweitzer, Oakland; paternal grandparents, C. Bernard and Arveta (Michael) McCrum, Sr., 2150 15th Street, Aurora, W. Va.; maternal grandparents, Terry R. and Bonnie P. (Reece) Sweitzer, Oakland.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, where a joint service was conducted Tuesday afternoon by Rev. Glen Dunire and Jim Gattone. Interment was in the Aurora Cemetery.

It is requested that expressions of sympathy take the form of donations to the McCrum family. Persons wishing to make cash donations may send them to: Brenda Perando, P.O. Box 174, Oakland, MD 21550. ## Sheriff's Dept. Investigating B&E Theft

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week investigated a theft and a breaking and entering, each occurring within the same time period.

The theft of a fire-power torch with attachments, valued at $215, was reported by Allen D. Noland, Deer Park, that occurred at his residence on Garrett Road sometime between September 20 and this past Sunday.

Also reported to have occurred during that time was a breaking and entering at the seasonal residence of Earl Radtke, Thurmont, on Lake Shore Drive.

According to Radtke, an unknown person or persons gained entry by smashing out the window panes in an entrance door. It has not yet been determined if anything was stolen from the residence.

Detective L.E. Gnegy is investigating both incidents.

Rep. Beverly Byron's Bill Stresses Importance Of Physical Education

A bill introduced in Congress by Rep. Beverly Byron (D-6th) to encourage state and local governments to promote high quality daily physical education programs was passed Tuesday by the House.

"In spite of recent studies which show that physical education has a positive impact on a child's academic performance and self esteem, at the present time only 17 states have mandatory physical education," said Byron.

A companion bill in the Senate was introduced by Sen. Ted Stevens (R-AK), and is expected to be voted on in the near future. Passage of this bill will provide a major impetus for improving physical education programs throughout the nation. Statistics on overall physical fitness of children are alarming at present. Approximately 40% of boys ages 6-12 cannot do more than one pullup, while one out of four cannot do any. Of the girls tested, 70% could do no more than one pullup, and 55% could not do any.

"If we are all concerned with the health and general well being of our children," added Byron, "we have to take the initiative and spread the word that strong physical education programs are a necessary part of our educational system."

In addition to its strong support in both bodies of Congress, Rep. Byron's bill has been publicly endorsed by such organizations as the American Heart Association, the American Alliance for Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Dance, and the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

The bill is the 100th Congress'.

version of a bill introduced last year, which despite strong support and passage in the Senate, died at the conclusion of the 99th Congress due to time constraints.

Library Corner

There will be a meeting of the Friends of the Allegheny Mountaintop Public Library, Mt. Storm, W. Va., on Tuesday, November 3, at 7 p.m. Anyone interested in taking an active part in the planning of the purchases for the new addition, as well as the annual activities, is urged to attend.

The Friends are sponsoring the second annual Adult Winter Reading Program. Beginning on November 16, participants should keep a record of all books read through March 31 and then submit the list by April 6. Winners will receive awards on April 11 at the library. Persons may contact the library for details.

Scholarships To Address Teacher Shortage Available

Scholarships for persons wishing to become teachers in areas of critical teacher shortage in Maryland public schools are again available.

The Maryland State Scholarship Board will accept applications for the Sharon Christa McAuliffe Memorial Teacher Tuition Assistance Program from November 1 until December 12, for scholarships beginning in the 1988-89 academic year. The scholarship program is based upon academic merit, not financial need.

These awards are offered in subject fields for which there is a critical shortage of teachers in Maryland public schools, including mathematics, chemistry, physics, earth science, secondary general science, special education, industrial arts, and trades and industry.

Undergraduate students who will have 60 credit hours by September 1988, teachers not already certified in a field of critical shortage, and degree-holding, non-teachers are eligible to apply for grants under this program. A 3.0 cumulative grade point average is required for eligibility.

Undergraduates should obtain application materials from the financial aid offices of their colleges. Current public school teachers should contact the central office of their employers. All others should call the State Scholarship Board in Baltimore at (301) 333-6420.

Awards can range in size as high as about $5,400 per academic year. Recipients of awards are restricted to Maryland residents attending accredited colleges or universities located within the State. Persons accepting scholarships will be required to sign a legally binding agreement that they will teach in a Maryland public school.

Md. Tax Amnesty Deadline Extended To November 2

Maryland State Comptroller Louis I. Goldstein is extending the deadline for Maryland's Tax Amnesty Program until midnight, November 2, to handle the expected last-minute rush of response and revenue. The announcement came at a Baltimore press conference held October 23. The comptroller also announced the latest payments received to date.

All offices and telephone lines of the State Comptroller will remain open on Saturday, October 31, from 8:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. and on Monday, November 2, from 8:30 a.m. until 7 p.m. — except for the Baltimore office at 301 West Preston Street. The Baltimore office will stay open on November 2 from 8:30 a.m. until midnight, as will the toll-free Amnesty hotline 1-800-MD TAXES.

"So during the program we've collected over $9.5 million, and the payments have been getting larger and larger. About $4.4 million in corporation income taxes came from two multinational firms alone. The largest check from an individual taxpayer appears to be for more than $48,000," Goldstein said.

More than 3,500 individuals and businesses have come forward during the once-in-a-lifetime Amnesty program to pay delinquent taxes and interest without civil or criminal penalties.

The comptroller outlined the total amount of revenue collected so far in each of the six categories of taxes eligible for Amnesty: Individual income tax: $2,080,020; Corporation income tax: $5,359,585; Employer withholding tax: $317,368; Retail sales & use tax: $1,594,648; Admissions & amusement tax: $6,193; and Boat excise tax: $93,354.

Among the state's 24 subdivisions, the largest amount of Amnesty revenue has come from individuals in Baltimore City ($630,228), with Montgomery County taxpayers providing $618,805. The smallest amount to date came from Garrett County taxpayers ($2,071).

Goldstein said that Maryland Attorney General Joseph Curran Jr. agreed the comptroller had the authority to extend the Amnesty deadline because Saturday, October 31, is not a normal business day.

"When we looked at the experience of other states' Amnesty programs, we found the majority of revenue came in during the final days. In the case of Illinois, for example, 55% of the Amnesty money arrived in the final hours," Goldstein said.

"We expect a significant last-minute rush here in Maryland. More and more people are responding to the program. The pace has been picking up. So, to avoid long lines, we're going to keep our doors open on Saturday and Monday," he added.

The comptroller reminded taxpayers that Amnesty will be granted only for the amount of tax and interest paid by the November 2 deadline. "If you can only pay half of the tax and interest you owe, for example, we will waive half of the penalty," Goldstein said.

After November 2, the civil penalty for unpaid income taxes will increase from 10% to 25% of the tax due, applied retroactively. The criminal penalties for all Amnesty-eligible taxes will increase to a maximum of $5,000 and up to five years imprisonment for each violation. The comptroller will also have more personnel in the audit and collection sections of his office to pursue delinquent taxpayers.

Amnesty forms are available at banks, libraries, post offices and Giant food stores throughout Maryland, as well as all offices of the comptroller, the Clerks of the Court and the Department of Natural Resources.

From 60 to 70 million children go without polio protection in developing countries each year, and some 220,000 of them become its victims. Ten percent of those children die, and about 70 percent suffer permanent paralysis or weakness of affected muscles, Eberly said.

"Our contribution to eradicating polio throughout the world," said Conger, Oakland Rotary chairman of PolioPlus, "might be expected to impact the lives of 420 children, sparing them this crippling disease and at the same time save the lives of 60 children who otherwise might be expected to die."

"This is a challenge that will not go unmet by members of the Oakland Rotary Club as part of Rotary International's effort to eradicate polio worldwide," he added.

Georgia Tree Farmer Wins National Title

The Mid-Atlantic Regional Outstanding Tree Farmer for 1987, Charles "Sonny" Newhall, of Oakland, recently competed in the national contest. Vying for the national title were four other Regional Outstanding Tree Farmers from the Northeast, North-Central, Western, and Southern regions.

Winning the national title was C. M. Stripling of Camilla, Georgia, the Southern Regional Tree Farmer of the Year. Stripling started planting trees on his small South Georgia farm in 1939 — long before the now burgeoning timber industry became a major economic force in the region. "In planting trees, I knew that the rewards would be long in coming," says Stripling, "but I knew the land was being taken care of."

Today, Stripling's tree farm spreads over 800 acres and sports a seven figure timber value. He firmly believes that tree farming could be the salvation of the economically depressed southern farmer, and he spends much of his time delivering speeches to agricultural and civic groups with that message. In most of his speeches he proudly proclaims that "tree farming is the closest thing we have to a gold mine in South Georgia."

It is this willingness to share his tree farming experience with others that contributed heavily to his selection as the most outstanding of the 58,000 registered American tree farmers who display the familiar green and white diamond-shaped sign on their properties, stated one American Forest Council official.

The American Tree Farm System is a forest industry-sponsored program designed to promote and encourage management of forest land by private landowners. Sponsored nationally by the American Forest Council, the program is co-sponsored by tree farm committees in each state.

Stripling will receive his national award during a forest industry luncheon on November 10 in San Francisco, Calif.

Newhall was the second Garrett County resident and the third Maryland resident to win the regional contest. Newhall's 178-acre "Brittany and Birds" was the regional winner representing New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Maryland in the national contest.

Good Food

and how to prepare it!

Good Food & Good Health

The following recipes all feature wheat germ as a common ingredient. Wheat germ is very nutritious yet low in calories — 110 per ¼ cup. It is high in the B complex vitamins and vitamin E. Wheat germ is also a good source of essential minerals and a natural food fiber. These recipes are submitted by Debbie Meyer.

TOASTED POTATO QUARTERS

4 medium potatoes, pared and quartered lengthwise
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
½ cup wheat germ
Salt and pepper

Pat potatoes dry with paper towels. Dip potatoes in butter, roll in wheat germ to cover. Bake at 350° for 30-35 minutes. Season with salt and pepper.

CHEESEBURGER PIE

1 lb. ground beef
¾ cup wheat germ, divided
½ cup milk
1 egg
1 tsp. minced garlic
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. oregano
¼ tsp. pepper
½ cup catsup
½ cup minced onion
1 can (6 oz.) pitted ripe olives, drained and cut into wedges
½ cups grated Monterey Jack cheese
2 Tbsp. minced parsley

Combine beef, ½ cup wheat germ, milk, egg, garlic and seasoning. Mix well. Press mixture evenly on bottom and sides of ungreased 9-inch pie pan. Sprinkle with remaining ¼ cup wheat germ then layer with catsup, onion, olives and cheese. Bake at 400° for 25 minutes. Sprinkle with parsley. Cut into wedges.

CHOCOLATE CHIP PIE

1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
1 cup wheat germ
2 eggs
1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces
½ tsp. vanilla

Melt butter in large saucepan. Cool about 5 minutes. Add sugar to butter gradually beating well. Add wheat germ, eggs, chocolate pieces and vanilla. Beat with spoon about 2 minutes until well blended. Pour into pastry shell. Bake at 350° for 40-45 minutes until knife inserted in center comes out clean.

PARMESAN ZUCCHINI APPETIZERS

3 cups thinly sliced zucchini
1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
¾ cup wheat germ
4 eggs, slightly beaten
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup snipped parsley
¼ cup butter or margarine, melted
1 small clove garlic, minced
1 tsp. marjoram
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper

Combine all ingredients mixing well. Spread in greased 13x9x2-inch pan. Bake at 350° for 15-20 minutes until set. Cool about 5 minutes. Cut into small pieces. Serve warm. May be reheated at 350° for 5-8 minutes or in Microwave 1 minute.

FUDGE BALLS

2 squares (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
½ cup butter or margarine
¾ cup sugar
2 eggs
¾ cup all purpose flour
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup chopped nuts
2 tsp. vanilla

Melt chocolate and butter over low heat. Cool slightly. Beat in sugar and eggs, add flour, wheat germ, nuts and vanilla, mixing well. Refrigerate dough until firm enough to handle (about 30 minutes). Shape into 1-inch balls. Place on ungreased baking sheets. Bake at 350° for about 8 minutes. Cool on rack. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

WHEAT GERM MEAT BALLS

1 lb. ground beef
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup minced onion
¼ cup catsup
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 tsp. chili powder
½ tsp. ground cumin
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper

Mix ingredients well. Shape into 36 small balls, bake at 400° for 10-12 minutes.

PAT-IN-PAN PIZZA

1½ cups all purpose flour
½ cup wheat germ
1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. baking powder
¾ cup shortening
4-6 Tbsp. cold water
1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce
6-8 ozs. sliced Mozzarella cheese
1 Tbsp. wheat germ

Combine flour, ½ cup wheat germ, salt and baking powder. Blend well. Cut in shortening until mixture looks like coarse meal. Add water a little at a time, mixing lightly with fork to form a dough. Press dough evenly on bottom and sides of ungreased 14-inch pan. Prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake at 450° for 12-15 minutes until lightly browned. Remove from oven. Spread sauce on crust. Top with cheese and desired toppings. Sprinkle with 1 Tbsp. wheat germ. Bake 10 minutes longer while cheese melts.

OLD FASHIONED BREAD PUDDING

2 cups bread cubes
½ cup raisins
½ cup wheat germ
2 cups milk
¼ cup packed brown sugar
2 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla
½ tsp. cinnamon
¼ tsp. salt
1/8 tsp. nutmeg

Place bread cubes in buttered 1½ quart casserole. Sprinkle with raisins and wheat germ. Combine remaining ingredients and beat well. Pour slowly over bread cubes. Place casserole in pan with 1-inch hot water. Bake at 350° for 65-70 minutes until knife, inserted in center comes out clean. Serve warm with milk or cream.

OTHER IDEAS FOR USING WHEAT GERM

Add 1-2 Tbsp. to a serving of hot or cold cereals. For hot cereals, mix in while cooking.

Mix 1-2 Tbsp. into 1 cup applesauce.

For meat loaves, add ¼ cup wheat germ and about 2 Tbsp. additional liquid for each pound of meat.

Add wheat germ to crumb toppings for casseroles or desserts.

For breeding fish, poultry or meats use 1 part wheat germ and 1 part flour.

Add ¼ cup wheat germ to 1 cup yogurt.

Add ¼ cup wheat germ and ¼ cup additional liquid to pancake or waffle batter.

Add 2-3 Tbsp. wheat germ to pie crust for a single 9-inch crust.

WHEAT GERM BREAD

Elva Frantz

2 pkg. active dry yeast
½ cup warm water
1¾ cups milk, scalded and cooled to lukewarm
¼ cup soft butter
5-6 cups flour
1 cup (unsweetened) wheat germ
1 Tbsp. grated lemon rind
½ cup honey
1 Tbsp. salt

In a large warm bowl dissolve the yeast in the warm water. Add warm milk, honey, salt, butter and 2 cups of the unsifted flour. Beat with beater until smooth. Add 1 cup more flour. Beat with wooden spoon until thick and elastic. Stir in wheat germ and lemon rind. Then gradually work in remaining flour; use just enough to make a soft dough. Turn out onto floured board. Round up into a ball. Knead 5-10 minutes or until dough is smooth, elastic and no longer sticky. Cover with plastic wrap, then a tea towel. Let rest 20 minutes on board. Punch down. Divide into 2 portions. Roll each portion into rectangle. Tightly roll up into loaves. Seal edges well. Place in 2 greased loaf pans. Brush surface of dough with salad oil. Cover pans loosely with oiled waxed paper, then plastic wrap. Do not tuck ends under. Refrigerate 2 to 24 hours. When ready to bake, uncover and let stand at room temperature for 10 minutes while preheating oven. Puncture any surface bubbles with an oiled toothpick. Bake at 375 degrees for 40-45 minutes. Remove to wire racks to cool.

Consumers Share Many Misconceptions About Wheat Foods

Many Americans have misconceptions about foods and particularly about foods made from wheat, bread, cereals, and sweet goods, as shown by a recent study by the Wheat Industry Council.

One popular misconception is that wheat foods in general, and white bread in particular, are fattening. Not surprisingly, people see a number of wheat foods as much higher in calories than they actually are. And it was widely believed that some wheat-based foods such as spaghetti are not only high in calories, but also low in nutrients.

In fact, most wheat foods in themselves are relatively low in calories—it's what we put with them that can raise the calorie count and result in people perceiving some of these wheat foods as fattening.

Wheat foods are part of the family of foods known as complex carbohydrates. They are filling and nutritious, but not inherently fattening. Foods such as noodles and macaroni, being high in complex carbohydrates, contribute B vitamins, minerals and some protein to our diets. And pasta, like other complex carbohydrate foods, has almost no fat—its protein and starch provide only about half the number of calories per ounce as fat.

Almost three-quarters of the respondents felt that wheat bread was more nutritious than white bread. In fact, both are almost identical in calories and nutritional value. Like pasta, they are high in starch, low in fat, good sources of plant protein, iron and B vitamins, and contain some dietary fiber.

Over 3,000 Americans participated in the study, Food, Nutrition and Dieting. The Wheat Industry Council plans to use the information from the survey for nutrition education programs to correct some consumer misconceptions and let people know that the wheat-based foods they love are also good for them.

ELECTION DAY!

Election Day! What a day...and privilege. It is that sacred moment, standing alone in the voting booth, when you as an American exercise a most precious privilege. You are insuring that government by the people, of the people, and for the people, shall not pass from this land.

The responsibility is as awesome as the privilege is sacred. Because, as someone put it, "Bad people are often elected by good people who don't vote."

The Apostle Paul, Christian to the core, was extremely proud of his Roman citizenship. Said he, "I am a citizen of no mean city." Acts 21:39. Later he would use his Roman citizenship for protection. Acts 22:25.

When the Rev. Dr. Dwight L. Moody was charged for his involvement in politics he declared, "I am a citizen of two worlds. My home is heaven, but I vote in Cook County, Illinois."

And God, speaking through his preacher Jeremiah, reminded the people, "Seek you the welfare of the city where I have sent you...and pray to the Lord on its behalf, for in its welfare you will find your welfare." (Jeremiah 29:7)

Note this election day, November 3.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

NOBODY'S PERFECT

November 1, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 30:25

Through 31:15

If you go looking for human perfection in the Old Testament, you won't find it. In fact, many of the Hebrew "heroes" were not even close to being perfect. Moses was a murderer. Abraham was a blatant liar, passing off his wife

Sarah as his sister for fear of the Egyptians. David was an adulterer and arranged for the death of Uriah,

Bathsheba's husband.

And then there was Jacob—who shamelessly deceived his own father and cheated his brother,

Esau, out of both his birthright and his father's dying blessing. Nor was he the kind of man who, having unlearned, stayed to face the music. With the encouragement and help of his mother, Rachel, Jacob ran away from his family and home

rather than face the consequences.

RUS IN THE FAMILY

When at last Jacob arrived in Haran, it seems that he is ready to settle down. His mystical experience at Bethel seemed to have made a profound impression upon him. And so, Jacob the ruthless schemer seems to become Jacob the honest, hard worker.

But Jacob soon finds that his Uncle Laban is just as ruthless as he had been. In fact it would seem that deceit and subterfuge run in the family. Just as Jacob had cheated Esau, so Laban cheats

Jacob.

Laban and Jacob are "family," but that doesn't keep them from trying to put something over on each other. In other words, the same dynamics we find in many families today are present in the story of Jacob, even though the details may be quite different and considerably more subtle. There is jealousy, deceit, envy, greed, and exploitation.

NO CARDBOARD SAINTS

The people in the story of Jacob are clearly no cardboard saints.

Hector Elizondo explores the heart of his characters

By Frank Lovece

Hector Elizondo has quietly become one of the finest supporting actors in America. You might not have known it from the failed Fox series "Down and Out in Beverly Hills," in which he starred, but the proposition becomes evident in "Nataca Jackson," the first of PBS's "Great Performances: Tales from the Hollywood Hills," airing Friday, Nov. 6. (Check local listings.)

Hector Elizondo

In this adaptation of John O'Hara's short story of 1930s Hollywood, Elizondo plays Morris King, the agent of restless star Nataca Jackson (Michelle Pfeiffer). While agents are usually portrayed as hustlers, used-car salesmen gone big-time, Elizondo's Morris King is sharp but sincere. He plays the negotiating game seriously, he even hires a private eye to check up on his star's liaisons with a married man. Yet King isn't evil, but rather, a guy doing his job in a professional manner.

"I went for the character," says Elizondo. "You get a script, you elaborate, and the character is a father. If it's written like a cliché, I'll do it. What's it like to be this guy? With King, I didn't see an agent. I tried to find out what makes him human, what he does when his shoelaces snap."

Elizondo has been delving into his characters' lives for years, in theater (he won an Obie Award for "Steam Bath," performed off-Broadway) and in film ("The Flamingo Kid," "Nothing in Common"). It's a tribute to his talent that, while his background is Hispanic, nobody recognizes him as "a Latin actor."

"I'll be damned if they call me that," he says. "Nobody calls Sinatra an Italian singer. I'm an actor, period. I don't perform in the Spanish market at all, the roles offered to me in it haven't been good." He's proud of his heritage and speaks fluent Spanish, but as Elizondo demonstrates, he can also switch from a French accent to an Irish one. "I'll always be around," he says. "Some actors have one face, one character. Me, I have spaces in my teeth. I'm not pretty. Hopefully that means I strike a true chord, that somebody watching says, 'Yeah, I have a neighbor just like that.'"

She's a singer on the soap and off the air, as well

By Kimberly Redmond

I've become a real fan of Kassie Wesley, who portrays Chelsea Reardon on "Guiding Light." I'd like to know a little about her. — B.B., Chicago, Ill.

Kassie Wesley

Wesley made her daytime television debut on "GL" in September 1986. She began her career in the music business, and has sung back-up for singer Bobby Womack. Wesley, who is also a songwriter, has been able to perform some of her original compositions on "GL" because her character is a singer on the soap.

When I read about actor John Gibson's death in a plane crash, the article mentioned that he was Vanna White's boyfriend, and also said that he had appeared on "The Young and the Restless." Can you tell me what role he played? — V.S., Greenville, N.C.

Gibson portrayed male stripper Jerry "Cash" Cashman, who worked with Nikki Reed Newman (played by Melody Thomas Scott).

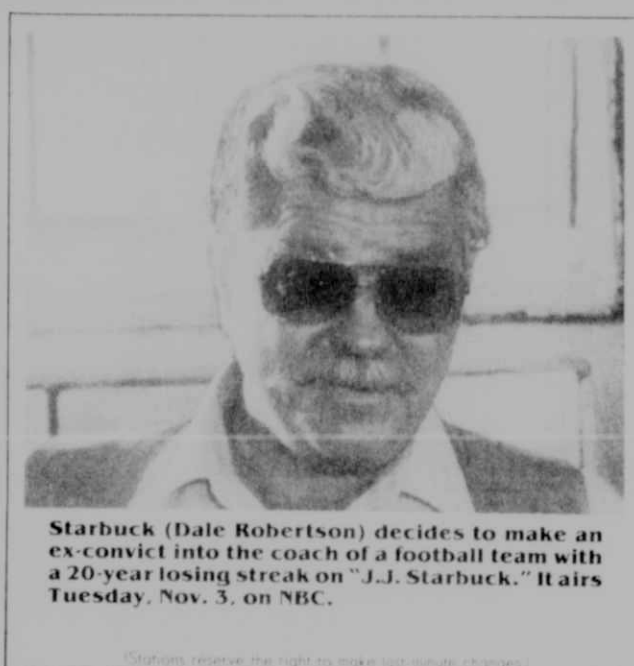

Peter Reckell

I'm so disappointed that Peter Reckell (Bo Brady) and Kristian Alfonso (Hope Brady) left "Days of Our Lives." Why did they leave and will they be back? — V.K., McMinnville, Tenn.

Both actors made the decision to leave "DOOL" in order to pursue other roles. Alfonso recently appeared in the season-premiere episode of "Who's the Boss?" Reckell will be appearing on the CBS prime-time soap "Knots Landing." It's highly unlikely that either actor will return to "DOOL," although you never know.

Starbuck (Dale Robertson) decides to make an ex-convict into the coach of a football team with a 20-year losing streak on "J.J. Starbuck." It airs Tuesday, Nov. 3, on NBC.

Henson's 'Muppet Show' attracted many celebrities

By Toni D'Amato

I'd like to know when "The Muppet Show" was made, how many episodes there were and who some of the guests were. — P.F., Comstock Park, Mich.

Jim Henson

One hundred and twenty episodes of "The Muppet Show" were produced between 1976 and 1981.

One of the big draws of "The Muppet Show" was the weekly guests. They included George Burns, Rudolf Nureyev, Elton John and the late Peter Sellers. The show was hosted by Kermit the Frog.

"The Muppet Show" was created by Jim Henson, who was also one of the puppeteers, along with Frank Oz, Richard Hunt, Dave Goetz, Jerry Nelson and others.

I'd like to know which came first, "Car 54, Where Are You?" or "The Munsters," and when both shows aired. — C.B., Grand Rapids, Mich.

"Car 54" bowed first, airing from September 1961 to September 1963. That series starred Fred Gwynne as Officer Francis Muldoon and Joe E. Ross as Officer Gunther Toody. "The Munsters," another starring vehicle for Gwynne, aired from 1964 to 1966.

Please tell me the name of the singer who is trying to imitate Wayne Newton on the McDonald's "Mac Tonight" commercial. — R.M., South Dayton, N.Y.

So many of you have asked this question (although some of you say he sounds like Bobby Darin) that I asked McDonald's to identify the singer in the company's new "Mac Tonight" commercial. The company won't divulge his name, and will only say that he is not a famous person. They want to keep him anonymous because they'd like the voice to be associated only with "Mac Tonight."

Was the role of Festus on "Gunsmoke" ever played by Dennis Weaver? — J.M., Wyoming, Mich.

No. Ken Curtis portrayed Festus Haggren. Dennis Weaver played Chester Goode.

(Do you have a question about a celebrity? Write Toni D'Amato at 200 Park Ave., Room 602, New York, NY 10166. Questions cannot be answered personally, but those of general interest will be answered in future columns.)

CINDY SAYS

Glenn Ford will talk about Rita Hayworth in his book

By Cindy Adams

Glenn Ford tells me his autobiography will be slugged "Glenn Ford: A Class Act." This class act had the grace to say, "Sounds... pompous, right?" My writer, Valerie Allen, whom I've known 20 years, picked the title. The book has had 30 drafts so far and is 600 pages and must be cut down. It won't be out until March '88. Our editor is Michael Korda.

Pause. Famous Ford grin. "She was a very special person." Agreed. So did they have an affair? "Affair is a cheap word. I object to it. It implies something fleeting." True. So, was Rita the love of his life? "Read the book."

Rita Hayworth

Tyne Daly's brother Tim has the lead in the romantic comedy "Love or Money," co-starring Kevin McCarthy and Shelley Fabares. Daly No. 2 plays a real-estate operator who wants it all. Producers Salah Hassanein and his wife Elyse England shot it in a yacht club in Glen Cove, N.Y., and assorted locales in the expensive Hamptons and costly NYC.

Lou Gossett and actress Cyndi James-Reese sealed it with an emerald-and-diamond ring. The wedding's in Israel, where Gossett will be shooting a movie. "Getting married in the Holy Land shows we really mean it," said Gossett.

PBS

In the PBS series "The First Eden," David Attenborough travels through the land surrounding the Mediterranean Sea; the area is the longest continuously inhabited place on earth. Part one airs Monday, Nov. 2. (Check local listings.)

CABLE LOG

A&amp;E Network takes a look at the history of fashion

By Connie Passalacqua

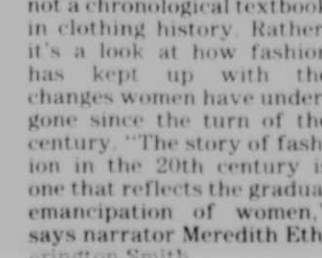

Except for Elsa Klensch's weekly "Style" program on CNN, coverage of the fashion world is practically nonexistent on television. So Arts & Entertainment's six-part, weekly half-hour series "The Story of Fashion" (originally produced for television in England), debuting Tuesday, Nov. 3, is a real treat for fashion mavens.

The series seems to approach subjects randomly, but does take some time to concentrate on the '20s, '30s, '50s and '60s as individual decades. The footage of London during the height of its Carnaby Street rage in the '60s looks positively antique.

The show also focuses on glamorous movie queens of the '20s and '30s, with a look at how "Dynasty" designer Nolan Miller translated the fashions into his famed "Dynasty" costumes.

Perhaps "The Story of Fashion" is most consistent sequence is its visits with designers, to whom many of us exist solely as names on labels. Yes, there is an actual Karl Lagerfeld, a genuine Ralph Lauren! And yes, they acknowledge that they make lots of money by selling their names to licensees.

In this week's episode, "Remembrance of Things Past," the series looks at how women's bodies have changed since the turn of the century. At one time women's bodies were kept in check by tight corsets. Today, women keep their figures in check with exercise. "Exercise turns ladies into perfect clothes hangers for the fashions of today," cannily notes the narrator.

Nolan Miller

Thankfully, this series is not a chronological textbook in clothing history. Rather, it's a look at how fashion has kept up with the changes women have undergone since the turn of the century. "The story of fashion in the 20th century is one that reflects the gradual emancipation of women," says narrator Meredith Etherington-Smith.

The first episode of the series hopscoches in time to show how trends originate.

Frostburg Chamber Orchestra Concert Slated For Nov. 15

The Frostburg Chamber Orchestra, composed entirely of stringed instruments, will present a concert on Sunday, November 15, at 3 p.m. in Frostburg State University's Pullen Auditorium.

Dr. Ellen Grolman, conductor of the ensemble, reports that the program will feature works for strings by Grieg, MacDowell, Mussorgsky, Johann Strauss, and Von Kreisler.

The Norwegian romantic composer Grieg is represented by his Suite for Strings in Olden Style, a series of dances of contrasting characters, written in the compositional style of the 18th century.

The ensemble will also perform In The Days of Chivalry and A Swan; two orchestral sketches by the American composer, Edward MacDowell.

Alexander Von Kreisler was a 20th century composer associated with both the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and the University of Texas, Austin. Much of the composer's works were written for string instruments in various combinations. His Passacaglia will be featured on the program.

From the Russian Mussorgsky's opera, The Fair at Sorochinsk, the Ensemble will extract the Hopak — a rambunctious, lively, peasant dance.

Johann Strauss, the Waltz King, composed Pizzicato Polka with his younger brother Josef. Pizzicato means that the strings of the instrument are plucked rather than bowed.

There is no admission charge. Sharon Davis is faculty accompanist and instructor of music education methods at Frostburg State University. Much in demand as accompanist in the area, Ms. Davis is also a doctoral student at West Virginia University.

Dr. Grolman held a faculty appointment at the Eilat Conservatory of Music in Eilat, Israel, and concertized extensively during her tenure in the Mideast. Since 1983 she has directed the Frostburg State University-Community Orchestra and taught strings on the faculty. Active in state-wide stringed instrument adjudications, Dr. Grolman also guest-conducts area orchestra festivals.

Rex Conner was the principal violinist with the quartet-in-residence to the Queensland Conservatory in Brisbane, Australia, and was subsequently concertmaster of the Sioux City Symphony and the Cincinnati Ballet Company. Conner is presently on the faculty of West Virginia University and an adjunct faculty of Frostburg State University.

Mozart Opera To Be Presented At Potomac State

Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte," a comic opera in English, will be presented by the Lilliput Orchestra on Thursday, November 12, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Church-McKee Arts Center on the Campus of Potomac State College, Keyser, W.Va. This performance is being sponsored by Highland Arts Unlimited.

The fully-staged opera stars Judith Cavendish, Selma Cosby Midkiff, Deborah Lucas, Roger Lucas, Jonathan Cavendish and Leo Imperi. Donald Riggie is artistic director and conductor of the Lilliput Orchestra. David Pennebaker of Chattanooga is the stage director. Designing and executing the set is Thomas Struthers of the Pittsburgh Opera. Lighting designer and technical director is Robert Gates. A 16-voice opera chorus has been selected from the Messiah Chorus of the Charleston Conservatory of Music and Fine Arts of the University of Charleston.

Tickets for the performance are on sale in Keyser at the Farmers and Merchants Bank, the National Bank, and the Rainbow Christian Center. In Cumberland, tickets may be purchased at Ott's Music Center. Advance tickets are priced at $5 for adults and $3 for children. Tickets will be $1 more at the door, and doors will open at 7:15 p.m. the night of the performance. For ticket information, persons may telephone 788-2494 or 788-1235. Members of Highland Arts Unlimited and Potomac State College students, with proper I.D.'s, will be admitted free of charge.

"Così Fan Tutte" is presented with financial assistance from the Arts and Humanities Division of the West Virginia Department of Culture and History and Potomac State College.

Homecoming Set At Union Church

Tom Crogan, pastor of Markleysburg, Pa., Union Church, invites the public to attend the annual Homecoming at Markleysburg Union Church this Sunday, November 1.

Sunday School is at 9 a.m. and the worship service will start at 10:25 a.m. Rev. Jack Gray, Cameron, W. Va., a former local pastor, will bring the message and Rick Workman from Markleysburg will provide special music. At 12:15 p.m. there will be a cafeteria-style dinner and at 2 p.m. "Spirit Sound," from Messiah College, Grantham, Pa., will present a concert.

Multi-Media Program Set At Springs Church

The Springs Mennonite Church, Springs, Pa., will be presenting a multi-media presentation, "Steps Toward Shalom" on Sunday, November 1, at 7 p.m. This presentation, which uses four projectors, shares what the Mennonite Central Committee and the Mennonite Board of Missions are doing in Bolivia that leads toward Shalom. Shalom (a Hebrew term) is translated to mean right relationships "in all aspects of life."

This program will be presented by Bruce Glick who produced it. He and his wife, Helen, served for a number of years as MCC Country Representatives in Bolivia. Before working with MCC, Glick produced multi-media presentations professionally. Currently he serves as pastor of the Millersburg Mennonite Church, Millersburg, Ohio.

This presentation is sponsored by the Mennonite Central Committee, the Allegheny Conference and local Casselman Valley Area Mennonite Churches.

Various Musical Events Set At Frostburg State

Pastor Cramer has three sons who are in the ministry, including Rev. Jonathan E. Cramer, pastor of the Oakland Church of the Nazarene.

All are invited to attend these special services. The church is located at 207 South 8th Street.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

Army Private James D. Bartholomew, son of Geraldine R. Bartholomew, Oakland, has received the parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, students underwent a rigorous physical training program and received instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week they received practical training by jumping from 34-ft. and 250-ft. towers. The final week they made five static-line parachute jumps including one night jump.

Bartholomew is a 1986 graduate of Southern High School.

YOU'RE WELL-EQUIPPED TO DETECT A GAS LEAK.

Fortunately, natural gas leaks are rare. But if one should occur, you have everything it takes to spot the telltale signs — the ability to see, hear and smell.

INSIDE

The most obvious sign is the smell. Natural gas by itself usually is odorless, so gas companies add a distinctive odor to gas.

If you smell this telltale odor in your home, don't use matches, electrical switches or appliances. Leave the house immediately, then call the gas company from a neighbor's home or pay telephone. Remain near your home until a gas company representative arrives and checks the cause of the odor.

OUTSIDE

You may detect a natural gas leak anywhere gas lines or facilities are located. Sometimes, the sign may be the odor. But in rural areas, natural gas pipelines may contain non-odorized gas. A leak of non-scented gas means little or no odor will be present. So count on your other senses as well.

Look or listen for these signs. Anywhere a gas line is located, a leak may cause:

- a blowing or hissing sound
- dirt being blown into the air
- water bubbling or being blown into the air at a pond, creek or river
- brown patches in vegetation on or near a gas line right-of-way
- fire coming from the ground or burning above it

If you detect any sign of a leak, follow these steps quickly: 1) shut down any motorized equipment or other sources of ignition in use; 2) leave the area at once, and warn others to stay away; and 3) find a telephone away from the area to call the gas company, and the fire and police departments. DO NOT try to extinguish a gas fire or operate any pipeline valves.

Chances are you'll never need to recognize a natural gas leak. But just in case, we think it's important for you to be able to detect signs of trouble. Together, we'll keep natural gas service safe and efficient.

Local Students Received Into Honor Society

The Society of Distinguished American High School Students has announced that 14 students from St. Paul's United Methodist Church have been selected as members in its honor society for 1987.

The students' sponsor, Dr. Allen C. Ridenour, was presented with The Society's National Appreciation Award for "devotion to the development and encouragement of student leaders."

Membership in the 19-year-old Society is designed to be a national honor and incentive for top performance among high school students. To be accepted, candidates must excel in academics, extracurricular or civic activities.

Local students accepted as 1987 members include: Douglas Evans, Scott Damon, Mary Beth Johnson, Stanley Lambert, Tracy Umstot, Christopher Crittenden, Melanie Barr, Michelle Proudfoot, Brian Ridenour, Bonnie Ruston, Mike Slagle, Shannon Eskridge, Christ Lambert and Kendra Tressler.

As members, these students will have the opportunity to compete for college scholarships through The Society's National Awards Program. This year, 141 colleges have earmarked more than $700,000 in scholarship funds for Society members.

Additionally, The Society sponsors members-only cash awards of up to $2,000 per recipient for higher education purposes, and its college referral programs recommend members for admission and grants-in-aid to 350 major colleges and universities.

To preserve the honor for students, members' names and their high school accomplishments will be listed in The Society's 1987 Membership Registry, which is published and distributed nationally.

Menu Planning Workshop Slated

"Feed the People," the subject of the workshop in the "Take a Forward Step" series sponsored by the New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College, will be held Wednesday, November 4, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College, 104 East Center Street, in Room 603.

This workshop will cover menu planning for the working person or student. Michelle Mealie, dietician at Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home and Dennett Road Nursing Home, will lead this free workshop which is open to the public.

Pre-registration is recommended by calling the New Horizons Program at 334-9184 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

New Beautician At Hair n' Pheralia

Hair n' Pheralia, Oakland, announced this week that Rhonda Sisler, Mtn. Lake Park, has been added to its staff of beauticians at its shop in Oakland.

Ms. Sisler, a graduate of Southern High School, was graduated from the International Beauty School, Cumberland, in September of this year.

Local Children To Participate In Benefit March

More than 5,000 preschool age children statewide will be participating in a "Tots Tackling CF" Mini March program. Locally, children at Rainbow Cottage Day Care, Loch Lynn, will be marching against CF.

Cystic Fibrosis is a chronic lung and digestive disease. Although it remains the number one genetic killer of children and young adults, researchers are on the threshold of a cure or control because of recent breakthroughs.

Every child who participates in the Mini March program will receive an "I Did It For CF" certificate and there are special prizes, such as T-shirts and quality toys that can be earned, with the support of family members and friends. In addition, the participating centers have an opportunity to earn prizes.

For more information about the Mini March or Cystic Fibrosis, persons may call Jane Pritts at 334-1665 or Joan Rettaliata at (301) 771-9000 (CFP).

Southern Garrett Band Among Favored For Region Championship

In what was expected to be a rebuilding year for the Southern Garrett Band of Southern High School, the band will conclude one of its most successful seasons of competition ever at the Pennsylvania Federation of Contest Judges Championships, November 7, at the Latrobe Memorial Stadium, Latrobe, Pa. Southern Garrett will enter the season finale as one of two bands favored to win the overall championship for Class A bands.

Under the direction of Richard Clever, the band began its fall season of field competition at the McGuffey, Pa., Invitational, hosted by McGuffey High School, by winning first place in Class A and taking Best Overall Auxiliary, High Music, Best General Effect, and High Marching and Maneuvering.

Later that same day, Southern Garrett won first place in Class A at the McKeesport, Pa., competition, as well as High General Effect, Best Auxiliary, and High Marching.

The following weekend the local band competed in the Baldwin, Pa., High School show and again won first place in Class A, plus High Auxiliary, High Music, and High General Effect. In the evening show at Kiski High School, in the closest competition to date, Southern won second place in Class A, finishing just one-half of one point behind Knock High School. Southern also took Best Auxiliary and Best Visual Effect.

In the Western Maryland

Tournament of Bands during the Autumn Glory Festival, Southern finished first in Class A and second overall, according to the judges' sheets, but was marching in exhibition only since it was the host band.

The following week at the first Northern High Band Spectacular, Southern captured first place in Class II, Best Music, Best Marching, Best Rifles, Best Silks, and Best Percussion.

The band has also participated in a number of parades this fall, including the Friendsville Parade, the Garrett County Fair Parade, the Kenneywood, Pa., Parade, the Cumberland Bicentennial Parade, the Buckwheat Festival Firemen's Parade, and the Autumn Glory Festival Firemen's and Grand Feature Parades.

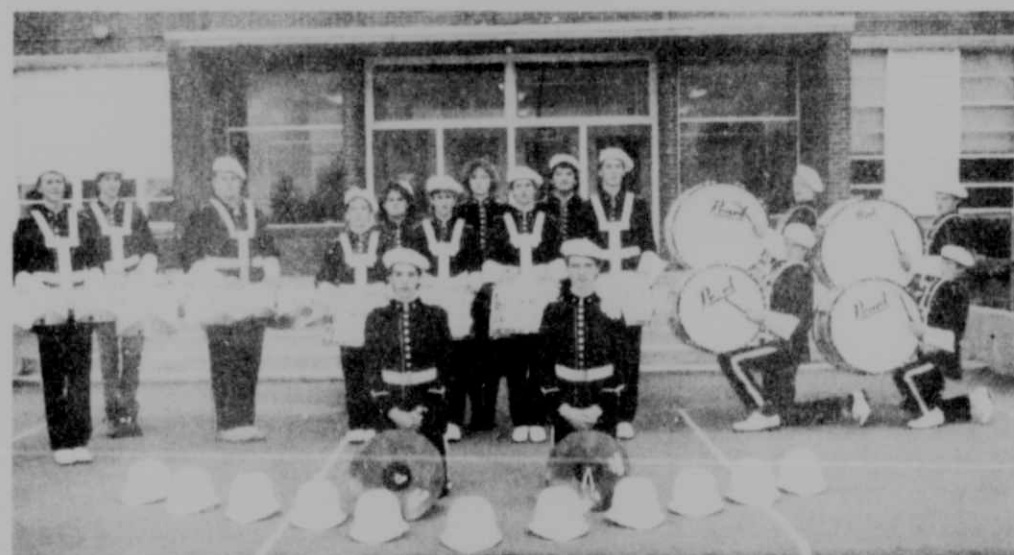

Southern Garrett won third place in the AAA Division at the Buckwheat Festival Firemen's Parade and finished first in the Under 70 Class with a point total of 87 in the Grand Feature Parade of Autumn Glory. They were not awarded a trophy for that effort, however, because they were considered as the host band and thus marched in exhibition.

Clever is assisted in the direction of the band by Marjorie Clever; Scott Rolf and Bryan Custer, drill instructors; Teresa Weeks, color guard instructor, and Jodi Wilt, assistant; Blair Glass, drum instructor; and Mark Weeks, music and technical assistant.

The band is led on the field by Laura Savage, assisted by

THE PAW PAW TUNNEL, an engineering wonder that was built early this century as part of the C&O Canal, was one of several interesting spots visited recently by students of the Independent Baptist School near Accident. The tunnel, which is nearly a mile long, is built through almost solid rock and, ironically, was used only for a short period of time before the canal was made obsolete by the railroad.

Students Travel To C&O Canal, Paw Paw Tunnel

The children of the Independent Baptist School, Flatwoods, two miles south of Accident along Route 219, recently took an all-day field trip to points on the C&O Canal.

The first stop was made at the Western Maryland Railroad Station in Cumberland. The station is being renovated for a museum and canal visitors center. Miss Rita Knox, park ranger at the center, spoke to the group about the progress of the renovation and the history of the building. She also called attention to the Federal Constitutional exhibit on display in the concourse in the station. Following the comments in the concourse, the group was taken to the canal room where many artifacts and pictures relating to the canal are on display. In this room Miss Knox spoke at length about the display and the relationship to the canal.

Proceeding from the station stop, the group arrived at the North Branch C&O Canal Park, five miles south of Cumberland along Maryland Route 51. A

C&O canal boat replica is located here. The children and sponsors were guided through the boat in small groups. They also saw Lock 75, one of three locks fashioned from hand-carved stones and located adjacent to the boat.

The last point of interest was the Paw Paw Tunnel. The tour group ate lunch on the picnic tables before the trek was made to the tunnel. Using flashlights, the children entered the tunnel and trudged along the tow path.

Teen Center Stages Halloween Dance

The Garrett County Teen Center is sponsoring a "Masquerade Madness" Halloween dance this Saturday, October 31, at the Oakland Fire Hall from 8 p.m. until midnight.

Admission is $3 per person. Disc jockey, Scott Werdebaugh, will be playing current hits. Those attending are encouraged to wear a costume, but casual dress will be acceptable, according to Dave Terlizzi, coordinator.

No drugs, alcohol nor readmittance are permitted at the Teen Center.

MSTA Promotes AIDS Education In The Classroom

The 35,000-member Maryland State Teachers Association is actively promoting AIDS education in the classroom, says Beverly L. Corelle, MSTA president.

In addition to informing members about the disease, MSTA has testified before state legislators looking at the issue of how to educate children about AIDS. MSTA supports the regulations requiring AIDS education in elementary schools.

"It is essential that we provide an educational program — appropriate to the child's age — about this disease," notes Corelle. "Our students' lives are at stake, and we as teachers must provide them with information so that they will choose health-enhancing, rather than life-threatening, behavior."

To assist teachers with educating their students, MSTA, through its national affiliate, has distributed a special guide to all of its 35,000 members.

The 16-page guide presents the facts about AIDS so that teachers can help students and their communities understand the behaviors that increase the risk of disease and threaten lives. The booklet offers current information about the risk of infection from the AIDS virus, how infection can best be prevented, the diagnosis and treatment of AIDS, and the nature of the AIDS virus.

MSTA's local affiliate in Anne Arundel County is piloting an AIDS-prevention program. "We believe that teachers can play a crucial role in developing activities that will help students learn and appreciate healthy, productive lifestyles," says Susie Jablonske, president of the Teachers Association of Anne Arundel County. "We'll start by providing our members with information on what must happen to prevent the spread of AIDS. We know this is only a beginning, but it's an important beginning."

Frank Peters To Speak On U.S. Constitution

To celebrate the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution, the League of Women Voters and the Friends of the Ruth Enlow Library will offer a program by Frank Peters, titled "A Look At The Constitution." The program will be held at 8 p.m. on November 12 in the meeting room of the main library on Second Street in Oakland.

Peters received his education in civil engineering at the Virginia Polytechnic Institute and in law at the University of Virginia. While a student, he was editor in chief of the Virginia Law Review. Later, he was an instructor in the law school and a legal secretary to a United States circuit judge. He participated in a number of court martial overseas as defense counsel in World War II.

Peters is a current member of the Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and American Bar Associations. He worked for United States Steel for a number of years before moving to Oakland in 1957 to engage in construction work and the wholesale oil business.

Peters, who resides on Center Street, has maintained his interest in the history and the development of the Constitutional form of government, and will speak on the subject for those who are "curious about the Constitution."

NO APOLOGIES, PLEASE!

So, you're getting ready to sell your home by yourself, are you? You've already put up a sign in the yard and your newspaper ad starts tomorrow. Right?

But have you taken all the steps (even the smallest of details) necessary to insure a sale? Let's see if you have.

Pretend that your first prospects are going through your house right now. You're following them when, unexpectedly, they open the hall storage closet. Although nothing falls off the top shelf, neither is there room for anything else to fit in the closet.

What do you say? "Please excuse this closet. I haven't had time to clean it out yet." Those immortal words have been spoken so often, they are totally predictable... and UNNECESSARY!

Wouldn't it be better to say the words "I know you'll be pleased with this home", as opposed to "I'm sorry - my apologies - please excuse the mess." Of course, Apologies like that should not be necessary.

Unfortunately, there are a myriad of other such pitfalls waiting in the wings to thwart your "For Sale by Owner" activities. One of the many valuable services offered by an active, successful real estate agent is to show you ways to encourage a sale through proper preparation of your home BEFORE the For Sale sign ever goes up.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303, or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

LOCAL SENIORS MAKE DONATIONS — Residents of the Meadow Woods East senior citizens housing development, Mtn. Lake Park, made financial donations this past week to two local emergency service organizations. The residents raised just under $400 at their own yard sale, of which they gave half to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department and half to the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Receiving the check for the fire

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News
Reformation Day services were held at Emmanuel Church on Sunday, with a joint Parish service. There were anthems by the adult choir and the children's choir. The young people of the first communion class were asked to sit in the front pews, and they were the first to receive communion.
There will be an open house slide presentation on Linda Buckel's European trip on Sunday, November 1, at the Bittering Fire Hall from 1-9 p.m.
Catechism class will meet on Saturday, October 31, at 10 a.m. at Emmanuel.
All children of the parish are invited to participate in Trick or Treat for UNICEF on Friday, October 30, from 4-6 p.m. A party will follow for the Youth group. The children are to meet at Emmanuel at 4 p.m.
Lectors for Sunday's joint service were Nickey O'Brien and Nellie Yommer. Ronnie Knox served as acolyte.
World Community Day
World Community Day services will be held at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Friday, November 6. Registration will begin at 12:30 p.m. and the worship service, "Sojourners for Justice" will begin at 1 p.m. Everyone is invited to attend. This celebration is one of the three held each year and is sponsored by Church Women United of Garrett County.

Benefit Dinner
The fifth annual Braille dinner will be held on Saturday, November 7, from 4:30-7 p.m. at the Northern Middle School cafeteria. Adult tickets are $5.00 and children under 12, $2.50. Many crafts, baked goods and homemade candy will be on sale during the course of the evening. The proceeds will be matched by AAL Branch 5821, the sponsor of the event. The money will be sent to National Braille Workers, Inc., to help purchase materials to produce Braille literature.

Marriage at St. John's
Kendra O'Brien and Jeffrey Groves were married Saturday evening at St. John's Lutheran Church. Pastor Louise Knotts was the minister. Martha Glatfelter furnished wedding music and Mrs. George O'Brien sang the "Lord's Prayer." One hundred guests attended the wedding and a reception followed in the church social room.

Sunday visitors of Ida Reckner were Lillian Reckner and Michelle, Mr. and Mrs. James Glatfelter, Mr. and Mrs. Dwayne Platter and Pastor Louise Knotts. Last week's callers of Mrs. Reckner were Mr. and Mrs. William H. Oester of Salisbury, Pa.

Ten people were present for the first session of the Labach Literacy Tutor training class at Garrett Community College on Saturday, October 24. The second session will be held at the College on October 31 from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Anyone is welcome to attend these sessions which will enable them to become tutors to teach those who desire to learn to read and write. Classes are free and are being taught by Betty Seligmann and Joyce Rautzham from the Frederick Literacy Council. For more information and to register, persons may call the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, 334-3996.

Visitors during the week of Miriam and Amelia Brennehan were Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Headings, West Liberty, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hurst and family, Maugansville; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Curtis and daughters, Purcellville, Va.; Debbie Monroe, Round Hill, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Roger Beitzel and two grandchildren; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Beitzel, Lyman Schrock and Mr. and Mrs. Gorman Beitzel.
Mrs. Ruth DiPaolo and Mrs. Virginia Hesson visited various points in the southwest last week. Some of the places visited were Berea, Ky., Gallinburg and Pigeon Forge, Tenn., where they visited "Dollywood." They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Donald Buckel, Madison, Va., and were overnight guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Sacra, Fredericksburg, Va.

Dale Glatfelter, Rodney Glatfelter, Joan Sussman and Dwight Emory attended the 4-H Maryland All-Star Installation Ceremonies at College Park on Saturday. Joan Sussman and Dwight Emory from Bittering were inducted as new All-Star members.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sussman and Claire were overnight guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Sussman, at Rockville.

Laurie and Tom Bulka, Winchester, Va., were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Bass.

GRANTSVILLE

Chronically Ill, Elderly Should Be Vaccinated

With the flu season approaching, the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene has issued an advisory emphasizing the need for chronically ill children, adults and the elderly to be immunized against influenza.

Feng-Ying C. Lin, chief of the Center for Clinical Epidemiology, said this year's flu vaccine provides protection against Type-A Taiwan, Type-A Leningrad and Type-B Ann Arbor influenza virus infections which are thought to be the ones most likely to occur in the 1987-88 flu season.

"Influenza is an acute viral illness of the respiratory tract, characterized by fever, sore throat, headache, cough and muscle ache. Without complications, recovery usually takes two to seven days," Dr. Lin said. "The Type-A flu generally can spread faster in the population than Type-B influenza," Dr. Lin said.

The following groups are at highest risk of serious illness from the flu and are recommended to receive the vaccine.

*Adults and children with long-term heart or lung problems or other chronic medical problems that were severe enough to require regular medical care or admission to a hospital during the past year.

*Family members or others who provide care to high-risk persons at home.

*Residents of Nursing Homes or other facilities housing patients of any age who have serious long term health problems.

*Doctors, nurses and other medical personnel who have extensive contact with people who have long term health problems.

*Healthy people over 65 years-old.

*Dr. Lin advises high risk persons to get the vaccine as soon as possible because adequate protection takes 10 to 14 days after immunization.

Bike-A-Thon In Friendsville Nets Nearly $1,200

A grand total of $1,162.86 has been realized by a bike-a-thon held September 26 in Friendsville to benefit St. Jude's Children's Research Hospital. Twenty-eight riders participated in the event, according to Cheri Humberson, coordinator.

Jason Clevenger, 9, was the top money-earner in the ride and was awarded a $50 U.S. Savings Bond by First United National Bank & Trust for his effort. Jason Coddington rode the most miles and received a clock-radio donated by Kurtz TV. Journey Myers, age 4, was the youngest participant and received a set of stuffed bunnies donated by Friendsville Pharmacy.

Other winners in their age groups were: Orville Fike, Julie Parsons, Jason Mills, and B.J. Lloyd. Each received a gift.

St. Jude's Hospital will be sending T-shirts and tote bags to all riders who qualify, Ms. Humberson said.

"I would like to thank all of the children who rode this year," she said. "Each one who participated should feel good about helping to make a difference in the lives of the children who are receiving care at St. Jude's."

Ms. Humberson also noted her appreciation to the volunteers who assisted with the effort, including: Winnie Parsons, Judy Livingston, Twila Fike, LuAnn Sines, Pearl Bittner, Cathy Coddington, Sheryl Sines, Sue Lytle, Terry Spear, Dick Tressler, Spencer Schlosnagle, and Mrs. Ed Myers, as well as the following individuals, organizations, and businesses which made donations: Friendsville United Methodist Church, Friendsville Liquor Store, Twila Fike, Friendsville Elementary School, Yough Motors, Plaza Deli, Pepsi-Cola, Bob Beachy, First United National Bank & Trust, Kurtz TV, Friendsville Pharmacy, S&S Market, Tabor's, Friendsville Gift Shop, and Humberson's Store.

"I also thank the many in the community who made pledges and donations," Ms. Humberson said. "By doing this you have shown your support for this activity and backed our youth. Much has been accomplished."

The Epilepsy Association of Maryland (EAM), which serves people with epilepsy and their families in Maryland, is launching a search campaign to coincide with National Epilepsy Awareness Month in November.

An estimated 40,000 Marylanders have some form of epilepsy, a central nervous system disorder characterized by abnormal electrical discharges in the brain. These discharges result in seizures, ranging from momentary lapses of attention to convulsions.

Of the population estimated to have epilepsy, EAM believes a significant number who could benefit from its services have not utilized the agency. "In many cases, people with epilepsy think they are the only ones facing frustration, problems on the job and problems with the family. We want them to know they are not alone — They need information, counseling, referrals, fellowship and support from people who know and understand."

FINE HEARING AIDS NEED NOT BE SO EXPENSIVE

Of course not! Mark-ups of up to 500% and more are common and not justified in a service business. Many spend hundreds more than is necessary. Before buying any aid from anyone, shop around. You may save up to 50%, or more for the same make and model aid. Call us and we'll be happy to give you full pricing information on any aid.

PUT NO. 1 TO WORK FOR YOU! WE HAVE THE HOMETOWN ADVANTAGE

said Sylvia Blair, director of Public Affairs.

In the next few weeks, flyers and brochures will be sent to area hospitals and health clinics where people with epilepsy receive medical care, and to other human services agencies. Radio and television announcements will be aired. A neurologist on the board of directors has initiated a letter-writing campaign to colleagues for referrals of patients to EAM.

"If you or someone you know has epilepsy, call the Epilepsy Western Maryland Office at Association of Maryland — (301) 733-7579," Ms. Blair said.

Rt. 36 FROSTBURG, MARYLAND

"THE VOICE OF MARYLAND AGRICULTURE," Bill Clem, congratulated the Garrett County Farm Bureau on its 50th anniversary (49th with the state association) on Friday night at the Grantsville Fire Hall. Clem said that coming back to Garrett County was like a homecoming for him, as Garrett was one of the 10 counties he had served as field man early in his Farm Bureau career. He said that sitting in that room were "Garrett County's finest — farm people. Hopeless, crazy, optimistic — that's what farm people are," he said. Seated next to the podium is Clem's wife, Pat.

Garrett Farm Bureau Celebrates 50th Anniversary; Holds Election

The 50th anniversary of the Garrett County Farm Bureau was celebrated during the annual banquet Friday night at the Grantsville Fire Hall with approximately 250 members and guests in attendance.

After the turkey dinner, Ethel Schlossnagle led in group singing of "God Bless America" and "How Great Thou Art."

Traveling from Washington, D.C., to bring greetings on behalf of the American Farm Bureau Federation was F. Rankin Lusby. Lusby told the group that he hoped as Garrett Farm Bureau celebrated their 50th anniversary, they set their goals high and dedicate themselves toward achieving those goals. "The future is ours, but it won't be unless we work for it," he said.

Guest speaker Bill Clem, manager of the Maryland Safe-mark Farm Supply Group-Purchasing Program, said that coming back to Garrett County was like a homecoming for him, as Garrett was one of the 10 counties he served as field man when he began his Farm Bureau career in 1964.

"Seated here in this room," he said, "are Garrett County's finest — farm people. Hopeless, crazy, optimistic, that's what farm people are," he said. Clem told the members that he also brought greetings from Maryland Farm Bureau President Bob Wilson.

Clem related that Farm Bureau was organized in the county in 1937 by a group of dedicated farmers. He then introduced Wayne Hamilton, Charlie Miller and Bill Wildesen, charter members of Garrett Farm Bureau.

Speaking for himself and the other two surviving charter members, Hamilton reminisced about the organization and the early years of Farm Bureau. In 1937 Wilber Smith, a Farm Bureau field man, came to the county to help farmers organize, according to Hamilton. Helping Smith was Otis Riley, who Hamilton said fostered and continued membership drives all his years. Also mentioned as being instrumental in the county organization's formation was Bill Winterburg, first president of the group, and John Carter, Garrett County Extension agent at that time.

"There was a commonness in what they wanted to achieve," he said. Hamilton cited some of the county's agriculture achievements over the years as the gasoline tax refund for farmers, repeal of the farm personal property tax, the creation of Garrett Community College, and the initiation of the ag land preservation act. It was the "strength of Farm Bureau" that help get these things accomplished, he said.

Hamilton said that his own interest in Farm Bureau was generated in his high school vocation class, and that three generations of his family are active in Farm Bureau at this time.

Looking into the future, Hamilton said the county may see a woman Farm Bureau president in the near future. He also mentioned county-wide zoning as an upcoming issue of concern to Farm Bureau members.

Stepping back to the podium, Bill Clem took a crescent wrench from his briefcase and said that Farm Bureau is nothing more than a tool. "It's yours," he said, "by paying dues you rent that tool. The Farm Bureau tool is not perfect, but it's strong." He told the group that like the wrench, Farm Bureau members can adjust their Farm Bureau tool. One adjustment Farm Bureau members would like is freedom from government control. "Farmers could manage their business and manage their money if the government would let them alone," Clem said. "It's one of the things Farm Bureau has been working on through the years."

Garrett County Farm Queen Lori Dodge was introduced and thanked Farm Bureau for the opportunities she has been given to promote agriculture. She said that one of the joys of being a farmer is that "there is always something to do, always something to love, and always something to hope for."

Donna Knox, secretary of the Garrett County Young Farmers, gave a report on the activities that group has, and will be, involved in.

To continue the historical side of the evening's program, Jean Wright, Women's Committee co-chairman, read a list of Women's Committee chairmen and secretaries who have served over the years. In 1938, Mrs. Chris Beachy was elected as president of the Home and Community Committee, the forerunner of the Women's Committee. She was followed in 1944 by Miss Beulah Engle, in 1946 by Martha Giotfely, in 1948 by Ethel Schlossnagle, in 1952 by Miss Beulah Engle again, in 1954 by Ema Giotfely, in 1962 by Opel Crowe, in 1964 by Hildegarde Aiken, in 1968 by Ethel Schlossnagle again, in 1972 by Joyce Bishoff, in 1974 by Betty Guard, in 1978 by Fern Beachy, in 1982 by Shirley Sines, in 1984 by Donna Giotfely, and in 1986 by co-chairmen Kate Fratz and Jean Wright.

Mrs. Guy Stanton served as secretary for 26 years after the organization was formed. In 1970 Claudia Hamilton served in that office, followed by Fannie Mae Kolb in 1972, Fern Beachy in 1976, Mrs. Nevin Umbel in 1978, Doris Wildesen in 1984, Carman Carey in 1985, and the

GARRETT COUNTY FARM BUREAU 1987 RESOLUTIONS

Editor's note: Farm Bureau, being a grass-roots organization, sets its policy from resolutions made at the county level. The resolutions from each of the state's 23 counties are then presented and voted on at the Maryland Farm Bureau Convention at Ocean City in December. It is the input from each state, then, which sets Farm Bureau's national policy.

1. BE IT RESOLVED: That Garrett County Farm Bureau actively support the strong emphasis in agriculture and farm family activities provided by the Cooperative Extension Service.

2. BE IT RESOLVED: That the control, growth and propagation of thistle and other noxious weeds continues to be an area of frustration and concern for all landowners. One of the great breeding grounds for these plants continues to be the banks and shoulders of Maryland's public highways. It is imperative that the Secretary of Agriculture and the State Highway Administration take the necessary measures to control thistle growth and the growth of all noxious weeds.

3. BE IT RESOLVED: That the appropriate county officials re-submit an application for the Oakland bypass.

4. BE IT RESOLVED: That we thank the American Farm Bureau Federation and the State Farm Bureau for the excellent help they have given Garrett County Farm Bureau over the past 50 years, and also we thank the dedicated farmers of the county who saw beforehand the need and benefits of this organization and started it.

current secretary Fannie Mae Kolb.

In conclusion, Bill Clem advised members not to shut out from Farm Bureau membership those people who do not live on a farm. Associate members, who do not vote or hold office, are needed for their support, he said. "Farm Bureau is a world-wide organization for rural and country people," he said, "and we're proud to be country people."

"Despite the obvious reduction in the nation's dairy herds, several aspects of the wholeherd program have been controversial, not the least of which was the cost to the nation's taxpayers," said Byron. "I look forward to a thorough discussion of the issues that will face Congress and the dairy industry."

Maryland Small Grain Yields Set Records

Wheat production for 1990 totaled 8.09-million bushels, 10 percent above 1986's 6.82-million-bushel production but 15 percent below the record

All wheat production for 1988 is estimated at 2.10-billion bushels, up one percent from last year's production level. Production of winter wheat in 1987 is estimated at 1.56 billion bushels, three percent more than in 1986.

Harvest Progresses

During the week ending October 25, Maryland experienced several frosts and mostly light precipitation, which helped farmers harvest corn and soybeans. There were 6.6 days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Topsoil and subsoil moisture was short to adequate overall, with most of the shortages on the Eastern Shore.

The condition of corn remained fair. Corn was 99 percent mature, compared to 100 percent for average. The corn for grain harvest was 90 percent complete, 15 percent ahead of normal. Corn silage was 99 percent cut, equal to the normal pace.

Soybeans remained in poor to fair condition on average for the state. Most of the soybeans in poor condition were in middle eastern shore counties and southern Maryland. Soybeans were 98 percent turning color, 2 percent behind average. Soybeans were shedding leaves on 90 percent of the acreage, 5 percent more than normal. Forty percent of the soybeans were harvested, 10 percent ahead of normal.

The fall planting of winter wheat was 65 percent complete, 5 percent ahead of normal. Barley and fall oats were 85 percent and 75 percent planted respectively, both equal to the normal pace. Rye was 75 percent planted, 5 percent less than the average pace. The condition of small grains was good overall, but precipitation is needed. In some areas the lack of moisture had caused high concentrations of herbicides to remain in the topsoil, which had killed new small grain plantings.

The harvest of apples was 97 percent complete, 2 percent ahead of normal. The current supply of hay was adequate overall. Pasture remained in good condition.

WEATHER

Weather for the week ended October 23 had near normal temperatures with light showers. Temperatures averaged 53.2 degrees, 0.6 degrees below the normal 53.8 degrees for this week. Low temperatures were mostly in the low to mid 30's except at Oakland where the low dipped to 23 degrees and Snow Hill where the low temperature was 29 degrees. High temperatures for the week were mostly in the low to mid 70 range. Precipitation averaged 0.15 inch, ranging from zero at Patuxent, Wye RC, Chestertown and Salisbury to a high 1.08 inches at Westminster.

U.S. Milk Production Continues To Climb

The quarterly production of milk for the U.S. during July through September was 35.8-billion pounds, one percent above July-September 1986, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service.

The average number of cows in the U.S. during the July-September quarter was 10.4 million head, virtually no change from April-June, but three percent below July-September last year.

The value of grain and other concentrates fed to cows on October 1 averaged $6.70 per hundredweight, nine cents per hundredweight less than the October 1, 1986, value.

Leaded Gas Won't Be Taxed

EPA is expected to allow the availability of gasoline with 0.1 grams of lead. Tests on older farm engines last summer showed extensive valve seat wear when unleaded fuel was used. But spot shortages are expected in some areas as the industry phases out leaded gasoline.

White Sweet Corn Variety Trial Summary

Twenty-two white sweet corn hybrids were evaluated at the University of Md. Research Farm. The following listing are those hybrids that were best suited for fresh market production.

Variety Name	Seed Source	Days to Maturity
Stardust	Agway	70
White Satin	Agway	73
Pearl White	Agway	75
Silver Sensation	Southern States	75
Snowbelle	Asgrow	78
Silverado	Harris-Moran	79
How Sweet It Is	Harris-Moran	85
Silver Chief	Asgrow	86
Summer Sweet #601	Abbott-Cobb	86
Silver Queen	Many sources	96

Stardust was the best quality early white corn tested. However, it is very sensitive to high temperatures during pollination as well as being very susceptible to ear smut. It should be used only for the earliest planting.

Another Reminder

If you need Private Pesticide Applicator's License, call the Extension Office (334-1990) right away to make reservations for the training November 3 and 4, and the exam on November 17.

My View

From The Barn Door
by Bernice Kepple

It's been a year since the Kepple family began milking cows. It was one of those years that went flying by — weeks and months, winter, spring, summer and fall again, before we knew it. But, the proof is there: everything has broken down or frozen up at least once; the power has gone off just at milking time; the alarm clock did not go off; the cows have gotten out; the wind, the cold and the snow have gotten in; it was too dry for the hay to grow, then too wet to get it baled; my toes have been crushed by cows too many times; we got a "cow dog" that is afraid of cows (but she's learning); and we are in constant need of time, money, and energy (not always in that order).

But we've made it through our first year! Our second crop of calves began arriving last month, and just as the year was coming to an end, we bought some more cows; had to make the decision to cull a cow for the first time; and had our first emergency surgery performed (just to make the year complete). Our friends have stood by us, helping when they could. We are blessed with veterinarians who care, and come when we need them. Others have been good to us, too, like Jim Simms, the county Extension agent, and especially, our BANK! But, my personal thanks must first go to our kids for hanging in there, and to my boss and my co-workers for being so patient and understanding. So, with all this in our favor, it's onward and upward into our second year.

I think our family has been drawn closer together because we're all deeply involved and dependent on each other. That doesn't mean we spend more time together, though. The family is made up of two kids in high school, one away at college, a wife who works full-time, and an over-worked husband who's trying to hold it all together. We eat together occasionally, pass in the hall, milk together every morning (although we're never totally awake), and keep track of each other by phone.

Coincidentally, the emergency surgery I mentioned above took place on the Friday night of Autumn Glory weekend. Everyone in the family had plans, but instead, all five of us went back out to the barn to help or watch the surgery be performed. And as Dr. Rowe stitched the cow back up, one of our sons (rather sarcastically) said, "Mom, do you realize that this has been our first family activity in a long time?"

State Family
Selected As National Finalist

Howard and Christina Williams, of Boyds, are among 10 national finalists announced in a nationwide program designed to recognize outstanding conservation of agricultural resources. The program is sponsored by the National Endowment for Soil and Water Conservation and funded by the Du Pont Company.

The Williams family was selected for their ability to reduce soil erosion by wind and water as well as for their careful management of animal wastes in order to safeguard water quality. They have a 700-acre crop and hog farm in upper Montgomery County near the Potomac River.

They and the other nine families from across the nation received awards certificates at a national ceremony on October 25 in Minneapolis, Minn. They also have been honored at several events within Maryland as state winners in the awards program. Now, as national finalists, they also will vie to become one of three national winners. Those three farm and ranch families will receive a $1,000 check and an awards certificate at special ceremonies in Washington, D.C., in December.

"These 10 remarkable farm and ranch families not only do a very good job of running their family businesses, but they also help many others learn how to protect the land and care for its natural resources," said Emmett Barker, Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute president, who chairs the Endowment. "They prove every day that voluntary and cost-effective action by people who own and manage the land can reduce many natural resource problems that our nation is concerned about."

Howard Williams said, "With a dwindling base of good farmland in our area, coupled with low commodity prices in recent years, we must make the most of our available land. Good conservation practices achieve our goals of increased productivity per acre while helping to lower input costs. Farmers have an obligation to prevent adverse effects to other elements of society caused by runoff from their farming operations. Farmers also have an obligation to help conserve our nation's resources for future generations."

Williams is a supervisor of the Montgomery Soil Conservation District, who in 1986 was named the outstanding new district supervisor in Maryland. He also is active in the Maryland Pork Producers Association and the National Pork Producers Council. His successful conservation practices include contour stripcropping, no-tillage, cover crops, grassed waterways, tile drainage, grass buffer strips, and pasture renovation. A number of tours have been held on the Williams farm, sometimes with upwards of 500 people. Public officials from many states, federal agencies and the U.S. Congress, and foreign dignitaries have visited the farm to learn about soil and water conservation, swine production, and waste management.

The conservation work on the Williams farm saves soil, fuel and labor costs; reduces dependency on chemical fertilizers and insecticides; retains moisture and reduces runoff quantities and velocities. The runoff also is much cleaner.

"Du Pont is proud to sponsor this awards program," said John A. Krol, group vice president, Du Pont Agricultural Products. "It's important to honor innovative farmers and ranchers who are doing so much to keep American agriculture — and all who depend on it — healthy. This is especially true of these 10 national finalists who have provided such exceptional stewardship of their agricultural resources."

THE SNEAK HEARING
THIEF

Most people who work an eight hour shift in a noisy factory will show a temporary loss of hearing acuity at the end of the day. This is called "temporary threshold shift," and hearing usually returns to normal after a day or two of noise-free rest. There comes a time, however, when the effects of the noise begin to add up. With repeated exposures, the hearing level continues to go up and down. After a while, instead of returning to normal after a period of rest, hearing level returns to almost normal, then to less than normal, then to much less than normal until the damage has become permanent. The most insidious aspect about noise-induced hearing loss is that it very often sneaks in unnoticed.

Your hearing is a precious possession and should be treated accordingly. If your loss can be improved by hearing assist devices, then ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES holds the answers to your problem. Let our helpful and experienced staff help you in selecting the device you require. They will then put their concern and talents together to be sure that the device fits properly.

Noise-induced hearing loss typically affects the higher frequencies first.

Ms. Schlossnagle, LtCol. Williams Exchange Vows During August Event

Carol Edwards Schlossnagle and William Thomas Williams, Lieutenant Colonel, United States Marine Corps, were united in marriage on August 8 at the Bethesda United Methodist Church, Damascus.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil C. Edwards, McHenry, and the granddaughter of Harry C. Edwards, Grantsville, and the late Lulu C. Edwards. She is also the granddaughter of the late Walter and Anna Fratz. The groom is the son of Dr. and Mrs. William A. Williams, Sun City Center, Fla., formerly of State College, Pa., and grandson of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd DeBerry, who resided in Terra Alta, W. Va.

The double-ring military ceremony was officiated by Rev. Bruce A. Hathorne. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Barbara Biser and vocals by Mrs. Martha Lawson and Ms. Lynette Yount. Mrs. Joyce Greene offered a scripture reading.

Single candles, representing the two families, were lit by the mothers of the couple. The bride and groom then symbolically combined the families by joining the two flames to the Unity Candle.

Mrs. Carol Slagle, Oakland, cousin of the groom, was matron of honor, and Mrs. Nancy Polansky, Ijamsville, was bridesmaid. Misses Erin and Beth Schlossnagle attended their mother as junior bridesmaids.

The delicate pink of the junior bridesmaids' dresses lent a soft accent to the otherwise all-white wedding party. The bride and her attendants accessorized their tea-length dresses with pearls and ribboned belts.

The groom chose LtCol. David H. Ingram, a student at the Naval War College, Newport, R.I., as his best man. Ushers were LtCol. Francis S. Blair III, LtCol. George W. Solhan, LtCol. Clarence E. Willie, LtCol. Ronald E. Armstrong, Maj. Ronald E. Spratt, Maj. Barry R. Fetzner, TSgt. Robert C. Edwards, brother of the bride, and Mr. Philip P. Schlossnagle, the bride's son.

The uniformed ushers formed the Arch of Swords on the chancel walkway following the ceremony.

The guest book attendant was Miss Rebecca Slagle, Oakland, cousin of the groom.

A reception was held at the Cornus Inn following the ceremony.

A graduate of Northern High School and the University of Maryland, the bride is also a graduate student at Trinity College, Washington, D.C., and is employed as a teacher-advisor in special education with the Montgomery County Public Schools.

The groom is a graduate of State College Area High and The Pennsylvania State University. He is an intelligence officer currently stationed at Headquarters Marine Corps, Washington, D.C.

After a wedding trip to Waterford, Va., and honeymoon on the island of Kauai, Hawaii, the Williams established residence near Ijamsville.

Mr. & Mrs. Murray Celebrate 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Murray, of Grantsville, recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with family and friends. Part of their celebration was a hosted trip to 1,000 Islands, Ontario, Canada, which was given by their children, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray, Grantsville, and Mr. and Mrs. Skip Bernard, Deep Creek Lake.

The Murrys were married October 15, 1937, at the Salisbury United Church of Christ parsonage by the Rev. A.M. Wright. Mrs. Murray was the former Leota Broadwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Broadwater.

The Murrys are the parents of two children and four grandchildren.

Hinebaugh-Park Wedding Date Set

Carl F. Hinebaugh and John and Freda Lee Swanton, announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter and niece, Robin Lynn Hinebaugh, to Mark James Park, son of James and Sandra Park, Crellin.

The wedding will be held Sunday, November 22, at 2 p.m. in St. John's Episcopal Church, Deer Park. A reception will follow at the Deer Park Fire Hall.

Some invitations have been sent, but all friends and relatives are invited.

Lisa Silber And Dwayne Mauck United In Double-Ring Ceremony

Lisa Marie Silber, of Front Royal, Va., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Silber, Falls Church, Va., became the bride of Dwayne Allen Mauck, of Bentonville, Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Parker Mauck Jr., Bentonville, in a double-ring ceremony on September 12 at the John Campbell Boggs Chapel, Randolph-Macon Academy, Front Royal. The Reverend Claude R. Qualls, Richmond, Va., and William C. Smith, Culpeper, Va., officiating.

The bride is the granddaughter of the late Scott Paugh and the late Mabel Browning Paugh, who were residents of Garrett County.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was attired in a traditional gown of white taffeta with sweeping chapel-length train. Venice lace, sequins and seed pearls accented the fitted bodice and a high Victorian neckline was highlighted by sheer illusion on the front and back yokes. Schiffl embroidery detailed the front yoke and Elizabethan sleeves. The basque waist fell into a lace-accented full skirt with gathers above the hemline. The bride's headpiece was a Camelot cap covered with seed pearls with two tiers of lace-appliqued illusion veiling.

The bride carried a cascade of pink roses, white miniature carnations, baby's breath and variegated ivy. Her going-away dress was a tea-length ivory lace over satin with a shawl neckline of lace. The dress tapered at the knees over a long hemline of satin pleats. Serving as matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Graham, Tulsa, Ok., friend of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Craig Hartz, Front Royal, and Jill Worthington, Charlotte, N.C., friends of the bride. ## Lisa Roderick, Steven Brenneman Exchange Vows In August Ceremony

Miss Lisa Lynn Roderick and Steven Riley Brenneman were united in marriage August 2 at The United Methodist Church, Swanton. Rev. Richard Ogden officiated at the double-ring candlelight ceremony. Assisting was Rev. Robert Custer, cousin of the bride, with readings from the Bible and singing "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer".

Lela Paugh was organist. Linda Rush, cousin of the bride, and Debbie Swiger sang "Follow Me", "Precious and Few", and "The Wedding Song".

The bride is the daughter of Paul Roderick, Westernport, and Betty McKenzie, Terra Alta, W. Va. and Bradenton, Fla. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Brenneman, Bloomington.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a full-length ivory gown of iridescent sheer organza with a sweetheart neckline accented with Schiffl lace trim. Worn off the shoulders with wire hemmed ruffles, the dress had a tight-fitting waistline with a full wire hemmed ruffled pick-up tiered skirt in the front and back that fell to a chapel-length train. Her headpiece was a band of flowerette Schiffl lace motifs with pearl sprays and cascades of lily of the valley on the left side with finger-tip veiling.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet styled with bridal stephanotis, pink roses and baby's breath, accented with ivy. She also carried a handkerchief handmade by her great-grandmother.

Marsha Smith, Westernport, friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Debbie Buckholtz, Westernport, friend of the bride, and Carol Finch, Oakland, cousin of the bride. Flowergirls were Mallory Lewis, Las Cruces, N.M.; and Wendy Brenneman, Bloomington, both nieces of the groom.

The groom selected a friend, Paul Barnard, Bloomington, for his best man. Ushers were David Brenneman, Bloomington, brother of the groom, and Paul Roderick Jr., Swanton, brother of the bride. Ring bearers were Brian and Bradley Roderick, Swanton, nephews of the bride.

Attending the guest book were Dianna Foutz, LaPlata, and Karen Lewis, Las Cruces, N.M., both sisters of the groom.

Following the wedding, a reception was catered by Dick and Jean Bugaj at the Alpine Lake Lodge, Terra Alta, W. Va.

A rehearsal dinner was hosted by the groom's parents at the community center in Swanton.

The couple resides in Florida at 3404 Glenda Lane Terra Sista, Ellenton FL.

Joyce Cosgray Weds Francis Vontz In August Ceremony At St. Paul's

Joyce Ann Cosgray became the bride of Francis (Frank) E. Vontz on August 15. The double-ring ceremony took place at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland with the Reverend Dr. Allen C. Ridenour officiating. Dr. David W. Sheets was the organist and Joseph F. DeSimone was the soloist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Cosgray, Oakland, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Vontz, of McCook, Nebraska.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in an ivory summer satin gown with a sweetheart neckline. The bodice and sleeves were of re-embroidered lace edged in a narrow schiffl lace. The peplum, which began at the center front, formed a cathedral train at the back. To complete the look, a large bow covered the upper section of the train. The bride's hat was covered in ivory summer satin to match her dress, with schiffl lace embroidered with pearls. In the back, attached to the hat, was a puff with a schiffl lace edged veil.

The bride carried a cascading bouquet of sonia roses, daisy chrysanthemums, stephanotis and yellow-bell poms.

Becky Screen, of Germantown, served as maid of honor. The bridesmaid was Kimberly Kurilla, of Rockville. They wore tea-length peach summer-satin gowns with V-neck backs and short puff sleeves. The slim skirts had large bows at the waist. They carried round nosegays of white daisies, yellow-bell poms, and peach miniature carnations.

Serving as best man was Pete Kolosky of Gaithersburg. The ushers were Stan Goodrich, of Silver Spring, and Bill Breedlove, of Tokoma Park.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the Will O'the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. Music was furnished by Windfall from Cumberland. The guests were greeted by Charles A. Simms and registered by Linda Simms of Glenwood, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Out-of-town guests were from West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Florida and Washington, D.C.

The bride is a cost accountant with Singer Link, Inc. The groom is manager of Standards of Engineering Department, Singer Link, Inc. Silver Spring. Following a trip to Jamaica, the couple is residing in Gaithersburg.

Ms. Klier Becomes Bride Of Mr. Skiles In September Event

Cynthia Upole Klier and Gregory S. Skiles were united in marriage during an outdoor ceremony on Saturday, September 26. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Skiles, Bayard, W. Va. Rev. William Anderson officiated at the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Donald Upole, Oakland, and Mrs. Janice Upole, Aurora. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. Clark Skiles Sr., Oakland.

The bride wore a pink dress overlaid with pink lace. Her bouquet consisted of pink and white silk roses, ribbon, and lace. Connie Hayhurst, Oakland, was matron of honor. Also serving as attendants were the daughters of the bride, Traci, Kristi, and Michelle Klier, who wore lavender dresses trimmed in white lace. The attendants carried fans trimmed with pink, white, and lavender rosebuds, ribbon and lace. Serving as best man was John Hayhurst, Oakland.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School. Mr. Skiles also graduated from Southern High School and is presently attending Frostburg State University. He is employed by Landscape Design, Deep Creek Lake.

NOTICE OF ISSUANCE OF WARRANT

Take notice that on the 6th day of August, 1987, at the request of Donald F. Frazee, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26539 a warrant to survey was issued to Lawrence N. Black, surveyor, of Bench Mark Surveying, P.O. Box 387, Oakland, MD 21550, to survey all that vacant land containing approximately 50 acres in the 6th Election District of Garrett County. Said vacant land is bounded by a parcel containing approximately 300 acres owned by Piney Mountain Corporation, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26539, and by a parcel containing unknown acres owned by Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Towers State Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Provided certain conditions are met and unless an objection is filed in the proceeding as provided by Sections 13-401 and 13-402, Real Property Article, Annotated Code of Maryland (1981 Repl. Vol. 1986 Cum. Supp.), a Land Patent for said approximately 50 acres of vacant land may be issued by the State of Maryland to the said Donald F. Frazee conveying all the right, title and interest in the State of Maryland therein.

Pursuant to Section 13-307 (b) (2), Real Property Article, the surveyor will be on the premises, that is, the vacant land described in the aforesaid warrant, in the 6th Election District, Garrett County, Maryland on the 23rd day of November, 1987, at 8:00 a.m. to execute said warrant.

Information concerning this matter can be obtained from Edward C. Papenfuss (301) 974-3914.

TRUSTEE'S SALE

Trustee's sale of valuable real estate improved by premises known as 1100 Dennett Road, Oakland, MD 21550. By virtue of the power and authority contained in a Deed of Trust from F.W. Keith Nicholas and Edith B. Nicholas, dated March 19, 1985, and recorded in Liber 445, at Folio 527 among the land records of County of Garrett, Maryland, upon default and request for sale, the undersigned trustee will offer for sale at public auction at the front of the courthouse at the intersection of Alder and Third Streets, Oakland, MD on:

Wednesday, November 4, 1987
At 3:30 p.m.

all that property described in said Deed of Trust as follows:

BEGINNING at an iron pipe standing in the North Margin of Dennett Road, said pipe standing South 66° 02' East 7.0 feet from the beginning of first line of Lot No. 10 of the subdivision of land called John and Mary, also being the beginning point of the first line of the 8.23 acre tract of land conveyed by Jefferson Junior Lohr, et ux, to Dale C. Harvey, et ux, by deed dated March 21, 1964, and recorded in Liber R.L.D. No. 255, Folio 523 &c., one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, and proceeding with said first line, along the East margin of a forty foot road, North 24° 00' East 180 feet to a stake, thence South 66° 03' East 100 feet to a stake standing in the first line of the tract of land conveyed by W. Dwight Stover, Trustee, to Jefferson Junior Lohr and Winnifred Juanita Lohr, wife, and with said first line reversed South 24° 00' West 180 feet to a stake standing in the North Margin of Dennett Road, thence with the North Margin of the Dennett Road, North 66° 03' West 100.0 feet to the beginning containing 18,000 square feet, more or less.

Said property is improved by a dwelling and is sold in "as is condition" and subject to a prior trust the approximate balance of which will be announced at time of sale. The balance of the sale price shall be further subject to all covenants, conditions, liens, restrictions, easements, rights of way, as may affect same, if any.

TERMS OF SALE: A deposit of $1,130.00 cash or certified funds shall be required at the time of sale. The balance of the purchase price with interest at 21 1/2% per annum from the date of sale to the date of payment will be paid within TEN DAYS after the final ratification of the sale. Adjustments on all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by purchaser. Any applicable front property charges are to be adjusted at time of sale to date of sale and assumed thereafter by purchaser. Title examination, conveyancing, state revenue stamps, transfer taxes, title insurance, and all other costs incident to settlement are to be paid by the purchaser. Time is of the essence for the purchaser; otherwise the deposit will be forfeited and the property will be resold at risk and costs of the defaulting purchaser. Trustee's File No. 87-0345.

Missionary To Europe Will Speak In Area Assemblies Of God

Reverend Barbara Klein will be the guest speaker next week at three Garrett County Assemblies of God. She will speak Sunday, November 1, at 10 a.m. at the Rocky Drear Assembly of God, and that evening at 7 p.m. at the Kitzmiller Assembly of God. On Wednesday, November 4, at 7 p.m., she will speak at the Crellin Assembly of God.

Rev. Klein is an Assemblies of God missionary to Europe where she teaches the Bible at Continental Bible College in Belgium. She has been a speaker in many of the countries of Europe and Asia.

Students come to Continental Bible College from throughout Europe and other parts of the world to train for full-time ministry. Graduates are now serving in Belgium, France, Holland, Germany, Switzerland, Jordan, Pakistan, Peru, and Singapore as well as in other countries as pastors, teachers and evangelists.

During her Garrett County visit, Rev. Klein will share how God directed her into this ministry at Continental Bible College.

Rev. Klein has a master of arts in Biblical Studies and a master of divinity from the Assemblies of God Theological Seminary in Springfield, Missouri.

Lyons Elected President Of CAC Directors

Robert Lyons, Kitzmiller, was recently elected president of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., Board of Directors, succeeding the late Allen S. Paugh Lyons, a former mayor of Kitzmiller and member of the CAC Board since 1974, was elected to a two-year term beginning this month.

Other officers elected to two-year terms were: Marjorie Fratz, Accident, vice president; Beverly Beard, Swanton, secretary; and Helen Baumgartner, Oakland, treasurer.

Seated as new directors were Leslie Stanton, representing the community of Jennings, and Lowell Bender, representing Garrett Community College. Members re-appointed for another term were Carolyn Wiley, Eugene Coddington, Thelma Cerne and Lala Brown.

Elk Garden Man Fatally Injured In Sunday Mishap

An 18-year-old Elk Garden, W. Va. man died Sunday morning as the result of injuries he sustained in an accident that occurred earlier that morning on Rt. 135 near Altamont Road.

Michael Scott Mayne died at West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, at 9:55 a.m. after he had been transferred from Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was initially taken. Informed sources noted that members of the Southern Rescue Squad were, at the scene of the accident, able to restore a pulse.

According to State Police reports, a second accident occurred minutes later at the same location when a pickup truck hit the engine (lying in the roadway) of the victim's car. Police said the first accident occurred when Mayne attempted to round a moderate right turn and lost control of the 1979 Datsun 280ZX.

The car then skidded to the left and struck an embankment, overturning several times before coming to rest on its top after striking a large tree.

Shortly afterward, a pickup truck, driven by Arthur Welsh, 19, also of Elk Garden, was traveling westbound when it struck the engine of Mayne's vehicle. According to police, Welsh refused medical treatment.

Garrett Central Alarm was notified of the accident at 3:03 a.m. and dispatched Southern Rescue Squad, Deer Park firemen and Maryland State

Local Veterans Groups Schedule Plaque Dedication

To repeat a similar action of President Dwight Eisenhower, who signed a bill proclaiming November 11 as Veterans Day to honor those who had served America in all wars, the veterans organizations of Garrett County will dedicate a bronze plaque at the county Courthouse in Oakland on November 11 in recognition of all Garrett County veterans of all wars, from the Revolutionary War through the Vietnam War.

The speaker for the ceremony, which will begin at 11 a.m., will be Garrett County Commissioner Ernest Gregg. A general theme of the event is to call upon all citizens to rededicate themselves to the cause of peace.

The public is invited and encouraged by local veteran organizations to attend the ceremony, which will take place on the Alder Street side of the courthouse.

FIREMEN OF THE YEAR — The Garrett County Firemen's Association recently presented its annual awards to several local volunteer firefighters. The Fireman of the Year award was shared by two individuals this year, as both Dale Fike, of the Elk Garden Volunteer Fire Department, and Mark Dursi, of the Oakland VFD, were so honored. Pictured left to right are Paul Miller, Accident VFD, Richard Brennenman, Bittinger VFD, and Mike Steyer, Grantsville VFD, all runners-up; Dale Fike, Fireman of the Year; Buck Fike, president of the Garrett County Firemen's Association; Mark Dursi, Fireman of the Year; Allen Murray, public relations chairman for the Association; and Terry Spear, Friendsville VFD, runner-up. Spear, chief of Friendsville VFD, also accepted the Association's annual Training Award, which was presented to the Friendsville Department. Not present for the photo were Fred Collins, Deer Park Community VFD, and Charlie Bowman, Deep Creek VFD, both runners-up.

MVA To Open New Facility For Oakland Area

Motor Vehicle Administrator W. Marshall Rickert announced this week that driver's license testing facility housed at the National Guard Armory in Oakland for the last 17 years, closed at the end of the business day Wednesday, November 4.

In its place, MVA will open for business Thursday, November 12, at Rt. 135 and Weber Road (next to Browning's Foodland.) Scheduled times will be 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesdays and Thursdays, for driver's licensing and examinations and tag and title service. MVA hearing officers will conduct hearings on Wednesdays each week and MVA investigators will operate from the facility Mondays and Fridays.

At this location, MVA will be offering for the first time to Oakland residents a tag and title service. For further information on this service, persons may contact the Cumberland Branch Office at 301/777-1254.

Rickert cited growing population and business activity in the area as reasons for the location change. He praised the working relationship with the Maryland National Guard that MVA had enjoyed for many years. "The new facility will have state-of-the-art terminals and a pleasing interior to make the customers' visits as enjoyable and as efficient as possible," Rickert said.

$500,000 Allocated Garrett County To Provide Low-Interest Mortgages

The Garrett County Commissioners announced recently that $500,000 is available through the Maryland Mortgage programs for low-interest mortgages for eligible home buyers in Garrett County.

According to Ernest Gregg, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, applications in Garrett County can be made at First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland. First Federal is the only bank in Garrett County participating in the program. However, CDA officials noted that E.B. Mortgage Corporation, Magnet Mortgage, Inc. and Merchant Mortgage Corporation in Allegany County will also take Garrett County applications.

Gregg also noted that, in the 1986 program, 12 home buyers received financing in Garrett County for a total of $498,000. He stated that they expected this year's money to go quickly.

To qualify for a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage loan through the Maryland Mortgage Program, individuals can earn up to $28,000 a year, and family income can be up to $33,000 a year.

Two interest rates have been established for the program, depending on household income. For borrowers earning $25,000 a year or less, the interest rate will be 8.5 percent. Those earning more than $25,000 a year, up to the program's maximum income limit of $33,000, will pay 9.5 percent interest.

Newly-constructed and existing homes, including detached and semi-detached homes and townhouses, can be purchased through the program. In Garrett County, the maximum purchase price for newly-constructed homes bought through the program is $77,000; the maximum price for existing homes is $66,000. Modular homes qualify for financing if they carry the state seal of approval for code compliance.

Local Legionnaires To Hear Former Nat'l Commander

James P. "Jimmy" Dean, the immediate past National Commander of The American Legion, will be the guest speaker at the 56th annual Membership Dinner (Pig Roast) of Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion, Oakland. The event will be held Friday, November 13, with admission restricted to members of the American Legion.

Dean, 53, a native of Corinth, Miss., was elected National Commander of The American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization, at the closing session of the 68th annual National Convention September 4, 1986.

A U.S. Army veteran of the Korean War, he served with the U.S. Army Security Agency. He holds a LL.B. and juris doctorate of law degree from the University of Mississippi. He was elected a member of the Mississippi House of Representatives during his first year of law school, and subsequently served as state senator from his district, the youngest of his district to hold such office.

Dean has been an active Legionnaire for over 30 years. He is a life member of Perry A. Johns Post 6, Corinth, Miss. He was chairman of The American Legion's National Internal Af-

Deer Park Man Fatally Injured In Monday Accident

A Deer Park man was fatally injured in an accident near Gorman late Monday morning when he was struck in the head with an 18-foot pole.

Cecil Calvert Friend, 60, was pronounced dead at the scene by Garrett County deputy medical examiner, Dr. Herbert Leighton, after he sustained injuries to the head when a pole, being raised by a tractor in the construction of a pole building, reportedly swung out of control.

Friend and his son, Richard Friend, were working on property off of the King Wildeson Road and were setting the poles into the ground, according to the investigating officer, Detective L.E. Gnegy. The accident occurred at approximately 11 a.m.

Garrett Central Alarm dispatched the Southern Rescue Squad and the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department at 11:19 a.m.

Born in Swanton on October 16, 1927, Mr. Friend was a son of the late John H. and Laura V. (Upole) Friend.

He was a farmer and an Army veteran of the Korean Conflict. Mr. Friend also attended Deer Park United Methodist Church and was a member of the Garrett County Livestock Administration.

He is survived by his wife, Lena I. (Otto) Friend; two daughters, Mrs. Martha L. Knox and Amy I. Friend, both of Deer Park; two sons, Richard R. Friend, Oakland, and Timothy J. Friend, Terra Alta, W. Va.; four brothers, Paul Friend and Melvin Friend, both of Swanton, Alvie Friend, Grantsville, and Eugene Friend, Mtn. Lake Park, and two grandchildren.

Friends were received at the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland, Wednesday.

A service was conducted there today at 1 p.m. by the Rev. Kenneth Montgomery. Interment was in Glendale Cemetery, Swanton.

House Saved By Quick Action Of Oakland VFD

Quick action by Oakland firefighters resulted in the saving of a two-story wood-frame house along Reese Street in Oakland Tuesday morning.

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management summoned the Oakland VFD after receiving a report of a fire of undetermined nature at the house. Upon their arrival, heavy smoke was coming from windows and eaves on the second floor, at which time Oakland called for assistance from the Deer Park VFD.

The fire was located inside the wall between the first and second floors of the house. An attack on the blaze was made from both inside and outside the house and the actual fire damage was confined primarily to one bedroom upstairs.

There are two apartments in the house, which is owned by Roger Glatfelter, Oakland.

The cause of the blaze, according to an Oakland VFD spokesman, appeared to be electrical in nature, possibly as a result of some bad wiring near a heat duct. The cause is under investigation by Guy Carola, fire investigator for Garrett and Allegany counties, who could not be reached this morning for more information.

Also responding to the scene was the county air cascade vehicle presently being housed at Bittinger VFD, the Southern Rescue Squad, and Potomac Edison Company. Firemen remained on the scene for about one and one-half hours. There were no injuries reported.

Officials Reject Bradley Manor Proposal Following Public Hearing

Overwhelming disapproval of a proposal to rehabilitate the Bradley Manor housing project was voiced by local residents at a public hearing held Tuesday evening at the Oakland Fire Hall. The hearing was moved after it was determined that the town hall was inadequate to hold the more than 100 citizens who attended.

Following that meeting, called by the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, the council convened to decide that a telegram would be sent to the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) and newly appointed State Community Development Secretary, Jacqueline Rogers, notifying them of the town's rejection of the rehabilitation project.

That telegram was sent Wednesday morning, as was a telegram to James Schoenberger, General Deputy Assistant Secretary for Housing at HUD, stating that at Tuesday's hearing, "public sentiment was overwhelmingly against the project," and that, "consequently, the Town has indicated disapproval of the project," according to a press release prepared by Robert E. Watson, Town attorney.

Watson stated in the release that an "informal consensus of the council was taken" following Tuesday's hearing, and that a formal vote will be held at the next regularly scheduled public hearing November 10.

In a second telegram to Secretary Rogers, also sent Wednesday morning, Watson stated that because of the town's disapproval of the project "...it was decided that the town will not send a representative to the HUD meeting..." That meeting was scheduled to take place at 2 p.m. Wednesday in Washington, D.C.

The telegram further stated that "of course, the Town is still in great need of recreation money and would hope your generous offer for a block grant will be pursued."

Secretary Rogers, according

Special Tax Task Force Submits Recommendations To County Heads

A task force, appointed by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners this summer, recently made their recommendations for an accommodations tax for the county. Those recommendations were shared with the local media at a press conference Tuesday afternoon.

The 11-member task force headed by Carl Fike has been meeting since early July and, as charged, had their recommendations on paper by the end of October. The suggestions made to the commissioners are as follows:

1. that the Board of Commissioners impose an accommodations tax essentially patterned from the enabling legislation currently in effect.

2. that the accommodations tax be set at a rate of three percent.

3. that the commissioners request the Garrett County delegation of the General Assembly to make the following amendments to Article 81, Section 411-F of the Maryland Annotated Code:

a) amend sub-section f(2) and f(3) to earmark the use of the funds generated by the imposition of the accommodations tax for the exclusive use of promoting tourism and economic development activities in both the county and the municipal corporations and to eliminate sub-section (k) entirely.

b) add campsites, mobile homes and recreational vehicles as types of accommodations which would be liable for taxation.

4. that the effective date of imposition of the tax be April 1, 1988. This would necessitate

At that meeting, Rogers asked for Oakland's approval for "discussions with HUD to stop planned foreclosure and auction of the abandoned housing project. She offered Oakland a block grant of $400,000 of State-controlled federal money for recreation in Oakland," according to Watson's press release.

Following that meeting, a letter from Rogers was sent to Hank Seifert, town council president, presenting the State's commitment to the following resources if the project received town approval: 1) that the state would use its "highest level officials to convince HUD to foreclose the project and accept the proposal for redevelopment of the project," 2) provide monies for the project to the developer at "rates and terms needed to provide affordable housing and a viable sound real estate development," and 3) that Community Development Block

Grantsville Youth Still Being Held Without Bond

A Grantsville youth, charged with the shooting death of his mother, continues to be held in the Garrett County Jail without bond. A bond hearing had been held last Thursday in Garrett County District Court.

Kevin Shives, 16, was charged as an adult Wednesday, October 28, by Maryland State Police with first-degree murder following the death of Lula Belle Shives, 49, also of Grantsville. The shooting occurred at 11 p.m., Tuesday at her residence.

State Police said that the woman died as a result of a gunshot wound to the head. The weapon was described as a small caliber rifle.

She was pronounced dead by Dr. Francisco Reyes, deputy medical examiner for Allegany County at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, and her body was taken to the medical examiner's office in Baltimore for an autopsy.

Deer Park Man "Critical" After ATV Accident

A Deer Park man remains in "critical" condition at West Virginia University Hospital, Morgantown, following injuries he sustained in a recreational vehicle accident early Wednesday morning.

Timothy Arnold, 34, was operating a 1983 Suzuki 125 three-wheeler eastbound on a private road, just east of White Church-Steyer Road and adjacent to the railroad tracks, when he struck a large mud-filled rut, according to investigating officer, Tfc. C.R. Smith, Maryland State Police. Arnold was thrown from the vehicle when it hit the rut at approximately 5:25 a.m.

He was flown to WVU Hospital by Life Line helicopter.

"I KILLED SEVEN AT ONE BLOW," the brave little tailor seems to be telling the princess. Theatre students at Northern High School, under the direction of Dr. Gerry Snelson, are currently rehearsing an original production of "The Brave Little Tailor" which uses hand-and-rod puppets, like those shown above, a marionette, and actors in both masks and makeup. A public dress rehearsal will be held in conjunction with parent visitation night on Thursday, November 12, at 8 p.m., in the school cafeteria. All Northern High parents and all other interested people are invited to attend this performance. The production is designed to tour all the elementary schools in the county whose principals indicate an interest. It is similar to "The Emperor's New Clothes," which was presented to most elementary schools last November and December, but it makes greater use of costumed and masked live performers and greater use of music, according to Dr. Snelson.

Bloodmobile To Visit Oakland And Friendsville

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will visit Oakland this Friday, Nov. 6, and Friendsville the following Friday, Nov. 13.

Blood will be collected at the National Guard Armory in Oakland from 11 to 5 p.m. and at the Friendsville Fire Hall from noon to 6 p.m.

Wayne Johnson Named Chairman Of State Program

Wayne Johnson, executive director of Hospice of Garrett County, Inc., was named chairman of the "Maryland You Are Beautiful" program in Garrett County, according to an announcement made by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners at a press conference Tuesday.

Johnson retired from the Garrett County Board of Education several years ago where he had taught history courses at Southern High School and served as principal of Broadford Elementary School. Not long after his retirement, he accepted the head post of Hospice.

The chairman is now embarking on a project to find "Maryland's Most Beautiful Person," in conjunction with Gov. William Donald Schaefer's state program.

"What we are looking for is inner beauty — people who love people and show it by their exemplary lifestyles and community service," said Johnson.

"We want to make Marylanders aware of the great things their fellow citizens are doing," said Gov. Schaefer. State director of the program, Floraine Applefeld, added, "They are your local unsung heroes, those Marylanders giving generously, selflessly to help those around them. They are the citizens whose acts of good will have previously gone unnoticed — neighbors who quietly meet their neighbors' special needs. They are the wonderful organizations that provide services and support to local communities."

A nomination form appears in today's paper on page A-6. Nominations must be turned in by November 16. The deadline for state selection is December 1.

Greg Few To Receive Eagle Scout Award

An Oakland youth, Greg Few, will be awarded the rank of Eagle Scout, the highest achievement in the Boy Scouts of America, in a ceremony set for November 14, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, beginning with a covered dish dinner at 6 p.m.

Greg is the son of Robert and Lois Few, Sunrise Drive. He is a junior at Southern High School and a member of Boy Scout Troop 31, Oakland.

To achieve the honor, young Few progressed through six levels of advancement, earning a minimum of 21 merit badges in areas such as: first aid, camping, swimming, lifesaving and citizenship.

According to his scout leader, John Smith, Greg demonstrated leadership through service to the troop as patrol leader, senior patrol leader and other positions, as well as actively participating in the Order of the Arrow, scouting's honor/service organization.

He also planned, organized and carried out a major community service project with the aid of Roger Riley, superintendent of Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park.

Riley reportedly suggested picnic tables accessible to the handicapped. He asked Greg to draw a blueprint according to state specification. The state furnished all materials and a work place and the park staff showed Greg the correct way to use the drill press and power saw.

The scout was later able to demonstrate the skill to his fellow scouts by showing them how to put a table together. He supervised the remainder of the project. His troop made 12 tables which were placed throughout the parks.

Deer Park Man Jailed, Charged With Child Abuse

A Deer Park man has been arrested by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department and charged with child abuse and assault and is currently being held in the Garrett County Jail on a $10,000 bond.

Harold A. Black, 53, was charged by his wife, Erma Black, also of Deer Park, following an October 25 incident at their residence when he allegedly beat his wife and a juvenile. Assistant Chief Deputy P.J. Pratt is handling the investigation.

Duane C. Bolyard, 23, Oakland, was also arrested and charged with battery as the result of an October 25 incident at his residence. He was then incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail and later released on his own recognizance.

The charge was filed by Barbara L. Bolyard, also of Oakland, who was reportedly treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for injuries sustained in the incident. Sheriff M. Vans Evans handled the arrest.

A criminal summons was served to Rebecca S. Stone, Swanton, who was charged with harassment and trespassing by Carla Ringer, Mtn. Lake Park, who stated that Stone, on several occasions, entered her property and harassed her. Deputy Randy Shaffer served the summons.

Michael W. Wilt, 23, Oakland, was served a criminal summons charging him with trespassing following an October 10 incident. According to the complainant, Paul Wilhelm, Swanton, Wilt entered his property without permission. Deputy J. Murphy served the summons.

A summons was served to William T. Finch, 30, Oakland, charging him with allowing consumption of alcoholic beverages after hours.

According to the complainant, Tpr. Paul Brown of the Maryland State Police, Finch served the beverages at Shorty's Bar at 2:35 a.m. on September 25. Sheriff Evans served the summons.

Man-Made Wetlands Prove Successful In Cleaning Up Acid Mine Drainage

by Bernice Kepple

These days, coal mining is an industry with a responsibility — a responsibility to the land, the environment, and to the people who live on that land in that environment. Vast changes in mining have been made since mid-century, 40 years ago, when strip mines were not reclaimed or only partially reclaimed, when large slag piles marked many small deep-mine openings into the coal seams, when streams ran red with iron or yellow with sulphur particles left after the coal was removed.

An increased desire to preserve the land and keep the air and water clean for future generations, while providing an important energy source, has brought about changes in the industry. Working together to achieve these desired goals are coal industry leaders, legislators, and regulatory agencies such as the Maryland Bureau of Mines, a sub-agency of the Department of Natural Resources' Water Resources Administration.

One of the Bureau's latest projects has been developing natural wetlands as a natural way to improve water affected by acid mine drainage and to protect or recover valuable stream habitats. Chief of revegetation and reclamation for the Bureau of Mines, Fred Bagley, says that wetlands may offer a natural solution to acid mine drainage, which has been a persistent pollution problem associated with abandoned coal mines that were mined out and left before effective control programs were in place. According to Bagley, acid mine drainage is the most severe water pollution problem in Garrett and Allegany counties and the most pervasive environmental problem attributable to abandoned mines in Maryland.

Connie Lyons, lands unsuitable coordinator for the Bureau of Mines, explains that acid mine drainage occurs when water and air in the presence of naturally occurring bacteria, comes in contact with soil or rock particles containing iron and sulfur compounds left after the coal is removed. Traditionally, she says, treatment of acid mine drainage has required the use of chemicals to neutralize acidic water and allow the metals, such as iron and manganese, that are dissolved in the acidic solution, to settle out before the improved water flows to nearby streams.

According to the two Bureau officials, a few years ago, attention turned to the possibility of using man-made wetlands to treat acid mine drainage without the need for chemical applications. The idea of man-made wetland-treatment systems developed from observations of natural sphagnum (peatmoss) bogs that had been receiving acid water from abandoned mines for many years.

Researchers discovered that as the acidic water flowed through those natural bogs, the iron, manganese, sulfate and acidity in the water decreased. Other studies found that cattail marshes also produced similar results. Natural wetlands which improve the quality of acid mine drainage are dominated by plants that prefer acid water, Bagley said. These plants tolerate levels of sulfates and other metals that would kill most other plants, he added. "The method is natural, and personally, that's why I like it — it's a natural process."

Creating acid mine drainage treatment wetlands involves constructing a series of relatively shallow ponds and planting wetlands vegetation. Lime and organic compost material are placed on the bottom of the ponds to help the plants take root. "Because it's very difficult to transplant and maintain sphagnum," Bagley says, "we use cattails in the wetlands." Cattails, he explains, are relatively easy to transplant, require little maintenance and are locally available.

The cattails are planted at staggered intervals on top of the composted material, and the acid mine drainage is directed to flow through these planted ponds.

Seven project sites have been completed this summer under Bagley's supervision. Three of those sites are in the Cherry Creek area which flows into Deep Creek Lake; two are in the Casselman area; and others are near Mt. Savage and Westernport. Bagley reports that this project began last summer after Bureau of Mines Director Anthony Abar became interested in the concept and decided the Bureau should become involved.

A NEW PROJECT of the Bureau of Mines is proving that man-made wetlands can clean up acid mine drainage from old abandoned mines. Above, Fred Bagley, chief of revegetation and reclamation, and Connie Lyons, lands unsuitable coordinator, look over one of the sites where research is being done. The success of the project is attributed to cattails (below) and other wetlands plants which remove metals from acid water by assimilating the material into the plant.

"We try a new twist at each site, to see what works best," Bagley said, explaining that a base of topsoil, instead of organic compost was used as a growing medium at one of the sites. He also said that where natural wetlands already exist, they are incorporated into the system being developed. "We have a wide gamut of conditions to work with and a long list of perspective sites," he said.

According to Lyons, the money for the projects comes from the deep mine fund, which is a 15-cent surcharge per ton paid by mine operators. The projects are then opened for bids.

Two sites completed this summer are along the Amish Road near Grantsville. Bagley said the site was first strip mined in 1943 and there was also a deep mine in the area. The construction bid was won by Hardy Able Construction Company, owned by James R. Lashley of Mr. Savage. According to Bagley, this particular contractor uses a hydraulic excavator which practically "walks on the wetlands."

The two Amish Road sites both incorporate natural wetlands along with the man-made wetlands. Each of the sites consist of three small ponds, or cells. At one of these sites, water seeps into the first cell from an old slag pile. It moves two directions from there — some into the man-made wetlands, some into a natural wetlands of sphagnum moss already on the site. As water from the first cell enters the second cell it is joined by water seeping from an old deep mine. The water mixes then flows into the third cell. All three of these man-made cells have been planted with cattails.

At the second site, water drains from an area recently strip mined and flows through three cells, also planted with cattails. After exiting from the third cell the water flows through a large natural wetlands. The water from both sites flows directly into the Casselman River.

Between the cells, weirs have been built to control the flow of the water. At several points in each system, water samples are taken monthly and data is collected on acidity, iron content and manganese content. Bagley is quite pleased with the results so far. "These sites (the Amish Road sites) were just completed on July 16," he said, "and we are seeing good results."

He noted that results of the last sample tests from the site with only one seep showed a drop in iron content from 21.0 ppm at the entrance to the first cell to 1.14 ppm at the exit of the third cell, and a drop in manganese from 16.0 to 14.0. At the second site (the one with two seeps, the slag pile and the deep mine) the iron content dropped from 23.0 to 16.0 ppm. "The second seep from the deep mine comes in mid stream and makes this site tougher," Bagley said.

"Wetlands plants seem to remove metals from acid water by assimilating the material into the plant," Bagley explains. "Different plant species vary in their ability or efficiency to remove metals. Certain algae and bacteria that inhabit the wetlands also help clean up the mine drainage. Some bacteria are selective for iron and manganese and seem to use the metals as an energy source. Other kinds of bacteria reduce sulfates by converting the sulfate component of mine water to hydrogen sulfide."

Lyons explained that further research into how wetlands treat acid mine drainage will begin in the spring of 1988. "This will be 'phase two' of the project," she said. One planned study will try to identify specific bacteria that are suspected to be responsible for the reduction of iron, manganese, aluminum and sulfate concentrations in wetlands environments. Broader and more comprehensive research to describe the total picture of what makes wetlands work best will also be developed during the coming year.

Bagley says that the project is still in its infancy. "We still need two or three years of valuation. We need to know what organic chemistry is happening in the system and what makes it work. We need to know why one site works better than another."

"I don't believe that any other states are any farther ahead in wetlands study than we are. We plan to maintain project construction one more year with 16 to 17 sites our goal. With three summers' data, we should have a much better handle on the whole concept," he said.

Meanwhile, the work goes on — a joint effort to clean up the leftovers of the distant past and keep today's operations clean for the benefit of our environment and all who live in it now and for all who will live in it in the future.

Creature Runs Rampant

One of the great things about residing in a small town is that, in times of hardship, all of one's friends, neighbors, and even strangers rally together to provide assistance to those in need. This is particularly evident during periods of tragedy and disaster.

However, on the down side of life in small town USA is the common practice of fabrication, communication and embellishment of rumors. Malicious rumor is like a cancer, which rapidly spreads and becomes more and more destructive to its victims.

One malicious rumor that has been festering in the Oakland area for several weeks reached its peak this week, the effects of which have been realized as far away as Washington and Baltimore. The word on the street is that there has been a major drug bust by federal authorities resulting in the arrests of numerous local businessmen. At last count, the list included over a dozen familiar names.

Undoubtedly our newspaper was snatched off the newsstands a little more rapidly than usual this week, as our readers anticipated finding a big story on the front page about the alleged incident. There is, however, no story, because there has been no bust.

Our newsstaff spent many hours this week going directly to the proper authorities and questioning them about this matter. All of them assured us that there is not a shred of truth to the rumors. This has been confirmed by every law enforcement agency we can think of, from the Garrett County Sheriff's Department to the State's Attorney's Office to the Maryland State Police to the federal drug enforcement authorities in Baltimore.

We were hesitant about mentioning the situation in our newspaper, even in this editorial column. Some believe that doing so will only feed the rumor. However, we believe that the rumor has been fed as much as it possibly can be already, and that if there is any more room for it to grow, our not saying anything might spark such growth. Among our readers are those who believe that there has been a drug bust and we are suppressing this information because we have been bought off, or scared off, or are worried about losing advertising, or that we too are involved in the alleged drug running. We assure all that none of these assumptions is correct.

Rumors are ugly creatures that have the potential of destroying people's lives. The only place they are created is in the minds of human beings. Once created, they are released into society and allowed to run wild, to savagely rip apart the reputations of its victims. Each time the rumor is passed from one person to another, it is given new energy and greater momentum. The only way it can be stopped is by persons taking the initiative to go to the appropriate sources and find out the truth, and then being just as earnest in dispersing the facts as the gossips were in spreading the lies.

To those responsible for initiating this current tall tale, we believe your behavior is cruel and demented, not to mention illegal.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The city of Frostburg gets its water from a dam in Garrett County.

During the terms of County Commissioners Hamilton, Opel and Guy (1974-75), arrangements were made for a second dam which was also to be in Garrett County. The commissioners asked that some Garrett County homes near the proposed dam be served by the dam, but the Frostburg Town Council voted no. So the Garrett County commissioners voted against construction of the new dam.

So, if the people of Frostburg will check to see who they voted for at that time, they will know who is responsible for Frostburg's not having an ample supply of water now.

To the Editor:

Once again, Veterans' Day, November 11 approaches and here in Oakland as in many locations throughout America, citizens will gather to remember those who served their country and preserved our freedom; but it seems these observances are attended by fewer people every year. Some reasons, could be, I guess, "too busy," "too cold," "it's been a long time since a war," or "something else came up," but I wonder where we all might be today if these veterans had said the same when called to defend our freedom and preserve our peace?

This Veterans' Day, when the Memorial Plaque is unveiled at the Courthouse in Oakland to all Garrett County Veterans of all Wars, it is the wish of a veteran's wife, that many will be there to show these men and women that we remember what they sacrificed for us. Some gave their limbs, some gave their lives, but they all gave of themselves for you and me.

To the Editor:

During the past week, the Garrett County community, our elementary educators and several elementary schools had the good fortune to enjoy the remarkable work of The Children's Repertory Company (CRC). This non-profit, adult touring company deals not only with subjects that delight and entertain children, but also with those that are rarely discussed because of their emotional impact, embarrassment factor, etc.

CRC performed "Babylonian Encounter," concerning the prevention of child abuse, and "Whisper Down The Lane," a play about surviving grief due to loss through death. These are typically taboo topics. Although they are somber, serious subjects, the troupe uses humor, understanding and openness to educate and thus empower our children.

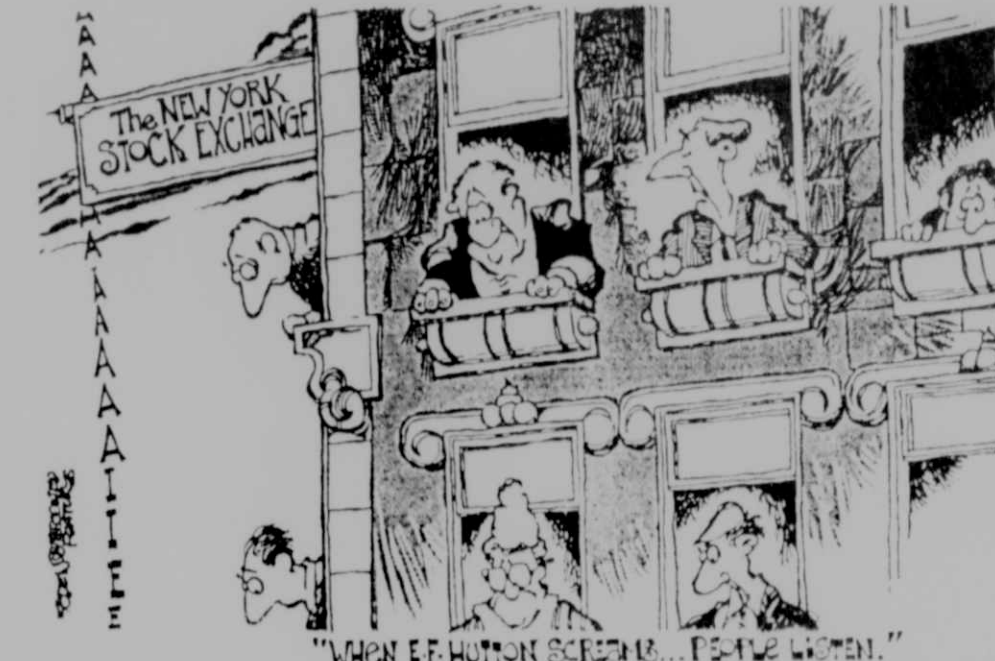

Many thanks are expressed to the people who brought CRC to our area: The Garrett County Board of Education — Pupil Services Division; the MSDE, GCC Continuing Education Department and the Garrett Arts Council. A special note of appreciation is extended to Will O' the Wisp, for their help with housing accommodation. Barbara Law, home economics instructor of Northern High School, and four of her students, Lisa Fike, Tonya Eichorn, Becky Dolan and Teresa Speicher provided child care for more than 50 children after "Babylonian Encounter" in order that the adults could have further discussions. Thank you ladies!

As a concerned parent and active PTA member, I am thoroughly pleased with such activities. I consider them wonderful tools of education. Hopefully, those schools that didn't offer this experience to their students can find it in their hearts — and their budgets — to do so at a later date.

Sincerely,

To the Editor:

On September 19, 1987, a meeting at Garrett Community College was conducted by the Department of Natural Resources to discuss the Deep Creek Lake current usage study. Also, time was allotted for public comment concerning the existing buffer strip and regulations at which point I questioned the Moderator, Mr. Paul Ruzsin, concerning launching and removal of boats by individual owners. According to my interpretation of the regulations, property owners adjacent to the buffer strip are permitted to drive a vehicle on the strip for only one purpose, i.e., dock removal and placement. Mr. Ruzsin, citing erosion control as the concern, concurred and advised that the regulations do not permit vehicles on the buffer strip for any other reason including boat launching or removal. He further stated that the DNR will not re-consider this section of the regulations unless sufficient comments are received from the public.

According to my observations of boaters removing their boats this past fall and also conversation with a few boat owners, the public is not aware of the restriction and, therefore, it is doubtful that Mr. Ruzsin will receive any comments concerning this matter. There is presently only one DNR approved public ramp located at the State Park which is sometimes crowded and distantly located for property owners in the North and South sections of the lake.

I urge all interested boat owners to contact DNR concerning this matter and request a modification of the regs permitting property owners to launch and remove boats across their adjacent buffer strip on a one time basis each year. Hopefully, this matter can be resolved without additional delay and/or unaware boaters being cited for a violation of the law.

Mushroom Poisoning

by P. Daniel Miller, D.O., F.A.A.F.P.

Many wild mushrooms growing in the forests, fields and back yards of Garrett County are extremely poisonous. Even the self claimed experts sometimes can make a mistake in the identity and become poisoned. Ingestion of certain poisonous mushrooms can lead to 95% mortality rates. In the last three to four weeks, we have had a number of mushroom poisonings in Garrett County, fortunately none of them fatal.

There is no one antidote for mushroom poisoning. Prevention of mushroom poisoning is not eating the poisonous mushrooms to begin with. Even the most experienced picker has been known to make a mistake. Liver damage is a common cause of death in mushroom poisoning which can occur three to six days after ingestion of poisonous mushrooms. Kidney failure is another complication as well. Also, different species of mushrooms found in different parts of the world may be poisonous in one part of the world and not as poisonous in another part of the world. For example, the species Amanita muscaria, contains a significant amount of a chemical called Atropine and Scopolamine when grown in South Africa or Poland, yet the German species lack these poisons. Old wives tales and old collectors rules of thumb do not hold. Ninety-five percent of all mushroom deaths are associated with a number of species in the Amanita genus. The most famous of these mushrooms which are found in Garrett County are called "Death Cap." Identification and classification of poisonous and nonpoisonous mushrooms will not be attempted in this short article, the primary reason being that even in the best of hands, mistakes can be made.

Mushroom poisoning may present as profuse sweating, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, diarrhea. Some mushrooms have delayed toxic effects in which side effects occur 6-12 hours after ingestion. These devastating side effects can include coma, kidney and liver failure. Some of these toxic side effects can occur up to three to six days after ingestion of the poisonous mushroom. When a patient poisoned from mushrooms presents to the Emergency Room, his stomach is pumped and a special chemical called activated charcoal is then inserted into the stomach through a nasogastric tube. This chemical absorbs the major toxin, particularly from the very poisonous Amanita species. Cathartics which cause diarrhea are then pushed through the nasogastric tube to cause the poisonous and remaining mushroom bits to be expelled in the stool.

Many mushrooms in the United States also provide a Jekyll-Hyde personality, enjoying a reputation of good edibility in western United States, but poisonous in the eastern United States. Cooking the mushroom will not rid it of its poisonous effects. Persons not familiar with wild mushrooms should not eat them unless absolute identification can be confirmed by an experienced mycologist. Remember the saying, "There are old mushroom hunters, and bold mushroom hunters; but there are no old bold mushroom hunters." In other words, even the self proclaimed expert mushroom picker, if he or she picks mushrooms long enough, will eventually make a mistake and eat a poisonous mushroom.

In conclusion, the only safe mushroom to eat is the store bought mushroom. Even the experts stand a chance of making a mistake when picking wild mushrooms. We suggest that you not get in the position to make that mistake in the first place, as it may be your last mistake. Should you have a relative or friend who has eaten mushrooms and becomes ill, it is advised that you take them to the Emergency Room immediately. Even though they may feel well, sometimes within hours they may have serious side effects that could lead to death. Early intervention in the Emergency Room can sometimes be lifesaving. If mushrooms are growing in a yard or play area of small children, please rid the area of those mushrooms as children sometimes may eat the mushrooms and become poisoned.

Our Turn

What Might They Be Feeling?
by Pam Ashby

I am a defunct housing project. I was built by someone who obviously didn't care about my fate — and with the blessing of the federal government in all its wisdom. I wasn't cared for by anyone — the owners or the tenants. Oh, some of the tenants tried, but they were outnumbered by those who didn't appreciate me. It wasn't their blood, sweat and tears that built me. I didn't belong to them. They simply used (or misused) me. The neighbors hated me even more. My existence caused them a lot of pain. I was soon labeled "unlivable" and "unsafe." The big boys took the life from me, but they refused to condemn me. So now I stand empty. I am an eyesore and an embarrassment. No one knows what to do with me. I have no voice to express my opinion.

I am a town council member. I want a solution for this haunting housing project. This is my town, too. I care about what happens in my town. Sometimes I'm too defensive, though, and I worry about decisions I must make that affect so many people — my friends, my family, my peers. For whatever reason I ran for public office, I must now face the consequences of taking a stand on such an emotional issue. Sometimes I feel as though they are all out to get me — the state, the taxpayers, the media. Other times, I sense they feel my helplessness in battling the system. I don't like this housing project dilemma any more than the next guy, but I have to take it on the chin because I chose to be in the public eye. I've had to compromise my ideals more than I care to admit, but I have to answer to the public, not to myself. Popular or not, I must state my opinion.

I am a newspaper editor. It is my job to weigh the pros and cons of this housing project controversy that has upset so many people — people that I honestly care about. I have to trust that my reporters and I have gathered the facts to the best of our ability and time. I feel moved to present both sides and then take a stand — a stand that will inevitably offend someone and ultimately spark more controversy. Often times, I must defend my position to people who feel I have no right to my opinion.

.....

I am a newspaper reporter. I have the task of recounting the facts about this lousy housing project that everyone deplores. I have to spend hours talking with countless people to determine what is to be done with this deteriorating structure. I just want to be as fair and accurate as I can. I frighten people, though, because I'm in the company of sensationalists who don't adhere to good rules of journalism. I take the same kinds of abuse and ridicule as the town council and the editor. I, too, am under public scrutiny. Unlike the town council member and the editor, I'm not allowed (in the written word) to state my opinion, even though I definitely have one.

I am the taxpayer. I pay for the privilege of living in the town with that awful housing project. I want this nightmare to be over — the sooner the better. I want the officials in charge to hear what I have to say. Sometimes I forget that town council members, editors and reporters have the same feelings I have about this unfortunate situation. I look to them for information and guidance before I make my decision. Like me, I know they have families who may be in some way affected by their decisions. I know it's hard for them to make decisions that affect me. I want to be proud of my town, though, and I deserve to have my opinion heard. I paid for it, after all.

The Bradley Manor housing project has caused much grief for all the townspeople of Oakland. It has evoked suspicions (founded or unfounded), fear, angry words spoken in haste, distrust and frustration. Hopefully, that can all be put behind us now and we can move forward. Could we let bygones be bygones; still respect each other's opinions and remember that there was a common goal? That goal was a solution. That solution has been realized and now we must live with it, right or wrong. At least we had the freedom to make a decision. Our forefathers saw to that. We also have the choice to forgive and be forgiven. Jesus Christ saw to that.

Nelson-Rees Survey

Should smoking be banned on airlines?

No

According to Carol Halick of the Tobacco Institute, you would have to fly eight consecutive trips from New York to Tokyo (224 continuous hours) to inhale enough second-hand smoke to equal one cigarette. She adds that in spite of the Surgeon General's opinion, there is still no scientific evidence that second-hand smoke presents a health hazard.

What seems inconsistent, however, is that after going to all the trouble to de-regulate the airlines, congress wants to kick off a new wave of smoking regulations. Halick calls it "a classic case of the Government trying to be the nanny."

Aren't the airlines better at evaluating and serving the needs of their customers than the federal government? A study released in May by the American Pilots Association shows that 87 percent of commercial passengers are satisfied with present smoking arrangements. Complaints received by airlines center around service, delayed flights and baggage mix-ups — not smoking which constitutes only 2 percent of total complaints. If complaints were to increase, solutions could be found in further segregation, even compartmentalization, and better filtration systems — not more government regulations.

Pilots are concerned a ban on smoking would result in more "illegal" puffing in aircraft bathrooms, thereby increasing the risk of in-flight fires.

When someone tells me I can't light up, that's when I want to do it, even though I'm a non-smoker. The Surgeon General's goal to establish a smoke-free society by the year 2000 is only honorable if he does it by education, not regulation. Prohibition is no more an answer to the smoking problems of the 80's than it was for the drinking problems of the 20's. Let's learn from history. Education, not regulation, is the solution to our smoking problems. If you agree, call:

Previous survey results:

Should the U.S. pull out of the Persian Gulf?

Yes: 23.8% No: 76.2%

Yes

Smoking kills. Each year it causes more premature deaths than AIDS, alcohol, fire, auto accidents, murder, suicide, heroin and cocaine combined.

Knowing this, the majority of us don't smoke. But we've long been subjected to INVOLUNTARY smoking by sharing breathing space with those idiots who have yet to kick the habit.

A report from the U.S. Surgeon General on the health consequences of involuntary smoking shows that nonsmokers in the company of smokers may "smoke" the equivalent of 1 or 2 cigarettes a day. The report concludes that "involuntary smoking is a cause of disease, including lung cancer, in healthy nonsmokers." That's in addition to the nausea and eye, nose and throat irritation caused by tobacco fumes.

The Airline Anti-smoking Act (HR2890), a rider to a transportation appropriations bill, would ban ALL smoking on U.S. airline flights of 90 minutes or less. The bill has the support of thirty health groups — including the American Cancer, Heart, and Lung Associations — and the Association of Airline Flight Attendants.

The bill has now passed both the House and the Senate in spite of violent opposition by Senator Jesse Helms (R North Carolina) and other tobacco-state senators.

President Reagan has threatened to veto this bill. I agree there should be designated areas where smokers can enjoy their vice — but these areas should be located in the center of 40-acre parking lots, NOT in the crowded confines of an airliner. I'd far rather ride alongside an AIDS victim than sit next to someone who fills your lungs with lethal carcinogens every time he takes a puff.

Let the President know how you feel. If you're tired of breathing another person's deadly smoke, and would welcome the airline anti-smoking bill as a first step to a smoke-free society, call:

Lisa M. Beal, John R. McGee United In Double-Ring August Ceremony

Lisa Michele Beal and John Robert McGee were united in marriage in a double-ring ceremony on August 16, at Maranatha Assembly of God, Grantsville. The Rev. Joseph Moscufo officiated and Diane Brotnarkle served as pianist. Janice Nixon was vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Ernest and Wanda Beal, Grantsville. The groom is the son of Robert and Barbara McGee, Cumberland.

Given in marriage by her parents and escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was attired in a Victorian gown with a high, Chantilly lace collar with a V-yoke lace front, accented with a tightly-fitted waistline which was adorned with lace and tiny seed pearls. The gown featured long sleeves with floral lace appliques and tiny seed pearls. The gown fell to a full, organza skirt, accented with floral lace appliques and sequins and trimmed with Chantilly lace. The full cathedral-length train was fashioned of sheer organza with Chantilly lace trim.

Her fingertip veil was accented with tiny seed pearls and silk flowers adorned with a side floral spray of Lilies of the Valley.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white and peach roses, rosebuds and wedding stars, accented by pearls and sparkling Baby's Breath.

Serving as maid of honor was Anita P. Bowser, Grantsville. Bridesmaids were Lisa G. Morgan, Pocahontas, Pa.; Lori Bennett, LaVale; and Mary Ann Rinker, Accident. Flower girl was Heidi Beal, Grantsville, niece of the bride.

Serving as his brother's best man was George McGee, Cumberland. Ushers were Richard Beal, Grantsville, brother of the bride; James McGee, Cumberland, brother of the groom; and Mark Otto, Frostburg. Ring bearer was Craig M. Beal, Grantsville, nephew of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at the Salisbury (Pa.)

Hall. Mrs. Ruth Engle, Meyersdale, Pa., aunt of the bride, made the satin birdseed roses that were distributed and also attended the cake. Betty Cook, cousin of the bride, helped serve the 11-tier cake which was baked by Shelby Gable.

Melanie and Chrissy Warnick, nieces of the bride, distributed the birdseed roses and balloons. Debbie Beal, sister of the bride, attended the guest book. Michael Beal, brother of the bride, videotaped the event and presented the tape to the couple as a gift. Terry Beal, cousin of the bride, provided the music.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the parents of the groom, was held at the Silver Leaf Restaurant, Frostburg.

The couple honeymooned in Ocean City.

The bride is a graduate of Northern High School, Accident. She is presently attending Allegany Community College where she is pursuing an associate of arts degree in the medical secretary field. She is currently employed by Delegate Betty Workman, Allegany County.

The groom is a graduate of Allegany High School and is presently employed by Ernest D. Beal Masonry. He is also with the 265th Supply Company, U.S. Army Reserves.

The bride was the guest of honor at a bridal shower given her by former co-workers prior to the wedding.

The couple now resides in Cumberland.

Susan L. DeWitt, J. Scott Clark Exchange Vows In October Ceremony

Susan Lynne DeWitt and J. Scott Clark were united in marriage October 10 at First Presbyterian Church, Mansfield, Ohio. The Rev. Judith McBride officiated at the 4:30 p.m. nuptials.

The bride is the daughter of Shirley and Frank DeWitt, Mansfield, Ohio, former Oakland residents. The groom's parents are Ruth Ann and Carroll Clark, Monroe, La.

Special pre-service music was performed by Deborah Ulrich, organist, Myron Clark, uncle of the groom, vocalist, and Timothy DeWitt, cousin of the bride, trumpet soloist. Timothy is the son of Emelee and Edward DeWitt, Orchard Street, Oakland.

Readings during the ceremony were given by Mark Walsh and Jay Jadwin, friends of the groom.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. Her teal-length gown of ivory Alencon lace over satin featured a round neckline, chemise waist and long sleeves. The bodice was embroidered with tiny seed pearls. Her French illusion veil was attached to a wreath of pearls and ivory flowers. She wore a pearl pin which had belonged to her grandmother and she carried a bouquet of ivory and pink long-stemmed roses.

Pamela DeWitt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Michele Collins, sister of the bride, and Betsy Stewart. They wore matching teal-length gowns of burgundy lace over taffeta and carried bouquets of long-stemmed pink roses and baby's breath.

Douglas Clark served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Jeff Miller, Brent Howard, Mark Walsh, Jay Jadwin and Chris DeWitt, brother of the bride.

A dinner reception for 130 guests was held at Snow Trails Ski Lodge following the ceremony. Music during the dinner and dance was provided by The Luis Mendez Band.

The bride's father's barber-shop quartet entertained the guests with several selections. The finale "If You Knew Susie" was dedicated to the bride. Another special number, "Linda Rose" featured a friend, Truman Netherton, from Lawrenceville, N.J., and Pamela DeWitt, sister of the bride.

The groom and several members of his fraternity serenaded the bride with "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi."

Emelee DeWitt, aunt of the bride, served the wedding cake and Susan Jimenez, friend of the bride, was guest book attendant.

The bride is a graduate of Malabar High School in Mansfield and a 1987 graduate of The Ohio State University, where she earned a bachelor of science degree in industrial design.

Her husband is a graduate of Northwestern University, Ill., and a 1987 graduate of The Ohio State University College of Law. He is employed by the law firm of King and Ballou in Nashville, Tenn.

Following a honeymoon trip to New England, the couple established residence in Nashville.

The bride's sister and brother-in-law are Michele and Kerry Collins, East Green Street, Oakland. She is a grand-

NOVEMBER IS HOSPICE MONTH — The Board of Garrett County Commissioners recently proclaimed November as Hospice Month in the county. The proclamation is in conjunction with the National Hospice Month proclaimed by Congress and the President of the United States, Ronald Reagan. Hospice is a non-profit organization that provides volunteer caregivers for the terminally ill. In-home skilled nursing care and aid services are available through the Garrett County Home Health Agency. Inpatient care provided by Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Bereavement services are also available to the survivors after the loss of a loved one. Many activities are planned to observe Hospice Month. Pictured, seated, left to right, are Ida Maust, volunteer and board member; and Commissioners John Braskey and Elwood Groves II. Standing, same order, are Clint Englander, president of Hospice, Cathy Chapman, R.N., director of nursing services; Wayne R. Johnson, executive director of Hospice; and Lynn Newman, vice president of Hospice.

EMT-A Class To Begin At NHS

An Emergency Medical Technician (EMT-A) Class will begin on Wednesday, November 11, at Northern High School. The class, which is being sponsored by Northern Rescue Squad and Garrett Community College, will meet on Wednesday nights from 7 to 10 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 to 7 p.m. through the end of January. The instructor will be Ron Bowser. "We need your help," said NRS Training Officer Steve Hamilton. "Northern Rescue Squad is in desperate need of additional members," he said. Interested persons may call 826-8883 or 895-5520 for additional information.

GOP Committee Meets, Discusses Various Topics

A meeting of the Republican State Central Committee was held Monday evening where plans for the 1988 Lincoln Day dinner were discussed. The dinner is to be held March 5 of next year.

Paul Frantz, Brenda Butscher, Wayne Wilt, Pat White and guest Leora Beckman recently attended the fall Republican Convention in Baltimore where George Bush won the straw poll vote, with Robert Dole taking second place. The convention was also attended by George Bush Jr.

During the meeting, names were read that had been received by the committee for substitute election judges in Sang Run, Crellin, West Oakland, East Oakland, Deer Park, Accident, Swanton, and Mtn. Lake Park.

Paul Frantz, committee chairman, read a letter from the chairperson of the Autumn Glory festivities thanking the committee for their help in making the Autumn Glory parade a success.

In other news from the GOP committee, State Party chairman, Daniel Fleming, asked Frantz to serve on the Intra-Party Study Committee. The objective of the committee, according to Fleming, is to study the structure and the procedures of the Maryland Republican Party.

Fleming said the study is to be conducted "with a view toward possible changes that would enhance the electoral success of the GOP in Maryland."

The next meeting of the Republican State Central Committee is scheduled for December 7 at 6 p.m. at Topsider Restaurant, McHenry.

Christina Ritchie Is TDEC Employee Of The Month

Christina Ritchie was named "Employee of the Month" for November at The Data Entry Company, Inc., Oakland, according to Wanda Dawson, vice president.

Mrs. Ritchie has been employed by TDEC as a Data Entry operator since November 5, 1984. She was presented with a cash award and a letter of recognition for her superior work performance and dedication.

Mrs. Ritchie resides in Oakland with her husband, Steve.

Byron Bill Passed To Recognize All Firefighters

A bill introduced in Congress by Rep. Beverly Byron (D-6th) to recognize the monument at the National Fire Academy in Emmitsburg as the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial was approved by the House on Tuesday by unanimous consent.

Sen. Barbara Mikulski has agreed to introduce a companion bill in the Senate. If passed by the Senate, the monument at Emmitsburg would be the first ever national memorial to career and volunteer firefighters.

"This memorial is important," said Byron, "because it recognizes the selfless sacrifices of all firefighters, career and volunteer, who risk their lives to protect the lives and property of others." There was an interest in creating a similar memorial in Colorado, but that project proposed to honor only career firefighters.

The Fallen Firefighters Memorial was formally unveiled and dedicated on October 4, 1981, and each year there is a ceremony at the memorial to honor those brave men and women of the fire service who gave their lives in the line of duty during the previous year.

"It's only proper that the National Fallen Firefighters Memorial be located on the campus of the National Fire Academy," added Byron. "After all, the Academy is the site not only of the annual memorial service, but of numerous other national gatherings of firefighters as well."

Southern Staff To Be Available For Conferences

In association with the distribution of the first report cards for the school year, the staff of Southern High School will be available for parent conferences Thursday, November 12, between 5 and 8 p.m. and Friday, November 13, from 9 a.m. to noon. Parents may call for appointments with specific teachers or may just visit the school during this time. Appointments can be made by calling the school Guidance Office at 334-9447 any weekday between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m.

In addition to the teachers, the guidance and administrative staffs will also be available for appointments. Guidance staff will be available to provide information on colleges and financial aid for interested parents.

"MARYLAND & GARRETT COUNTY YOU ARE BEAUTIFUL" CITIZEN RECOGNITION

We are looking for Maryland's Beautiful People — those special people whose inner beauty compels them to actively love their neighbors. We want to make Marylanders aware of the great things their fellow citizens are doing. The "Maryland You Are Beautiful" Citizen Recognition Ceremony celebrates and honors individuals or groups from each county and the City of Baltimore who make Maryland Beautiful. Each County will select one special individual or group to be honored as "Maryland's Most Beautiful" at a private reception with the Governor and in a public awards ceremony in Annapolis scheduled for January 7, 1988, 5:10 p.m. This event will be free and open to every Marylander, with entertainment provided by talented groups from every corner of the state.

The individual or group chosen for Garrett County will be recognized at the commissioners meeting December 1, 1987

A fall bazaar is planned for Saturday, November 7, beginning at 10 a.m. in the Presbyterian Church, Terra Alta. Lunch will be served and crafts, nearly-new items and baked goods will be for sale. Everyone is welcome.

Paints Parking Lot

Employees of the Preston County Sheltered Workshop have completed painting lines on the East Preston Senior High School parking lot.

This project was done to allow better utilization of the parking lot. There are now 10-15 more parking spaces available.

Faculty and staff parking will now be in the center of the lot, student parking along the edge, and a bus lane will be designated along the front sidewalk bordering the lot.

Workers of the Sheltered Workshop are available for projects throughout the local communities. The Preston County Sheltered Workshop can be reached at 864-6446.

Travel To Green Bank

Twelve East Preston students went to the National Radio and Astronomy Observatory in

Green Bank recently.

Activities included visiting the 25-year-old 300-foot telescope, setting a 140-foot telescope to record the path of a star, and attending lectures about topics such as lasers and cryogenics.

Rotary News

The Rotary Club of Newburg transferred the Golden Gavel to Terra Alta Rotary on October 15. Newburg Rotarians present for the ceremony were Art Mouseym, Charles Fortney and Gene King, who presented the gavel to president Harold Rasco. Part of the program for the evening was provided by 11-year-old Kelly, granddaughter of Charles Fortney, who played six piano pieces.

On Tuesday, October 20, Terra Alta Rotary transferred the Golden Gavel to Kingwood Rotary; presentors were Charles Harriman, Bruce Reed, Kent Pomeroy, Hilton Rocha and Harold Rasco, who presented the gavel to the president of Kingwood Rotary, Erwin Fink. After the ceremony, the program was given by Terra Alta Rotarians, Bruce Reed and Ken Pomeroy, who played three songs with Pomeroy playing a French horn accompanied by Reed at the piano.

The Golden Gavel was taken to Grafton Rotary Club on Wednesday, October 21.

Terra Alta Rotary Club's Ladies Night at Silver Lake was held October 29. The program leader for November 5 will be Charles Thomas.

Personals

Mrs. Virgil Sisler is presently a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Oakland.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Bolyard, Sparks, Md., visited recently with Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gibson visited recently with Patty Decker and family in Colorado Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Albright, Layton, Iowa, and other places of interest in the area, and with Harold Bolyard, Rapid City, S.D., and also visited in Pierre, S.D., before returning to their Terra Alta home.

Homemakers Meet

The Terra Alta Homemakers Club held its monthly meeting recently at the home of Dolly Metheny. Beatrice Kelly had the devotional program followed by a prayer.

Edna Gibson's lesson was entitled "The Purpose of Extension Homemakers" starting with the National Extension Homemakers Creed, continuing to the new homemakers program book for the coming year, and ending with all repeating the club collect.

Edna Gibson, president, conducted the business session. The tabling of the donation to Hospice was discussed. It was decided to give a $10 donation to Hospice.

Members and friends are still buying cookbooks. The club has obtained 70 books so far.

Pictures and the red ribbon for the Buckwheat Festival Exhibit were given for the club's scrapbook. It was noted that $20 was awarded for the ribbon. The club received a red ribbon for its exhibit.

Lucy Kelly, Edna Gibson, and Wilma Friend and Beatrice Kelly gave a report on Achievement Day.

Refreshments were served by the hostess to Edna Gibson, Jane Hauger, Marie Metheny, Wilma Friend, Hazel Frankhouser, Lucy Kelly, Kathryn Wilburn, Ruth White, Mary Frankhouser, Wilma Glover, Beatrice Kelly and a guest, Nell Moon.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Lucy Kelly.

Various Awards Received By TA Civic Club Float

The Terra Alta Civic Club has captured four floats awards this season in area parades.

The first was first place in the amateur division at the July 4th parade in Terra Alta. At the Preston County Buckwheat Festival this year at the School Day Parade on Friday, the float won first place amateur in the civic and fraternal division, Assistant General Chairman's trophy, along with the Parade Marshal Grand Award, first place, amateur, in which all amateur floats in that parade were judged. The fourth award second place amateur was received at the Autumn Glory Parade in Oakland.

Float chairman this year was Sherry Fields, with Stevie Bayles, Donna Long, Shirley Smith, Nancy Kelley assisting. This year's theme was a red/white/blue display with regard to the 200th year celebration of the Constitution. Participants riding in the parades were Miss Fireworks 1987, Debbie Hauger, and her court. Also, the club announced that the winner of "Nancy's Garden," the quilt given away by the club at the conclusion of the Buckwheat Festival, was Carrol Burge, Alpine Lake. The members noted appreciation to all who supported this annual club project.

GCC, "Raiders" To Sponsor Bus For Art Exhibit

Garrett Community College, in cooperation with Raiders of the Lost Arts, will sponsor a bus trip to Washington, D.C., Friday, November 20, to view an exhibition of paintings by the late Georgia O'Keefe.

The cost is $20 per person and the trip is open to all GCC students and the general public. The deadline for reservations and payment is Tuesday, November 17.

Further information may be obtained by calling the college at 387-6666.

Christmas Gift Class Planned At Extension Office

"It is not too early to think about gifts to make for Christmas, and the smell of baking Christmas breads will lead the workshop on Monday, December 7, from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Cooperative Extension Office in Oakland," says Irmgard R.

Koscielniak, Extension agent, home economics. According to Koscielniak, the demonstrations will include: special Christmas breads ($1.00 charge); sewing warm slippers in one hour; and making wreaths from scratch. The session is open to the public. To register, and/or for more information, call Koscielniak at 334-1990.

Bosley Sets Record In Ram Win Over Petersburg

Despite a rather flat performance by the usually tenacious Southern High defense, the Southern Rams had little difficulty in recording their ninth win of the season without a loss, as they rolled over host Petersburg Friday night, 48-15.

While the Ram defense was a bit sluggish, after being off from school two days prior to the game and coming off that amazing win over Tucker County the previous week, the Southern offense had one of its best performances of the season, amassing 308 yards. J.R. Bosley, the area's leading rushing back, set an individual rushing record with 279 yards on 33 carries in just three quarters of action. The former record was established by Paul Cornish, who recorded 262 yards against Keyser in 1979.

Bosley also scored four touchdowns and a two-point conversion, plus displayed his usual strong defensive efforts.

The Rams were on top at the half, 16-6, and then stopped a Petersburg rally midway through the third period to take complete control. After the Vikings cut Southern's lead to nine points, the Rams came back to score 14 points in the third quarter and 18 in the fourth.

Southern opened the scoring with a safety at the 9:18 mark of the first quarter when a Petersburg snap for a punt sailed over the head of the punter and out of the end zone.

Four minutes later, Bosley capped a drive with an eight-yard touchdown run and John Milligan booted the conversion.

The Rams increased their advantage to 16-0 in the second period on a six-yard scoring run by Bosley and the conversion by Milligan.

The Vikings finally got on the board late in the second stanza on a two-yard run by Kelly Jones. The run for the two-pointer was no good.

Bosley's third touchdown and his two-point conversion came midway through the third quarter on a 21-yard run, to give Southern a 24-6 advantage.

A 50-yard pass from Scott Smith to Eric Allen resulted in a touchdown for the Vikings on their next drive and a 29-yard field goal by Brian Ginder with 6:21 remaining in the quarter narrowed the Rams' lead to 24-15. Ginder's field goal was set up by a Ram fumble on Southern's 13-yard line.

The rest of the game belonged to the Rams, as Randy Tichnell opened their second-half scoring spree by returning a Viking punt 37 yards to the touchdown.

Following a 10-yard penalty, Bosley carried the ball on the next five plays, the last being a six-yard run for the touchdown.

Another Viking scoring opportunity in the third period was halted by Zack Gibson, who picked off Smith's long pass at the Rams' six. Gibson then led a 94-yard scoring drive which he concluded with a 44-yard touchdown run on a second-and-six play early in the fourth quarter. Gibson passed to Brent Sanders for the two-point conversion.

Marty Sharpless then recorded an 18-yard touchdown run and Rodney Pike ran for the two-point conversion to give the Rams a 46-15 lead. A safety late in the game by the Rams concluded the scoring.

All but five of the Rams' 508 total yards of offense was recorded on the ground. Bosley picked up 102 of his total just in the third quarter. For his performance he was named Player of the Week by the Cumberland Times-News, the third time this season he has achieved the award.

The Vikings were held to 72 yards on the ground, while Smith was 11-for-21 through the air for 147 yards.

The victory clinched the Potomac Valley Conference title for the Rams.

"We are certainly happy with the win," Southern Coach Tom Woods stated, "but we were not really pleased with our performance. After we went up 9-0 in the first three minutes, we lost our pre-game edge. Our defense seemed to have no fear of losing, so they did not play with their usual intensity."

Woods said he was pleased with the efforts of the offense, particularly in the third and fourth periods. "We came back with intensity in the third quarter and executed very well the rest of the way," he said. "In fact, our offense executed well all night. It was our defense that was flat."

According to Woods, the Rams have worked "extremely hard" in practice this week to eliminate that "flatness" in order to be ready for the county showdown with Northern this week. (See separate story.)

Huskies Fall To Panthers, 21-6, For Seventh Defeat

After playing a strong first half and taking a 6-0 lead into the locker room at halftime last Thursday night at the Cove, things gradually fell apart in the second half for the Northern High Huskies and the end result was a 21-6 defeat by West Preston. The loss was the seventh in nine games for the Huskies, who will conclude their season this Friday night at home against cross-county rival, Southern.

Two scoring opportunities by the Panthers were halted in the first half by turnovers and the Huskies got on the board first midway through the second period when Todd Wagner fired a 15-yard touchdown pass to Danny Sines. Wagner's pass for the two-pointer was incomplete.

The Huskies resumed the momentum early in the third period by driving to the Panther 40, however a fumble at that point was picked up by a West Preston defender and returned into Northern territory. A two-yard scoring run by Scott Wodzinski capped the Panther

CRASHING THROUGH a host of West Preston defenders is Northern Husky Ed Tabor in last Thursday night's contest at the Cove. The Huskies led at halftime, 6-0, but were defeated by the Panthers, 21-6. Northern has since been preparing to pull a major upset this week when they host undefeated Southern.

The Panthers came back late in the quarter for another drive which was also concluded by Wodzinski, who crashed into the end zone from the one-yard line.

The Huskies organized a drive late in the fourth quarter and moved all the way to the Panthers' 17-yard line, but the opportunity to knot the score ended when Panther defensive back Shane Koontz picked off Wagner's pass and returned it all the way to the Husky 15. Koontz, who is also quarterback for West, recorded the insurance touchdown a few plays later with a one-yard run.

Although the Panthers finished with 19 first downs compared to only seven by the Huskies, the Northern defense gave up only 167 total yards, just four more than the Northern offensive unit generated. Wodzinski, who has run for over 4,000 yards in his four years at West Preston, accounted for 124 yards on 22 carries. It was the fifth win in nine games for West Preston, who will conclude this week against visiting Clarksburg Notre Dame.

"We've been a great one-half football team lately," Northern Coach Tom Vent stated. "If we ever put two halves together on the same evening, we'll be all right."

Vent said he believed the turning point in the game was when the Huskies fumbled on their drive in the third quarter. "That one really hurt us and we never recovered," he said.

The Huskies hope that this is the week they will be able to put those two good halves of football together as they attempt to upset undefeated Southern tomorrow night (see separate story).

Southern Jayvees Conclude Season With 14-0 Win

The Southern High Jayvees concluded another successful football season by shutting out Tucker County last Thursday night, 14-0, on the Parsons field.

It was the eighth win in nine starts by Coach Jim Bosley's squad, which is now 18-17 over the past two seasons. The Rams' only defeat came at the hands of unbeaten Hampshire this year, 14-8.

Mike Dever scored first for Southern, breaking loose for a 34-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. The run for the conversion failed and the score at halftime remained 6-0.

The second Ram TD came in the third period when quarterback Marshall Pike connected with Dave Eiswert on a 24-yard scoring pass. Billy Welch ran for the extra points.

The Southern defensive unit, led by Bret Glatfelly and Doug Lewis, did not allow a single Tucker County first down.

Northern High Gridiron To Host Annual "Civil War"

It's football civil war time again in Garrett County, and once again it appears that the south will have the upper hand going into Friday night's Northern/Southern contest at the Cove.

The Southern Rams are enjoying an undefeated season and are probably going to make the state playoffs, while the Huskies have struggled most of the season, losing seven of nine games.

For Coach Tom Woods and his staff, and particularly his senior players, a vivid memory of 1984 is etched in their minds. For it was then that another undefeated Southern team headed for the playoffs came up against a two-win Northern team and lost the game, marking that season's biggest upset in the area. The seniors on the present team were freshmen at that time.

"We have the same set of circumstances this year as we did then," Woods said. "Not only are the records the same, but the 1984 Northern team possessed the capability to beat us, and so does the 1987 team. Capability, desire, and some good fortune is all it takes to upset someone, just like we did at Tucker County."

Woods said that he has seen considerable improvement in Northern's team over the past three weeks, particularly since the Huskies converted primarily to the wishbone offense. "We have watched Northern's confidence grow the past few weeks and we believe they are starting to turn the corner," he said. "They are really beginning to excel both offensively and defensively and we believe that this team could easily be more like 6-3 than 2-7."

Among the Husky offensive personnel noted by Woods are sophomore split end Darren McKenzie (6-0, 157), who Woods describes as "one of the better receivers in the area."

"He has good speed, runs fine patterns and catches well," he said.

"Dan Eggleston (5-9, 148-pound junior center) plays with the same ruggedness that all of the Egglestons have over the years," he said.

He also noted the outstanding play of senior tackle Steve Morton (6-0, 203).

"I believe the person who has really sparked their offense is their quarterback, Todd Wagner (5-9, 157-pound junior)," Woods said. "Plus they have four good backs, two of whom, Ed Tabor and Rodney Lipscomb are excellent. They interchange well and offer a lot of diversity."

On the defensive side, Woods described senior tackle Kevin Wassel (5-10, 170) as "an excellent player who plays with desire on every down."

He also mentioned John Joe Friend, a 6-1, 215-pound sophomore tackle, and senior linebacker Jeff Rounds (6-1, 177) as two more top players on the Husky defense, which utilizes 5-2, 6-2, and 4-3 formations.

Northern Coach Tom Vent gave nothing but praise to Woods and the Rams. "They are without a doubt the best team in the area," he said. "I don't care what they say in Cumberland about Fort Hill and Allegany. I don't get to cast a vote down there. It takes a great team to go undefeated through nine games, especially with a tough schedule. Our hats are off to them."

Vent said it would take too much time and space to comment on all the players on the Southern squad that he believes to be outstanding.

"They have so many highly skilled people," he said. "J.R. Bosley should definitely be voted Player of the Year for this area, and Zack Gibson is just an outstanding quarterback, not to mention his secondary play."

When asked how he planned to upset the Rams, Vent said it will just be a matter of "lining up and going at it."

"We have watched Southern in every game except at Petersburg, and they have watched us all season," he said. "So they know and we know what each team is going to do. We'll try a few new wrinkles, but basically it will be a matter of going out and banging heads. We will just try to stay with them, one quarter at a time."

Both coaches commented on how excited they are about the game, noting that they "can't wait" for Friday night.

"If you can't get fired up for this one, then you never will," Vent said.

"In practice this week we have really stressed intensity with a capital 'I', especially after our performance last week," Woods said. "This is the most important game of our season to date."

"All we can say to Southern and their fans," Vent said, "is 'Come on down!' and we'll try to show you some Husky hospitality. We are anticipating the re-creation of the Civil War. Let's see... the North won that one, didn't they?"

Kickoff is slated for 7:30 p.m.

Elects Officers

The Mtn. Lake Park Tennis Association held its annual meeting Sunday evening at the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall. New officers elected for the coming year were: Barry Garrison, president; Patti Blythe, vice president; Linda Garrison, secretary; and Joe Swerbinsky, treasurer.

Committee persons will be named in the near future at an executive board meeting. Anyone who wishes to serve on a committee should notify one of the officers. New projects include continued improvements at the Mtn. Lake Park courts and adjacent facilities.

Three tournaments are slated at the Park courts for the 1988 season, including the annual Western Maryland Championships; the Southern Classic, sponsored by Rob W. Michaels State Farm Insurance for the benefit of the Southern High School tennis program; and the Bausch & Lomb Garrett County Open.

SHS Girls Fall To Rockwood And Bishop Walsh

The Southern High girls' varsity volleyball team continued to struggle this past week, losing to powerful Rockwood, 15-6, 15-3, and 15-8, and then dropping a four-game decision to visiting Bishop Walsh.

Joelle Cassidy and Regina Crew scored six and five points, respectively, for the Rams against Rockwood.

"Rockwood plays volleyball the way it is supposed to be played," stated Southern Coach Helen Rostovsky. "They are really outstanding, but I thought our girls played fairly well against them."

The Southern jayvees were also soundly defeated by their Rockwood counterparts, 15-3 and 15-2.

Against Bishop Walsh, the Rams dropped the first game, 15-11, came back to win the second game easily, 15-4, but then were edged in the final two games, 16-14 and 17-15.

Cassidy, who was 100 percent effective from the service line, scored 12 points for Southern, as did Crew, while Tabitha Sliger recorded 11 and Debbie Bateman, 10. Sliger also had six spikes for points or side-out and Cathy Kimble was credited with five.

Leading the Spartans were Dee Guthrie and Heidi Sticher, who had 13 points each, and Marcy McCagh with 10. It was the ninth win in 15 starts for BW.

The three seniors on the Southern squad, Cheryl Wilt, Tabitha Sliger, and Regina Crew, were honored before the Bishop Walsh match since it was their final home match.

Coach Rostovsky also noted the strong setting performances of Cheryl Wilt and Debbie Bateman throughout the season. "They have done a good job for us and good setters are not often given the credit they deserve," Mrs. Rostovsky said.

Southern concluded its season with a match yesterday against cross-county rival Northern (see separate story).

Northern Girls Whip Flintstone And Southern

The Northern varsity girls' volleyball team got back on the winning track this week and improved their record to 10-3 by defeating Flintstone in three straight games, 15-2, 16-14 and 15-8. The Huskies then concluded their regular season last night with a win over arch rival Southern.

Laura Sines paced the Huskies against the Aggies, finishing with 16 points, including eight ace serves. Kim Hinebaugh was close behind with 14 points.

Northern's offensive net play was spearheaded by Donna Stanton and Debbie Rounds. Stanton recorded six spikes, including four kills, while Rounds added five spikes with two kills.

Julie Yommer, Kim Frantz and Pam Brennenman each finished with two saves to lead the Husky defense.

In the preliminary match, the Northern jayvees snapped a five-game losing skid by defeating the Little Aggies, 15-11 and 15-7. Angie Friend led the winners with nine service points, including three aces, and Greta Bittering finished with eight, including three aces.

It was the fourth win in nine matches for the Northern jayvees.

The Northern girls' varsity volleyball team finished its regular season last night by recording their 11th win in 14 games, a four-game defeat of rival Southern on the Huskies' court.

Northern won the first game, 16-14, the Rams came back to take the second one, 15-11, and Northern won the next two, 15-5 and 15-8.

Regina Crew led Southern with 16 points, while Tabitha Sliger and Cheryl Wilt each finished with eight points. Cathy Kimble recorded five spikes.

Information about leading scorers for Northern were unavailable at press time and will appear in next week's issue.

Local Officials Discuss Education Board Finances

Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of the Garrett County Board of Education, met Tuesday morning with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners to discuss the financial status of the education board budget.

The Board of Education's financial audit was recently completed by Rodeheaver and Associates. "Although the board has realized a shortfall of $62,000 at this time in their budget, their financial picture is sound," said Commissioner Elwood Groves II at a press conference later in the day.

Dr. Ryscavage said that measures would be taken to get the budget back in line. A plan to trim the budget to offset the shortfall will be presented to the school board next week.

Ryscavage indicated that the board had begun the year with a carryover of approximately $142,000 which would be included in the funding budgeted for the present fiscal year.

The superintendent also noted favorable fund balances in the categories of instructional salaries, transportation and operations and food services.

He added that school activities last year in the public schools produced nearly $500,000 with Southern High School producing almost 40 percent of the total.

during a phone conversation with Schoenberger Wednesday morning, the HUD representative expressed HUD's unfavorable response to the Harkins' proposal and said that HUD "would probably take the project to foreclosure."

Further, it was stated by Schoenberger, said Watson, that "he doubted if the Bradley Manor units were in a suitable condition for rehabilitation, and indicated they would probably be torn down."

Tuesday's public hearing produced a number of unfavorable comments. Considerable discontent was voiced by local residents over the management of Bradley Manor in the past and concern that the situation would be a repeat of the past if rehabilitated.

Bradley Manor

Grant or other monies would be provided to the Town of Oakland "for development of recreational facilities for the town."

Watson, in reference to the October 23 meeting, noted that "Council members present gave tentative approval for the HUD talks, but reserved any final decision on the project until after a public hearing could be held."

However, in a letter written on October 23 by Hank Seifert, on behalf of Oakland Mayor H.D. Swartzentruber, to Rogers, Seifert stated, "As a result of today's meeting, the Mayor and Town Council wish to inform you of our support for making this project a reality. Specifically, we encourage the State's involvement in this project so as to prevent a foreclosure by HUD."

Seifert, after listing seven conditions upon which the project would be contingent, went on to say, "...The Town of Oakland has agreed to contribute local resources to complement the State's contribution."

James I. Humphrey, speaking on behalf of Harkins Assoc., Inc., at the hearing Tuesday evening, stated that Bradley Manor investors might lose a significant number of tax credits if the project were to foreclose. Bradley Manor is owned by Oakland Associates, whose "controlling force" is Morton Sarubin, a Baltimore-based businessman and developer.

As Humphrey indicated at the hearing, foreclosure of the project could result in legal action against and possible bankruptcy for Sarubin. This, he said, could result in delays of any action regarding the project during which time nothing would happen to the project.

Watson also informed that

One argument against the proposed project, presented by Ann Abrahamson, a local social worker, cited sociological findings which indicated that those persons living in a project, a "created culture," in general, exhibited "deviant behavior" expected of them by the surrounding community.

Another resident summed up the seemingly general consensus of the residents by stating, "We are not against low-income housing. We are against housing projects."

Yet another concerned citizen expressed discontent when she said that it was not the town's responsibility to "bail out" Sarubin, noting that investments of any kind were always a risk and that it was the investor's responsibility to accept the consequences of his actions. This, following Humphrey's contention that it was necessary to protect Sarubin's investors if the town was to maintain any control over the project.

Earlier, a councilman had indicated that if foreclosure was executed, the property would go to the auction block, leaving it open to any developer without the town's control of its management. It was also stressed by Humphrey that if Oakland did not agree to the rehabilitation, the State's offer of the block grant money would be withdrawn and may never be offered again.

At the public hearing, Watson stressed to the group that the Town Council was, indeed, in a "predicament" and that the council, as a whole, had expressed to him their "philosophical difficulties" with the proposal and the way it was presented.

Councilman Bob Boal asked that he be allowed to share his opinion with the group concerning the issue and began by stating his opposition to the proposed rehabilitation, noting that he "philosophically and ethically could not accept what was going on," and that he had a problem with the "manipulation" tactics involved.

He added that it amounted to a "bailing out" of Sarubin through tax dollars. Boal contended that the block grant had been "thrown at us to sweeten the deal," calling the gesture a "bribe." He added that the Town's request for $100,000 to replace sewer lines built in 1904 had been rejected by the State. He concluded by saying there were "lots of unanswered questions."

At a later point in the hearing, a member of the group requested that the other council members state their positions on the issue. President Seifert began by saying that he approached the offer with "apprehension," but that he felt the proposal should be given a "worthwhile consideration" and so reserved any judgment against it. He concluded by saying he was now against the proposal.

Jay Moyer then stated that he felt it would be a mistake to let the property go to foreclosure, resulting in the town losing both control over the project and the grant.

Terry Helbig reinforced Moyer's stance by emphasizing that if Oakland didn't take the money, someone else would, and added that a rejection may result in the town having no leverage with HUD.

The last council member to present his position was Jim Evans who voiced his approval of the proposal but noted his acknowledgement of the town's reservations. He stated that there is current legislation to pass a new minimum livability code which would serve to better control these housing units and the management of them.

Councilman Von Johnson was unable to attend the hearing.

Watson indicated that efforts had been made by the town in the past, with the cooperation of the Maryland State Fire

Marshal's Office and the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene, to condemn the existing buildings at Bradley Manor because of fire and health hazards believed to exist there. So far, said Watson, those efforts have not netted results.

Education Week To Be Observed At East Preston

East Preston High School will be observing American Education Week from November 15-21, with an Open House Monday through Friday. Guests are invited to the school during this special week, especially on Tuesday, November 17, when parent-teacher conferences will be held from 5 to 7 p.m. Also on that day visitors may eat lunch with the students, but should make reservations 24 hours in advance.

Guests during the week are invited to visit the classrooms and observe the activities of the various departments. They will note students cooking in the home economics room; practicing in chorus and in the band room; using the new electric typewriters; preparing art forms and composing articles on the computers. They may observe gymnastic practice, teachers lecturing, VCR taping, welding and woodworking and lab experiments.

Visitors are also invited to visit the guidance counselor, stop in the office, see the cooks at work and note janitorial service.

A poster contest, with the local theme "Quest for Excellence," will be sponsored by the library classes to generate interest in American Education Week. Various members of the faculty will have a dis-

In cooperation with the West Virginia Library Commission, the school will participate in a half-hour "read out" from 1:30-2 p.m. on November 16. This will consist of silent sustained reading or reading aloud, helping participants to see that reading is a life-long activity.

Gary Livengood, principal, says he hopes that many parents and guests will take advantage of the opportunity to visit their school.

Parent Visitation Slated Nov. 12

A parent visitation night will be held at both Northern High and Northern Middle Schools Thursday, November 12, from 5 to 8 p.m.

All parents of students there are invited to participate in parent-teacher conferences. Conferences are on a walk-in basis at the high school but they must be scheduled at the middle school.

Scheduling arrangements can be made by calling Jack Settle at 826-8165 or 895-5075.

Human Relations Visit Scheduled

The Maryland Commission on Human Relations will have a representative in Cumberland on November 19 from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., or by appointment. Daphne A. Hersher will be available to take complaints of discrimination in the Senior Citizens Council Office, located in the basement of the Human Resource Development Building, 17 Frederick Street, Cumberland.

Anyone having questions concerning discrimination in employment, housing, or public accommodation is urged to stop by the office. For additional information they may call (301) 791-4011.

Fire Marshals Meet With Co. Commissioners

Part of the Board of Garrett County Commissioners' meeting Tuesday was spent talking with State Fire Marshals Robert Shiner and Guy Carola about the challenges they face enforcing state fire codes.

The fire marshals asked the commissioners to consider certain measures for more effective enforcement of existing codes. Those measures were not outlined for the press at a news conference later.

Commissioner Elwood Groves said the commissioners would take the recommendations under advisement and report back to Shiner and Carola at a later date.

Union Agreement

Although the details have not been released yet, the commissioners stated that a union agreement for county employees had been reached this week with the American Federation of State and Municipal Employees (AFSME).

Commissioner Groves commented, "Each side got some of what they were looking for. There are always losses and gains in these matters."

County Administrator Robert J. Fousek served as negotiator in the proceedings.

Appointments Noted

Also Tuesday, the commissioners made numerous appointments to various county advisory boards.

Appointed to the Social Services Advisory Board along with the Rev. Ray Beahm, the Rev. Father John Grant and Robert Shaffer were Dorothy Rudy and Rosalee Evans.

Harley Brenneman was reappointed to the Garrett County Soil Conservation Advisory Board.

Tom Kierstead was appointed to the Zoning Appeals Board. He replaces Irving Day whose term just expired.

The Garrett County Planning Commission will have Dale Giffelty as a new member as he will fill the unexpired term of Joyce Bishoff, who recently resigned that post. John Forman will fill the unexpired term of Troy Gnevy who also resigned recently.

passage of the amendments proposed as emergency legislation. The committee believes that it is important to initiate the tax during a slow period in the tourism season in order that the inevitable problems in the enforcement and reporting may be ironed out before the heavy season for tourism. If for whatever reason the emergency legislation is not enacted by April 30, 1988, the committee recommends the delay of tax imposition to September 1988. Further it is the committee's recommendation that the affected parties to the tax be fully informed at the earliest possible opportunity when the imposition date is planned so that their rate schedules may be amended accordingly.

5. that equitable enforcement is essential to the success of the local tax. Imposition of mechanisms such as automatic liens and other enforcement procedures may have to be imposed as part of the equitable execution of the tax.

6. to maintain the one and one-half percent retainage as the administrative fee for the collector/accommodations operator. It is felt that the county must also rigorously maintain frugality in its cost for administering this program. It would be admirable if the county could maintain its administrative fee at the same one and one-half percent under which the private sector is laboring.

The commissioners said Tuesday that they would take the recommendations under advisement and arrive at a consensus and resolution in the next two weeks.

Commissioner John G. Braskey commended Fike and his committee for "doing an excellent job and making their recommendations in the time requested" by the commissioners.

Serving on the task force with Fike were: Ralph M. Burnett, Thomas Jones, Robert J. Fousek, Thomas Jones, Terry W. King, Ed Walthall and Diane Wolfe. Ex-officio members included:

Commissioner Braskey, District 1-A Delegate George C. Edwards and District One Senator John N. Bambacus.

$500,000

Funding for the mortgages was obtained through the Community Development Administration (CDA), the state's housing finance agency, which sold $63 million in tax-exempt mortgage revenue bonds on behalf of 22 local jurisdictions throughout the state. Each county involved in the program contributed a portion of its tax-exempt bonding authority to make the sale possible. CDA is a division of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development.

To obtain an MMP mortgage, borrowers should apply directly to a participating lending institution. Borrowers must have a signed sales contract on a qualifying home before applying for the loan. It would be advisable for borrowers to make their sales contract contingent on receiving financing through the Maryland Mortgage Program.

Home buyers must have established credit and a good credit rating. At the time the mortgage application is made, borrowers will be expected to pay fees for a credit report and an appraisal. When the loan is settled, borrowers will pay points, closing costs, and prepaid items, such as the first year's property taxes. In most cases, borrowers are charged one point, or one percent of the loan, on MMP loans.

For further information, persons may contact Meg Ellis at the Garrett County Community Action Agency at 334-9431, or call the Community Development Administration in Baltimore at 1-800-638-7781 (toll free).

Garrett Home Health Joins State Agency

Fourteen of the state's local Home Health agencies, including Garrett County's have combined to form the Maryland State Home Health Agency under the auspices of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Local Health Administration.

Home health services include nursing, home health aides, physical therapy, occupational therapy, speech therapy and medical/social work.

"One of the advantages of home health care to patients is that it provides for a shorter hospital stay. Patients can be released earlier even after major surgery," said Nancy LaMotte, director of the new agency. "This service keeps people out of nursing homes and the professional care allows a better quality of life because nurses are available around the clock," said Mrs. LaMotte.

Norma Bolding, R.N., director of the Garrett County Home Health Agency, is also a member of the state advisory board for the newly-organized State Home Health Agency.

"Each individual agency has its own strengths and expertise, which can now be shared with other agencies as part of the combined network of home health care agencies," said Dr. Joan Colfer, Director of Program Services for the DHMH Local Health Administration. "Now those agencies can quickly access that expertise to deal with specific problems."

In addition, the individual agencies benefit from the administrative support of the state and the positive financial impact. "Some agencies exist in rural areas of the state which are relatively underserved by the private sector, so there are more home health visits in smaller counties," Mrs. LaMotte pointed out.

Last year, in the 14 counties served by local department home health agencies, there were 83,000 home visits. Under the new program 67 percent of all visits are Medicare funded.

"The rural agencies had the lowest Medicare cost limits or caps, but were subject to higher labor costs," said Mrs. LaMotte. "That was a big disadvantage because home health care is a labor intensive service. Now those Medicare cost caps will be at the higher Baltimore metropolitan area limits," she said.

Mrs. Bolding noted that the Home Health programs in the urban areas of the state were being reimbursed more money than those in the rural areas because of the higher wage scales.

"But Medicare wasn't taking into consideration the fact that transportation costs in rural areas like Garrett County are much higher because of the distances involved," she said.

The narwhal is a large aquatic mammal that develops a tusk that is sometimes half as long as its body. During the middle ages, the tusk was highly prized as the horn of the fabled unicorn.

Good Food

and how to prepare it!

HOT CHICKEN SALAD

- 3 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 1½ cups chopped celery
- ¼ cup French dressing
- 1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 1½ cups halved seeded green grapes
- ⅓ cup toasted slivered almonds
- 1½ cups dairy sour cream
- 1 tablespoon flour
- 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup crushed potato chips
- ½ cup (2 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

Combine chicken, celery and French dressing, refrigerate, covered, 1 hour. Preheat oven to 300°F. Stir cheese, grapes and almonds into chicken mixture. Combine sour cream and flour in a bowl, add mustard and salt. Add to chicken mixture, toss lightly. Place mixture in 1½-quart rectangular baking dish. Combine potato chips and ½ cup cheese, sprinkle over top. Bake 30 minutes or until heated through. 6 to 8 servings.

DELI PLATTER ENTREE

Arrange crisp salad greens on chilled plate. Layer sliced tomatoes, cucumbers, onion rings and salami on greens. Top with mound of cottage cheese, garnish with sticks of Cheddar cheese and a cherry tomato.

FROSTY CHEESE MOLD

- ¼ cup water
- 1 envelope unflavored gelatin
- 1 cup milk
- 1½ cups cottage cheese
- ¼ cup (1 oz.) crumbled Blue cheese
- 1 can (6 oz.) frozen lemonade concentrate, thawed
- ½ cup chopped pecans
- ½ cup whipping cream, whipped
- Salad greens
- Fresh fruit of the season

Sprinkle gelatin on water in a small saucepan to soften, add ½ cup milk. Heat over low heat until gelatin is dissolved, add remaining ½ cup milk. Beat cottage and Blue cheeses in a small mixing bowl until fairly smooth. Add gelatin, then lemonade. Chill until partially set, fold in pecans and whipped cream. Turn into 5-cup mold, chill until firm. Unmold onto greens and serve with fresh fruit of the season. 6 servings.

ORANGE CREAM SALAD MOLD

- ¾ cup orange juice
- 1 package (3 oz.) orange flavor gelatin
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- ¾ cup finely chopped celery
- ½ cup (2 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- Fresh fruit for garnish

Heat orange juice to boiling, pour over gelatin in small mixing bowl and stir until dissolved. Chill until consistency of unbeaten egg white. Beat gelatin mixture about 5 minutes. Fold in cottage cheese, sour cream, celery, Cheddar cheese and lemon juice, turn into 5-cup mold. Chill until firm. Unmold and serve garnished with fresh fruit. 6 servings.

Curried Chicken Salad

- 2 Pounds Chicken or 4 Cups Cooked and Cubed
- 1 Tablespoon Onion Flakes
- 2 Tablespoons of Water
- 2 Tablespoons Oil
- 2 Tablespoons Lemon Juice
- 2 Teaspoons Vinegar
- Dash of Red Pepper
- Dash of Curry Powder
- 4 Stalks of Celery, Chopped
- 8 Thin Strips Green Pepper

Poach chicken, cool and cube. Set aside. In a medium bowl, combine flakes and water, then add remaining ingredients and mix thoroughly.

Add chicken and refrigerate. Serve cold or heat gently and serve over rice or noodles.

Yield: 8 Servings
Approx. Cal Serv.: 210

Recipe Tip: Stock up on spices for your kitchen and get into the habit of using them instead of salt. The right combination of herbs and spices can fit into any dish. # Select a Salad!

Hearty salads can be the main course while other salads can serve as an interesting dessert when made with fruit. The following collection has several surprises: cheese and chicken in a crunchy but hot salad; ground beef in a cold salad with taco flavor; cottage cheese, dairy sour cream and hard-cooked eggs as a base for an array of colorful, textured vegetables. There are cheeses, dairy sour cream and cottage cheese to make delectable chicken or fruit salad or a dressing. Select a salad and salute your meals with the appetizing possibilities only this type of food can offer.

HEARTY NOODLE SALAD

- 6 ounces uncooked curly noodles
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- ¼ cup sweet pickle relish
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ¼ cup sliced green onion
- 2 tablespoons white vinegar
- 1½ teaspoons prepared mustard
- 8 ounces Cheddar cheese, cut into ½-inch cubes
- 1 pound frankfurters, cut into ½-inch thick slices

Cook noodles according to package directions, drain. Combine noodles, sour cream, pickle relish, green pepper, onion, vinegar and mustard. Fold in cheese, frankfurters. Chill 2 to 3 hours to allow flavors to blend. 6 to 8 servings.

SEAFOOD STUFFED TOMATOES

- 1 package (7 oz.) frozen shrimp, cooked OR 1 cup cooked shrimp
- 1 package (6 oz.) frozen crab meat, thawed and well drained
- 1 cup grated carrots
- 1 hard-cooked egg, chopped
- 2 tablespoons sliced green onion
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 3 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon lemon peel
- 2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 6 large tomatoes

Cut shrimp into small pieces, flake crab meat. Combine shrimp, crab meat, carrots, egg and onion in bowl, chill. Combine sour cream, parsley, lemon peel and juice, mustard, salt and pepper in small bowl, chill. Lightly toss dressing with seafood mixture. Chill. Remove a slice from the stem and blossom ends of tomatoes. Place each tomato on side, cut into thirds about two-thirds down. Place ¼ cup seafood mixture into each sliced section (½ cup for each tomato). 6 servings.

AVOCADO CREAM DRESSING

- 2 large ripe avocados, peeled and mashed (about ¾ cup)
- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel
- 1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
- 2 teaspoons prepared horseradish
- ½ teaspoon salt

Combine avocado, sour cream, lemon peel and juice, horseradish and salt. Cover and chill 30 minutes to allow flavors to blend. (Dressing will darken upon standing). Yield: Approximately 2 cups.

SHRIMP AND COTTAGE CHEESE SALAD

Arrange crisp lettuce in shells or on salad plates. Top with mound of cottage cheese, surround with cooked and peeled shrimp. Garnish with a lemon twist. Serve with Avocado Cream Dressing.

FARMERS' CHOP SUEY

- 2 cups cottage cheese
- 2 cups dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup unpeeled sliced cucumbers
- 2 cups torn lettuce
- 3 green onions with tops, chopped
- ½ cup sliced radishes
- ½ cup sliced green pepper
- ½ cup celery, thinly sliced on diagonal
- 2 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
- Cherry tomatoes, halved

Mix cottage cheese, sour cream and salt. Chill 1 hour. Cut cucumber slices in half, if large; salt and chill. Drain before adding to salad. Line large salad bowl with lettuce, fill with cottage cheese mixture. Arrange cucumbers, onions, radishes, green pepper, celery, eggs and tomatoes on top. Toss all together and serve. 8 servings.

TACO SALAD

DRESSING:

- 1 cup dairy sour cream
- 3 tablespoons chili sauce
- 1 tablespoon chopped canned jalapeno chilies
- 1 teaspoon finely grated onion
- (Yield: Approximately 1½ cups)

SALAD:

- 1 pound lean ground beef
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 can (15 oz.) red kidney beans, drained
- 1 package (1½ oz.) taco seasoning mix
- 1 cup water
- 2 quarts chilled, torn romaine lettuce OR salad greens
- 1 large avocado, peeled and sliced
- 3 to 4 tomatoes, quartered
- ½ cup sliced pitted ripe olives
- 2 cups slightly broken taco flavor tortilla chips
- 1½ cups (6 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

For dressing, combine dressing ingredients, chill, covered, 1 to 2 hours to allow flavors to blend. For salad, brown beef with onion, drain off drippings. Add kidney beans, taco seasoning mix and water. Cover and simmer 10 minutes. Drain and chill thoroughly. To assemble salad, toss chilled meat mixture with lettuce, avocado, tomatoes, olives, tortilla chips, cheese and chilled dressing. Reserve some avocado slices and tomatoes for garnish, if desired. Serve immediately. 8 servings.

Serve Harvest Pear Salad For Fall Buffet

Fresh Western Bartlett pears are a sweet juicy addition to a distinctive economical fall buffet salad. This pear, bean and vegetable combination is especially good to serve with baked sliced ham.

There is no need to peel luscious fresh Bartlett pears. Their skins are tender and add flavor and nutrition to the salad. Simply core and slice them and combine with canned kidney beans, shredded cabbage and thinly sliced celery, radishes and cucumber. The salad is tossed with a creamy French dressing and chilled until serving time.

Fresh Bartlett pears from Pacific Coast orchards are on the market from late August through October. When buying fresh Western Bartletts, look for pears that are firm and free from blemishes. Yellow coloring indicates ripeness, although under-ripe pears will be ready to eat in a few days if kept at room temperature. Once ripe, they should be stored in the refrigerator.

Harvest Pear Salad

- |                                |   |
|--------------------------------|---|
| 4 fresh Western Bartlett pears | 1 cup thinly sliced unpeeled cucumber     |
| 2 cups shredded cabbage        | 2 cans (16 oz.) red kidney beans, drained |
| 2 cups thinly sliced celery    | 1/2 cup bottled creamy French dressing    |
| 1 cup thinly sliced radishes   | Salt and pepper                           |

Core and slice pears, but do not peel. Reserve 3 or 4 slices for garnish. Combine pear slices with cabbage, celery, radishes, cucumber and kidney beans. Toss with dressing to coat. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve chilled. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

RISKS

Joseph Fort Newton, who lived and wrote in another generation, declared that Pleasure is received, happiness must be achieved. We are not, he said, to wait until it is brought to us on a silver platter. If we do not seek it, find it, create it, it's just too bad.

Risk, that's what Newton is talking about. Not much happens in life until a person moves into the arena where risks are demanded, called for, and committed to.

Life is based on willingness to take a positive risk. In the parable on talents, Jesus compliments the two people who risk their gifts and double them. But he scathed with denouncing criticism the person who buried his gift, who refused to take a risk with life (Matt. 25:14-30).

And there's fun and fulfillment in life if a person risks enjoying it. Life is beauty amid drabness, and life is vibrant, a pulsating activity amidst all odds.

SEEING THE FACE OF GOD

November 8, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 32:1-33:11

Jacob named the place "Peniel," which means "the face of God." For it was here at the ford of the Jabbok River that Jacob had experienced a life-changing experience with God. Wrestling all night with a mysterious and unknown "man," Jacob later concluded that it was God himself whom he had encountered at the lonely place.

What bewildered Jacob was that he was still alive to contemplate what had happened, for he had always been led to believe that if he saw God face to face, he would die. But he hadn't died; he was very much alive.

Who was that man with whom he wrestled? God, a messenger from God, or, as some commentators have suggested, himself? We don't know and it really doesn't matter, because Jacob was convinced that in some way he had been in the presence of God. And, instead of being dead, as he expected, he was alive as never before in his life.

Jacob had had a number of encounters with God and at 12 had even caught a glimpse of what he decided was God's face. But he was torn and a place, and this time it would be the face of God.

Jacob had had a number of encounters with God and at 12 had even caught a glimpse of what he decided was God's face. But he was torn and a place, and this time it would be the face of God.

A CHANGED MAN

Another question over which some have argued is whether it was this experience at Peniel that changed Jacob, or was it simply an culmination of the change that had already been taking place? I believe the Peniel experience may have put the finishing touches on Jacob's change, but he had been in a process of change ever since he first left home. The dream which we call "Jacob's ladder," his experiences with Laban in Haran, his obedience to God's promise, "Return to your country and to your kindred, and I will do you good" (32:9)—all of this was part of a gradual, but certain change from Jacob the Supplanter to Israel the man of God.

MY BROTHER, ISAI

In deciding to return to his home and his brother Esau, Jacob showed faith, courage and contrition. To be sure, he was fearful that his brother would seek to do him harm, but it is evident that Jacob realizes how wrong he was and wants to make amends.

One cannot help thinking that Esau must also have changed during these twenty years. Despite what Jacob had done to him, he was willing to forgive and forget. He could rightly regard Jacob as his enemy, instead, he calls him "my brother" (33:9).

NEVER BE AFRAID OF ANY SICKNESS

Too many people suffer from constant pains and discomforts because they are afraid to go to a physician. They fear they may learn they have a serious condition.

This is not smart. Your Doctor can now do more for you than was ever before possible. Modern improved diagnosis plus recently perfected drugs almost insure quick help. There are so few incurable diseases and even those, if detected early, can be more comfortably lived with.

Joseph Fort Newton, who lived and wrote in another generation, declared that "Pleasure is received, happiness must be achieved. We are not," he said, "to wait until it is brought to us on a silver platter, if we do not seek it, find it, create it, it's just too bad."

Risk, that's what Newton is talking about. Not much happens in life until a person moves into the arena where risks are demanded, called for, and committed to.

Life is based on willingness to take a positive risk. In the parable on talents, Jesus compliments the two people who risk their gifts and double them. But he scathed with denouncing criticism the person who buried his gift, who refused to take a risk with life. (Matt. 25:14-30)

And there's fun and fulfillment in life if a person risks enjoying it. Life is beauty amid drabness, and life is vibrant, a pulsating activity amidst all odds.

SEEING THE FACE OF GOD

November 8, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 32:1-13

Jacob named the place "Peniel," which means "the face of God." For it was here at the ford of the Jabbok River that Jacob had experienced a life-changing experience with God. Wrestling all night with a mysterious and unknown "man," Jacob later concluded that it was God himself whom he had encountered at the lonely place.

What bewildered Jacob was that he was still alive to contemplate what had happened, for he had always been led to believe that if he saw God face to face, he would die. But he hadn't died; he was very much alive.

Who was that man with whom he wrestled? God, a messenger from God, or, as some commentators have suggested, himself? We don't know and it really doesn't matter, because Jacob was convinced that in some way he had been in the presence of God. And, instead of being dead, as he expected, he was alive as never before in his life.

A CHANGED MAN

Another question over which some have argued is whether it was this experience at Peniel that changed Jacob, or was it simply a culmination of the change that had already been taking place? I believe the Peniel experience may have put the finishing touches on Jacob's change, but he had been in a process of change ever since he first left home. The dream which we call "Jacob's ladder," his

- make more money if I was one of those real-estate brokers selling a mansion at a percent commission." Leach does admit, he does own a piece of the show. "But I see you interview Prince Rainer and Frank Sinatra and not feel a twinge?"
- Leach began his career as a print journalist in England. In 1963, he moved to New York and sold shoes before landing a job on the Daily News. After coxing showbiz for the tabloid Star, he began doing morning show TV spots. Stinting on CNN and "Entertainment Tonight," followed.
- Now he finds that, "I do have to look at myself through two people. One is the real Robin Leach and the other is the public caricature. It doesn't mind the impression many people people do make). But you have to remember," he adds, having learned the lesson of rich and famous, "there are two of us."
- plays the grandfather of a girl with Down's syndrome in a "Kids Like These." It airs BS.
- right to make last minute changes.

MSTA Urging Establishment Of Standards Board

The establishment of an independent, educator-controlled professional standards board will be a top legislative priority of the Maryland State Teachers Association (MSTA), Beverly L. Corelle, president of the 35,000-member organization, said last weekend.

In a speech delivered at the MSTA Convention in Ocean City, Corelle stressed the need to empower teachers and to give them control of their own profession.

One of the ways to give teachers more control of their profession, she said, is to give them power to establish and maintain standards for the certification of teachers and the accreditation of teacher training programs.

A bill that would have established an autonomous professional standards board, a proposal that had a majority of educators on the Maryland General Assembly, was defeated this year because of strong opposition from the State Board of Education, which currently has responsibility for teacher certification.

Corelle said, "The position was fierce in opposition, as it will be in the future. We are telling the educational and political establishment is this: 'If you want to make us more accountable, give us the power to control our profession. In short, put up or shut up.'"

The MSTA president also stressed political action as a means of giving teachers more influence in the making of major educational decisions. She noted that MSTA was organizing precinct contact teams throughout the state "to give our association a political presence in every county in the state, year-round."

The concept, she said, is to lobby legislators not just in Annapolis when the legislature is in session, but also between sessions and in their home districts.

Corelle said teachers in the past have shied away from political action because they feared that it would take away from the professional image.

"But professionalism," she said, "has been a one-way street that has led to longer hours, more duties, more responsibilities, more education, training and experience, but not more money or more control."

The time has come, she said, to buttress professionals, with political power.

Dr. Gail Herman Keynote Speaker To Maine Educators

Dr. Gail Herman, Swanton, was a keynote speaker at Bates College, Maine, for the Maine Educators of The Gifted and Talented (MEGAT) Fall Conference, held October 23.

Dr. Herman's speech was entitled "Evolution of The Child in The Visual and Performing Arts." Research and personal experience with students revealed hints on finding and nurturing talent interests. She also presented workshops on mime and storytelling for classroom teachers, as well as special education teachers.

Maine recently mandated that schools develop programs over the next five years to service gifted and/or talented students in the visual and performing arts as well as in academic areas.

W-A-R-N-I-N-G Downed Electric Wires Can Be Deadly!!!

What To Do If A Fallen Wire Comes In Contact With Your Vehicle

If an overhead electric line falls or comes in contact with your car or truck, DON'T PANIC! The safest thing to do is STAY IN YOUR VEHICLE until your utility company turns off the power and confirms that conditions are safe. Instruct all other people in the area to stay away.

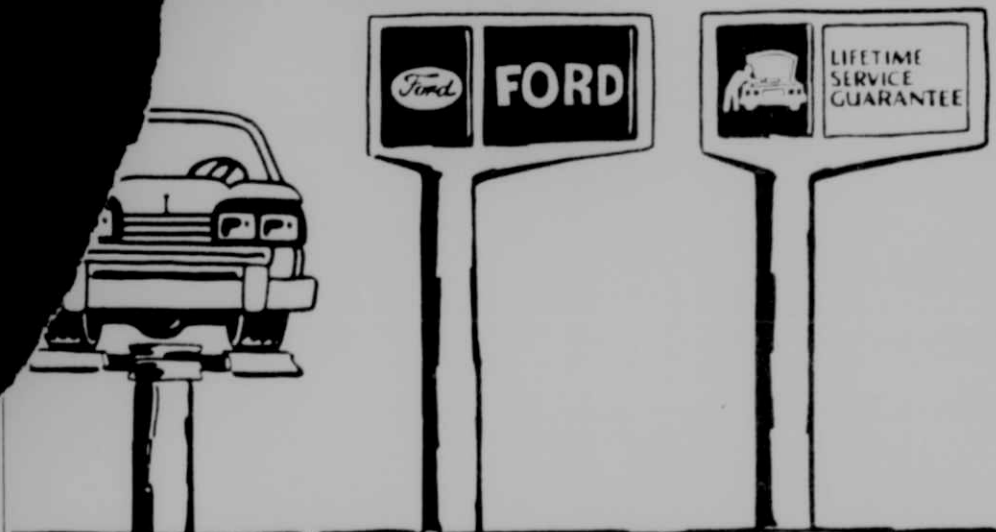

If there is immediate danger, such as fire, then you and any passengers must jump completely clear of the vehicle. JUMP WITH BOTH FEET TOGETHER AND ARMS IN THE AIR AWAY FROM THE VEHICLE. DON'T ALLOW ANY PART OF YOUR BODY TO TOUCH THE VEHICLE WHILE ANOTHER PART TOUCHES THE GROUND. After hitting the ground, move away slowly taking small steps. Each person in the vehicle must follow this procedure individually. DO NOT ATTEMPT TO TOUCH ANOTHER PASSENGER IN THE VEHICLE AFTER YOU ARE OUT. Be sure not to touch or step on any other wires which may be dangling or on the ground.

We suggest you keep this information in the glove compartment of your car or truck.

Garrett Memorial Employees Of The Month Named

A spokesman at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently announced that Jean Johnson, Patient Accounts representative, was selected as June's Employee of the Month; and M. Helene McCauley, Data Processing Clerk, was selected July's Employee of the Month.

Mrs. Johnson has been employed in the Credit Department since May 26, 1981. Her duties include making telephone calls and sending letters to patients in order to assist them in paying their hospital accounts. A native of Gorman, she and her husband, Robert, currently reside in Oakland. She has four children: Sandra Waugh, 24; Shirley Jarusek, 22; Stella Rolf, 21; and Burnice Steuber, 12. In her spare time, Mrs. Johnson likes to collect dolls and go to flea markets.

Commenting on her job and her selection as Employee of the Month, Mrs. Johnson stated, "I still can't believe I was chosen. The things I like best about my occupation are my family of co-workers at the hospital and that my success in collecting will be directly reflected in improved cash flow for our hospital."

Donald Battista, director of Patient Accounts, stated, "Mrs. Johnson consistently exemplifies the sort of professionalism, empathy, tenacity and helpfulness necessary to get the job done."

Mrs. McCauley has been employed in the Finance Department of the hospital since August 27, 1975. As a data processing clerk, she is responsible for keying all computer input and other related accounting duties involved in the Data Processing Department. Originally from West Virginia, Mrs. McCauley, her husband, Michael, and two sons, Jeff, 20, and Jack, 16, and daughter, Jayne, 28, reside in Oakland.

She commented that she was surprised that she was chosen "because there are so many others in my department that do a good job." She says she finds her job "interesting and a challenge to learn new things." Benjamin Rosenthal, associate administrator, commented, "Helene has been a member of the hospital's Data Processing Department for more than 12 years. She was one of the key persons involved in the hospital's conversion from the manual system to our automated computer system. She is a very conscientious and dedicated employee. Her performance and accomplishments to date have been excellent. I am proud to have her as a part of the Data Processing team."

"Super-Person Syndrome" To Be Workshop Topic

"Super-Person Syndrome," the subject of the workshop in the "Take a Forward Step" series sponsored by the New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College will be held on Wednesday, November 11, from 10 a.m. to noon at the Oakland Center of Garrett Community College, 104 East Center Street, in Room 603.

This workshop will concern multiple-role persons and how to avoid burnout. Mike McLaughlin, counselor at Frostburg State University, will facilitate this free workshop, which is open to the public.

Pre-registration is recommended by calling the New Horizons Program at 334-9184 weekdays between 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Revival Services Set For Nov. 8-10 At Springs Church

Renewal services will be held at the Springs Mennonite Church on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, November 8-10. The guest speaker of these meetings will be Marion Bontrager from Hesston, Kan.

There will be special music presented at each service by area people. Services on Sunday will be held at 10:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., with Monday and Tuesday services beginning at 7 p.m.

Bontrager is a Bible instructor at Hesston College, where he has taught for the past 14 years. Prior to his work at Hesston College he served churches in Ohio of the Mennonite Church.

The members of Springs Mennonite Church are part of Mennonites who gather for worship in 32 countries around the world. With 730,000 members, the Mennonite Church has been in existence for more than 450 years, with a wide variety of practices and people.

The renewal services and all services at the Springs Mennonite Church are open to the public.

SHS Students Inducted Into Honor Society

The Foster D. Bittle Chapter of the National Honor Society, which is chartered at Southern High School, inducted 14 new members during its annual induction ceremony Friday, October 23. The event was held in the school cafeteria before all the members of the junior and senior classes.

Arthur Refosco, principal, welcomed the students and the parents of the inductees to the assembly. Chapter President Shelli Terlizzi then outlined the history and purpose of the National Honor Society, as well as the procedure for election of new members.

The senior Honor Society members then conducted the induction ceremony by means of a dramatic mock trial. To conclude the program, Lowell Letzel, chapter advisor, thanked those who helped to plan and prepare the program. The Food Service students, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Ann Shippey, then served refreshments to the chapter members and families of the inductees.

The 1987 inductees are: Tina Thomas and Regina Welch, seniors; and Melanie Barr, Christine Bittinger, Norma

Broadwater, Jamie Colaw, Jennifer Giotfelly, Kenny Giotfelly, Ben Humberson, Kelly Mahoney, Krystal O'Brien, Karyn Posey, Brian Ridenour, and Courtney Smith, juniors.

The 1987-88 chapter officers are: Shelli Terlizzi, president; Becky Helbig, vice president; Tracy Umstot, secretary/treasurer; and Diana Whitacre, historian.

Local Developer Named To State Housing Group

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced the appointment of 15 persons, one from Garrett County, to serve as members of the Maryland Housing Policy Commission.

The purpose of the commission is to assist the Secretary of Housing and Community Development (DHCD) in finding ways to improve housing opportunities for individuals with low and moderate incomes, and to increase opportunities for home ownership.

R. Thomas Thayer, owner of Garrettland Realty, local builder, developer, and broker, is among the governor's appointees.

The major responsibilities of the commission include:

- development of an annual housing plan, policy and needs statement for the state, including an assessment of the progress of the department in implementing the plan for presentation to the governor and the General Assembly;
- recommendations for innovative programs relating to building, financing, insuring and managing housing for those who cannot be served by the private market;
- annual review of existing and proposed housing programs and recommendations for modifications as appropriate; and
- support for local governments in developing cooperative solutions to common housing problems.

Governor Schaefer said, "Decent housing for all Marylanders is our goal. We will achieve this through a partnership, with the ideas and innovation of private business, the general public, and government working together. These very talented people, making up the Maryland Housing Policy Commission will contribute greatly to our efforts."

Secretary Rogers stated, "This is an outstanding group of individuals who can bring new insight into the means of providing housing for people with low and moderate incomes. I will rely heavily on their expertise and experience in establishing the direction for the housing department."

The law requires that the commission include: one member from the residential building industry, one from the banking industry, two local public officials involved with housing and community development activities, one resident of public-assisted housing, one member of a neighborhood or civic group concerned with promoting low-income housing and five members of the public at-large. In addition, the governor appointed an ex-officio member from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) field office in Baltimore.

The new members of the Maryland Housing Policy Commission will begin serving November 1, 1987. Terms of the members are staggered, to allow for continuity in the commission's operations.

For more information on the Maryland Housing Policy Commission, its mission or its members, persons may contact Kristen Mark Hughes, DHCD, 45 Calvert Street, Annapolis, Md. 21401, or call (301) 974-3176.

Post Offices To Be Closed For Veterans Day

All post offices, stations and branches will be closed on Wednesday, November 11 in observance of Veterans Day Holiday, Baltimore Division General Manager/Postmaster James A. McDougald has announced.

There will be no window service, that day. Post Office box service will be provided on a holiday schedule. Delivery services will be limited to Express Mail and Special Delivery at offices having receipt of mail. One collection will be made from boxes located in front of main offices and where needed at stations, branches, Self-Service Postal Centers, business areas and some residential areas.

Local customers may purchase stamps, postal cards, envelopes and insurance up to $20.00 for packages from Self-Service Postal Centers which are open 24-hours daily at the Oakland and Mtn. Lake Park post offices.

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

SHOULD THE BODY BE VIEWED?

Some people have strong views on this question and these should be respected. Others have no firm commitment one way or the other, and would answer such a question on the basis of circumstances. For these people, we would offer the following advice, based on many years of experience.

If the body can be made viewable, it should be viewed. It serves a number of very helpful and constructive purposes. In cases where the decedent has been living away from home, or confined to a distant medical institution, viewing can provide the confirmation that death has occurred. It provides a way to recall the loved one as he or she should be remembered — free of the evidence of pain, wasting, or injury. Viewing is likewise considered therapeutic for people. It is especially helpful for a child who has experienced the death of a loved one. Instead of relying on imagination, the child can begin to comprehend the real meaning of death.

FRIENDSVILLE NEWS

Traffic Flow,
Parking Changes

The following changes in traffic flow and parking patterns are proposed by the Mayor and Town Council for Walnut Street, between First Avenue and Second Avenue, effective November 30.

Walnut Street will be designated one way from west to east. On the north side of Walnut Street, in front of Old Mill Restaurant and Youth Valley Motel, 30° angle parking will be instituted. This allows for six parking spaces at this location. On the south side of Walnut Street parallel parking will be permitted. Maryland Vehicle Law requires that parallel parked vehicles face in the direction of traffic flow, thus this arrangement will be self-regulating.

These proposed changes were chosen from several possible alternatives suggested by the Garrett County Traffic Advisory Committee, an advisory group sponsored by the county commissioners office, after a field review was conducted by the State Highway Administration at the request of the TAC and the mayor and town council. This request was precipitated by the pedestrian and vehicular safety problems at this location.

Contest Winners

The winners of the Halloween Bag Decorating Contest at Friendsville Elementary School were as follows:

Pre-K — 1 Ryan Friend, 2 Jeremiah Guard, 3 Nathan Sisler.

Grade Four — 1 Chrissy Umbel, 2 Westly Young, 3 Harmony Tortorice.

Grade Five — 1 Sarah Bosley, 2 Stacey Anderson, 3 Stephanie Bennett.

The students worked under the direction of Douglas Gaither, art teacher.

FLAGS PRESENTED — The Friendsville Rotary Club presented flags which had flown over the Capitol this past July 4th to the Northern High and Northern Middle schools. The flags were obtained through the courtesy of Congresswoman Beverly Byron. Byron was the guest of honor recently at a joint meeting of the Friendsville Lions and Rotary clubs at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Frantz. Pictured above, left to right, are Charley Miller, member of Rotary; Edward G. Green, principal of Northern High School; and Harry Savage, president of Rotary.

UNICEF collections totalled $30.00.

The winner of the pumpkin weight contest was William Nedrow and the winner of the candy corn contest was Lillian Bates.

WVU Researchers Develop Process To Convert Poor Coal Into Top Fuel

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — Four West Virginia University researchers have developed a new process to convert high-ash, low-btu value coal into a low-ash, high-energy premium fuel. At its best, the process reduces ash in the coal by 99 percent and removes up to 67 percent of the coal's sulfur.

While most coal conversion processes require extremely harsh conditions, around 800 degrees Fahrenheit and very high pressure, this new process works at 400 degrees Fahrenheit and normal atmospheric pressure.

Tests were run on coals from Pittsburgh, Sewell, and Bakers-town seams. According to the researchers, the Bakers-town coal yielded the best results with a 99 percent decrease in ash and a 67 percent increase in energy density, with the raw coal measuring 10,800 btu/pounds and the refined extract at 15,000 btu/pound.

Eric A. Mintz of the Department of Chemistry presented this research at the 1987 International Conference on Coal Science in Maastricht, The Netherlands, October 26-30. He will also be conducting seminars at the Rhineland Westfalen Technical University in Aachen, Germany, and the University of Bayreuth, in Bayreuth, Germany.

Dr. Mintz's colleagues on the project are Paul W. Jagodzinski of the Chemistry Department and John W. Zondlo and Alfred H. Stiller of the Department of Chemical Engineering.

The new method hinges on dissolving coal in the supersolvent N-Methyl-2-Pyrrolidone. Such solvents can dissolve a broader range of substances than regular solvents.

Since the supersolvent does not dissolve the ash and the minerals which contain sulfur, these impurities can be readily filtered out of the mixture. The remaining coal in the mixture serves as the base for the premium fuel or as chemicals raw material for the industry.

Dr. Stiller, who began similar studies in 1979, was the first in the group to explore the use of supersolvents for liquefying coal, and he has patented a portion of the process.

Development of this new technology is in its early stages. The researchers plan to submit a proposal to the U.S. Department of Energy through the Consortium for Fossil Fuel Liquefaction Science to support fundamental studies to learn how to improve the process's performance. The work has been supported by various grants from the U.S. DOE through the Consortium and by the WVU Energy and Water Research Center. Dr. Mintz's trip is being funded by the Energy and Water Research Center and by the WVU Faculty Senate.

Alfred Stiller, WVU chemical engineer, pours a coal liquid mixture produced with the use of supersolvents.

Health Care Is Focus Of Fall Consumer Courier

The Consumer Protection Division in the office of Maryland Attorney General J. Joseph Curran, Jr., has released the fall issue of the Maryland Consumer Courier, a tabloid newspaper featuring consumer-related articles that focus this time on health care, with reports on the Division's new Health Education and Advocacy Unit; Medicare, and whether physicians should be able to directly sell prescription drugs to consumers.

In a letter to consumers on the front of the 12-page newspaper, Curran notes that one of the primary functions of his office's new Health Education and Advocacy Unit "is to provide you with educational materials on health matters to help you make some of the most important decisions you will ever make. This special issue of the Courier is part of that health education effort."

In addition to other health-related articles on how to obtain copies of your medical records; health clubs, and the Consumer Protection Division's lists of Maryland doctors' fees, the new issue of the Courier also contains reports on allegedly deceptive advertising in the fast-food and automobile industries; phony tests for radon gas in consumers' homes, and updates on consumer protection cases being handled by the Attorney General's office.

The new Health Education and Advocacy Unit helps consumers resolve disputes with doctors; health care institutions such as hospitals; other health care providers, and health insurance companies. Since it began full-time operation in January, the unit has handled several hundred complaints and inquiries. It receives between 10 to 20 calls or letters a week from consumers, according to Vik Khanna, the health professional who coordinates the unit's efforts, and Kevin Simpson, its ombudsman and investigator.

If consumers have a complaint about a doctor's bill, medical records, a hospital, clinic, health care provider or facility, they can write the Health Education and Advocacy unit at the Consumer Protection Division, 7 N. Calvert Street, 3rd Floor, Baltimore, Md. 21202. In writing to the unit, consumers should provide their full name, address, and the telephone number of the person or facility about which they are complaining. They also should enclose copies, not originals, of the bills, letters, cancelled checks, insurance policies and other papers relevant to their complaint. In general, the unit does not deal with disputes about the quality of health care provided by doctors, dentists or other professionals but refers consumers with such complaints to the state regulatory boards and commissions which oversee such professions. A list of the regulatory groups and their telephone numbers is in the new issue of the Courier.

Copies of the Courier, which began publication in 1985, are distributed free to more than 10,000 community groups and consumer organizations around the state, and also are available at all of Maryland's public libraries; AAA offices; Giant Food and Safeway supermarkets; Motor Vehicle Administration offices, and Baltimore subway stations. Copies may also be obtained free by writing to the paper's managing editor, Lisa A. Jose, at the Consumer Protection Division's office in Baltimore.

TWO VIRUSES JOIN FORCES TO KILL DOGS

Canine coronavirus and canine parvovirus, the two leading causes of viral diarrhea, have now joined forces to cause acute diarrhea that can lead to death in puppies and dogs. This phenomena of two or more infectious agents combining in the intestinal tract to cause more severe symptoms is often referred to as the "enteritis complex."

Parvovirus is a highly contagious disease which causes severe diarrhea, vomiting and often leads to death. Coronavirus, the second leading cause of viral diarrhea is being diagnosed more often. This disease affects dogs of all ages but is most severe in puppies. Symptoms include diarrhea, vomiting, excessive thirst, weight loss, listlessness and loss of appetite. Coronavirus, while not a new virus, is difficult to diagnose requiring new sophisticated techniques involving electron microscopy and/or immunofluorescence. Coronavirus can occur simultaneously with parvovirus to cause even more severe symptoms which lessens the chance of recovery.

Preliminary studies conducted by Cornell University indicate that coronavirus is playing a more important role in the infectious canine enteritis complex than previously thought. This study demonstrated that a dual infection of both coronavirus and parvovirus can produce acute viral diarrhea with a 100 percent mortality rate. The severity of a dual infection is caused by the two viruses' simultaneous attack on the intestine.

This recent information is of great importance to veterinarians, dog breeders, show trainers, kennel owners and dog owners everywhere. Dogs need to be protected against both coronavirus and parvo because dual infections of these two extremely contagious diseases presents a dangerous situation which is occurring throughout the country, as reported by Dr. James F. Evermann of Washington State University. Dr. Evermann, regarded as one of the nation's top authorities on the diagnosis of canine enteric (intestinal) diseases, reported on routine tests sent to three U.S. diagnostic labs and one in Canada to diagnose intestinal disorders. At all testing sites, dual infections of coronavirus and parvovirus were isolated in no fewer than 15 percent of the cases and up to 25 percent in others. Dr. Evermann said that as early as 1980, researchers discovered that "dogs infected with both viruses had a higher fatality rate than dogs infected with either virus alone."

Typically, in a routine vaccination program, dogs are vaccinated against parvovirus, but are not protected against coronavirus, a disease which has been overlooked as a threat to canine health. Now, with the discovery of the dangers involved, coronavirus will most likely be incorporated into routine vaccination schedules across the country.

A recent technological breakthrough from a leading manufacturer in the animal health industry now allows puppies and dogs to be protected against both parvovirus and coronavirus in one vaccine. Called The Puppyshot or Duramune DA2PP-Cvk, this exclusive product is the first to combine parvovirus and coronavirus the two most important viruses in the enteritis complex into a single shot.

In addition to coronavirus and parvovirus, the new vaccine also protects against distemper, hepatitis and parainfluenza three other serious viral diseases that afflict dogs of all ages. The Puppyshot has exceeded all standards for safety and effectiveness in the prevention of parvovirus, coronavirus, distemper, hepatitis and parainfluenza.

Fellowship Center Flea Markets Set

Oakland Resident Sentenced On Battery Charges

During Garrett County District Court, traffic court proceedings, held last week, an Oakland man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail after he had been found guilty on two counts of battery.

Carroll L. Uphold, 42, was found guilty of the first count and received the year sentence, 11 months of which was suspended, was placed on 24 months supervised probation and fined $100. He was fined $50 for the second count, and sentencing and probation were to be served concurrently with the first count.

Charges were filed against him by Barbara A. Uphold, also of Oakland, following incidents on May 2 and June 22 in Oakland when he reportedly assaulted and battered her. A pre-sentence investigation had been ordered for Uphold after he was found guilty of the charges in a previous trial.

Darrell E. Gregory, 30, Mtn. Lake Park, received a one-year suspended sentence after he was found guilty of battery during a previous trial when a pre-sentence investigation had been ordered. A charge of fourth degree sexual offense was not prosecuted.

Gregory was then placed on 24 months supervised probation and fined $100. Loretta E. Piper, also of Oakland, filed the charge following an August 5 incident in Mtn. Lake Park, when Gregory reportedly assaulted her while she was babysitting there. James F. Braskey was the attorney for the defense.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered in two cases filed against Rodney J. Uphold, 24, Oakland, after he was found guilty of assault, in one case, and battery, in another.

A charge of assault with intent to murder was not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence, and he was found not guilty of assault in the first case. Those charges had been filed by Rhonda R. Uphold, also of Oakland.

In the second case, a charge of assault with intent to murder was also not prosecuted because of insufficient evidence. That charge, and a charge of destruction of property, were filed by Jeffrey G. Meyers, Oakland. He was found not guilty of the destruction charge.

Both complainants filed charges following a June 20 incident when they reported that Uphold assaulted them by following them in his car and shooting at them. Meyers also alleged that his 1983 Chevrolet pickup truck was damaged by Uphold's vehicle, a 1983 Skyhawk, when he sideswiped the truck on Mountain Road.

John R. Toston, public defender, was the defending attorney. Rodney Uphold, in turn, charged Meyers with destruction of property, for which he was found not guilty, after Meyers reportedly caused damage to his 1983 Skyhawk.

Rhonda R. Uphold, 21, Oakland, was found guilty of battery against Rodney Uphold and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. The charge was a result of the same incident.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Harry A. Kees, 22, Fairmont, W.Va., after he was found guilty of a misdemeanor theft. Charges of breaking and stealing shop and malicious destruction of property were not prosecuted because of plea agreements.

The charges were filed by Sgt. R.E. Friend, Maryland State Police, following a September 30 incident when Kees reportedly broke into The Perfect Touch, a paint store, located along Rt. 219 in McHenry, damaging a window screen, and removed $277.93 in cash.

Kees, according to police reports, also stole 12 checks made payable to the store. Those checks were later recovered in a dumpster outside the building. Toston was the defending attorney.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for Charles W. Dawson, 23, Elk Garden, W.Va., after he was found guilty of a felony theft. Charges of burglary and breaking and entering with the intent to steal were not prosecuted because of plea agreements.

Detective-Sgt. D.W. Tucker, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, filed the charges following a Dawson reportedly broke into a residence on Bethlehem Road and removed various household items that totaled over $3000.

Gregory T. Sawyer, 23, Frederick, was found guilty of one count of resisting arrest and one count of alcoholic beverage intoxication, and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Another charge of resisting arrest and three additional charges of intoxication, as well as charges of battery and disorderly conduct, were not prosecuted because of plea agreements.

Tpr. James K. Moore, Maryland State Police, filed the charges following a July 19 incident when he was flagged down on Rt. 219 by Mary E. Myers, also of Frederick, whose vehicle was stopped in the northbound lane. Sawyer was found lying on the road beside the vehicle, unconscious, and Myers told the officer that he had fallen from the moving vehicle. Moore then called for an ambulance.

According to police reports, Sawyer then regained consciousness and became violent with Moore. He was taken to the McHenry detachment where he again became violent and had to be physically restrained. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Sawyer.

A charge of battery, filed against Dorothy Doyle, 42, Oakland, was placed on the Stet Docket, after the complainant, Merrill K. Doyle, also of Oakland, did not wish to testify. The charge stemmed from an August 30 incident at the Deep Creek Lake State Park.

Terry Bell, 42, Swanton, was found not guilty of two counts, in two separate cases, of discharging from employment. The charges were filed by former employees of Bell Brothers Auto Sales, Larry A. Crocco and Roger A. Crocco, both of Oakland, who stated that Bell discharged them from employment after they received Workman's Compensation for injuries incurred on the job. Thomas R. Janes was the counsel for the defense.

Northern GOP Women Meet

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club met Oct. 7 at Hill Top Restaurant, Grantsville, for the last meeting of this year. President Evelyn Younkin presided.

Stella Edwards led devotions. Lois Rowe gave the history of the U.S. Constitution in commemoration of the Bicentennial in the absence of Carolyn Gano. Reports of the State Convention held in Gaithersburg were given by Cleda Baker, Cora Bowser and Evelyn Younkin.

It was announced the club will have its Christmas luncheon at Hill Top Inn Dec. 5 at 1 p.m. Persons should make reservations with Evelyn Younkin or, in the Accident area with Cora Bowser.

Dues and birthday dues were collected. An auction followed and $107 were raised. Refreshments were served.

Present other than those mentioned were: Helen Keller, Lulu Brown, Mary Broadwater, Louise McKenzie, Fern Beachy, Martha Giotelly, Jean Friend, Hazel Marggraf, Orpha Miller, Carol Frazee, Hazel Jenkins, Louise Platter, Twila Mae Fike, Zeola Robeson, Clara and Leanna Layman.

Friendsville Notes Traffic Flow, Parking Changes

The mayor and town council of Friendsville recently announced proposed changes in traffic flow and parking patterns for Walnut Street, between First Avenue and Second Avenue, effective November 30, 1987.

Walnut Street will be designated one way from west to east. On the north side of Walnut Street, in front of Old Mill Restaurant and the Yough Valley Motel, 30 degree angle parking will be instituted. This allows for six on-street parking spaces at this location. Additional parking space is available in the rear of this building.

On the south side of Walnut Street parallel parking will be permitted. Maryland Vehicle Law requires that parallel parked vehicles face in the direction of traffic flow, thus this arrangement will be self-regulating.

These proposed changes were chosen from several possible alternatives suggested by the Garrett County Traffic Advisory Committee, an advisory group sponsored by the county commissioners' office, after a field review was conducted by the State Highway Administration at the request of the TAC and the mayor and town council. This request was precipitated by the pedestrian and vehicular safety problems at this location.

Friendsville To Conduct Flushing Of Water Lines

In a continuing effort to improve water quality for the residents of Friendsville, water operations personnel will conduct a flushing program of water mains on November 11, according to the Mayor and Town Council.

The cleaning of water mains is a necessity for all water distribution systems, a Council spokesman said, noting it improves water quality by purging the system of any iron, manganese, and fine particles that may have accumulated in the system since the last flushing.

To assist local residents during the flushing program the council provides the following guidelines:

- 1) In the evening before the day of flushing, draw some water for use during the next day when water may be discolored.

- 2) Keep water usage to a minimum during flushing hours, 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

- 3) Do not wash clothes on November 11 after the flushing. As a precautionary measure, persons should run their clothes washers through a cycle with no clothing in them.

- 4) Run cold water after 4:30 p.m. to check clarity before normal use.

mal use.

"We will try to keep disruptions of service to a minimum," the spokesman said. "There may be pressure fluctuations (high/low) or no water for a short period of time, and possibly discolored water." Persons who have questions may contact Mayor Spencer Schlossnagle at 746-5864.

VA Ups Maximum Interest Rate On Home Mortgages

The Veterans Administration raised its maximum home loan interest rate from 10.5% to 11%, effective October 5.

VA officials said the action was taken to bring the VA rate closer in line with the mortgage market and to ensure that funds will continue to be available to veterans seeking to buy or refinance homes.

The last change in the VA interest rate occurred on September 8, 1987, when it went up from 10 to 10.5%.

Effective October 5, the VA also increased by one-half percent the maximum rates for Graduated Payment Mortgages to 11.25%, home improvement loans to 12.5%, manufactured home loans to 13.5%, manufactured home lot-only loans to 13%, and manufactured home and lot loans of 13%.

VA home loans may be used to purchase, improve, or refinance a house or condominium, and to purchase or refinance a manufactured home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schrock of Charleston, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lorain Hanline Monday and Tuesday.

Virginia Jones visited Mrs. Lydia Harsh on Monday.

Check Of Furnace, Chimney Urged By Commission

Government safety experts are cautioning homeowners to have home central heating systems inspected this fall, even though the heat has already been turned on.

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, consumers should rely on a qualified heating contractor to check the system. Regardless of the age of the system, electrical and mechanical components, including valves, thermostat controls and automatic safety switches, should be inspected. Special attention should be paid to heavy soot buildup in the furnace or its venting system.

While venting systems are not always examined during routine servicing, consumers should ask the contractor to inspect the flue and chimney. Blockages can be caused by mortar and other materials loosening from chimney walls, bird nests or other debris.

Chimneys and flues should be clear at all times so exhaust gases, including carbon monoxide (CO), are properly vented outside the home. Flue and flue connections should be checked for a tight, secure fitting, and for signs of rust or corrosion which could allow exhaust gases to spill into the house.

CPSC said carbon monoxide exposure in the home is of special concern. Consumers exposed to harmful levels of CO often show symptoms similar to having flu-like illnesses, including dizziness, fatigue, headaches, irregular breathing and nausea. Exposure to continued high levels of carbon monoxide can be fatal. CPSC estimates that some 200 deaths occur each year from carbon monoxide associated with gas heating equipment.

Homeowners who have recently converted their heating system from oil to gas also were cautioned by CPSC to have the chimney inspected. After converting to gas, soot and debris which may have accumulated over the years on chimney walls may loosen and fall; if enough falls, it could block the exhaust and cause a buildup of dangerous levels of exhaust fumes in the house. If the heating contractor finds soot in the flue, a chimney sweep should be called to clean the chimney and flue each fall until no more soot is detected.

Those who plan on converting from oil to gas heat should have the chimney inspected when the new furnace is installed, and annually thereafter.

School Enrollment Increases In Maryland, But Drops In County

A 15-year decline in total public school enrollment in Maryland turned around in 1986. According to figures of the Department of State Planning (DSP), 1986 marked the first year since 1971 that enrollment increased over a previous year. Total school enrollment for grades K through 12 rose 3,295, from 663,100 in 1985 to the 1986 figure of 666,395.

A rapid growth in Maryland's overall population, an increase in the number of births in recent years, and a greater percentage of school age children attending public schools have all contributed to the overall increase in public school enrollment, the DSP said.

Garrett County's school

enrollment, however, continues to decline, and will do so over the next five years, but then grow slightly between 1991 and 1996, according to the study. The local enrollment dropped from 5,844 in 1976 to 5,340 in 1981 to 5,043 in 1986. Projected enrollment this year is 5,020. The study projects that number will drop to 4,780 by 1991 and then climb back to 4,980 by 1996.

DSP's Office of Planning Data (OPD) issues public school enrollment projections each year that are based on projections of births and school age population as well as actual birth and school enrollment data.

OPD Director Michel Lettre said that, during the next 10 years, public elementary school enrollment statewide will grow steadily, then stabilize between the years 1992 and 1996 at about 412,000, a figure 17% or 60,450 above 1986 levels. "This reflects the emergence of school age children from the recent high birth and migration years as well as the continued high numbers of births projected over the next few years." He added that after secondary school enrollment statewide declines to about 292,000 in 1989 and 1990, it is expected to increase and by 1993, secondary enrollment should be above the 1986 figure of 314,845.

The increasing number of births in Maryland in recent years is one of the main contributing factors in the increase in total school population. During the mid 1970's, births in the State averaged under 53,000 annually. That figure rose to 59,833 and 61,584 in 1980 and 1981, respectively. These children entered the school system in 1985 and 1986, thus contributing to the increase in elementary school population. The 69,524 births in Maryland in 1986 will mean even higher elementary school enrollment in the 1990's.

Secondary public school enrollment statewide will begin to experience an increase in the early 1990's as children from the high birth years of the early 1980's enter secondary school. By 1996, enrollment is projected to be about 347,000, 10% above 1986 levels.

By 1996, all counties with the exception of Garrett, Allegany and Dorchester, are projected to have public school enrollment figures above 1986 levels. The jurisdiction with the greatest percentage increases are expected to be Howard (42.0%), Calvert (39.9%), Charles (31.0%), Carroll (27.5%) and Queen Anne's (27.1%) counties.

Other factors in addition to higher birth figures contributed to the increase in total school enrollment statewide. Maryland's public schools are educating a greater percentage of children of school age. Public school enrollment as a percentage of total school enrollment (public and private) has increased to 86% in 1986 compared to 85.5% in 1984. The percentage is expected to increase as elementary school enrollment increases and, thus, becomes a larger share of total enrollment.

Maryland has also experienced a rapid rise in population in the last two years due to greater numbers of people migrating into the state. Between April, 1985 and April, 1987, the State's population grew by 69,000 annually (approximately 54% of that increase can be attributed to migration). That compares to a 33,000 average annual increase from 1980 to 1985 (of which only 14% was due to migration).

EPA Shelves Endangered Species Pesticide Restrictions

Under pressure from Farm Bureau and members of Congress, the Environmental Protection Agency decided last week to postpone the planned February start of the endangered species pesticide labeling program.

"EPA took the right action because it was obviously clear that the planned program could not be implemented without triggering a strong backlash from farmers and ranchers," said American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner.

Although the postponement is for an indefinite period, EPA still intends to go ahead with some version of the program in the future.

The shelved program involved two steps: the labels on pesticide products were to list the counties in which use of the product could threaten an endangered species. Users in those counties were then supposed to obtain a "county bulletin" that specified the areas in which use of the chemical would be banned. Farm Bureau objected to the program for several reasons, including the fact that EPA refused to allow comments on the program from key groups such as agricultural chemical users and the agency showed no interest in assessing the program's impact on farmers.

Another major objection expressed by Farm Bureau centered on the areas EPA targeted for pesticide restrictions. The Fish and Wildlife Service said that the maps it produced outlining the affected areas may have been inaccurate because they overstated the range of the rare plants and animals. The result was that entire counties would have been subjected to restrictions despite the fact that endangered species, in many cases, are found in only a small area.

Farm Bureau-backed legislation to delay the program had been introduced by Rep. Pat Roberts (R-Kan.) and seven other lawmakers.

Agway Elects New Officers

Ralph H. Heffner of Pine Grove, Pa., and Richard C. Call of Batavia, N.Y., have been elected chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the Agway board of directors. They were named at a board meeting immediately following the close of the Agway 23rd Annual Meeting, October 30 in Syracuse, N.Y.

William A. Hiller of Fayetteville, N.Y., was reelected president and general manager of the 102,000 member farm cooperative headquartered in DeWitt, N.Y.

Heffner, who operates a dairy and fruit farm, was first elected to the Agway board in 1973 and was named vice chairman in 1986. He is a graduate of The Pennsylvania State University and earned a masters degree in agricultural economics from the University of Delaware.

Heffner replaces Richard Croner of Berlin, Pa., as chairman. Croner retired from the board after 24 years of service to the cooperative.

Call was elected to the Agway board in 1973 and previously served as vice chairman from 1982 to 1986. He is a graduate of Cornell University and operates a large farm in partnership with his brother, raising processing vegetables and forage crops.

Hiller earned a masters degree from The Pennsylvania State University. He has served as president, chief executive officer, and general manager of the farm cooperative since 1981.

Nat. Recognition Given Potomac Farms Campaign

The Milk Industry Foundation of America's 1987 National Advertising Awards Committee announced at the recently held annual MIF convention in Chicago that Potomac Farms won six awards for their Lightsafe (TM) Yellow Jug campaign.

The June campaign, developed by Potomac Farms Dairy with McClarran and Williams, Inc., was recognized as including the nation's Best Milk Billboard and Best Milk Newspaper Ad in 1987. Radio ads and point-of-purchase displays used in the campaign also received recognition among the country's foremost dairy product advertisers.

"We felt that the creativity and the effectiveness of our Yellow Jug campaign was in the same league as previous year's winners... that's why we entered. But I don't think we expected this much recognition in our first year of competition," commented Potomac Farms General Manager David Giles. Giles and Potomac Farms President Al Slinghoff attended the MIF convention in Chicago to accept the awards for the Cumberland-based dairy.

Giles noted the importance of effective marketing in the overall growth of the local dairy. This summer, Potomac Farms became only the fifth dairy in the country to completely switch its brand name gallon milk packaging to yellow plastic, he said.

Dairy officials began consideration of the packaging innovation more than a year with the installation of a blow-mold machine capable of producing the jug at their Industrial Boulevard facility. All Lightsafe (TM) Yellow Jugs, now being distributed over an eight county region, are manufactured, filled and distributed from Cumberland.

"In the case of the Yellow Jug, we had a great product and a great package. But we had to take a hard look at the risks and the rewards before we made the move. It finally came down to intuition and the chance to expand our market. We knew the milk would taste better, the McClarran and Williams creative looked right, it sounded right, we had a pretty good idea of the consumer's reaction from our test marketing... so we jumped," Giles commented.

The award judging was held at the MIF offices in Washington, D.C., in mid-September. A panel of eight national advertising agency heads based in the Washington metro area determined winning entries from contestants that included many of the leading national dairy product manufacturers and large regional dairies from across the country.

The winning entries were developed and written by McClarran and Williams President David Williams and designed by the company's design director, Mark Brayer.

Agway Completes "A Good year"

Several thousand farmers heard the president of their farm cooperative pledge that Agway will help improve farm income by providing "cutting edge technology in products and services for Northeast agriculture."

Speaking at the 23rd Agway annual meeting in Syracuse October 29, William A. Hiller, president stated that information and knowledge are the basis of the new economic order that has emerged throughout the world.

"We're in the midst of a major restructuring of the agricultural production system in the United States," he said. "Tomorrow's most successful farmers will be those who continuously and effectively apply technological developments combined with sound business management procedures."

He characterized four types of power involved in agricultural progress over the years as hand power, horse power, mechanical power, and now the power of science and technology.

"Emerging technologies will be a powerful force," Hiller stated. "Looking into the crystal ball, we see incredible things for the future, involving rapid changes in the way we live and do business."

Hiller announced that Agway is dedicated to helping northeast dairy farmers increase per cow production levels, which have fallen below the national average. New facilities have been constructed at the Agway Farm Research Center near Tully, N.Y., incorporating the latest dairy technology and allowing expanded basic research. Agway conducts such studies in cooperation with Cooperative Research Farms Inc., an organization of U.S. and Canadian cooperatives that share research funding and information.

The farm leader commented on the problems of the Farm Credit System and acknowledged that the Springfield and Baltimore Banks for Cooperatives had been one of the sources of Agway financing for many years. These are two of the stronger operations in the 13-bank system, he said.

"There is no questions in my mind that 13 banks are not needed," he said. "At the same time, I'm not convinced that complete centralization is the answer. The lowest-cost distribution system must be the driving force. Bank member-owners should have a right to vote on their preferred system instead of one mandated by Congress."

Hiller reported that Agway operations for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1987, had shown good results. Despite lower prices for feed, energy, and crop needs, market share remained strong. Consolidated sales were $3.3 billion, a budget at a figure $245 million below last year. Consolidated earnings before tax and member refunds were $31.4 million, up substantially from last year. The consolidated report includes Agway's investments in Curtice Burns Foods, H.P. Hood, and Texas City Refining.

Sales for Agway Inc., the traditional member business, were on budget at $1.4 billion. Earnings before taxes and member refunds were $17.8 million, essentially equal to last year, he said.

Hiller reported the Agway balance sheet remains strong with retained earnings at 30% of average assets and member and employee investments at 38%, up three points from last year.

Based on management's recommendation, the Agway board voted to pay a $2.4 million refund to members, based on one half percent of their dollar volume with their cooperative. An additional $22 million was paid in interest and dividends on Agway securities.

Reporting on individual business units, Hiller said feed-and-crop-needs businesses continue to adjust to changing market conditions. Reduced cow numbers, set-aside acreage programs, and increased feeding of home-grown grains have resulted in shrinking market demand. An oversupply of fertilizer and agricultural chemicals, together with fewer planted acres, presented challenges, he said.

"We expect to develop an agreement that will allow Agway to receive ocean going vessels for fertilizer and other bulk ingredients," Hiller stated. "This move will strengthen our competitive position by improving access to international markets."

Agway had strong sales in farm systems and supplies, buildings, and power equipment. The more than 700 Agway farm centers, stores, and franchised representatives improved earnings substantially in relation to budget. Hiller stated that the Agway representative system is targeted for major growth.

Hiller announced that more than 1,000 new Agway members had been signed during the year increasing membership to over 102,000 in the 12 northeastern states. Many of these were young farmers under 35 years of age where major emphasis in recruiting is being placed.

In commenting on what Agway will look like in the years ahead, Hiller stated that he believes geographic expansion, mergers, acquisitions and joint ventures will play a part in the future, but that Agway will continue to be a farm cooperative.

"We must be responsive to our members' needs while, at the same time, building a distribution system designed to be least-cost and profitable. Agway must contribute to strengthening the viability of agriculture in areas that we serve," he stated. "Diversification will be healthy when it contributes positively to the cooperative as well as providing synergy with our existing businesses."

Richard Croner Retires From Agway Board

Richard Croner of Berlin, Pa., announced his retirement as chairman and a member of the 18-member board of directors at the 23rd Agway Annual Meeting October 29-30 in Syracuse, N.Y.

Croner was elected a director of Eastern States Farmers Exchange in 1957 and was named second vice president in 1963. With the merger of GLF and Eastern States in 1964, he became a member of the Agway board, serving continuously since that time. He was elected vice chairman of the board in 1980 and chairman in 1982.

Croner operates a 1,200-acre dairy and crops farm in partnership with his son, Tom. They have a milking herd of 150 Holsteins and 100 young stock. They grow potatoes, corn and barley.

He has been both a director and former chairman of the board of Curtice Burns Foods, Rochester, N.Y., a food processing company in which Agway holds controlling interest.

Croner is chairman of the board of directors of Philson National Bank, having served on the board there since 1957. He is a past director of County Trust Company, and has been an officer of United Church of Christ in Berlin. He has served as president of DHIA.

A graduate of The Pennsylvania State University, he was named a "Pennsylvania Master Farmer" in 1967 and is a member of Gamma Sigma Delta, agribusiness honorary.

Deere & Company Presents Series On Tillage Practices

Tillage systems, their cost, their performance, fertilizers needed, and the results of new research, are some of the topics in this series of articles on tillage printed by Deere & Company of Moline, Ill. Gordon D. Tjelmeland, agricultural product information specialist with Deere & Company, says that misconceptions persist about tillage and agricultural chemical practices, and that the most current data has shed new light on the matter. In printing the series of articles, Tjelmeland says, Deere & Company hopes to provide sensible, balanced, straightforward information that people can put to good use.

The following is the first in the series of six articles on tillage practices.

RESIDUE MANAGEMENT IS KEY TO TILLAGE DILEMMA

Controlling weeds, insects and plant disease has been a challenge for farmers since prehistoric times, but for the past several years farmers have been using chemicals more and more in place of tillage practices, and these new methods have generated considerable debate.

Concern about soil erosion has led many farmers to fear disturbing the soil with tillage tools, such as plows, but the agricultural chemicals they've used as an alternative add considerable cost, so the debate has been compounded by a serious economic issue.

It is now known that fields covered with crop residues from the previous year erode very little, and that presents a whole new outlook on how to accomplish necessary goals within economic means, according to Dr. Richard Johnson, senior scientist at the Deere & Company Technical Center in Moline, Ill.

"Today, farmers recognize that residue management is a key to both long-term profitability and erosion control," says Johnson. "If 20 to 30 percent of the soil surface is covered with plant residue, soil erosion is often reduced by 50 to 75 percent."

Actually, Johnson notes, about 60 percent of U.S. cropland has little or no erosion problem, and severe erosion occurs on less than 10 percent of the farmland.

Conservation tillage — any tillage system that leaves at least 30 percent of the old crop residue on the soil surface at planting — is now being used on more than 30 percent of all U.S. cropland. It's a good solution in many cases but it requires a good deal of understanding, Johnson says, because leaving crop residue on the soil surface also brings a whole new set of management challenges along with it.

With conservation tillage, soil temperatures tend to remain cooler for a longer period of time in the spring. The soil is shaded by the residue cover, and the lighter color of the residue reflects more solar radiation than the darker soil. The result is cooler temperatures in the seed placement zone, and seedling development can be retarded. The growing season is effectively shortened, which can mean lower crop yields. Also, the availability of soil nutrients and soil-borne disease can also become more critical in these cooler seedbeds.

"Careful attention to selecting crop varieties with good spring vigor and high seed quality can help offset these conditions," Johnson says. "Choosing a tillage system that incorporates some crop residue, or clears a residue-free band over the seed row, can also help minimize these problems."

The residue cover that retards temperature increase also slows evaporation of moisture in the top few inches of soil, so the soil is usually wetter at planting time than it would be with clean tillage. This means more potential compaction problems, Johnson says.

"This brings some misperceptions," he warns. "The conservation farmer may feel he is reducing overall soil compaction problems because he is reducing the total number of tillage trips, but in fact he may be making the problem worse because he is farming the soil when it's wetter. The answer is to stay out of fields until they have had more time to dry."

Incorporation of fertilizer into the soil can also defeat the attempt to leave higher amounts of residue on the surface. "Shanking-in anhydrous ammonia for nitrogen, for instance — the equivalent of one tillage operation — can bury up to 50 percent of the surface residue," Johnson says.

Reducing tillage means relying more on chemical weed control, which can be expensive, Johnson cautions. Several no-till systems even require a preplant application of burndown herbicide to kill existing vegetation, and such systems can require as much as $20 per acre of additional expense, he says. (No-till is an extreme form of conservation tillage.) The mulch of residue left for erosion control is also a good habitat for insects, diseases and other pests, he cautions.

Tillage management must be site-specific, Johnson stresses. "What works in somebody else's field is not necessarily the best answer in your field. Heavy bottom soil is usually a poor place for no-till. For hillsides with lighter soils, no-till might be the best answer for controlling erosion."

He points out that a reduced tillage system that doubles chemical costs and risks polluting soil and water is no answer, and an intensive tillage scheme that results in pulverized soil and high rates of soil erosion is equally undesirable.

"The balance is in finding a system that allows moderate use of chemicals while retaining the flexibility to alter tillage techniques as required by specific sites and crops. You can control both profitability and soil conservation if you understand your options."

Groundwater Is Topic Of Proposed Fed. Legislation

Representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation testified before a U.S. House Agriculture subcommittee last week dealing with legislation to protect groundwater. Any legislation to protect groundwater must include the goal of "preserving family farming as a viable entity" and "recognize the vital role that agricultural chemicals play in modern agriculture," they told the committee.

In testimony before the subcommittee on research and USDA operations, Mark Maslyn, and AFBF assistant director of national affairs, said farmers and ranchers share the concerns about groundwater contamination and are taking steps to solve the problem.

He told the panel that the American Farm Bureau and many state Farm Bureaus have conducted hundreds of workshops and training programs and other self-help efforts to help assure the quality of drinking water. AFBF recently distributed a guide to help farmers test their water and analyze their farming practices for possible effects on groundwater.

"Agricultural producers are faced with a very real dilemma that they realize must be dealt with in a balanced way that protects the environment and the viability of agriculture," he said.

Maslyn said farmers and ranchers need increased research so they can help prevent groundwater contamination. Farmers, he said, "need to learn more about the movement and behavior of farm chemicals and the things that can be done to expedite their breakdown."

More research, he said, is needed to determine the proper level of fertilization needed for crop production and ensure that crop rotation practices provide optimum weed and insect control. Also needed is research into tillage practices, which affect weed germination and "a better understanding of ways to minimize the transport of weed seed by irrigation systems and harvest equipment," he said.

"NO-TILL PLANTING" — planting the new crop through the previous year's crop residue without tilling and exposing the soil — is one way to conserve soil. The crop residue acts as a barrier to slow down runoff.

In addition, he said, farmers will be well-served by biotechnology research, which promises to yield alternatives to chemical pest controls.

As for another alternative, integrated pest management (IPM), Maslyn said its widespread use is a Farm Bureau priority but several obstacles have to be overcome, such as finding the best way to communicate IPM information to farmers.

Social Security Set for 1988

Social Security benefits will increase by 4.2% on January 1, 1988. This is the largest annual increase since 1982. The maximum earnings taxed in 1988 will increase to $45,000. This year it is $43,800. Maximum self-employment tax that will be paid in 1988 will be $5,859, compared to $5,387 this year. The self-employed tax rate for 1988 will be 15.02%, minus 2% credit, giving a net of 13.02%. This year the net self-employed tax was 12.3%. Payroll tax paid by both the employer and employee rises to 7.51% each in 1988, compared to 7.10% this year. Maximum a social security recipient under 65 can earn in 1988 without losing benefits is $6,120, compared to $6,000 this year. For those between 65 and 69 years of age, earnings up to $8,400 are allowed, compared to $8,160 this year. Those aged 70 or over have no earning limit.

Nutrition for the Pregnant Broodmare

Pregnant mares are able to consume enough calories from good quality forage to maintain or even gain weight. Unfortunately, no forage will supply all the nutrients needed to maintain the broodmare plus provide for fetal development. You must look at the nutrient composition of the forage (hay and pasture) the horse consumes, then make sure the grain mixture is fortified adequately to make up for deficiencies in the forage. A maintenance level of nutrition is required during the first eight months of pregnancy. The last three months of gestation require a higher plane of nutrition, see table below.

In summary, there are four main points to consider:

1. Have forages analyzed accurately for major nutrient composition.
2. Balance the broodmare ration based on stage of gestation.
3. It is beneficial to feed free-choice both trace mineral salt and a calcium-phosphorus mixture. The ratio of calcium:phosphorus in the mixture will depend on the type of forage fed, e.g. 1:1 for legumes, 2.5:1 for grasses.
4. Deficiencies or excesses of any nutrient — energy, protein, trace minerals — may compound nutritional problems or lead to expensive feed bills.

Table 1. Nutrient Requirements of the Pregnant Mare.

The "bour" in neighbour comes from the Dutch "boer" meaning a farmer. The "neigh" part means "near."

Bibb lettuce was not named for its shape but for John Bibb, a Kentucky farmer who developed it in his garden.

Ag Engineers Recommend Safety Chains For Farm Equipment

Having a wagon break loose from a truck or tractor on a public road, or in the field for that matter, can result in major accidents. Wagons or other towed loads which break loose may strike other vehicles, resulting in significant damage and serious injury or death.

Use of the proper couplers or hitch pins and/or safety chains assure that the towed load will stay with the towing vehicle. There are exemptions for farm equipment in some states by which safety chains are not required. But, whether required by law or not, it is important to hitch trailing implements as safe as possible.

Proper hitch pins for use with agricultural equipment are strong enough to resist bending and breaking. They also have some locking device to keep them from being jostled out as the equipment travels down the road or across the field. All it takes is a pothole or rough expansion joint in the road to throw an unsecured pin out. Ball-type couplers, fifth wheel and military type couplers are all designed for certain categories of equipment. It is important that the load limits and other restrictions for the couplers used are not violated. Overloading or other misuse could damage the hitch as well as the towing vehicle or towed equipment. Those who have any questions or doubts about the capacity or safety of their hitch should consult the manufacturer or a qualified hitch dealer-installer.

Regardless of the type hitch and coupler used, it is recommended that an appropriate safety chain be used to control the trailing equipment should it become unhitched. This safety chain should be sized and installed properly for maximum safety.

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers has a standard for safety chains on agricultural equipment. The basic requirements of this standard are:

1. The ultimate strength of the safety chain system, including the chain and all attaching points, must equal or exceed the gross weight of the towed equipment and its cargo.
2. The chain must be attached to both the towed equipment and towing vehicle by a positive means which cannot be separated inadvertently.
3. The chain shall have no more slack, when in use, than necessary to allow proper operation of the machines.
4. An intermediate support is required to support the chain within six inches of the hitch point (eight inches if gross weight is over 30,000 pounds).

Finally, make it a routine practice to inspect all components of the equipment which could affect the safety of other motorists as well as yourself before venturing out onto public roads. Look at the condition of lights, tires, clean windows, SMV emblems, hitches, safety chains, brakes and tie downs for the cargo. If any appear suspicious, make repairs before going on the road.

Carrots were bred into existence 150 years ago in England from Queen Anne's Lace, a weed.

Top Fiction Writer To Be Keynote Speaker At FSU Maryland Conference

by Cindy Stacy

The keynote speaker for Frostburg State University's Conference on Maryland, to be held November 6-8 in the Lane Center, will be National Book Award winner John Barth. The Maryland author will deliver a lecture called, "The Sot-Weed Factor Revisited," based on his famous novel.

Certainly one of the state's and the nation's most prestigious writers, John Barth has always attracted considerable scholarly attention. Many critics have placed him at the forefront of post-modernist fiction and New York Times critic Robert Scholes, for one, simply calls him "the best writer of fiction we have at present and one of the best we have ever had."

Not a literary critic, but a reporter for the Philadelphia Inquirer simply queried, "can this be the Rudolph Nureyev of prose?" upon once meeting the novelist whose books the reporter considered a "Perpetual-motion machines — big, bawdy, boisterous visitations of wit, self-parody, slapstick and manic satire."

Barth discussed his image and rumored eccentricity in an interview with the reporter saying, "I'm a homebody and while no doubt my ego is as large as the next, I'm very uncomfortable around writers whose egos and lifestyles are a prominent part of their fictions, like Mailer and Hemingway . . . On the other hand, recluses make me nervous. If you have to expend more and more energy to belligerently and artificially preserve your privacy, that can turn into an artistically dangerous kind of crankiness. Too ardently to tell can be just as vain as too ardently to pursue."

All celebrity aside, Barth maintains he never "set out to become a writer." He once told George Plimpton in an interview, "You decide, perhaps to become a sculptor or a painter, but you find yourself being a novelist."

Barth, who played the drums in high school began his college career in music at New York's Juilliard School of Music, planning on becoming an arranger or orchestrator of music. For various reasons, he left music school, but to this day, he frequently compares his writing to that of a musician's. He considers himself, for example, an arranger of fiction, "exploring the original conventions of the novel to discover how they might be re-orchestrated." In other words, he says, he takes someone else's melody and turns it to his purpose.

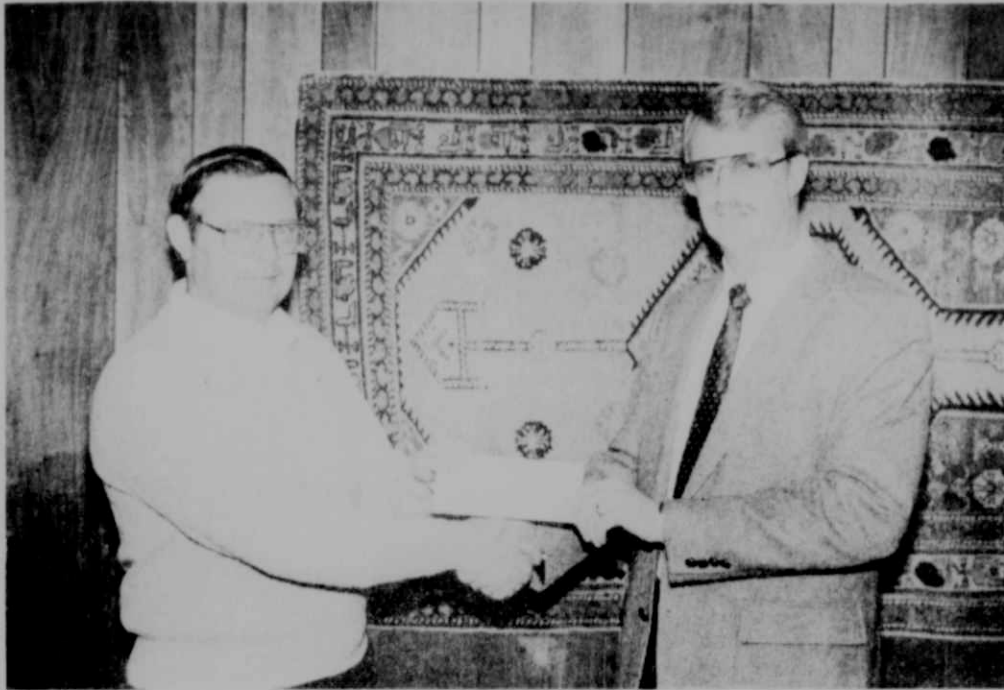

While Barth may consider himself an arranger of fiction, his critics have examined him in other ways, calling him everything from a "comic genius of the highest order" to, on the negative side, a grinding bore. His work has generated an enormous amount of criticism and oftentimes, it seems that no two reviewers can agree on even the most general statements about his fiction. There are, however, several unifying threads running through most of his works. A Harper's critic once noted, for example, that Barth in his novels, The End of the Road and Chimera, he has "spoofed the search for identity into the intense and the serious pursuit of mythology of emotion while all the time displaying a love of parody, magic words and storytelling as life means and only prize."

Another unifying thread — and what is significant for the Conference on Maryland — is Barth's practice of setting many of his novels in Tidewater Maryland. The Sot-Weed Factor (the title means tobacco merchant) is set in the seventeenth century Maryland and, in fact, is based on actual 1708 satirical poem of the same name written by Ebenezer Cooke, the self-proclaimed poet laureate of the Maryland Colony. Barth has been raised fifteen miles from Cook's Point where the poet's estate was located. Cooke is the main character in The Sot-Weed Factor, in which Barth, according to biographer Arthur Casciato "presents his own farcical distortion of historical documents, themselves a distortion of real life in colonial Maryland. For example, Barth 'transforms the Pocahontas and Captain John Smith legend into a ribald tale of an impenetrable virgin and a sacred eggplant.'"

Other novels, including Barth's first, The Floating Opera, and its sequel, The End of the Road, also had Tidewater Maryland settings. The Floating Opera was conceived when Barth chanced upon a photograph of the Floating Theater, an old showboat that had entertained in the Eastern Shore communities of his childhood. In The End of the Road, the story's character, Jacob Horner, teaches prescriptive grammar at Wicomico State Teachers College, also on the Shore.

Of all Barth's novels, including his more recently published ones, Letters and Sabbatical: A Romance, it was, however, the mammoth, 710-page Giles Goat Boy, which took six years to write and was published in 1966, that finally brought the writer widespread critical acclaim. The novel, which Barth once called "a new Old Testament, a souped-up Bible," appeared briefly on the best-seller list, sold over 50,000 copies and generated an enormous amount of publicity for the novelist.

Most of Barth's readers, including both critics and the public at large, seem to recognize the novelist for what he certainly is: a brilliant innovator of narrative structure and an incredible storyteller. Besides his seven major novels, Barth has authored numerous essays, memoirs and articles and has taught English at several universities. He is presently the Alumni Centennial Professor of English and Creative Writing at Johns Hopkins. He and his first wife, Harriette Anne Strickland, whom he divorced in 1969, have three children. He is now married to Shelly Rosenberg, a private school teacher and the subject of his recent memoir, "Teacher," recently published in Harper's magazine.

All sessions of the Conference on Maryland are free and open to the public, due to funding support from many sponsors, including generous grants from the Maryland Humanities Council, the Regional Education Service Agency, Frostburg State University and the FSU Foundation, Inc. For more information on the conference, contact the co-directors, Dr.

Frank Parks and Dr. John Wiseman, 689-4221 at FSU.

Attends Lawyers Assoc. Convention

Ruth M. Warnick, paralegal with the law office of Sullivan and Sullivan, P.A., Deep Creek Lake, attended the Maryland Trial Lawyers' Association Annual Convention held in Ocean City October 29-31.

A legal seminar was given on Workmen's Compensation cases in which participants learned of the 1987 Amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Law, helpful hints in handling Workmen's Compensation Cases before the hearing and handling Requests for Reconsideration before the Commission. Two mock trials were conducted in which cases were heard before the Commission and then the Circuit Court level on appeal.

Mrs. Warnick joined the firm of Sullivan & Sullivan in December, 1983. She is a paralegal primarily to Paul C. Sullivan, who specializes in personal injury and Workmen's Compensation cases.

Janet Tasker Is B&L Employee Of The Month

Janet Tasker, senior inspector in Department 22353 at the local Bausch & Lomb facility, has been named Employee of the Month, according to Allen Barr, acting plant manager, and Ron Heginbotham, lens edging manager.

Mrs. Tasker's primary duty is the re-inspection of lenses for cosmetic defects. She has been employed by B&L since July 1975.

Barr stated that Mrs. Tasker was selected for the award because of "her good training skills, leadership qualities, good attendance record, and helpfulness to other employees."

Mrs. Tasker resides in Oakland with her husband, David.

SUNNYWIDE-UNDERWOOD

The Underwood Bible study group met Thursday afternoon in the home of Sybil Merrill. The Bible reading was in Kings with Jane Kope teaching. Those attending were Elaine Beckman and daughters, Vicki and Amanda; Amy Griggs and Mrs. Riley, Wilma Waybright, Anna Cannon, Florence Hamill, Myrtle Fulk and Wilma Waybright, who will hostess for next week's Bible study.

A birthday celebration was hosted by Donnie and Connie Friend for their daughter, Diana, in their home on Sunday afternoon. Several from the Underwood section attended, as did Amanda Beckman, from Sunnyside. She was also in Sunday School Class with Deana.

The Ladies Aid met Wednesday in the community building for its regular meeting. The afternoon was spent in preparing and knotting quilts, with two of the quilts donated to Ronnie and Debbie Fulk, whose home on the Brookside Road was completely destroyed by fire recently. Among those attending were Afie Sisler, Julia Shaffer, Carolyn Foster, Ida Carr, Ivaline Cummings, Elaine and Amanda Beckman, Hazel Upole and Mildred Peterson. Others assisting in the work were several local Amish folks.

Bessie Canan accompanied Mabel Arnold, Mt. Lake Park, Sunday afternoon to visit Mrs. Edna Ashby, also of Mt. Lake Park. Others visiting Mrs. Ashby that afternoon were Frances Steyer and her mother, Mrs. Opal Steyer and Mr. and Mrs. Lee McCrobie. Mrs. Canan was a supper guest of Mrs. Arnold II.

Benefit Dance Scheduled For Lambert Child

There will be a seven-hour benefit dance for Casey Lane Lambert at the National Guard Armory in Oakland from noon until 7 p.m. this Sunday, November 8.

Five area groups will supply music, including The Bootleggers, Vintage, South Paw, Midnight Ramblers, and the Gospelaires. Requested donations will be $3 for adults, $5 for couples, and $1 for children under 12. All proceeds will go to the family of Casey Lambert.

Casey was born with a rare disease known as Klippel-Trenaunay-Weber Syndrome. He was born with webbed feet and hands and has numerous tumors and cysts throughout his body. He has undergone surgery numerous times and is facing further surgery, which has resulted in enormous medical costs for his family, according to a family spokesman.

The dance has been organized by Debbie Daugherty, Carla Beckman, and other friends of the Lambert family.

Masons To Meet

Oakland Lodge No. 192, Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, will have a regular communication on Tuesday, November 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Paul B. Naylor Masonic Temple, 3 South Wilson Street. Worshipful Master James Wm. Nelson reports that the Third Degree will be conferred on an eligible Fellow Craft Mason and invites all Master Masons to attend.

Cosmotology Month Proclaimed By Commissioners

A proclamation was signed last week by Ernest Gregg, chairman of the Garrett County Board of Commissioners, proclaiming October as National Cosmotology Month in Garrett County. A similar proclamation was issued on a national basis.

According to the members of the National Professional Association of Cosmotologists, which was established in 1921, it has been through training and creative talents of cosmotologists that "the appearance of the nation's wealth — its people — has been enhanced and maintained."

The theme for the observance of National Cosmotology Month was "Ask Us, America, We'll Groom You for Success."

The number of the local affiliate organization is 225. The Garrett County group meets the second Monday of each month in conjunction with the members of the Cumberland area. Any cosmotologist interested in becoming a member or obtaining more information may contact Mary Lynn Friend at "The Clipper Ship" salon, telephone 334-8644.

The surface of the Moon has about the same area as Africa.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

*****

Boatswain's Mate Third Class Joseph Habel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Habel, Deep Creek Village, was recently commended for his efforts on board the ANT Sledge of the U.S. Coast Guard.

In a letter to the chief of the Aids to Navigation Branch from Lt. W.A. Fisher, Habel's efforts during a training exercise was pointed out by Lt. Fisher as "deserving particular attention."

The letters said that BC3 Habel "ran the entire operation, displaying excellent seamanship and leadership skills." Lt. Fisher continued by saying, "I also like Habel's way of training the members of his team. For example, although Habel knew where he was in Tolchester Channel, he had a crew member on the chart giving him magnetic courses to steer and identifying buoys by their characteristics. In this regard, Habel displayed leadership qualities more often seen in BM1's and BMC's rather than BM3's."

Habel has served in the U.S. Coast Guard for over eight years. He is stationed at Curtis Bay and resides in Glen Burnie with his wife, Carol, and their children, Amber and Joseph.

Airman Connie M. Murphy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Lewis, Rt. 2, Oakland, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

Her husband, Air Force Airman James W. Murphy Jr., is the son of James W. and Betty M. Murphy, Route 1, Oakland. She is a graduate of Southern High School.

Pfc. James Allen Metz recently graduated from the Recruit Training Program of the United States Marine Corps at Parris Island, S.C.

Metz will now report to the Defense Language Institute, Monterey, Calif., to attend a six-month school in Cryptologic Linguistics. He will then report to Texas for 18 weeks of equipment training.

Pfc. Metz, a 1987 graduate of Southern High School, is the son of James A. Metz, Oakland, and Georgia D. Wilson, Mtn. Lake Park.

Specialist Brian N. Saulpaw was recently graduated from the United States Army Elementary School of Music in Norfolk, Va.

While attending the school, Saulpaw was involved in intense musical studies ranging from music theory and ear training classes, to learning advanced instrumental techniques, concert and dance band and improvisation. He was a part of the Student/Teacher Wind Ensemble, along with some of the top names in the military music field.

Saulpaw is presently stationed at Fort Dix, N.J., as a tenor saxophone player in the New Jersey's own 19th Army Band. He is also playing base guitar with The Army Combo, which performs at high schools, N.C.O. clubs, and special functions. He will spend the next two years as a professional military musician, traveling extensively throughout New Jersey, Pennsylvania, New York and Delaware. During his military tour of duty, he will perform for military ceremonies, civilian and military dignitaries, march in parades and play at various concert and dance band performances which are free to the public. Saulpaw is the son of Jack and Clarice Saulpaw, Grantsville, Md.

His address is SP4 Brian Saulpaw, 19th Army Band, Fort Dix, New Jersey 08640-7220.

"Garrett County Today" To Carry Student Essays

Although they just entered the sixth grade at Southern Middle School a few months ago, students Leslie Peck and Eric Glatfelter are about to become published authors.

Leslie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Peck, and Eric, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Glatfelter Jr., all of Oakland, won a contest at the close of the spring semester in which Broadford Elementary fifth graders were asked to write an essay entitled, "What I Like About Garrett County."

Leslie and Eric each received $20 checks for their efforts. Both essays will appear in the upcoming book entitled Garrett County Today, a 112-page pictorial/essay book to be published by C.R. Publications, Inc., Terra Alta. A copy of the book will be donated to the school library in their honor.

Leslie writes in her essay, "I like Garrett County because... it's quiet at night. It's so pleasant, I'd like to make the world just as pleasant."

An excerpt from Eric's article states, "I like the seasons in Garrett County... If you ever come to Garrett County, you should look at all the beautiful scenery and have a good time."

The two students join 18 county adults, including three staff members from The Republican, who also wrote short articles about various subjects in the county, and six professional photographers who contributed some 120 breath-taking photographs of Garrett's scenery and people for inclusion in the book.

"It's a first of its kind for Garrett County," said Bob Teets who, along with Shelby Young, will co-publish the book through their C.R. Publications imprint. "This book will make a solidly positive statement about the glorious scenery and the friendly people in this county. It will definitely be a 'brag book,' one the residents of Garrett County may brag about," he added.

by Pamela A. Martin, CCCC

TELLING SIGNS
The hearing loss that occurs with aging is called "presbycusis." Four kinds of presbycusis have been identified, each caused by anatomic and physiologic changes in the inner ear. Although the reasons for these changes are not completely understood, it is fairly well accepted that noise exposure is an important contributing factor. Diminished blood supply to the inner ear and infection may also be factors in some people. It is important to realize that the advance of hearing loss can be very subtle. At first, there may only be a difficulty in hearing soft sounds such as whispers. It may then become difficult to hear or understand what people are saying unless their faces can be seen. Pay attention to these signs and make an appointment for a hearing exam.

For the young as well as the "young at heart" ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES offers the solution that could help you regain the enjoyment that the world of sound offers. We have available the hearing assist devices that can effectively address hearing loss needs in many individuals. To learn more about how we can help you, please call us today.

Loss of hearing can bring with it loss of essential cues for safety, not just loss of conversation.

AFTER YOUR CHILD STARTS SCHOOL

When a young child first starts school it is not difficult for parents to find information on what to expect. After the one month or two though, when the newness has worn off, it is very easy to forget that this milestone in a child's life takes a long time to adjust to.

Most youngsters quickly form friendships and like going to school, but is a conscious foundation being laid to like learning? Parents who take time to listen, give honest answers and help the child think things through, are making the transition from home to school, from child to student, a positive experience.

Be very clear that the child understands where you will be when he/she gets home from school. Children up to the age of eight should not come home to an empty house. If you might be a few minutes late, prepare ahead by setting out cookies and milk, make a drawing for your child possibly showing where you are. A school age child should know his telephone number and how to let himself into the house.

If your boy or girl comes home stating that they hate school and will never, ever, ever go back, how will you respond? In the average family's life this day will come and it helps to be prepared. That gives the parent time to think things through. What is the desirable outcome of this crisis? That the youngster will want to attend school again. Good communication is as much talking as it is listening and most of the time no one is 100% right or wrong. It is important to find out what the problem is and why it is so upsetting to your child. It could be unrelated to school, a physical problem or unfair treatment (perceived) by the teacher. Make sure you clearly understand your child's feelings. It may not be best to rush and "straighten the school (teacher) out." It would also do more harm than good to blame the child and tell him/her not to worry about it.

Growing up and mastering new challenges will be difficult at times. Parents should be sure to place the right amount of importance on the problem. Remembering their own hurts from school days past may interfere with a clear vision of how to handle the situation. Guidance counselors and other professionals may be of help.

It is most important that the child's emotional health increases in stability, self confidence and security. Those feelings are necessary for people of all ages if they are to function successfully within society in today's world.

Senior Citizen
Medicare Guide
Revisions Noted

Rosalie S. Abrams, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, has announced that a revised edition of its popular booklet, A Senior Citizen Guide To Medicare and Medicaid Insurance in Maryland, is now available.

"This booklet has been brought up to date with information to help senior citizens understand the complicated federal Medicare program as well as assist them in choosing a health insurance policy to supplement their Medicare coverage," said Mrs. Abrams.

The booklet explains long term care insurance and patient rights under Medicare. It also compares rates and benefits of supplementary Medicare health insurance policies available in Maryland to help consumers choose the coverage they need and can afford.

First released in October 1986, as a cooperative effort of the Office on Aging and the Maryland Insurance Commissioner, the booklet was an instant "best seller." Over 70,000 copies were distributed within three months. "We know that there is a great deal of interest about health insurance coverage, and we hope that with the printing of this new, updated guide senior citizens and their families will again have a source of invaluable information to help them get the most for the substantial amounts they have to pay for health insurance expenses," she added.

Copies of the booklet, which are free, are being distributed through the Gateway Information and Assistance offices located in each county and Baltimore City, as well as through senior centers, public libraries, and social security offices.

"We encourage anyone who is elderly, or who has an elderly relative living in Maryland to get this helpful revised guide," Mrs. Abrams added.

Capital Gains
Deduction No Longer Available

With all the activity in the stock market recently, there is something else investors should know — the Tax Reform Act of 1986 will significantly affect individuals who sell capital assets such as land, stocks and bonds, and precious metals and gems, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Before 1987, individuals were allowed to deduct 60 percent of their net capital gains; that 60 percent capital gains deduction is no longer allowed under the new tax law. The full amount of the net capital gains must be included and will be taxed at the same tax rate as ordinary income, the IRS said.

As in prior years, persons will still be able to use capital losses to offset capital gains. In addition, if losses are more than gains, up to $3,000 of net capital losses are allowed against ordinary income. Before 1987, persons were allowed to take only half of a long-term capital loss.

Finally, if one sells his home in 1987, the new law will affect him only if he doesn't postpone (or exclude if one is 55 or older) all of the gain from the sale of the home. To postpone the tax on the gain from the sale of a principal home, one must buy a new home and the purchase price is the same or greater than the adjusted sales price of the old home.

For those who anticipate capital gains in 1987, tax planning is important. Persons should check their withholding or possibly make estimated tax payments to offset any significant increase in income.

For more information, persons may call the IRS Tax Forms/Publications Distribution Center at 1-800-424-3676 to request a copy of Publication 920, "Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals."

Trust Seeking Applicants For CLG Program

The Maryland Historical Trust, an agency of the Department of Housing and Community Development, is seeking applications from qualified local governments who wish to participate in the state's Certified Local Government (CLG) Program.

Under provisions of the National Historic Preservation Amendments Act of 1980, Congress expanded the successful federal-state preservation partnership to include participation by counties and incorporated towns. Certified Local Governments are responsible for the review and evaluation of properties from within their respective jurisdictions nominated for listing in the National Register of Historic Places, and are eligible to apply to the State Historic Preservation Office for matching funds earmarked for Certified Local Governments. In order to become certified, a local government must have enacted a historic preservation ordinance and appointed an adequate and qualified historic district/preservation commission, among other requirements.

Approved Certified Local Governments are eligible to apply for a share of matching federal Survey and Planning grant-in-aid funds, made available through the Maryland Historical Trust. The Trust must make available to these governments at least 10% of its federal funds allocated for FY 1988, estimated to be approximately $60,000. Funds may be used for survey, registration, preservation planning and educational purposes.

To date, ten Maryland jurisdictions — the City of Annapolis, Baltimore County, the Town of Bel Air, Calvert County, the City of Frederick, Montgomery County, Prince George's County, the City of Rockville, and Talbot County — have been approved and are participating in this program.

Certified Local Government status is required before local governments may apply for current FY 1988 CLG-share Survey and Planning matching funds. Applications for such funding are due no later than February 1, 1988. To obtain a copy of the Maryland CLG procedures or an application for FY 1988 matching funds, persons may contact Peter Kurtz, Architectural Survey Administrator, Maryland Historical Trust, Arnold Village Professional Center, 1517 Ritchie Highway, Arnold, Maryland 21012 or call (301) 974-2438.

ISSUANCE OF WARRANT

WARRANT NO. 78

Take notice that on the 6th day of August, 1987, at the request of Donald F. Frazee, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26539, a warrant to survey was issued to Lawrence N. Black, surveyor, of Bench Mark Surveying, P.O. Box 387, Oakland, MD 21550, to survey all that vacant land containing approximately 50 acres in the 6th Election District of Garrett County, Maryland, said vacant land is bounded by a parcel containing approximately 300 acres owned by Piney Mountain Corporation, 601 East Main Street, Kingwood, WV 26539, and by a parcel containing unknown acres owned by Maryland Department of Natural Resources, Taxes, State Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401.

Provided certain conditions are met and unless an objection is filed in the proceeding as provided by Sections 13-401 and 13-402, Real Property Article, Annotated Code of Maryland (1981 Repl. Vol. 1986 Cum. Supp.), a Land Patent for said approximately 50 acres of vacant land may be issued by the State of Maryland to the said Donald F. Frazee conveying all the right, title and interest of the State of Maryland therein.

Pursuant to Section 13-307 (b) (2), Real Property Article, the surveyor will be on the premises, that is, the vacant land described in the aforesaid warrant, in the 6th Election District, Garrett County, Maryland, on the 23rd day of November.

Notice is also given to unknown heirs at law and to heirs whose whereabouts are unknown to cause their appearance to be entered in this proceeding.

All persons having any objection to the appointment (or to the probate of the decedent's will) shall file the same with the Register of Wills for Garrett County, on or before the 30th day of April, 1988.

Two Local Men Awarded MRA Status Recently

Dennis E. Hannibal

Charles W. Overton

Two local men have been awarded the professional real estate appraisal designation, Master Residential Appraiser (MRA), by the National Association of Master Appraisers, according to Dr. Marvin T. Deane, national president. The MRS designation was conferred upon Dennis Hannibal, Oakland, and Charles W. Overton, Friendsville, after they successfully completed the educational requirements, passed written examinations and met established criteria for qualification. Requirements also included preparation of actual demonstration appraisals.

"Each member of the National Association of Master Appraisers has agreed to subscribe to the highest professional standards of conduct required by the organization's code of ethics," said Dr. Deane.

The association designates those members of the real estate profession who have attained a high degree of excellence in the art and science of real estate appraisal.

It also encourages specialized education in real estate appraisal through cooperating schools, educational seminars and workshops. Such qualifications are designed to ensure the public will have qualified professional real estate appraisal services when a designated member is selected, said Deane.

Hannibal is a realtor associate with Beckman Meyers Realty, Deep Creek Lake.

FINE HEARING AIDS NEED NOT BE SO EXPENSIVE

Of course not! Mark-ups of up to 500% and more are common and not justified in a service business. Many spend hundreds more than is necessary. Before buying any aid from anyone, shop around. You may save up to 50% or more for the same make and model aid. Call us and we'll be happy to give you full pricing information on any aid.

"DO YOU KNOW YOUR BUSINESS COMMUNITY?"

Reader Ads Prepared By Universal Advertising Associates, Inc.

Prompt, expert heating and plumbing work have given the experts at DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. a reputation for good service at sensible prices.

For complete installation, repairs and remodeling of your plumbing and heating systems, these experts can handle small residential contracts and large, difficult commercial ones. Their services include hot water, oil and coal furnace work, steam, gas, boilers and emergency burner service. DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. are also electrical contractors. Rely on them for all your electrical work from rewiring and remodeling to new construction.

Located on 219 South McHenry, phone 826-8333 or 387-4081, DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. employs only men fully qualified in mechanical contracting. They draw from their over 15 years of plumbing and heating experience on each and every job they undertake.

Unlike many firms, DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. pays more than lip service to their service guarantee. They remind you NOT to wait until bad weather sets in to get that furnace checked. Call DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. at 826-8333 or 387-4081 today and let one of their skilled technicians put it in top working order.

DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC. would also like to remind area residents of DOERR SUPPLY, your Garrett County center for plumbing, electrical and heating supplies. They carry everything for the contractor or the do-it-yourselfer. Call or visit soon.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section suggest that, for complete plumbing, heating and electrical service, you contact DOERR CONSTRUCTION INC.

NAPA AUTO PARTS GRANTSVILLE AUTO SUPPLY

OPEN 7 DAYS

Quality brand name auto parts, many of them superior to your car's original equipment, and friendly personal service are two good reasons to rely on your NAPA man when you need auto parts.

Your NAPA dealer in the Garrett County area is NAPA AUTO PARTS, located in the Grantsville Shopping Center, phone 826-8302, 895-5080 or from Frostburg, phone 689-3315.

Like hundreds of NAPA dealers nationwide, NAPA AUTO PARTS giant catalogue provides you access to more than 100,000 parts for both American and foreign cars. Your NAPA man is one person who will never tell you he lacks that starter for a 1972 Chrysler or the headlight for a '73 Camaro. They can be depended upon to have that part when you need it.

The writers of this "Do You Know Your Business Community?" urge motorists in the Garrett County area to discover what millions of NAPA fans throughout the nation already know - that the initials N.A.P.A. are all you'll EVER need to know about auto parts. NAPA - all the right parts in the right places.

CURTIS CHIMNEY SERVICE

It is important for us to remember that it's once again time to take proper precautions against the needless danger of chimney fires. Creosote and debris are the major causes of chimney fires today. It is recommended that you have your chimney cleaned and checked each heating season.

For complete, professional service in cleaning your chimney, flue, fireplace, and wood-burning stove, call the people you can depend on: CURTIS CHIMNEY SERVICE at 826-8100 in Accident and 895-3200 in Grantsville. They enjoy a fine reputation for prompt, thorough cleaning. Their complete attention assures you of a no-fuss, no-mess, soot-free cleaning.

CURTIS CHIMNEY SERVICE is your chimney and fireplace construction specialist. They carry only stainless steel U.L. Listed chimney lining systems. CURTIS CHIMNEY SERVICE is also your wood stove headquarters. They are your authorized dealer for Lopi and Country Flame. Let them show you how you can actually save money on energy costs.

We, the writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section recommend that you call CURTIS CHIMNEY SERVICE for a free estimate today. Enjoy a safe, comfortable winter and recognize an increase in your fuel efficiency at the same time. Keep the fires burning, not your home!

FAIRFAX CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC.

"Our Reputation Is Our Guarantee"

Construction companies, both large and small in this area, have learned to rely on FAIRFAX CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC. on Rt. 219, south of Oakland, to provide them with approved redi-mix concrete, aggregates and concrete blocks.

A locally owned and operated company, FAIRFAX CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC. has built an excellent reputation, not only for the quality of the products they provide, but also for the unequalled quality of their service. They've based the success of their business on the theory that good customer relations mean continued customer support. The fact that this theory is accurate is evidenced by their ever growing list of satisfied patrons.

Orders from homeowners needing a single load of sand, gravel, or top soil, a few yards of redi-mix concrete or a small order of concrete blocks are as welcome as large orders from builders and paving companies, and you'll find the quality of the service is the same, regardless of the size of the order.

In addition, FAIRFAX CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC. has a complete line of masonry products and tools, septic tank drain pipes, basement windows and steel and concrete lintels at competitive prices.

The writers of this "Do You Know Your Business Community?" are proud to direct the attention of construction firms and homeowners to the services and products of FAIRFAX CONCRETE PRODUCTS, INC. Phone 334-8101 to place your order or for price quotes and information.

GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI

Today's family shops for quality and value for their food dollar. Perhaps that explains the growing popularity of GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI on Rt. 219 in Accident, phone 826-8578.

At this store, friendly, personalized service goes hand in hand with quality at a value price. You'll find your favorite meats, cut to your desire: beef, pork, poultry, and seasonal favorites are available. An excellent selection of fresh produce, frozen and canned goods, plus fresh dairy products are also stocked.

GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI has freezer beef available. Their custom cutting and wrapping service is your guarantee of satisfaction whether you need an entire side of beef or a small portion.

From their deli, choose your favorite luncheon meats and cheeses, as well as homemade salads and specialty items. For your next party or family get together, have the GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI create a party tray for you. For information, call 826-8578.

GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI features a bakery where they make homemade white, wheat and rye bread, delicious mouthwatering raisin bread and banana bread, as well as the tastiest cookies, cakes, and homemade pies. In addition, GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI has an area where you can come in and sit and enjoy a tasty snack or lunch and see for yourself just how delicious their homemade specialties are.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section are pleased to suggest that you stop in soon at GOEHRINGER MEATS & DELI and see for yourself everything they have to offer!

RODERICK FURNITURE

The writers of this "Do You Know Your Business Community?" recommend that you visit RODERICK FURNITURE when you're planning home improvements this year.

SOUTHERN STATES OAKLAND COOPERATIVE

If you use propane, you'll want to be sure to look for certain qualities in your distributor. Among those qualities, perhaps the most important will be the quality of its fuel, the price, AND the competency of the service you'll receive.

Locally, SOUTHERN STATES OAKLAND COOPERATIVE in Mt. Lake Park, phone 334-3121, delivers first quality LP Gas at competitive prices. As for the service, you'll get the kind of competent trustworthy service you expect from a locally operated business.

Everyone at SOUTHERN STATES OAKLAND COOPERATIVE goes a long way to make friends. Their delivery equipment is always well maintained so that your order can be delivered when promised. Helpful advice on energy conservation is cheerfully given, and to assure you of competent billing and to keep your account straight, SOUTHERN STATES OAKLAND COOPERATIVE uses meter printed invoices.

An excellent selection of gas appliances and gas grills are available through SOUTHERN STATES OAKLAND COOPERATIVE. For information or service, call 334-3121; they'll be glad to help you with your propane needs!

JEFF GRACIE CONTRACTING

Skill, integrity, and total service are all in your corner when you rely on JEFF GRACIE CONTRACTING for your next building project.

As one of the Garrett County area's leaders in the construction field, this contractor has won the respect and admiration of building experts throughout the area.

Located in Deep Creek Lake, phone 387-6595, this builder realizes that his good reputation is squarely on the line each time he accepts a large or small contract. Be certain YOU rely on a contractor who places customer satisfaction above all else.

The professionals at JEFF GRACIE CONTRACTING oversee everything from the initial planning and estimates to complete on-the-job supervision to a realistic completion date. They employ only competent workers and use only durable, top grade building materials. Let this expert give you a bid.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section congratulate JEFF GRACIE CONTRACTING for continued dedication to excellence on every job!

SOMERFIELD CABLE TV

TV viewers of the 80s are more discriminating than those of years gone by. Consequently, many TV viewing families of the McHenry and Deep Creek area have contracted SOMERFIELD CABLE TV for cable services, phone 1-800-443-9404.

Advances in electronics and broadcasting technology have made cable TV an affordable luxury for the average American family. Through the services of SOMERFIELD CABLE TV, you can enjoy the latest in first run movies, prime shows, plays, sports broadcasts, and news from around the world and close to home. They have USA, ESPN, WTBS, CNN, DISNEY, HBO and more available, and all with just a twist of the wrist!

Educational programs and children's feature shows not only keep your children entertained but allow you to monitor their TV viewing as well.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section suggest you investigate the pleasures of cable TV today. Call 1-800-443-9404 and a courteous sales representative will explain the costs and advantages of their many program packages available in the McHenry and Deep Creek area!

ADVENTURES IN TRAVEL

Locally Owned By William Thoman

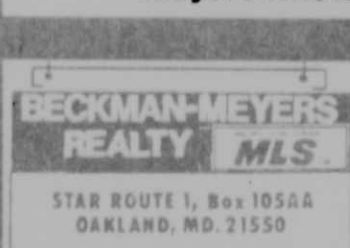

With travel as their business, and service as their product, it is our pleasure to bring ADVENTURES IN TRAVEL to your attention. Located in Cumberland at 43 Baltimore Street (on the Mall), phone 1-777-7117, this is the place where individuals and corporations go when they want the aid of a professional travel organization.

Regardless of where you are planning to travel, in the states or abroad, you'll find that their professional travel counselors can make your trip more enjoyable and relaxing, with prearranged reservations for your travel, accommodations, tours and they can even have a car waiting for you when you arrive. And best of all, there is no charge to you for their services!

You'll enjoy the friendly way they serve you and the money they can save you by selecting the sights, attractions and accommodations they know to be excellent, but at a lesser price than you could get on your own. Planning with ADVENTURES IN TRAVEL is your assurance of a trip with arrangements planned to your total satisfaction. This is the name to remember for airline tickets, reservations, charters, cruises, vacation or business travel.

We, the writers of this "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section are pleased to bring this quality firm to our readers' attention and suggest if travel is in your near or distant future, the name to know is ADVENTURES IN TRAVEL. Their customers are their best recommendation!

Meyers Knows The Market

Well, as anyone close to the real estate scene in Garrett County will quickly tell you, the professional brokers and realtors over at BECKMAN-MEYERS REALTY can answer yes to both of those questions.

Located on Rt. 219, 1/2 mile south of Deep Creek Lake, phone 387-4800 or 1-800-457-6465 ext. 301-D, this agency has won the respect of municipal officials, homeowners, and business people throughout the area.

To better serve you BECKMAN-MEYERS REALTY, under the ownership of Lois Beckman-Meyers, Broker-Realtor, now has 7 professional realtors to help you find just what you are looking for, whether it's your dream home, business site, or commercial property.

In addition, BECKMAN-MEYERS REALTY is now staffed with in-office MRA appraisal service for your convenience.

Skill, integrity and total service are all in your corner when you rely on BECKMAN-MEYERS REALTY for the most complete professional real estate service available!

When you need to buy or sell property - before listing with a real estate agency, ask two tough questions about that agency.

(1) Are they interested in representing you in the best possible manner to the limit of their professional abilities?

(2) Do they have access to enough buyers and sellers to give you a satisfactory cross-section and thus give you your home or property enough exposure to buyers to get you the best price possible?

PERRY'S SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL

Serving All Of Garrett County

Probably the most unappreciated members of any community are the local refuse collectors. Even when the service is good, which is what firms such as PERRY'S SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL go out of their way to provide, few people take notice.

But the fact is that a good refuse collection and container service, despite its lack of recognition, is vital to any community.

Located in Oakland, phone 334-2450 or 334-1025, this firm offers daily, weekly or monthly pick-up service for homes, apartments, businesses, factories and institutions. The employees won't leave a trail of cans from your home to the street.

The containers come in a variety of sizes from 2-40 yards and aren't permitted to overflow.

The writers of this edition recommend that, for residential, commercial or industrial solid waste disposal service in Garrett County, you rely on PERRY'S SOLID WASTE DISPOSAL at 334-2450 or 334-1025; Perry Petersheim - proprietor.

TOPSIDER RESTAURANT & LOUNGE

Family Style Restaurant

There are quite a number of restaurants in the area, and each of them is unique in setting, atmosphere, and service. While some specialize in intimate dining and others cater to a more exclusive crowd, TOPSIDER RESTAURANT & LOUNGE caters to the public at large.

Located in McHenry at 1 Mosser Rd., behind the First National Bank, phone 387-9820, the TOPSIDER RESTAURANT & LOUNGE is unique in that it specializes in home cooked meals. They have earned an outstanding reputation for the quality of their service, as well as their delicious menu items.

Whether you're in the mood for a hasty snack or a tasty meal, you'll find a wide variety of delicious breakfast, lunch and dinner selections at competitive prices.

The TOPSIDER RESTAURANT & LOUNGE is open Monday through Saturday from 6 a.m. - 8 p.m. and on Sunday from 8 a.m. - 8 p.m. Stop in soon and see their excellent menu selection for yourself.

For those seeking service, selection and price when dining out, the TOPSIDER RESTAURANT & LOUNGE is an excellent choice. After a single visit to this fine establishment, you will not only return, but will bring your friends and family, as well.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD LIFE INSURANCE SOCIETY

If you're like most people who don't fully understand all the complexities of the life insurance business, at LEAST be certain you know and can rely upon your agent.

The professionals at WOODMEN OF THE WORLD LIFE INSURANCE SOCIETY don't look upon themselves as life insurance salespeople so much as people determined to provide each and every customer with a perfectly tailored life insurance policy for the individual's needs.

Stop by their office at Harrington Manor Rd. in Oakland and see why this qualified life insurance agency has won the respect of policyholders throughout the area.

Let the experts at WOODMEN OF THE WORLD LIFE INSURANCE SOCIETY go over your present policy. If it is satisfactory, they'll tell you. If just could be, however, they can provide you with a life insurance policy at a more competitive rate.

Field Representatives:
Robert F. Rodeheaver, Area Manager - Office 334-1271, Home 334-3543
Mark D. Kyle - Home 387-6926
Ernest F. Savage - Home 746-5259
Edward M. Utterback - Home 304-735-3931
Janet E. Wable - 895-5362 or 814-662-2175

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section suggest for whatever your needs in life insurance that you contact WOODMEN OF THE WORLD LIFE INSURANCE SOCIETY - it might do you both some good.

TEAM ONE

In this day and age, when every car maker has such a wide selection of models to choose from, it's really difficult for you to decide where to go for a new car. All the companies advertise that their cars are the best, but in reality it's hard to say which car really is. Obviously, all the cars on the market today must have their good points, or they wouldn't have survived the ups and downs of the business. We therefore can conclude that the real difference in buying a car is the dealer you buy it from.

The ideal dealer offers a fair price on the new car as well as an honest dollar for the car you trade in. But the most important factor is the service that you receive on your new car after the purchase.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section would like to point out a dealer who considers the most important part of selling a car to be the quality service he can offer you after the sale. We are talking about TEAM ONE, located at 9000 Rt. 219N in Oakland, phone 334-9494.

See them today for a look at the exciting 1988 lineup of Chevrolets, Oldsmobiles, Buicks, GMC trucks and Jeep Eagles, and you'll see why we say "Customer consideration is first and foremost at TEAM ONE!"

GREGG'S PHARMACY

When you are looking for a reputable pharmacy, you look for one who offers a nationally known selection of merchandise at fair prices and provides friendly advice and helpful tips.

People in the Oakland area have found an excellent combination of the above mentioned qualities at GREGG'S PHARMACY, at 115 S. 3rd Street in Oakland, phone 334-2197.

A registered pharmacist is on duty at all times to conscientiously compound your doctor's prescription.

In addition, a complete line of quality brand name merchandise is on display as well. Whether you need a birthday card for your loved one, a bottle of vitamins or a prescription filled promptly, you'll receive the same helpful tips and friendly advice.

GREGG'S PHARMACY carries a complete line of convalescent supplies and equipment.

The writers of this 1987 "Do You Know Your Business Community?" section suggest you rely on a reputable pharmacy such as GREGG'S PHARMACY for all of your prescription needs. Call for more information at 334-2197.

BUTCHER & SINGER INC.

If you have decided that you want to buy securities or stocks, BUTCHER & SINGER INC. located at 107 S. Second St. in the Professional Building in Oakland, phone 334-1841, and at 29 North Liberty St. in Cumberland, phone 724-2660, has all the information at their fingertips to help you invest wisely. They will also help you to organize your bond program more efficiently. BUTCHER & SINGER INC. also recommends securities for different types of portfolios from aggressive investing, current income investing, to a hedging program for inflation risks. Come in anytime and talk to them for the best possible decisions as to whether you should buy a recommended stock or mutual fund or for assistance in reducing the risks from your investments.

BUTCHER & SINGER INC. offers complete investment services from stock, corporate/municipal bonds, options, financial planning, investments in oil, gas and real estate, insurance, fiduciary consulting, IRA/Keogh, etc.

Dr. Herman Says Data On Default Rate Incorrect

"Information was wrong," stated Dr. Stephen Herman, president of Garrett Community College, referring to information received in a press release from the Maryland State Department of Education by several area media sources concerning the student loan default rate at GCC.

The release indicated that Garrett and Allegany Community Colleges were both in danger of being barred from the federal guaranteed student loan program in 1990 unless their default rates were improved.

Education secretary William Bennett, who prepared the release, stated that schools with default rates of over 20 percent would be subject to restrictions and, possibly, eliminated from the federal program. The release presented figures from fiscal year 1985, showing that GCC had a default rate of 25 percent and ACC had a default rate of 21 percent.

Upon investigation of the matter, Cissy VanSickle, financial aid director at GCC, learned that, in a report published by the Maryland Higher Education Loan Corporation, GCC's default rate was listed as 10.4 percent as of last Friday, November 6. That figure reflects the lowest default rate among Maryland community colleges, said Herman.

In addition, ACC's rate was listed in that report as 14.9 percent. The default rates of students in the other 15 community colleges in Maryland range from 11.9 percent at Frederick to 42 percent at Community College in Baltimore.

Herman stated that GCC had never been made aware of a problem with its default rates and, in fact, had been represented as a "model college" in that area. Herman further stated, "I deeply resent the misrepresentation of the character of the people in Western Maryland," adding that the students' rate of loan repayment here was "exemplary."

Local Mayor Is Charged With Telephone Misuse

The mayor of Friendsville was arrested last Friday by the Maryland State Police and charged with telephone misuse after he placed a call to Garrett County Central Alarm and made obscene suggestions to a male dispatcher there, according to police reports.

Spencer R. Schlosnagle, 23, the youngest mayor ever elected to office in the history of the state of Maryland, was apprehended early Friday morning at the Youghioheny Overlook Information Center on Rt. 48 near Friendsville after the call was traced to that location. A Maryland State Police officer was then dispatched to the information center.

Schlosnagle was subsequently incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail and later released on his own recognizance following a bond hearing in Garrett County District Court. He reportedly made the call to 911 at 1:23 a.m.

Schlosnagle, vice-chairman of the Garrett County Democratic State Central Committee, resides in Friendsville with his parents.

AN EARLY SNOWSTORM did little to dampen the spirit of local veterans and other citizens who gathered along side the Garrett County Courthouse yesterday for a Veterans Day ceremony and plaque dedication. Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg, pictured above right with representatives of the various local veterans organizations, was the speaker for the 11 a.m. ceremony. Gregg called upon all, as a tribute to all U.S. veterans of all wars, to re-dedicate themselves to the cause of peace in the world.

Public Hearing Slated In Oakland To Review Sewer Fee Structure

In an attempt to fully explain the new sewer system in Oakland a review alternatives for a fee structure, the Mayor and Town Council will conduct a public meeting on Wednesday, December 2, at 7 p.m. in the town hall.

At the meeting, alternatives to recover the $1.2 million local share of the $8,000,000 project will be presented to town residents.

To date, 40 percent of the plant is complete and 90 percent of the collection system is complete. A total of $200,000 has already been set aside by the town in a special sewer account to offset capital costs.

According to the design engineer of the project, Morgan France, one-third of the project funds will go toward capital costs, while two-thirds will be for operation and maintenance. Operation and maintenance costs will be determined by taking the total cost and dividing it by the number of users.

The alternatives being considered by the town council are: 1) pay off the capital costs by dividing the costs among users; 2) borrow the money on a long-term, low-interest loan which would be paid back with an ad valorem tax; or 3) a mix of the two alternatives.

France explained that the first alternative would offset the initial cost of the project by charging users an up-front fee of between $300 and $1,000 per user — the lower figure reflecting existing in-town taps and the higher figure geared to new out-of-town connections. Non-resident facility's fees would be computed on an equivalent residents unit equation.

The second alternative involving a long-term loan would compute to an annual payment of approximately $70,000 for the town. That would equate to about $80 a year for each user or user unit for 30 years — over and above ongoing operation and maintenance fees.

France is recommending a mix of the two alternatives for two reasons. "The landowners can't afford such a high initial fee. Even with the large contribution of non-residential users, the fee is unacceptably high," he said. "Also, the payback, even on a low-interest loan would be a great encumbrance on the town over a long period of time. With this alternative, the owners of undeveloped property would still be sharing the cost which would make the funding more equitable." He continued, "Of course, the best way to reduce the capital debt is to pay off initial costs as soon as possible."

France also stressed that waste water discharged by non-residential users, such as the hospital, must be pre-treated so that it is no harder to treat than normal domestic sewage. Non-residential users would be required to design and utilize pre-treatment mechanisms.

He also said that under new stormwater regulations, waste such as from roof gutters would not be permitted to flow into the new system. There is currently a stormwater drain in the town to accommodate that type of waste water.

Finally, France explained that there was a limited reserve capacity for new connections. "The sewer system developed by the town of Oakland will strictly limit the number of additional connections outside the corporate limits," he added.

"Additionally, the town will not issue taps on a first-come, first-served basis. Rather, they will be issued on an allocation system yet to be determined," he concluded.

County Receives Grant To Aid The Homeless

Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced that the state has awarded Garrett County a $25,000 grant to provide short-term housing assistance payments for homeless people and households experiencing critical and emergency housing needs.

This is the second round of funding made available through the Rental Allowance Program, which is operated by the Community Development Administration (CDA), a division of the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development. CDA is the state's housing finance agency.

The Rental Allowance Program provides monthly housing assistance payments to low-income people and households, to help them move from homelessness or emergency housing situations to more permanent housing. Payments can be made for up to six months.

"With winter coming, homeless people and those with critical housing problems need our help more than ever," said Governor Schaefer. "These payments are designed to help people over the short term, to help them achieve some stability and move toward more permanent housing."

Commissioners, Oakland Councilmen Meet, Discuss Bradley Manor Project

Several members of the Oakland Town Council met with the Board of Garrett County Commissioners Tuesday to discuss measures being taken to reject a state-proposed rehabilitation project for the defunct Bradley Manor Housing Complex.

Attending the meeting were council president, Francis Seifert, and council members, Terry Helbig and Robert Boal.

The commissioners and Garrett County Community Action officials met last week with representatives of the Federal Housing and Urban Development Department (HUD) while here on a Western Maryland tour of HUD projects.

According to the commissioners, St. George Crosse, manager of the Baltimore area HUD office, said the Oakland Town Council should send letters immediately to the Governor and state and federal housing offices to officially document their decision to reject the rehabilitation proposal.

The town officials made that decision late last Tuesday following a public hearing on the proposal. Town residents expressed vehement opposition to any rehabilitation of the Bradley Manor Complex, citing the past bad experiences in the county with low-income or affordable housing.

At that public meeting Commissioner Ernest Gregg restated the county's opposition to low-income housing and said, "It has been proven that you can't give someone something and expect them to take care of it."

On Tuesday, Gregg again made that statement and noted that the county is sympathetic with the poor but remained firm in his conviction that no good purpose is served in lumping low-income housing families together in one complex.

Ann Abrahamson, local social worker, reinforced Gregg's statement at last week's public hearing saying that studies had been conducted with that same conclusion about low-income public housing.

Boal concurred with Gregg and cited other problem areas regarding low-income housing complexes.

The town council had sent telegrams to the State Department of Housing and Development and to HUD last Wednesday morning following the public hearing to voice their objection to the proposal.

Helbig requested the commissioners' support in the form of letters also. Commissioner Elwood Groves II said they would review the letters drafted to the state and federal officials before committing their support.

Commissioner Gregg stated, "We will certainly help in any way we can to reinforce the decision made on this public housing proposal."

Robert Watson, Oakland town attorney, said last week that sources at HUD informed him that the units at Bradley Manor were likely not suitable for re-

Deep Creek Lake Dock Removal Deadline Noted

The Lake Management Office for Deep Creek Lake issued a reminder this week to all persons maintaining docks upon the lake that all such facilities must be removed from the lake for the winter months. Current regulations for the lake require that from December 1 through April 1, all docks, boating and swimming structures, and mooring buoys shall be removed from the lake and shall be secured to or removed from the buffer strip, according to Eric Schwaab, lake manager.

Failure to adhere to the current regulations can result in issuance of a citation carrying a $50 fine, or revocation or suspension of privileges permitting use of the buffer strip, he said. The main reason for the required removal of dock facilities during the winter months, Schwaab explained, is to avoid having docks damaged by the ice which forms on the lake during the winter. Each year in the past there have been a number of docks which have not been removed from the lake and have subsequently become frozen in the ice. As the ice freezes and thaws, or is moved by the wind, these docks are twisted, crushed and broken apart. The associated debris, consisting of wood, metal, or flotation material is then scattered around the lake creating both an eyesore and potential safety hazard, Schwaab said.

In cases where certain docks can be removed from the lake, nonconforming use permits have been issued to allow the docks to remain on the lake bottom. However, individuals must apply to the Lake Management Office for such permits. Under such permits landowners must pull their dock into shore as close as possible and must take adequate measures to insure that the dock will be secured and monitored to minimize the potential for damage to the structure.

Persons wishing further information relative to winter operation of the lake should contact Schwaab at the Lake Management Office at 387-4111.

Several Injuries Occur As Result Of Icy Roads

Accidents attributed to icy road conditions over the last two days resulted in several persons being sent to area hospital, with an Oakland couple being admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital with serious injuries.

Darrell McCabe, 62, remains a patient at Garrett Memorial Hospital in "guarded" condition in the Intensive Care Unit and Gloria McCabe, 61, is listed in "fair" condition following a two-vehicle accident Wednesday on Rt. 219 at Plaza Deli in McHenry. The accident occurred at 12:46 p.m.

Also injured in the accident were Marlene Carr, 46, and Brenda Carr, 22, both of Friendsville, who were treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital.

According to the investigating officer, Tfc. L. Rosage of the Maryland State Police, the accident occurred when McCabe was operating his 1981 Toyota Celica southbound and Brenda Carr was operating a 1987 Pontiac Grand Am northbound. McCabe reportedly lost control on the snow-covered road, crossed the center line and struck the Carr vehicle on the driver's side. Charges in the accident are pending.

While enroute to that accident, the new Southern Rescue Squad equipment truck was damaged in a collision on Rt. 219, north of Glendale Road and an Oakland couple became entrapped in their vehicle after being struck by the truck.

Gregory and Camille Carrico were both treated and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital after the "Jaws of Life" was employed by Southern Rescue Squad to free the couple from their 1984 Ford Escort which was reportedly demolished.

The 1:04 p.m. accident occurred, according to Tfc. G.R. Chaney, Maryland State Police, when the equipment truck, driven by James Phil Rook Jr., Oakland, came up behind Carrico's vehicle and another vehicle driven by Richard Markley, Ohio.

Carrico and Markley had slowed to turn into a church lot when Carrico heard the siren and felt the impact of the truck. His car was then pushed into the Markley vehicle.

A Swanton woman was also seriously injured as the result of a one-vehicle accident that occurred Wednesday at 6:55 p.m. on Glendale Road.

Pam Miske, 23, remains a patient at Garrett Memorial Hospital in "satisfactory" condition with closed head injuries. She was a passenger in a 1984

A BRONZE PLAQUE in memory of all Garrett County veterans, from the Revolutionary War through the Vietnam War, was the subject of a Veterans Day dedication ceremony held yesterday at the Garrett County Courthouse. Representatives of all local veterans organizations participated in the ceremony, which featured Garrett County Commissioner Ernie Gregg as the speaker. The Northern High School Band provided music and a number of local elementary school students were in attendance. The major portion of the ceremony was held inside the Courthouse rotunda. The plaque is located along the Alder Street side of the Courthouse.

FBI/EPA Investigation Results

In Federal Grand Jury Indictments

A year-long investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Maryland State Police has resulted in federal grand jury indictments against three men and two corporations.

Breckenridge L. Wilcox, U.S. Attorney for the District of Maryland, announced Friday the unsealing of a federal grand jury indictment charging Cuyahoga Wrecking Corporation, Overland Corporation, Samuel Runfola, Virgil Cummings and Ernest Ray Martin with alleged conspiracy, illegal transportation of hazardous wastes and illegal storage and disposal of hazardous wastes.

Wilcox also announced the filing of a criminal felony information against Publicker Industries, Inc., Greenwich, Conn., in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania and the company's agreement to enter a guilty plea in the District of Maryland.

The indictment of Cuyahoga, Overland, Runfola, Cummings and Martin generally alleges a conspiracy to violate federal en-

Cuyahoga, headquartered in Great Neck, N.Y., is currently in bankruptcy. Overland is a wholly owned subsidiary of Cuyahoga. Runfola was a superintendent and project manager for Cuyahoga. Cummings, now a resident of Baltimore, formerly owned and operated Cummings Development Company in Salem, West Virginia. Martin owned and operated a junkyard near Oakland where some of the hazardous wastes allegedly were stored.

Wilcox stated that the indictment charged a conspiracy beginning in July, 1986, and continuing until September, 1987, during the course in which Runfola arranged for Cummings to illegally transport and dispose of hazardous wastes at the junkyard owned by Martin. Cummings also al-

A FIRST FOR GARRETT COUNTY occurred last week with the official sighting of the cattle egret, a species that is native to Africa but migrated to South America in the 1880s and has slowly moved northward ever since. Nine of the birds were seen feeding in a pasture on the Henry Moomau farm, located just off State Rt. 560 one mile south of Loch Lynn, on November 1. The egrets, which are 19-22 inches long and have a wingspan of about three feet, were first seen in the United States in 1941 in Florida. Fran Pope, local ornithologist, took these photos and contacted Robert Ringler, editor of Maryland Wildlife, who confirmed that this was the first sighting of the cattle egret in Garrett County. Garrett was the only Maryland county in which the birds had never been seen. Mrs. Pope said the birds specialize in walking on dry land, often following cattle, other large mammals, other birds, or even tractors, and feeding on insects and small vertebrates stirred up by the motion. The bird has a relatively short yellow or orange-colored bill, yellow iris, and short dark legs. In breeding season, adults develop long rufous-buff plumes on crown, nape, lower foreneck and mantle, and the legs may become bright yellow, red, or coral pink.

Sheriff's Dept. Investigating Sexual Assault

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department this week is conducting a search of a man suspected of sexually assaulting a West Virginia woman last Wednesday, November 4.

According to Detective Sgt. D.W. Tucker, the woman was traveling near Grantsville on Rt. 48 when her vehicle became disabled. She told police that a man stopped to offer his assistance, and she accepted a ride with him.

The woman stated that the man then took her to a house near Grantsville and sexually assaulted her. He reportedly was carrying a handgun at the time of the assault.

Shown above is a composite photograph of the suspect, described as a white male in his mid-twenties, six-foot tall, medium build with long wavy dark hair. Detective Tucker has requested that anyone with information about the suspect should call the Sheriff's Department at 334-1911.

In other news from the Sheriff's Department, a breaking and entering and theft was reported by Michael C. Guthrie, Oakland, that occurred sometime between October 28 and November 2.

According to Guthrie, someone entered a shed located at his residence on Monta Vista Road and removed a Harley-Davidson FXST motorcycle that is not currently registered. The bike, according to investigating officer, Detective L.E. Gnegy, is valued at $9,500.

A breaking and entering and theft was also reported to police that occurred sometime between October 29 and November 2 at the office trailer of Beitzel Welding Construction, Inc., and a sanitary sewage treatment plant building located on the Steyer-Gorman Road there. The theft resulted in a loss of $1,320.30.

According to police reports, items removed included a Magnum hammer drill, a hand drill, a telephone, a six volt battery, various hand tools, a Berger surveying transit and various electrical components. The door was forced open at each location, according to investigating officer Detective Gnegy.

The theft of a "Shred-It" power shredder, valued at $500, was reported by Wayne L. Erdner, Wheeling, W.Va., who stated that the shredder was removed from a residence at Thousand Acres. The machine was under the porch there at the time of the theft which occurred sometime between September 20 and October 18. Deputy Denver Welch investigated.

A destruction of property that occurred sometime between last Thursday and Friday was reported by Thomas F. Koton, Oakland, who stated that a foreign substance was placed in the gas tank of this 1980 Ford F150 truck, parked at his residence, causing the motor to malfunction and lock up. The damage was estimated at $500, according to Deputy J. Murphy.

William E. Schreck II, Oakland, reported the theft of $140 to $160 worth of food stamps that occurred sometime from October 8 to the present. Investigating officer, Detective Gnegy, stated that Schreck was to receive the stamps before that date but has yet to receive them. Department of Social Services confirmed that the stamps were mailed.

The theft of a bus stop building made of silver tin sheeting is also under investigation by the Sheriff's Department. According to a report by Deputy R. Shaffer, the building was removed from Boiling Springs Road, one and one-half miles from Deer Park October 24. Loss to the Garrett County Board of Education is estimated at $110.

ated at $110.

A seven and one-fourth inch Black & Decker circular saw was reported stolen by Michael E. Evans, Deer Park, who stated that while he was doing remodeling work at Cuppet-Weeks Nursing Home November 4, the saw was taken from his vehicle parked outside. Detective Gnegy investigated.

A destruction of property and a breaking and entering that occurred October 26 at the residence of Tamara A. Kelley, Deer Park, was reported. According to Kelley, two doors and a waterbed were damaged there. Deputy J. Murphy investigated.

A breaking and entering was reported by Earl J. Radtke, Thurmont, that occurred at his residence on Lake Shore Drive. According to reports, the residence was entered when a side door was broken. A brick was found inside the dwelling. According to Detective Gnegy, it has not yet been determined if anything is missing.

State Jobless Rate Unchanged, Garrett's Higher

Maryland's unemployment rate stabilized in September, holding at the August rate of 3.9 percent, according to statistics released by the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment Development.

Garrett County's jobless rate increased, however, from 6.7 percent in August to 7.3 percent in September, just one-tenth of a point lower than the rate for September 1986.

This September's estimate, which reflects the first time in over a decade that the September state jobless rate has leveled off below the 4.0 percent mark, keeps Maryland's unemployment rate substantially below the national rate of 5.7 percent.

After declining in August, Maryland's labor force receded by another 15,175 persons in September as students and other seasonal employees left the job market. Unemployment dropped by 388 persons while employment slumped down by 14,787 persons.

In Garrett County, there were only 33 more persons unemployed in September than in August, but the labor force dropped from 12,092 to 11,631, which caused the more than one-half percent jump in the rate.

Statewide increases of an estimated 1,200 factory jobs raised manufacturing employment to its highest level this year. Hiring for the fall school semester bolstered government and transportation payrolls. However, seasonal layoffs in hotels, amusement recreation, and membership organizations contributed heavily to a decline of 4,700 persons in the services industry. Activity in trade was impeded by layoffs of 2,400 in retail trade.

A general slowdown in homebuilding activity during September contributed to job declines in the construction, finance and real estate sectors.

In the Baltimore metropolitan area, the jobless rate remained unchanged over the month at 4.3 percent. While trade and services industries declined statewide, they showed a collective increase of an estimated 600 jobs in the BMA.

In Maryland's D.C. suburbs, the unemployment rate edged up slightly from 2.9 percent in August to 3.0 percent in September. In Frederick, an overall reduction in unemployment claims reduced the county's jobless rate from 3.5 percent to 2.9 percent.

The overall jobless rate in Western Maryland rose slightly over the month, reaching 7.5 percent in September. In Allegany, the only western Maryland county to experience increased employment the jobless rate declined from 10.6 to 9.9 percent.

Joblessness in the balance of state area left 4.4 percent of the area's work force idle during September. Seasonal employment declines in food processing, trade, and services were noted over the month. In Worcester County, the seasonal drop in tourist activities raised the county's jobless rate from 2.9 percent to 4.1 percent.

Locally, unemployment rates ranged from a low of 2.5 percent shared by both Howard and Montgomery counties to a high of 9.9 percent in Allegany County.

Lime deposits may be removed from pots and pans by boiling vinegar in them.

Pension Plan Adopted By Town Council

At the last regularly scheduled monthly meeting of the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, held Monday, November 2, it was announced that a pension plan to cover all town employees has been instituted for the first time in the town's history.

According to Councilman Terry Helbig, this is the first time Oakland has set aside money for such a plan. In previous years, he said, the town department heads were the only town employees covered. Butcher and Singer of Oakland was selected as the agency for the plan.

Helbig added that the institution of the plan was a result of the budget-making process, which was on-going throughout the summer.

A public meeting will be conducted Monday, November 16 at 7 p.m. for the purpose of discussing procedures for connection with the town's new sewage system. Another meeting is scheduled for Monday, November 23, at 7 p.m. when the Mayor and Town Council will meet with their planning commission to re-write the zoning laws. Both meetings will be held at the town hall.

In other news from the Oakland Mayor and Town Council, the council expressed appreciation for all those businesses and private citizens who contributed time and money to the annual Halloween parade and treat.

Major contributors included the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club, the Oakland Masonic Lodge, Oakland Elks Lodge, 2481, and the Catholic Daughters of America, Oakland Court, 2209.

A spokesperson for the council noted that somewhere between 600 and 650 treats were given out this year. Last year the figure was just under 700. The council expressed the hope that more parents offer their help for next year.

Oakland Visit Of Bloodmobile Nets 220 Pints

One of the most successful visits ever to Oakland by the Red Cross Bloodmobile occurred Friday when 220 pints of blood were collected at the National Guard Armory, according to Norma Hesen, chairman.

Of the 241 persons who responded to the visit, 21 were deferred for various reasons and there were 41 first-time donors.

Among the donors was Mary Rodeheaver, Mtn. Lake Park, gave her 56th pint of blood to become a seven-gallon donor. Reaching the three-gallon level were Mary Friend and Beverly Haines, Swanton, and David Higdon, Friendsville, while Sam Michaels, Karen Steyer and Linda Freyman, Deer Park, Marilyn Kight, Gertrude Rexrode and Brooks Hamilton, Oakland, Bonnie Droppelman, Elk Garden, W.Va., and Janice Tackett, Aurora, W.Va., all became two-gallon donors.

Giving their eighth pint of blood and thus becoming one-gallon donors were: Kimberly Habel and Ernest Shiffey, Oakland, Kriss Friend, Swanton, Kenneth Michaels and Joanne Kozier, Deer Park, Caroline Viragh, Mtn. Lake Park, and Bob Broadwater, Westernport.

Volunteer nurses assisting with the visit were: Lois Cuppett, Angie Stevens, Charree Reckner, Sharon Schwalm, Rhoda Keefer, Dorothy Rudy, Betty Shaffer, Kathryn Spiker, and Nancy Barr, all R.N.'s.

Volunteers handling registration were: Kathryn Helbig, chairman; Diane Thayer, Dorothy Frame, Martha Lou Ashby, Lorraine Ledden, and Vava Bailey.

Bag labeling was done by Ruth Porter and Mary Jane DeWitt, temperatures and pulses were recorded by Clara Fitzwater, Helen Kahl, Mari Vaughn, and Charlene Bennett, and hemoglobins were checked by Judy Umstot, chairman, Jacquelyn Shurer, Beth Friend, and Susan Plank.

Canteen workers included: Lois Mechem, chairman; Lorraine Mason, Joyce Warnick, Louise Beckman, Violet Bowser, Mildred Savage, Freda Austin, Helen Henline, Ruth Mateer, Mary Lee Lambert, Grayce Quinet, and Mabel Hauser.

Walkers were Lucy Burnett, R.N., Cathy Burnett, and Norma Hesen, R.N.

Oakland town employees assisted with unloading the equipment, while re-loading was done by Randy Lucas and John Jackson, members of Boy Scout Troop 31, Larry Lucas, assistant scout leader, and volunteer Chase Burnett.

Others contributing to the success of the visit were: Carolyn Updyke, Dorothy Cathell, Arleigh Hauser, Jackie Kenner, Ruth Jackson, Garrett County Memorial Hospital Dietary Department, WXIE Radio, The Republican Newspaper, Central Coca-Cola Bottling Company, and Reva Rush, R.N.

Correction On Bradley Manor Article Noted

In an article concerning the Bradley Manor rehabilitation project, which appeared in last week's issue of The Republican, it was incorrectly stated that Oakland Town Councilman Terry Helbig, during a public hearing Tuesday evening, stated that if Oakland rejected the offer of a $400,000 block grant, someone else would take the money.

Helbig, in fact, was in no way referring to the recent offer from the state of the block grant but, rather, was referring to an offer, five years ago, by HUD of a loan totaling $5.8 million.

Helbig's comment reflected a statement made by a state official five years ago when, according to him, they were being pressured into accepting the loan. The pressure they were receiving then was the basis for Helbig's comment.

Several Injuries

Plymouth Voyager driven by David Nordeck, 43, Oakland, as was Carol Maffett, 21, also of Oakland. Maffett was treated for injuries at Garrett Memorial Hospital and released.

The accident occurred when Nordeck, traveling eastbound, lost control of the vehicle on the icy road, slid off the road and struck a Potomac Edison pole. Nordeck was reportedly not injured.

An accident that occurred Friday resulted in an Accident woman being sent to Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland.

Leah Brenneman, 58, is currently listed in "fair" condition following the one-car accident that occurred on Rt. 48 at Amish Road near Grantsville at 4:35 p.m.

The accident occurred, according to Tfc. G.R. Chaney, when Brenneman's 1988 Lincoln Continental went out of control and traveled across four lanes of traffic. The car initially ran off the roadway and shoulder, striking a guardrail. It then skidded back onto the roadway and continued across the median strip, entering the westbound lanes.

It then struck a guardrail on the shoulder of the westbound lanes before coming to a rest. Brenneman was charged with failure to drive in a single lane.

Robert A. Horner, 16, Deer Park, was treated for injuries and released at Garrett Memorial Hospital Sunday following an ATV accident at 3 p.m.

Horner, according to police reports, was operating a 1987 Kawasaki TKY 250 four-wheeler on private property when the vehicle struck a bump. Horner's foot then slipped off the vehicle and was dragged under the right rear wheel. He was then thrown from the vehicle. Tpr. R.T. Wilson investigated.

Richard S. Tolley Sr., 42, Baltimore, was injured in one-vehicle accident Saturday at 11:50 a.m. and was taken to Garrett Memorial Hospital where he was treated and released.

According to Tfc. D.W. Broadwater, the accident occurred when Tolley was operating a 1985 Ford pickup truck south on Rt. 495. Tolley told police that he had a black-out as the result of an insulin reaction. The vehicle crossed the center line and struck a ditch and utility pole.

A passenger, Richard S. Tolley Jr., 16, also of Baltimore, was reportedly not injured. Broadwater charged Tolley with negligent driving.

Charles E. Custer, 24, Swanton, and Clifford F. Engle, 73, Meyersdale, Pa., were both treated for injuries at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, and released following a two-vehicle accident that occurred at 3:25 p.m. on Rt. 495.

The accident occurred when a 1985 Plymouth, driven by Custer was northbound near Glendale Road and the 1983 Oldsmobile, operated by Engle pulled out in front of Custer from a private drive. Custer then attempted to pass the Engle vehicle when Engle abruptly made a left-hand turn into another private drive. The two vehicles then collided.

No charges were filed by investigating officer, Sgt. D.P. Moore.

Indictments

legedly stored and disposed of some of the wastes near his residence. Discovery of the wastes stored at the Martin junkyard in November, 1986, spawned the investigation.

The indictment further alleges that the defendants did not obtain the required permits by the Resource Conservation Recovery Act to transport, store and dispose of the subject hazardous wastes.

The sites in Oakland and Salem have been cleaned up by the EPA at an approximate total cost of $300,000. The wastes involved were ignitable waste solvents and acids, including acetone, methyl isobutyl ketone, toluene and ethylether.

In addition to being charged with one count of conspiracy to violate federal hazardous waste laws, each defendant is also charged with two counts of illegal transportation of hazardous wastes and one count of storage and disposal of hazardous wastes.

The maximum penalty for the conspiracy count is five years and a fine of $250,000. The maximum penalty for each of the remaining three counts is five years and a fine of $50,000 for each day of violation.

Publiker Industries, Inc. is a publicly held corporation and manufactures liquid and solid carbon dioxide. From 1912 to late 1985, Publiker owned and operated an alcohol manufacturing plant on the Delaware River in Philadelphia. The property was sold in 1986 to Overland.

Publiker has been charged with the illegal storage of hazardous wastes at its Philadelphia site prior to the sale of the facility. Publiker has agreed to enter a plea of guilty to that charge in the District of Maryland.

Wilcox noted that these charges were the first federal criminal violations of the environmental laws ever brought in Maryland. "I am pleased to be able to finally bring the federal government into an enforcement field that cries out for federal involvement. Would-be violators of environmental laws should be fully on notice that they will need to deal with federal authorities from now on. We will prosecute these and other such violations vigorously and we expect to seek jail sentences for those convicted," he added.

This case was presented to the grand jury by Assistant United States Attorney Jane F. Barrett and J. Sedwick Sollers

III. Martin told reporters this week that he was upset by the media's unfair treatment of "this so-called indictment," although the facts released have come directly from the United States Attorney.

"I haven't even received word from these people yet," he stated. "You'd think I would have heard something before they spread it all over the papers and radio. I didn't know anything about this until I read it in the Baltimore Sun."

Martin also alleges that he was "convicted and hung" by the media before he even received a summons.

He was referring to the release sent from the U.S. Attorney's office calling for a "jail sentence for those convicted."

"They even talked about the amount of the fine and the length of the jail term," said Martin.

As in the past, Martin contends that he is innocent of any wrongdoing and stated that the chemicals stored on his property were "simply weed killers and industrial cleaning products."

Just Be There . . .

Garrett County has experienced a rash of suicides and attempted suicides in recent months involving persons of several age groups. Out of respect for the families of these individuals, our policy is to not report these untimely deaths as suicides. We simply place their obituaries among the others, unless there are extenuating circumstances, such as murder/suicides or where there has been a hostage situation, for example.

While most of us are not trained psychiatrists or psychologists, and while mental illness is usually a terribly complex problem that even the experts have difficulty in diagnosing and treating, we believe there are some simple things all of us can do to help avoid these tragedies.

Some of the warning signs that are presented by suicidal persons are severe depression, which may or may not be easy to detect; withdrawal from other people and spending a lot of time alone, locked in a bedroom, perhaps; and a sudden, unexplained change of attitude from a severely depressed state to a resolved, content, almost happy condition. A low self-esteem and lack of self-confidence are other characteristics.

Conditions which often bring on suicide are strained and broken relationships, family and otherwise; financial stress, extreme humiliation, and terminal illness.

While few of us are experts, it usually does not take a Ph.D. to recognize when someone is in need of emotional support. We need to be more aware, more tuned in, to our fellow human beings who are suffering such mental anguish. Recognizing that there might be such a problem with a friend or relative and then just offering to be a good listener for him may be all it takes to avert a suicide. Being a good listener does not include giving advice or being judgmental, but just serving as a sounding board for one's thoughts and feelings, and letting the other person know that you care about him, and that he is important to you, regardless of whatever shortcomings he may possess.

We are all of the same species and we each have our strengths and frailties. The best thing we can do for our neighbors is to learn to tune in to their feelings, reach out, and just be there for them. If we sense that their problems are too complicated for us to handle, then we should alert parents, family members, school counselors, or other appropriate individuals to their situation.

Most people are usually able to cope with the many trials and tribulations of life without sustaining permanent damage. Some, however, cannot; at least not without additional outside help. Let's be ready and willing to do whatever we can to be there for those in the latter category.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Reflecting back on the recent Autumn Glory festivities, I can generate many different feelings, all of which leave me with fond memories that will stay in my heart forever.

I have always been very proud of Garrett County and everything it has to offer. This feeling grew even stronger during the week of the 20th Annual Autumn Glory Festival. Everyone I met was very friendly and made me feel very comfortable and welcome. Among these people were the 20th Annual Autumn Glory Ambassador, Rev. Lynn Beckman, and Mr. Tom Butcher, Autumn Glory's 1st Glory Ambassador, whom I was lucky enough to get acquainted with and spend some time with during the festival. I gained a high respect for both of these men and I appreciate all the friendliness they shared.

Everyone in Garrett County should be very proud of where they are from. The feeling of Autumn in Garrett County is definitely glorious, and it's one that should be carried on in all its inhabitants' everyday of the year.

Once again, my many thanks to everyone who has made this such a memorable time for me.

Sincerely,
Jennifer C. Golden

To the Editor:

It seems that the letter written by my brother and me to the Proctor-Kildow American Legion Post members has been perceived as a compliment. I would like to take this opportunity to clarify our feelings about the men who belong to your American Legion Post #71. Their honor guard was a "no-show" at Dad's funeral service. We were told only minutes before Dad's viewing that there had been "quote — unquote, "a mix-up." "Cow, Cookies!" Common decency and good manners should not be listed among these members' outstanding characteristics. As an honorably discharged veteran of World War II and a member of the State American Legion, Dad earned the right to an honor guard at his funeral.

If it was the intention of your American Legion Post Commander, and his "cronies," to minimize or dishonor Dad's memory, they have failed miserably. "Hell hath no fury like the children of a father scorned."

A sincere thank-you to the Reverend John A. Grant, Brad Stewart and our parents' neighbors at Pinewoods East. You were all there for Mom when she needed you. Some people know the true meaning of "class."

To the Editor:

We, the members of the American Indian Inter-Tribal Cultural Organization, would like to express our deepest respects to the many veterans of Garrett County and their families on this Veterans' Day.

In 1985 many of you came forward and joined with our Organization and Indians from across the country at our pow wow honoring Veterans and dedicating the Grandfather Plaque in the memory of Vietnam Era Veterans of all races. The support of you and many other veterans resulted in the Plaque's installation at Arlington Cemetery last Veterans' Day.

Yesterday, the people of Garrett County unveiled a Memorial Plaque to honor all Garrett County Veterans of all Wars. We wish we could have stood beside you in person to celebrate this well-deserved honor.

To serve and protect your country, however great the personal sacrifice, is the greatest gift any man or woman can give. We join with Garrett County in thanking you all for that gift.

Sincerely yours,
Joe L. Strickel
President

Editor's Note: The following letter was written to the prosecuting attorney of Preston County, W.Va., Melvin Snyder. The letter writer, who is a business person in Terra Alta, requested that it appear on our editorial page.

Dear Prosecuting Attorney Snyder:

On November 5, 1987, while waiting to be "heard" in the Magistrate's Court, we had time for a chat. You told me you would feel "at risk" if you patronized the Kingwood "Office Bar." You cannot feel safe, or "free" to go to some places. Remember?

A man came through my establishment door, knowing he was not welcome — not invited — in fact, barred. You told me that piece of trespass business

Friends Of Ruth Enlow Library

by Sull McCartney

I am sure that a lot of you are constantly looking for good books to read. I am always interested to hear what others are reading. If any of you have books that you would recommend, please let me know and I will mention them in future columns. We would also like to hear from anyone who has ideas for library projects, programs or services. You can write to Friends of The Ruth Enlow Library, 6 N. Second Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550.

The following are short descriptions of some books that I have read and enjoyed this summer.

Cadillac Desert — The American West and its Disappearing Water, by Marc Reisner.

If you have ever wondered how our national debt reached such alarming proportions, why your taxes are so high or what is causing the collapse of our farm economy you should read this book. It is so well written that I hated to put it down.

The Prince of Tides by Pat Conroy.

If a novel makes you happy, makes you sad and makes you sorry that you have finished, then it is a very good one. This is the best novel I have read since Lonesome Dove.

Tent Life in Siberia by George Kennan.

When the first trans-Atlantic telegraph cable failed, Western Union decided to explore the feasibility of a line from the west coast across Russia to Europe. This book was written by a member of the expedition party. The style, which is similar to Roughing It by Mark Twain, coupled with the descriptions of Siberia in the 1890's make for interesting reading.

Bolt by Dick Francis, The Last of the Breed by Louis L'Amour.

Both Francis and L'Amour have developed formulas for producing consistently readable, entertaining books which sell extremely well. Both place much emphasis on perseverance, self reliance and integrity. Francis' heroes tend to depend entirely on their wits to foil the bad guys, unlike L'Amour's who typically are steel eyed, two-fisted heroes. Of these two books The Last of the Breed differs more from the writers usual product. Instead of the American west the setting is Siberia and the leading character an American Indian test pilot who is being pursued by assorted Russian villains.

I wouldn't take up more than three of your minutes. You refused to prosecute this man. You were "out of there" in three minutes. Remember? Yes sir, Mr. Prosecutor, as the working proprietress of the Silver Dollar, I can understand why you feel "at risk" in a small establishment. You refuse to prosecute criminals.

What I can't understand is why you don't do something right for a change. Improve the mood of these places. Change things — for the better — for us all — for a change.

Remember, we can't all afford memberships to Country Clubs, and most of us aren't

Nelson-Rees Survey

Should congress reduce IRS powers?

No

The only thing worse than tax collectors are tax cheaters.

especially rich ones. One reason taxes are so high in this country is that a lot of people who should be paying taxes aren't. Some avoid tax obligations by mining every loophole in the tax code.

Other just plain cheat. Too many Americans don't feel a moral obligation to pay their fair share of the tax burden.

I'm not talking about nickels and dimes. Congressional tax-writing committees estimate that last year alone the IRS collected an extra $2 billion through tougher enforcement. There're billions more out there just waiting for the revenueurs to pick up if Congress doesn't hobble the IRS by passing S1774, called by many the "Taxpayer Bill of Rights."

By making it easier for cheaters and tax dodgers to avoid paying their fair share of the taxes, Congress is only placing a heavier tax burden on the rest of us. If we are going to have taxes in this country, everyone should pay a fair share.

If there are billions of dollars in legitimately owed taxes that haven't been collected, it's immoral not to go after that money. Those who are not paying owed taxes are stealing from the rest of us. They need to be made to put up or pay the consequences.

I realize it's an election year and our elected officials can sense an opportunity to turn populist resentment against the IRS into votes. Instead of putting shackles on the IRS, maybe they ought to enroll agents in a Dale Carnegie course. Then when the pressure is on to pay down the deficit next year without raising taxes, they won't have egg all over their faces when they come crawling back to the IRS asking for better collections.

If you agree that the IRS should retain its full power to collect monies legitimately owed the government, call:

Our Turn

Get Involved!

by Pam Ashby

It may seem strange to be talking about Christmas giving when we haven't even purchased our Thanksgiving turkeys yet, but giving is very much on the minds of one special couple — Lou and Lola Stouffer of Terra Alta, W.Va. As many of you know, they play Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus to many needy children in the area.

Because their list of deserving families continues to grow in these unstable times, Lou and Lola have already begun making visits to once sad children who had almost given up hope on Santa, the spirit of Christmas.

Santa called me this week and said, "Pam, I hate to bother you, but my workshop is nearly empty. It's been a bad year for giving and I need your help."

A quick phone call to our church Christian education director is all it took to get the ball rolling on a toy drive for Santa. The kids at my church undertook this project last year and collected a truckload of treasures and some money to defray the cost of reindeer food (gasoline). Their only reward was the knowledge that they had brightened the lives of some children they didn't even know. That seemed to be enough reward.

I implore my readers to get involved with this worthwhile project. Get your church, your civic group or service club to help you.

Santa has helped promote the new Christmas Decoration Fund for the town of Oakland. Perhaps town residents could reciprocate his unselfishness with similar enthusiasm.

Help your children clean out their toy boxes. Go buy a new toy or two. Or give up a candy bar or a cup of coffee this week and donate the money to Santa. Do something to help. You'll feel better for it.

Santa's phone number is 1-304-789-6743. Give him a call and let him know you're supporting his good deeds. Give him some hope so he can spread it around. Thanks a bunch!

When we find the focus of communism overrunning the forces of freedom in Central and South America, and when future Americans find themselves forced to face that larger and larger looming threat to their own security, they will curse the memory of those smallminded men who sacrificed the cause of liberty in exchange for their last after the blood of the Republican President.

Sincerely,

Steven S. Showers

The History Of Hospice

Editor's Note: As part of the observance of National Hospice Month during November, this article was written by Jackie Snelson, R.N., M.S.N., former coordinator of Hospice of Garrett County, and Cathy Chapman, R.N., current director of nursing for Hospice of Garrett County.

The major focus of medical science in the 20th century has been directed toward improving health and prolonging life. Because of this force toward saving life, people in the health field failed to recognize the needs of persons who were dying and who had no hope of recovery. Dr. Cicely Saunders, at St. Christopher's Hospice in England, recognized the suffering and isolation of the terminally ill and their families. She developed a program of care for the dying and made an effort to make hospice care known throughout the world.

As the concept of care for terminally ill became better known, hospitals and communities in the United States began to develop their own programs. Although Garrett County is a small community in population, the problems of the terminally ill are just as acute. Health professionals began to recognize that terminally ill people and their families required more support than was presently available in the health care system. Dying people needed caring and compassionate people to talk to, who would not be judgmental and who understood what the terminally ill were experiencing. The dying needed to have their fears of pain and isolation relieved. Most important, they needed to have an organized program upon which they could rely.

On January 6, 1982, a group of concerned community members met to discuss the formation of a hospice program in Garrett County. This group included representatives from many local agencies as well as local physicians. The goal set by this group was the palliative management of terminal illness, ensuring that an individual's remaining time was as comfortable as possible and that the family remained a unit whether the patient was at home or in the hospital.

As the program developed, efforts were made to maintain the community involvement in the project. People from all aspects of the community served on the hospice planning committee. Five individuals from the community comprised the original Board of Directors. Rev. Verne Leiminger served as chairperson and Rev. Manning Smith developed the volunteer education program. Dr. Walter Naumann served as medical director. The Garrett County Health Department Home Health Agency provided the in home nursing and aide services. The Garrett County Memorial Hospital offered special services to hospice patients including designating two private room beds as hospice beds.

It is through the combined efforts of many individuals that Hospice of Garrett County was formed. On February 1, 1983 the program was officially opened to offer care to terminally ill people in Garrett County. Nancy Trimble, R.N., MSN, was the director and Sharon King was appointed coordinator of volunteer services.

Hospice continued under the direction of Nancy Trimble until July 1, 1985. By that time, Hospice of Garrett County had grown to the point that one person could not adequately fulfill all the responsibilities of director. The job was then divided into two positions — Jackie Snelson assumed the role of nursing coordinator while Wayne Johnson assumed responsibility for the business and financial affairs of Hospice.

Dr. Walter Naumann resigned as Medical Director for Hospice in June, 1986. That position was filled by Dr. Margaret Kaiser with Dr. Don Richter as Assistant Medical Director. Rev. Martin Feild is currently responsible for the volunteer education program. The Board of Directors, chaired by Clint Englander, was expanded from the original five to twelve to facilitate a greater cross section from the community professionally and geographically.

Jackie Snelson resigned as Nursing Coordinator with Hospice to assume the position of Assistant Director of Home Health at Garrett County Health Department on July 1, 1987. Cathy Chapman assumed the duties of Director of Nursing for Hospice of Garrett County at that time.

Guest Evangelist To Speak At Mtn. Top Christian Assembly

Evangelist Bill Hyde of Cumberland will be conducting special services at Mtn. Top Christian Assembly, sponsored by the Mtn. Top Area Crusades of the Assemblies of God, November 15 through 18.

Rev. Hyde, who has served in pastoral positions in Indiana, Kentucky and Maryland, now travels extensively in evangelistic crusades. Along with his travels, he and his wife, Carolyn, host a weekly television program called "Living Water," which addresses relevant concerns from the basis of the Bible.

The Mtn. Top Area Crusades extend a special invitation to the public to attend the services.

Mtn. Top Christian Assembly is located on Route 135 six miles east of Oakland. Services will be held at 7 p.m. each night with special music by choirs from area Assemblies of God.

The Mtn. Top Area Crusades of the Assemblies of God began several years ago to provide quality ministry for area churches through a joint effort.

Large-Capacity Scales Are Topic Of GCC Meeting

At the request of Delegate George C. Edwards, a meeting has been scheduled with representatives from the Weights and Measures Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture to discuss the Maryland Weights and Measures Law and the operational policies of this section relating to large-capacity scales.

According to Del. Edwards, he communicated with the MDA after receiving a lot of complaints from representatives of several diverse industries, such as sand/gravel and coal, about the method MDA uses to check and calibrate scales.

The meeting, which will be held on Monday, November 16, beginning at 7 p.m. in the auditorium of Garrett Community College, will include a brief presentation on these subjects by Lacy DeGrange, assistant chief of weights and measures or Kenneth S. Butcher, program manager, followed by a question and answer session.

Delegate Edwards encourages all county residents with interests and concerns in large-capacity scales regulations to attend this important meeting.

Area Artist To Exhibit Locally

Law Teter, native of Flintstone and area artist, will be exhibiting his Americana paintings and prints at the Crafts Critters' Club on November 14 and 15.

The Saturday exhibition (Nov. 14) is by invitation only. The Sunday (Nov. 15) exhibition is open to the public from 11 a.m. until 5 p.m.

Teter says he draws and paints realistically and that each piece of his art is a piece of America. His subjects range from an 18th-century Indian to a frontiersman to a modern-day Appalachian moonshiner.

The artist's work has reportedly gained acceptance throughout the Mid-Atlantic states and his limited edition print series has gained a following in less than a year.

Crafts Critters is located just north of Oakland on U.S. Route 219.

Woman Sentenced To One Year On DWI Charge

During recent traffic court proceedings in Garrett County District Court, Judge Jack R. Turney handed down a one-year sentence to a woman found guilty of driving while intoxicated.

Julia Ann Reckart, 34, was also fined $1,000. The sentence was then suspended, all except 10 days, and she was placed on 18 months supervised probation. She had been arrested May 20 on Rt. 219 north of Ben DeWitt Road.

Steve Allan Burns, 20, also received a one-year sentence after he was found guilty of violation of probation. The sentence is to be served concurrently with a sentence already imposed in a Garrett County Circuit Court case.

Nine months of the sentence was then suspended. He was arrested in January of last year and found guilty on a driving while intoxicated charge.

Joseph Thomas Healy, 44, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and given a 90-day suspended sentence. He was then fined $500 and placed on 18 months supervised probation.

He had been arrested June 20 on Rt. 135 west of Turkey Neck Road.

Francis Gerald Shine, 24, was found guilty of driving while intoxicated and given a 90-day suspended sentence as a result. He was then placed on 12 months supervised probation and fined $500. He was arrested September 5 on Rt. 219 at Rt. 40.

Michael Edward Madigan, 26, was found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol and received a 90-day suspended sentence. He was then fined $500 and placed on 18 months supervised probation. He was arrested July 18 on Rt. 219 at Thayerville.

Jeffrey Allen Maher, 27, was also given a 90-day suspended sentence after he was found guilty of driving under the influence. He was then fined $500 and placed on 12 months supervised probation. He was arrested August 1 on Rt. 219 north of Cove Road.

The following persons were found guilty of driving while intoxicated and were each placed on 12 months supervised probation and fined $500, $300 of which was suspended.

James William Miller, 32, was arrested July 18 on Rt. 219 at Mayhew Inn Road.

Janet Carol Davis, 52, was arrested August 29 on Rt. 219 at Deep Creek Lake.

Robert Frank Bigham, 35, was arrested June 30 on Rt. 219.

Floyd Stanton Henry, 46, was arrested September 4 on Rt. 49

SYMBOLS OF RITUAL — Grantsville Lodge 41, Woodmen of the World, members formally dedicated their new meeting hall on Sunday, incorporating various symbolic items in the ceremony. ## Southern GOP Women Discuss Various Projects

The Southern Garrett County Republican Women held their monthly meeting on October 27 at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. President Sue Shockey presided.

The club discussed several current projects, including the Thanksgiving food basket, the handmade quilt raffle, and the annual Christmas luncheon. Club members were encouraged to donate appropriate items of food for the Thanksgiving food basket which is to be given to a needy area family prior to Thanksgiving Day. All donations of food for this project are to be given to Nancy Helbig by November 23. Also, all raffle tickets and ticket money for the handmade quilt raffle should be given to Ann Groves by the annual Christmas luncheon scheduled for December 3, at which time the drawing will be held. Mrs. Shockey reported.

Leona Beckman presented a report on the Maryland Republican Women's Convention which she and Brenda Butcher attended last month in Gaithersburg. She also reported that Sue Shockey was elected vice chairman of the Western Region of the Maryland Republican Women.

Guest speakers for the evening program were the Garrett County Commissioners; however, the Board was represented by Com-

GETTING READY for a Christmas Bazaar and Fun Fair, slated for November 20 from 3 to 7 p.m., are members of the Northern Middle School Student Council. Games, food, prizes, a white elephant sale, bake sale, and an auction will be among the events at the fund-raiser, some of the proceeds of which will go toward the preservation of the Antietam Battlefield. According to a spokesman for the Student Council, the battlefield, which was the site of the bloodiest one-day battle of the Civil War, is in danger of being destroyed by land development. The students commissioner Ernest Gregg as Commissioner John Braskey was unable to attend because of illness and Commissioner Edward Groves had been called to Annapolis on short notice to meet with Governor Schaefer on the state lands issues. Commissioner Gregg updated the club on the status of the Glendale Bridge project, the Round Glade landfill, Southern High School renovation, the Maryland plumbers law, current Bradley Manor proposals, and the County's regulation of junkyards. Following an informative discussion, the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served. The next meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 24, at 7 p.m. at the Oak Park Church of the Brethren. All club members are encouraged to attend as elections for new officers for the next two-year term will be held.

Undefeated Southern Rams To Host Allegany Campers In Class B Quarter-Final

The stage has been set for a local high school football clash that has been awaited for many years by folks in Garrett and Allegany counties. It will take place this Friday night at Southern High School athletic field in the form of a Maryland State Class B quarter-final match-up between the undefeated Southern Rams and the Campers of Allegany High School, Cumberland.

The contest is two-dimensional for Southern and Allegany fans in that, not only is it a state playoff game and an opportunity for the winning team to advance one more step toward a state championship, but also it will be a highly charged, emotional clash because of the rivalry that has always existed between Garrett and Allegany counties. One need only attend a Garrett Community College/Allegany Community College basketball game to experience the intensity of that rivalry.

The game also represents the first meeting ever on the gridiron between the two schools and both sides feel there is much to prove to the other. Southern fans are anxious to prove that the Rams can compete on the same level as the Cumberland schools and the Camper supporters will no doubt want to prove that the Rams do not really deserve to be ranked on an even par with the "Queen City" teams.

The two teams have faced each other several times in pre-season scrimmages, but ironically there was no scrimmage between them this year. Although it was tentatively scheduled, it had to be postponed and then ultimately cancelled.

The 10-0 Rams come into the contest with the Highland Football Conference crown, the Potomac Valley Conference title, the Region I Class B championship, and their first undefeated regular season since 1979, when they ultimately lost to Smithsburg in the state Class C final. The Campers concluded their regular season with an 8-2 mark, having lost only to Jefferson County in week number eight and to arch rival Fort Hill last Saturday.

The Rams are the third ranked team in the state Class B ratings, while Allegany is in sixth place.

The head coaches at both schools, Tom Woods of Southern and Jack Gilmore of Allegany, are anticipating a tough, slug-it-out contest that probably will not have too many frills.

"Allegany is a lot like us offensively in terms of basically keeping the ball on the ground and pounding it out, three or four yards at a time," Woods said. "They have the ability to throw the ball, but usually don't more than five or six times per game, again, a lot like us."

"Southern likes to run the ball down your throat, and that's just what we like to do if we can," Gilmore said. "We have not seen Southern play live, but the films show that Gibson (Zack) can certainly throw when he has to. But with a fine athlete like Bosley (J.R.) in the backfield, they haven't had to throw much."

"It seems like Southern ALWAYS has a Bosley back there to carry the ball!" he added.

J.R. Bosley has recorded 1,569 yards so far this season, is averaging just under six and one-half yards per carry, and has scored 21 touchdowns. He has also caught eight passes, is one of the area's leading kickoff and punt returners, and is among the Rams' defensive standouts.

The Southern offense has generated 3,019 yards on the ground this season, which is a new school record.

The Allegany offense is also loaded with talent, including junior tackle Randy Wolford (6-4, 235), who is described by Woods as "an extremely talented football player who may be the best tackle in the area."

Also anchoring the offensive line is the only other returning starter from last season, senior center Troy Mowery, 6-0, 190.

Tight ends Shawn Ricker, a junior (6-2, 185), and Bennett Strickland, a senior (5-11, 165), have provided outstanding blocking for the Allegany wing-T backfield, which Woods says is the real strength of the Campers' offense.

"Robbie Robinette, their quarterback (6-1, 185-pound senior) is, I believe, the most under-rated quarterback in the area," Woods said. "He executes extremely well."

Gary Henry, Allegany's senior fullback (5-11, 210), is the "bread and butter" of the Campers' offense, Woods said, while tailbacks Terry Ashby, a 5-6, 160-pound junior, and senior Todd Mower (5-8, 170) provide the speed.

"Ashby and Mower are both excellent outside runners, which makes Allegany awfully tough on sweeps and counter plays," he said.

Defensively, Allegany uses a multiple-50 with a variety of fronts, led by Wolford at one tackle position and senior Brian Snyder (6-4, 250) at the other.

"Snyder is an outstanding tackle, too," Woods noted, but went on to point out that linebackers Troy and Todd Mower (6-0, 170-pound senior) are the keys to the Allegany defense. All four of the secondary positions are filled with returning starters as well.

"Without question, this will be the strongest defense we will have faced this year," Woods said. "They are not soft anywhere. They use a lot of blitzing and put pressure on the offense every single play."

When asked to compare Allegany to Tucker County, Woods said that he believes Tucker County has a little more offensive talent and more explosive, big-play capability, but Allegany has a more consistent, methodical offense that grinds out the yardage.

When asked if the Rams had any advantage over the Campers, Woods said he thinks his team has an edge in special teams.

"Our kicking game is second to no one's," he said, "and has really won a lot of games for us. We have the capability of kicking and punting deep when we need to and, of course, John Milligan provides us with real scoring potential."

Milligan, a sophomore, has kicked three field goals and 23 extra points this season.

"We are going to have to use a lot of finesse to beat them," Wood said. "We will not be able to just toss the ball to J.R. (Bosley) and run off-tackle all day. We are going to have to really mix things up, by running Brent Sanders more often, throwing occasionally on first down, whatever element of surprise we can find."

Gilmore had nothing but praise for Woods and the Rams, noting that he had faced Woods' teams before when he was head coach at Valley for five years.

"Tom's teams are always well-coached and fundamentally sound," he said. "They are well-balanced and have beaten some fine teams this year. Because our offensive philosophies are similar, I look for a real slug-fest."

"I can guarantee that our team will be ready to play," Woods said. "We might lose 50-0, but we are ready to play and have been really anxious for this game ever since we learned several weeks ago that there was a possibility that we might meet Allegany in the playoffs."

Both teams are expected to be at full strength for the game, barring any last moment injuries in practice.

"We've been pretty beat up all year long," Gilmore said, "but we should be a full strength this week."

Both coaches noted their concern about the weather conditions and the fact that the Southern field is going to be wet and soggy, if not covered with snow. Neither team practiced on Tuesday, as Cumberland also received snow, however the Rams were outside on Wednesday afternoon.

"A lot of people believe that a wet field gives the advantage to the bigger, stronger team, which in this case would be Allegany," Woods said. "But our team played successfully on soggy fields at Bishop Walsh and at Keyser. It's true that it makes the footing bad, but it's as equally bad for a would-be tackler as it is for a running back. Plus, the running back has the advantage of knowing where he is going."

When asked if he thought it would be a low-scoring game because of the strength of the two defenses, Woods said, "Given the field conditions and the unbelievable emotion level, it is just too hard to predict. The key to winning will be to control the clock by maintaining possession of the ball, and then continually put pressure on the other team to score."

Gilmore was asked if he expected a large contingent of Cumberland residents to come to the game, he said he believes the stands will be "inundated."

"Besides all the Allegany and Southern fans, there are going to be a lot of other people who just enjoy getting out and watching a good, old-fashioned football game," he said. "I believe you're going to

Annual Archery Shoot Slated At Herrington Park

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service has scheduled its third annual Archery Turkey Shoot at Herrington Manor State Park, Saturday, November 14, starting at 1 p.m. A $2.00 per shot registration fee will be charged. The first prize for each of the first four shoots will be an average-size turkey. Any registration fee money remaining over and above the cost of the turkeys and targets will be the prize for the final shoot. All registered shooters qualify for the final shoot.

Rules for the event are as follows:

1. Final registration and the first shoot will begin at 1 p.m.
2. Each person registering will pay a $2.00 registration fee.
3. Shooters will be allowed one minute after being called to the line to shoot one arrow at their signed target.
4. Only the following equipment will be permitted: Target tip arrows; compound bows, long bows, recurve bows. Note: For those unable to use a regular bow, a crossbow may be used. The DNR Crossbow permit must be in possession. All permits will be checked by the ranger in charge.

5. All shots will be from the 30-yard line.

6. All persons registered for any one of the above shoots will automatically qualify for the final shoot.

Scoring and judging:

A. The arrow shot closest to dead center will be the winning score for each round.

B. Those archers judged to have a tied score in any one round will reshoot to break the tie.

C. A designated park official will judge all scores. His/her decision will be final.

For more details, persons may call Bill Murphy, Park Ranger, at 301-334-9180.

Schedule Dance

A dance for local young people, ages 13 through 21, will be sponsored by the Southern Garrett Athletic Association and Southern High School Chapter of the Girls Athletic Association on Saturday, Nov. 21, at the National Guard Armory in Oakland.

Musicians will be provided by Trilogi and all proceeds will be used to benefit the programs of the two sponsoring organizations. The dance will be from 8 to 11:30 p.m. and tickets, which are $3 each, will go on sale Monday.

In the event that the Southern High football team earns a spot in the Maryland Class B semi-final game, which will be played on Nov. 21, the dance may be postponed. Persons are encouraged to listen to local radio stations next week for an announcement concerning this possibility.

Tickets will be available at The Short Stop, Oakland, the Plaza Deli, McHenry, and Network Video, Loch Lynn.

Persons desiring more information about the event may contact Brenda Buser at 387-9536 or 334-1634 after 5 p.m.

have them hanging from the light posts."

There will be a tailgate party beginning at 4 p.m. in the Southern field parking lot and the gates will open at 5 p.m. Advance tickets are available for $3 each at Southern High School during school hours today and tomorrow. Persons are encouraged to come to the field early. The kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m.

CAPTURES HORSESHOE HONORS IN GERMANY — SSG Ed Deal, of Headquarters and Headquarters Service Battery, 4th Battalion, 9th Field Artillery, recently won second place in the USAREUR Doubles Horseshoe Pitching Championship in Worms, Germany. Deal, son of Alice Deal, Accident, and the late Bud Deal, teamed with Dennis Augustine, of Heidelberg, Germany, to win the honor. This is the third year that Deal has won honors in the competition. Deal's sons, David and Jason, also participated in the event, as David and his father won first in the mixed doubles, while Jason and his partner, William Drinnon, won third.

Southern Girls Playoff Bound

The Southern High School football team will not be the only Rams squad in playoff competition this Friday.

Despite a disappointing season, the Southern High girls volleyball team has qualified for the Region I Class B tournament, which will be played tomorrow at Catonsville High School.

Coach Helen Rostovsky said earlier this week that she was "still in shock" over the news, "but nonetheless happy." She said that, although the Lady Rams finished with a losing season, several of the other Region I Class B teams also struggled this year and Southern wound up in fourth place in the final regional standings.

Southern will first meet top-seeded Walkersville in the round-robin tournament, the winner of which will advance to the state championships.

"We're really excited about the trip," Coach Rostovsky said.

Rams Rip Huskies For Tenth Straight Victory

The Southern Rams coasted to their first undefeated regular season since 1979 last Friday night by routing their cross-county rivals, the Northern Huskies, 51-0, at the Cove. It was the 10th straight win for the Rams, while the young Husky team concluded its campaign with a 2-8 mark.

The Rams went into the game as a heavy favorite and proceeded to dominate the contest from the beginning. J.R. Bosley, the area's leading rusher, scored four touchdowns and ran for 162 yards, all in the first half, before taking his place on the bench with many of the other Ram starters. All 60 of the Rams who made the trip played in the game.

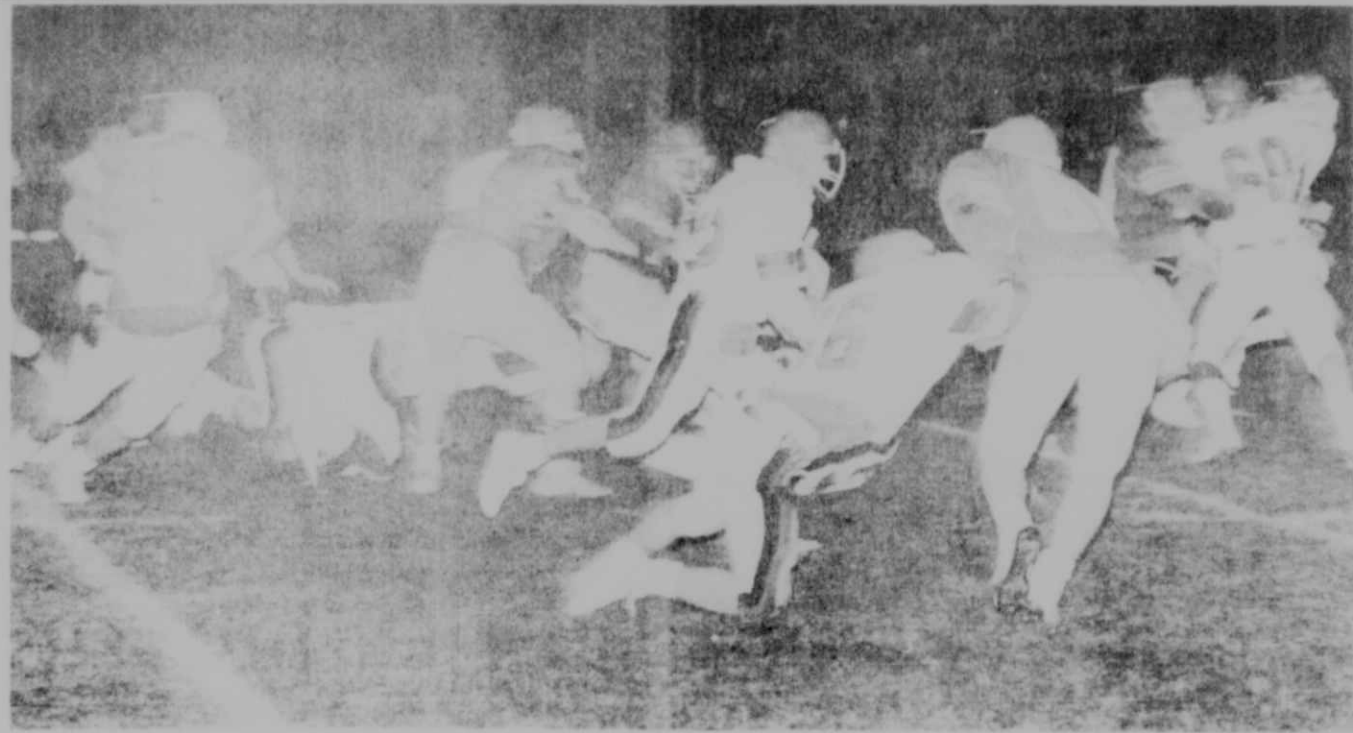

The Huskies entered the game without two of their key players, as tailback Ed Tabor was sidelined with a shoulder separation and quarterback Todd Wagner became ill Friday afternoon with a severe sinus infection that affected his balance. The loss of Tabor and Wagner forced Tom Vent to return to a single-wing offense that the Huskies had used earlier in the season before going to the wishbone. Freshman Chad Sines went the distance at quarterback for the Huskies, while senior tailback Rodney Lipscomb handled most of the rushing. Lipscomb finished with 114 yards on 20 carries.

The game opened with a surprise on-side kick attempt by the Huskies and it took the referees several moments before they decided to give possession to Southern, as a Husky and a Ram both fell on the ball. The negative reaction to the decision from the Husky bench resulted in a 15-yard penalty, which gave the Rams the ball just inside the 50.

On the second play from scrimmage, Southern quarterback Zack Gibson fired a pass to Bosley at the five and Bosley ran it into the end zone at the 10:41 mark of the first quarter. John Milligan's kick for the conversion was wide to the right.

The Huskies' biggest scoring threat of the evening came on their next series, when Lipscomb broke loose for a 61-yard run to the Rams' 10-yard line. Craig Umbel ran the ball to the seven on the next play, but a bad snap on the following play sent the ball back to the 21 where it was recovered by Lipscomb. The Husky threat was halted on the next play when Gibson picked off Lipscomb's pass in the end zone and ran the ball out to the 25.

The Rams then completed a nine-play, 75-yard drive, with Bosley rushing six times for 60 yards and scoring on a five-yard run at the 3:36 mark. Gibson ran for the two-point conversion, but the play was nullified by a holding call. Gibson's pass from the 15-yard line was then batted down in the end zone by Umbel, leaving the Rams in front, 12-0.

A 43-yard run down the sideline by Bosley on an off-tackle play gave the Rams an 18-0 advantage at the 10:54 mark of the second quarter. Milligan's try for the extra point went wide to the left.

The next Ram touchdown came on a scissors play, where Gibson faked to Bosley and handed off to wingback Brent Sanders who scampered in from the 15 to score at the 6:15 point. Milligan's kick gave Southern a 25-0 lead.

On Northern's next drive, a tackle by Bosley on Lipscomb

forced a fumble that was recovered by Southern's Charlie Paugh on the Husky 40. Bosley then gained 31 of the 40 yards on six carries and scored on a nine-yard tote with just 57 seconds remaining in the second quarter. Milligan's kick concluded the first half of scoring and gave the Rams a commanding 32-0 halftime advantage.

The Huskies received the kickoff in the second half, but Randy Tichnell stopped their drive by intercepting a Lipscomb pass at the Northern 30 and returning it to the 17. On the next play fullback Mike Bittinger ran up the middle for the score and Milligan tucked on the extra point.

Southern Coach Tom Woods began to substitute freely at that point, midway through the third period. Second team fullback Rodney Pike put the next Ram points on the board when he raced 30 yards for a score at the 5:48 mark. Pike's run for the conversion failed, giving Southern a 45-0 lead.

The final Southern touchdown came with 1:11 remaining on a 15-yard run by Pike. Todd Michaels' bootleg run for the two-point was no good.

The Ram offense finished with 456 total yards, compared to 190 for the Huskies. All but 49 of the Rams' yards came on the ground as they put the ball in the air just twice all evening, with Bosley's touchdown catch being the only completion.

"We knew there would be several scouts in the stands, so we wanted to play a no-frill game," Coach Woods said. "We felt we could win the game using our basic, conservative running game."

Woods said that Northern came into the game with a "great disadvantage" because of the loss of Tabor and Wagner. "I thought their freshman (Sines) did a good job, though, especially considering the pressure he was under," he said.

"We were very emotionally ready to play," he continued. "Right after we got on the bus to leave for the game, I just knew we were going to win because it was dead silent and we knew our players really wanted to win. We had felt good all week and we had prepared very well."

Woods also noted that he was "very pleased" with the efforts of his younger players. "It really makes their season worthwhile, after working so hard in practice, to be able to get into a game and play," he said.

Despite the lopsided score, Woods said he still believes Northern is about to turn the corner with their program. "They have a fine coaching staff and a whole lot of players will be back next year, which should give them a real good nucleus," he said.

"We just did not play well," Coach Vent said. "You have to want to play and want to win before you can expect to do it, and we didn't seem to want that enough."

"Our on-side kick attempt right at the beginning of the game and the referees' giving possession to Southern sort of set the stage for the rest of the game," he continued. "The films show clearly that it was our ball. But, that's part of the game. I really lost my cool at that point and I want to apologize for that. That 15-yard penalty was my fault and it shouldn't have happened."

Vent said another turning point was when the Huskies failed to score on their first quarter threat, which was set up by Lipscomb's lone run. "Had we scored there, it certainly would have helped our confidence," he said, "but it still would have been very difficult to beat Southern. They are just a super team and we are behind them all the way in the playoffs. It's real important for me personally to see Tom Woods who I like his attitude and I think he is a great coach. Plus, Southern is representing our entire county in the playoffs, not just half of it."

PICKING UP YARDAGE was no easy job for the Northern Huskies last Friday night against the tenacious defense of the undefeated Southern Rams during the annual Garrett County showdown, held this year at Northern. Above: Husky running.

As for thoughts on next season, Vent believes his biggest job in the off-season will be fighting "an attitude problem."

"I believe we have the potential to have a good, solid program here at Northern," he said, "but it takes a lot of hard work. I always remind the kids that the only place success comes before work is in the dictionary."

I believe our younger players (freshmen and sophomores) have a great attitude, but frankly, I'm concerned about our juniors. Next fall it will be those who want to play most who will be given the starting positions, regardless of their age."

Vent said he and his staff will also attempt to increase the number of players, as the Northern roster carried only about 30 players by the end of the season.

In noting his appreciation to those who supported the Huskies' program this year, Vent specifically named the school's athletic director, Harry Speicher. "I just can't say enough about the job Harry is doing here. He is so supportive of our efforts and he takes an awful lot of pressure off me," he said.

Northern Girls Whip Southern For Playoff Spot

With a final regular-season victory over the Southern Rams last week, the Northern girls varsity volleyball team earned a spot in the Region I Class C playoffs, which begin this Friday at Hagerstown Junior College.

Coach Yonda Yunker's Huskies defeated Southern in four games, winning the first, 15-11, dropping the second, 15-11, and winning the next two, 15-5 and 15-8, to give them an 11-3 record.

Laura Sines and Julie Yommer led the Huskies with 14 points each, while Kim Hinebaugh finished with 13. Sines recorded nine ace serves and Hinebaugh had eight.

Donna Stanton led the offensive, net performance with seven killer spikes, while Debbie Rounds and Sines each hit two. Defensively, Stanton had two blocks and Yommer, Rounds and Pam Brennenman each recorded two saves.

"The playoff picture was gone as far as we were concerned, with three losses," Coach Yunker said. "Then Tuesday evening we got a phone call from the Region I chairman who said that, if we defeated Southern on Wednesday, we would go to the playoffs seeded fourth. We decided not to tell the girls, feeling that there was enough pressure on them already with this being the last game for four seniors and we were playing Southern to boot. Needless to say, we came through!"

The Northern jayvee squad was also victorious over their Southern counterparts, 15-7 and 15-3. Marcia Sisler and Kim Beal led Northern with 10 service points each. The win gave the jayvee Huskies a 5-5 record for the season.

The varsity Huskies, who have now qualified for the regional playoffs four straight seasons, will meet top-ranked Williamsport in the second game of the round-robin tourney, which will begin at 4 p.m. They will play second-seeded Mt. Savage in the third game and third-seeded Valley in the fifth game. The team with the best record out of the six games played will move on to the state championships.

Lakers Short On Experience, But Have Blue-Chip Recruiting Year

by Paul Mullan

A junior college coach's work is never done. The nature of the beast dictates that. The prize players you recruit are only with you two years, three in some circumstances. The situation does not give you time to rest on your laurels.

And so it goes for head Coach Dennis Gibson at Garrett Community College. Last year, his Lakers finished with a school record 24-9 mark. After the season, Gibson checked the cupboard. It was nearly bare.

Jimmy Feagins, an Honorable Mention All American and All Region XX selection, is gone. So is Sean Hazel, the team's Most Valuable Player and an All League selection. Ditto center Torin Savory. Ditto forward Scott Stem. Ditto swingman Terry Carter. Ditto 6-7 Terry Williams.

All of those players saw action in starting roles last year. That guarantees this year's edition of the Lakers will be young and a tad short on experience.

Four players return. Small forwards 6-3 William "Bink" Scales (8 PPG, 6 RPG) and 6-4 Duane Tabor (6 PPG, 4 RPG) saw significant playing time last year, while 6-5 Joe Schmide (5 PPG, 4 RPG) also saw a lot of action early in the year. Rob Germain (2 PPG, 2 RPG, 2 APG) has grown two inches to 6-4 and will add depth to the backcourt.

The Lakers had a fine recruiting year, landing a number of blue chip players from Maryland, West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Leading the list of recruits is 6-1 Tony Haskiell from East Preston High School in Terra Alta. An Honorable Mention McDonald's All American, Haskiell also set the West Virginia State High School assist record with 901 in his career. A First-Team All State selection in both his junior and senior years, Haskiell averaged 25 points, 11 assists and eight rebounds for Coach Barry Sanders at East Preston and exploded for a school record 63 points to cap a brilliant four-year starting career.

Haskiell was joined on the all-state team by another Laker recruit, 6-3 Steve Felton, of Rowlesburg High School. Felton averaged 23 points and 12 rebounds per outing for Coach Jeff Casseday and was named to the All Preston County team for four consecutive years.

Three years ago, Art Monroe garnered All American honors at GCC and now, 6-1 Kerwin Thompson is hoping to follow in his footsteps. Thompson is the number two all-time scorer at Catonsville High School behind Monroe and was named First Team All Baltimore County, averaging 16 points and six assists per game.

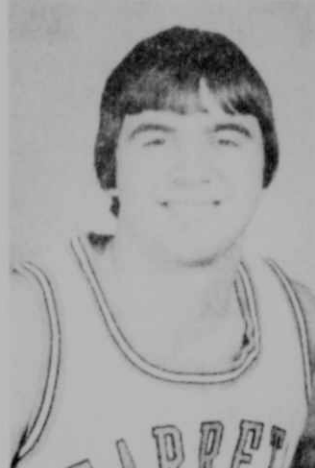

Aaron Davis, a 6-0 point guard from Suitland High School near Washington, D.C., was a two-year starter and was named to the All Prince George's County team last season. Davis scored 13 points a game and averaged eight assists, and will be contending for a starting berth in the Laker backcourt with 6-2 Eric Jordan, a former Morgantown High School product who has transferred to Garrett from Marshall University.

Eric Downs sat out last year after being named Second Team All-State for John Marshall High School in Wheeling, W. Va., in 1986. The 6-7 forward averaged 15 points and 13 rebounds and was named to the first team in the Ohio Valley Conference. Downs and 6-6 Del Youngblood, from Brashear High School, Pittsburgh, are expected to provide the muscle for GCC to contend in the rugged Maryland JUCO Conference.

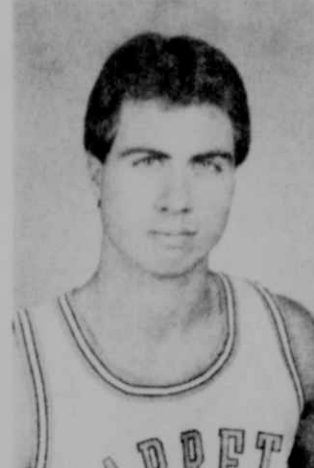

Also looking for playing time this year will be Roberto Frazier, a 6-2, 210-pound point guard from South High in Pittsburgh, and 6-0 Eric Rice, who was a key member of Southern High School's playoff team last year.

"I'm concerned because we're so inexperienced this year," says Gibson. "However, we are taller and deeper than we were last year, and if the guys play hard, we can have a very successful season.

"Last year, we were forced to go with basically one point guard, Hazel, the whole season, and we were fortunate that he stayed out of foul trouble, or we would have been in big trouble. At the same time, he was still learning the position, and during the rare occasions he was struggling a bit, I couldn't afford to take him out to talk with him."

"This year, I have about four guys I can play at that position, and that should give us more of a chance to work with our guards during the game."

Gibson added that he likes to play a lot of players, especially if they work hard in practice. "A young team like we have can make a lot of mistakes, but if our guys make the commitment to hustle all the time, we'll be able to overcome those errors a lot of the time. Because I like an uptempo game, I can see us going to the bench a lot and keeping fresh bodies on the floor. Talentwise, I expect our first team and our second team to be very evenly matched," he said.

Dave Ritchie, Fairmont, W. Va., joins Gibson and Assistant Coach Dave Martin on the Laker bench this season.

The Lakers will open the season by hosting the Preview Classic on November 20 and 21. The annual event features Potomac State College, and the Penn State Junior College campuses of New Kensington and Fayette County.

Fairmont Native Joins Garrett Coaching Staff

Dave Ritchie, a native of Fairmont, W. Va., has joined the Garrett Community College basketball coaching staff for the 1987-88 season.

A 1987 graduate of Fairmont State College, Ritchie was heavily recruited by the Falcons during his senior year at Fairmont Senior High after leading his team to a 22-2 record in his senior season and being voted the team's most valuable player. He was also named to the 1st team All-Conference and was selected to the class AAA All-State team.

Medical problems cut his career at Fairmont State short and Ritchie then decided to follow in his father's footsteps and take up coaching. Dave Ritchie Sr. is currently the defensive coordinator for the University of Cincinnati football team after once working for the Canadian Football League's Montreal Alouettes.

The younger Ritchie received his first coaching job in 1984 as the head coach of the Fairmont Junior High basketball team. He then moved up to Fairmont Senior High in 1986 where he was the assistant varsity coach under his former coach, Bill Lawson.

This past summer, Ritchie worked such camps as the Metro Index, Jim Valvano's North Carolina State camp, and the Morgan Wootens DeMutha camp.

Ritchie and his wife, Shiela, reside in Morgantown, W. Va.

Lion Fans Roar Back . . .

The following poem was in response to a poem by a Southern High fan following the Southern/Tucker County football game.

We are proud of our team
They draw quite a crowd,
We will shout their praises and do it real loud.

They call us hillbillies,
Say we partake of snuff,
We don't know what their problem is that they publish such stuff.

Some may dip their pen in sarcasm and throw their little darts,
We just smile and forgive them because there is goodwill in our hearts.

We remember a game about one year ago,
I believe the score was 36 to zero,
Did we put it to verse when we made that big win?
No, and we won't when we do it again.

So go out there Mountain Lions, and do what you do best,
Your fans are all behind you,
We know you can stand the test.

By some Hillbilly fans
From Tucker County

CRIME SOLVERS

This week Crime Solvers is seeking information leading to the arrest of the person or persons responsible for the destruction of property that occurred at Dennett Road Elementary School August 10 between 4:15 and 7 p.m.

Police reports indicated that a person or persons entered the building and were responsible for at least $5000 worth of damage. Paint, glue and chemical solvents were poured on floors in several of the classrooms there. Various pieces of furniture were also damaged, including a piano, an organ and a computer terminal.

All leads in this case have been exhausted, and Crime Solvers is seeking your help. Anyone with information about this or any other unsolved crime is eligible for a cash reward of up to $1,000.

The caller may remain anonymous and does not have to appear in court. All information will be kept confidential and may be given by calling 334-1975.

habilitation and would probably be razed.

If HUD is successful on its foreclosure of Morton Sarabin, the Baltimore developer who allegedly still owes $1.5 million on the Bradley Manor project, it is expected that the property would be sold at public auction.

Also at Tuesday's meeting, Councilman Boal asked the commissioners what type of control Community Action Director Duane Yoder had over his department. Boal contends that Yoder had some discussions with HUD over various projects involving housing in the town of Oakland and had toured the Bradley Manor housing project with state housing officials without the knowledge of the Mayor and Town Council.

The commissioners said they would look into the matter, although most of Community Action's budget comes from the federal government and that Yoder is essentially a federal employee.

Boal noted that he had personally invited Yoder to attend last week's public hearing and that Yoder did not attend nor give reasons for not attending.

Other Commissioner News
In other commissioner news, the county officials met Tuesday with County Roads officials to discuss the close of the summer construction season and the start-up of the winter snow removal season.

The officials decided to postpone a final decision of the purchasing of new equipment until the end of the winter season when a better assessment of equipment can be made.

The commissioners also met with Mark Zanger of Beall, Garner, Screene and Geare for an update on cost-containment measures for the county's medical insurance program. Zanger also made further recommendations for future saving methods, including deductible rates on prescriptions.

Receives Grant

A total of $1 million in grants was awarded to Baltimore City, the City of Annapolis, and every county in the state, except Kent County, which had sufficient funding left over from last year's award. Local jurisdictions which have been awarded grants are expected to cover the costs of administering the program.

In Garrett County, the grant will be administered by the Garrett County Community Action Committee, which also will coordinate supportive services for the recipients of rental allowance payments, such as job training, medical care, counseling and day care.

These services are designed to help the recipients stabilize their lives and solve the problems which contributed to their housing situation.

Rental allowance payments can be used in any type of housing unit that complies with minimum rental housing standards. These can include rooms, boarding house rooms, apartments and mobile homes.

For further information about the Rental Allowance Program, persons may contact the Garrett County Community Action Committee at (301) 334-9431.

Church News

An all-day workshop was held at Emmanuel Church on Saturday. Lutheran Women of the area were being informed concerning takeover changes of the women's auxiliary. The new name will be Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. Judy Miller, Huntington, W. Va., was the convener. Women attended from Westport, Aurora and Red House, as did local women from the Bittering parish.

Women of the ELCA will hold their monthly meeting at the church on Friday evening at Emmanuel. Leaders will be Jenny Hady and Doris Knox. The topic is "Women and Vocation: Making Choices in Daily Life." The time is 7:30 p.m.

This Sunday at 5 p.m., there will be a recital with the new organ by experts from the company which sold the organ to the Emmanuel congregation. The public is invited to attend.

Hosts Dinner

Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Glatfelter hosted a birthday dinner for Joan Sussman and Kevin Bass at their home on Friday evening. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sussman and Claire, Mr. and Mrs. Kevin Bass and Matthew, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fousek and Chad, Gary Mullich and Ruth DiPaola.

New Residents

Mrs. Joanne Scofield, Cleveland, Ohio, has rented her home on Mosser Road to Michael and Patty Reed and sons, Jason and Jeremy. Mr. Reed is director of radiology at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Personal Items

Mr. and Mrs. Alan Sussman and Vickie, Rockville, were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Sussman. They also visited Ruth DiPaola and Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Glatfelter and children.

Kenneth and Ruth Glatfelter, Carlisle, Pa., were visitors of Martha Glatfelter and attended the funeral of Lee Forney on Sunday afternoon.

Mildred Kling, Trottburg, N.Y., spent two weeks visiting Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miller.

Dan and Jean Caldwell, Uniontown, Pa., spent several days last week visiting Mrs. Lee Forney.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Beanesderfer, Escondido, Calif., and Mary Ruth Snyder, San Francisco, spent several days in the area, and visited their father, Lee Forney, in Garrett County Memorial Hospital before his death on Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Scofield, Cleveland, attended the funeral of Lee Forney, and visited with Mary Forney and Martha Glatfelter while here.

The Bittering Homemakers Club will meet at the home of Ferne Beachy on Tuesday, November 17, at 1 p.m.

Hospital News

Gorman Beitzel was a patient in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland, several days last week. At this writing he is home and improved in health.

Hamill Glatfelter underwent laser surgery at a hospital in Prince George's County, on Monday.

Jennings LCW Meets

The LCW of Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, met in the church for its monthly meeting on November 4. Pastor Louise Knotts and five members attended.

The meeting opened with a service for the ingathering of the annual thank offerings, which included a scripture passage, a responsive reading and the hymn, "We Give Thee But Thine Own," led by Pastor Knotts.

Leota Baker led the topic, "Toward a New Day." The program was an interpretation of how LCW offerings are received through various channels within the congregational organization and then disbursed through the synodical unit to support the auxiliary and specific ministries of the Lutheran Church in America. It also presented a unique challenge of setting the new women's organization into motion. A progress report of Zion's LCW financial support was given.

Mrs. Nellie Yommer presided over the business meeting. The LCW periodical, "Guidelines," was given to members present. Correspondence received included the newsletter from the Lutheran Youth and Family Services in Zelenople, Pa., and an invitation to assist financially in the renovation of that youth center, and a letter from the LCW synodical unit president requesting offering increases during the remainder of the year.

A thank-you letter was received from Our Savior's Lutheran Church on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation in Montana, upon receipt of winter clothing sent recently. Ethel Hetrick was remembered with a "sunshine" gift following her recent surgery. A gift offering was presented by Mrs. Dorothy Burrow, in memory of her sister, Mrs. Bessie Rogers, and niece, Mrs. Lorna Rogers. This was forwarded to LCW Specific Ministries, designated for missionary support.

The LCW members contributed toward a memorial to Lula Belle Shives, which was also sent to Lutheran Church Women, specifically for Youth Ministry.

A designated offering was received from the family of Lula Belle Shives, in appreciation of the bereavement meal served on October 31, following her funeral service.

Pastor Knotts announced that transportation to Wheeling would be available for anyone wishing to attend the installation of the Rev. Alex Black as bishop of the new West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod on November 14.

Ruthella Resh volunteered to arrange for the picking of

Good Food and how to prepare it!

Mushroom Magic

Stuffed, sauteed or raw, we savor the distinct flavor and unique texture of the mushroom. It has become an expected ingredient in numerous dishes including mushroom barley soup, spinach salad, tomato sauce and beef bourguignonne.

What makes mushrooms even more appealing are their nutritive merits. Mushrooms make good "diet food" as they are low in carbohydrate and the little they do contain is in the form of bulk.

Diabetics may indulge in this vegetable as the mushroom lacks sugars.

Mushrooms provide many minerals, vitamins and a good deal of protein; because of the mushroom's nutrients, it is considered closer to meat than any other vegetable.

Mushrooms should be thoroughly cleaned and trimmed before eating or cooking. They may be eaten raw with lemon juice, olive oil or yogurt dressing, sauteed with onions for a steak topping or omelette filling, or used in a variety of dishes. Following are a few ideas.

GRECO

- 1 yellow onion, chopped
- 1 small can mushrooms, drained
- 3 cans tomato sauce
- Sharp cheese
- 1 green pepper, chopped
- 2 cups shell macaroni
- 1 can cream style corn
- 1 lb. hamburger

Fry onions and green peppers in small amount of oil until glossy. Brown meat in above. Keep moving to prevent burning. Add mushrooms and remove from heat. Boil macaroni until tender. Drain and add to above. Add tomato sauce and corn and mix all well. Place in greased casserole and refrigerate. When ready to bake grate lots of sharp cheese on top and place in 300 degree oven for one hour.

RICE AND MUSHROOM CASSEROLE

- 1/2 lb. hamburger
- 1 small onion chopped
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 1/2 cups of cooked rice
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1 can water
- 1 small can mushrooms (drain)

Put in skillet, brown well, then add: 1 can mushroom soup, 1 can water, 1 small can mushrooms (drain). Simmer for 20 minutes, while rice cooks. Pour sauce over rice, stir well to mix, let set a few minutes and serve. Makes 4 or 5 servings.

FRENCH-FRIED MUSHROOMS

- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/3 cup all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 20 medium-size fresh mushrooms
- 1 cup cornflake crumbs
- Vegetable oil
- Seasoned salt

Combine egg and milk, beating well. Stir together flour and salt. Dredge mushrooms in flour mixture, and dip in egg mixture, roll in cornflake crumbs. Deep fry in hot oil (375°) until golden brown. Drain on paper towels, and sprinkle with salt. Serve immediately. Yield: 20 appetizer servings.

MUSHROOM SOUP

- 4 medium onions, minced
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 2 pounds fresh mushrooms, coarsely chopped
- 2 cups whipping cream
- 2 cups beef broth
- 1 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 cup sliced almonds, toasted
- Chopped fresh parsley

Saute onion and garlic in butter in a Dutch oven over medium heat until onion is tender. Add mushrooms, cook over low heat for 10 minutes or until tender. Gradually add cream and broth; continue to cook until thoroughly heated. Do not boil. Sprinkle each serving with cheese, almonds and parsley. Yield: 2 1/2 quarts.

NO PEEK CASSEROLE

Beatrice Opel

- Brown 2 lbs. round steak, inch cubes
- 1 can mushroom soup
- 1 can onion soup
- 1 small can or fresh mushrooms
- 1/2 cup of red or white cooking wine

Combine all ingredients. Bake in deep casserole at 350° 2 to 2 1/2 hours, covered. Serve over cooked rice or noodles.

STUFFED MUSHROOM CAPS

- 2 lbs. large mushrooms
- Butter for sauteing
- Chablis
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 lb. cream cheese
- 1 tsp. garlic powder
- 1/2 cup chopped fresh parsley
- 1 tsp. dill
- 4 oz. butter
- 4 Tabsp. sour cream
- 1/2 cup breadcrumbs
- 1/2 cup ground parmesan cheese
- Parsley, freshly chopped, for garnish

Remove mushroom stems, wash caps and stems. Set aside caps. Chop stems and saute in butter with Chablis, garlic and salt and pepper to taste. Set aside to cool. Using electric mixer, blend together cream cheese, garlic powder, 1/2 cup parsley, dill and butter. Add sauted, drained mushroom stems to cream cheese mixture and add sour cream. Saute mushroom caps in butter, allow to cool a little. Stuff mushroom caps with cream cheese-mushroom mixture. Combine breadcrumbs and parmesan cheese and sprinkle on top of stuffed mushroom caps. Bake in 400° oven until hot and golden brown. Garnish with freshly chopped parsley.

SAUTEED MUSHROOMS ON TOAST

- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 3 tablespoons margarine
- 1 pound fresh mushrooms, sliced
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- Dash pepper
- 4 slices bread, toasted

Cook onion in margarine until tender. Add mushrooms, cover and cook over low heat 8-10 minutes or until mushrooms are tender. Sprinkle with lemon juice and pepper. Serve over toast as a meat accompaniment. Makes 4 servings.

ROMANO SHRIMP-STUFFED MUSHROOMS

Cindy Kitzmiller

- 20 large fresh mushrooms (2 to 2 1/2-inch diameter)
- 1 1/2 ounce shrimp, drained, rinsed, and broken up
- 1 4 ounce container whipped cream cheese with chives
- 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- Dash garlic powder
- Dash bottled hot pepper sauce
- Grated Romano cheese

Remove the stems from mushrooms. Simmer the mushroom caps in boiling water for 2 minutes. Drain, invert caps on paper toweling. Cool. Meanwhile, combine the shrimp, cream cheese, Worcestershire sauce, garlic powder, and hot pepper sauce. Spoon shrimp mixture into mushroom caps; place in shallow baking pan or dish. Sprinkle with Romano cheese. Cover, chill 3 to 24 hours before serving, uncover, bake in 400° oven 15 minutes. Makes 20.

FRESH MUSHROOMS BRIGHTEN EVERYDAY MEALS

Sometimes the obvious is right under our nose, like the solution to dressing up a favorite main dish, appetizer or side dish. Too often we get locked into serving our favorite recipe in its traditional form, forgetting we can create some new excitement just by adding a simple ingredient.

A delicious replacement to the usual vegetable side dish or plain meat topping is Mushrooms Barcelona—mushrooms sauteed in butter, sherry and citrus. This accompaniment to beef, chicken, or fish is easy to prepare and light enough to complement any main dish.

Adding fresh mushrooms to everyday meals will provide your family with important vitamins and minerals such as thiamin, riboflavin, potassium and niacin. A good source of fiber, mushrooms contain no cholesterol and very little sodium. Since mushrooms are 99 percent fat free and contain only 14 calories per two-third cup serving, they're ideal for people who are watching their weight.

FRESH MUSHROOM CARE AND HANDLING

- When selecting fresh mushrooms look for smooth, firm caps with the veil (the membrane between the cap and stem) still attached. For stronger mushroom flavor, the more mature open veiled mushroom is a good choice.
- Store mushrooms unwashed in a paper or damp cloth bag in the refrigerator. Avoid storing them in plastic bags since it causes the mushrooms to spoil faster.
- To clean fresh mushrooms, wipe with a damp cloth.

Fresh sauteed mushrooms—like Mushrooms Barcelona—add variety and taste to simple meals.

- soft vegetable brush or a quick rinse. Be careful not to soak them since their porous nature will cause them to absorb the water and lose their flavor.
- Mushrooms Barcelona
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 tablespoon vegetable oil
- 8 ounces fresh mushrooms, quartered (about 3 cups)
- 1/2 cup chopped, toasted walnuts (optional)
- 2 tablespoons dry sherry
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange or lemon peel
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- Salt, to taste
- In skillet combine butter and oil; heat to melt butter. Add mushrooms; saute over medium-high heat until just tender, about 3 to 4 minutes. Add walnuts, sherry, lemon juice and citrus peel; cook 1 minute longer. Sprinkle with parsley; season with salt. Serve hot as an accompaniment to fish, chicken or steak. Makes 4 servings.

'Tis the season to attend and give parties. One favorite party food, pate, is traditionally high in animal fat. This tasty recipe offers an alternative. So remember — your snack doesn't have to be high-fat to be high-class.

Mushroom and Nut Pate

- 2 Tablespoons Margarine
- 1 Pound Mushrooms, Sliced
- 1 Small Onion, Chopped
- 1 Clove Garlic, Minced
- 1 Cup Almonds, Slivered
- 2 Tablespoons Oil
- 1/4 Teaspoon Oregano
- 1/4 Teaspoon Thyme
- Dash of Tabasco Sauce

Melt margarine in a large skillet over medium heat. Add mushrooms, onion and garlic. Saute until the liquid has evaporated. Set aside. Coarsely chop almonds in food processor or blender. Remove and set aside 2 tablespoons; continue chopping remainder while slowly adding oil until mixture is well blended.

Add mushrooms and seasonings. Blend thoroughly. Stir in reserved almonds.

Place pate in a crock or a small bowl. Sprinkle with chopped parsley or sesame seeds.

Yield: 1 Cup
Approx. Cal. Serv.: 1 Tablespoon = 55

Recipe Tip: Select hearty appetizers that can stand alone for a cocktail party. As a time saver, prepare those that can be prepared well ahead of time.

Spinach and Brown Rice Casserole

- 1 Tablespoon Oil
- 1 Large Onion, Chopped
- 2 Cups Mushrooms, Sliced
- 1 Clove Garlic
- 1 Egg
- 1 Tablespoon Whole Wheat Flour
- 2 Cups Low-Fat Cottage Cheese
- 10 Ounces Frozen Chopped Spinach, Drained
- 3 Cups Cooked Brown Rice
- Freshly Ground Black Pepper
- 1/2 Teaspoon Thyme
- 2 Tablespoons Parmesan Cheese
- 2 Tablespoons Sunflower Seeds

Heat oil in a Dutch oven and saute onion, mushrooms and garlic until tender.

In a small bowl, mix egg, flour and cottage cheese. Add to sauteed vegetables along with spinach. Stir rice, pepper, thyme and 1 tablespoon of parmesan cheese.

Turn into a greased 12 x 8-inch baking dish and top with remaining parmesan cheese and sunflower seeds.

Bake at 375 degrees F for at least 30 minutes.

Yield: 8 Servings
Approx. Cal. Serv.: 210

Recipe Tip: For vegetarian meals, the problem is not getting enough protein, but how to choose combinations of food which contain essential amino acids that must be present at the same time to make new protein. For example, wheat and beans supplement each other if eaten together, as do peanuts and sunflower seeds, and rice and beans.

BEAUTY'S BABY

One day, recently, the children and I stopped, on our way home, to pet Beauty and her baby. Beauty lives at Mr. Ryder's farm, not far from our home, and the coming of her colt had been a prime topic of conversation for several weeks.

This particular day Carla's question about Starlight's Daddy and his whereabouts sparked a discussion with my three sons that ranged from God's plan for the birth and care of baby animals, on to people and their babies.

It was a rare and precious moment, such as parents and teachers treasure, when young minds reach out effortlessly for information and understanding.

As we drove home, I thanked God for the opportunity He had given me to share in this eager unfolding of my children's thoughts and ideas. I thanked Him, too, for His Church which had inspired my religious growth and thus helped me keep peace with the developing queries of my children.

Let your Church or Synagogue become your source of inspiration. Visit there this week.

KILLING THE DREAMER

November 15, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 35:22b-26, 37

They planned to get rid of "the dreamer" in the vain assumption that they would thereby get rid of his disturbing dreams. People have been trying to do that from time immemorial and it has never really worked. Unlike the dreamer, the dreams are not flesh and blood. Incorporated, unlimited by time and occupying no space, dreams cannot be entered in tombs or reduced to ashes.

Yet, humanity continues to kill its dreamers in order to bury their dreams. This is what was in the minds of the brothers of Joseph when they saw him at Dothan and said, "Here comes this dreamer. Come now, let us kill him..." (37:19, 20).

THE FAVORITE

It's not hard to understand why they hated their brother. For one thing, it was clear that their father loved him most of all and favored him with a blatant partiality. The writer of Genesis freely admits, "Now Israel loved Joseph more than any other of his children, because he was the son of his old age."

and made him a long robe with sleeves" (37:3). It is not hard to understand why they were jealous of him and "could not speak peaceably to him" (37:4).

To make things even worse, the young Joseph seems to have been something of a spoiled brat. The problem was not that he was a dreamer, but that his dreams clearly indicated that he regarded himself as a superior to his brethren. How insensitive he was to flaunt these dreams before his already jealous and envious brothers! You may protest, "But these were only dreams, why should that upset them?" The answer was that the ancient never thought of these experiences as "just dreams." They took them as irreversible prophecies of what was yet to come. So, they decided, "Come now, let us kill him and throw him into one of the pits... and we shall see what will become of his dreams" (37:20).

THREATENING DREAMS

We're still using that kind of strategy today and with pretty much the same results. It is as if we had learned nothing in the last four thousand years. They thought to silence Jesus and his dreams of the kingdom. Missionaries, martyrs, clergy and lay alike, have been murdered so that

Displaced Homemaker Awareness Week In Maryland - November 16-21

by Barbara Frey

The week of November 16-21, 1987, has been designated by Governor William Donald Schaefer as Maryland Displaced Homemaker Awareness Week. The Awareness Week gives recognition to the many individuals who have found themselves to be displaced due to separation, divorce, widowhood, or economic changes in their lives which have made it necessary for these persons to leave their homes after many years of marriage and rearing children to test their talents in the job market. The many Displaced Homemaker programs that help these individuals acquire the necessary career information, skills, and confidence to make this transition are being recognized during this special week.

The displaced homemaker program provides support to individuals in life transition situations to enable them to cope and to realize they are not alone in dealing with their situations. Displaced homemakers need skills that can lead to better-paying jobs, enhanced confidence in their abilities, specific job training, and employment. Most need financial assistance while in training and emotional support to help them through the difficult transition period. They also need accurate information on the local job market and chances to explore a variety of fields in order to make appropriate career decisions.

The initial Displaced Homemaker Project began in California in 1975 and culminated in a cross-country campaign to build support for the national legislation by encouraging the emergence of other state bills. There are now over 900 displaced homemaker centers throughout the country.

Maryland is a model for the nation in displaced homemaker programming. Pioneer legislation began in 1976 when a pilot program was established in Baltimore and subsequent legislation in 1979 created a permanent State Displaced Homemaker Project. Maryland has developed unique, innovative services to meet the needs of this target population who often "fall between the cracks" of the country's system of financial support. Homemakers receive no unemployment benefits or pensions. They are too young for social security, and often their children are too old to allow them to receive Aid to Dependent Children. They don't exactly fit into vocational training or education systems either. Many just miss qualifying financially for job training programs, yet cannot afford other training. Displaced homemakers have particular "identity" problems and counseling and job placement needs which are not served by many adult counseling programs.

The Displaced Homemaker programs in Maryland may be funded by the Department of Human Resources or the Maryland State Department of Vocational/Technical Education. There are 17 programs funded by the Maryland State Department of Education under the title "Single Parents and Homemakers."

The New Horizons program of Garrett Community College is such a program, receiving funds from the Maryland State Department of Vocational/Technical Education and Garrett Community College, the sponsoring agent for the program. Garrett County's displaced homemaker program has been in operation since January of 1980. The New Horizons program, under the direction of Barbara Frey, offers many services free of charge to persons in transition. Among these services are:

Peer Counseling with program staff members.
Career Counseling with Manning Smith, Garrett Community College's career counselor, or other faculty members.

Agency Referral with awareness of services and opportunities available throughout the county.

Job Awareness emphasis by staff member, Lena Fratz, who learns about employment opportunities and provides New Horizons clients with information about these jobs either through her job board or through personal contact.

Career Testing for clients by means of the Career Inventory, the GATB (General Aptitude Test Battery) Test, or the Holland Self-Directed Search to see what particular skills and interests clients may possess to help them select training if necessary for the jobs they will eventually hold.

Pre-employment Skills Training, a seven-week course, designed to aid people to learn about themselves, their goals, their abilities and choices they may wish to make when choosing a career in mid-life.

Volunteer work at the New Horizons office with opportunities to gain current job experience and receive on-the-job training as well as to gain self confidence in their ability to do a job and do it well.

Resume Writing to assist participants to present themselves well on paper to aid them to secure employment.

Free workshops covering such topics as self-awareness, career awareness, career decision making, and vocational skills development are also offered. These workshops are arranged by the Intake-Workshop Coordinator of the New Horizons Program, Sue Sines.

Ten thousand dollars ($10,000) tuition assistance is available through the program for participants to take non-credit vocational classes through the Continuing Education Department of Garrett Community College or credit vocational classes to develop or upgrade skills to qualify for employment.

Child Care/Transportation assistance is also available to qualifying participants of the New Horizons program who are in the greatest financial need. A limit of $100.00 per year for this assistance per client enables the New Horizons program to provide financial assistance to 25 to 30 clients per year.

Community Outreach is available to groups of 10 or more in outlying areas on a variety of topics available through the program. A brochure is available from New Horizons listing the topics from which interested persons or organizations may choose.

Over the past funding year and the present one, New Horizons has specifically serviced the Single Parent and Homemaker with special emphasis on reaching the displaced homemaker in Garrett County. During the 1986-87 funding year from July 1, 1986 to June 30, 1987, New Horizons provided services for 308 new and returning clients. Of these clients 47 participated in credit classes at GCC and 113 in non-credit classes for a total of 160 individuals participating in training or 51.9% of total clients. Ninety-seven (97) clients found either part-time or full-time employment during that period.

New Horizons continues to accept new participants into the program with the previously mentioned services available to them. The target population is as follows:

A. Single Parent — (working or non-working) who is unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and has a minor child or children for which the parent has either custody or joint custody.

B. Homemaker — an adult who has worked without pay to care for home and family, and for that reason has diminished marketable job skills.

C. Displaced Homemaker — person who is legally separated, divorced, or widowed.

The New Horizons office is located at the Oakland Center of pleasures.

Subscriptions are $12 per year. Interested persons may contact Country Roads Quarterly by writing P.O. Box 479, Oakland, MD 21550.

NEWS from THE MARYLAND FOREST, PARK & WILDLIFE SERVICE

HELP PREVENT FOREST FIRES

Garrett County Project Forester Ernie Metz urges all County residents to be especially careful with fire during this extended dry period. The extended weather forecast through the middle of November is for continued unseasonably dry conditions. In times such as these, everyone must be extremely cautious with any outdoor burning. Burning regulations in Maryland require that any burning must be done after 4 p.m., EST and not within 200 feet of woodland or flammable material that could carry fire to a woodland. A ten-foot safety strip is required around the burning site and a responsible person should be with the fire at all times. The fire should be out cold by midnight.

A recent revision in the law now includes a provision whereby the state may charge persons for discarding burning material such as cigarettes in an area where they may start a fire.

Containing fires during this dry time is more difficult than usual because the fire burns deep into the ground into the root systems of the trees as well as what you see burning above ground. Consequently, although a fire may seem to be out, the possibility exists that it is burning underground and may flare up in another place and create additional wildfire danger.

The Forest, Park & Wildlife Service urges all county residents to be on the lookout for fires or areas where fire danger is high. For further information contact the Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service Office at Mt. Nebo, (301) 334-3296. It is really true that only YOU can prevent forest fires, and now is the time for us all to do just that. Individuals reporting forest fires should contact Garrett Central Alarm by calling 911.

SHS Student Council Officers Are Announced

Lori McCain, a senior, is the daughter of Asa and Marilyn McCain, Oakland. She has been a member of Student Council for four years, serving last year as vice president. This year she is also the president of the senior class and the president of the Girls' Athletic Association. She is a member of the National Honor Society, is a varsity cheerleader, and was the Science Student of the Month winner this past September. She is a member of the youth group at St. Mark's Lutheran Church. Lori hopes to major in pre-medicine in college next year.

Courtney Smith, a junior, is the daughter of Manning and Kathie Smith, Mtn. Lake Park. She has been a member of Student Council for three years. She is a member of the marching field, and stage bands and received the U.S. Achievement Academics of Band award. She is a member of the Southern girl's basketball and tennis teams, and was the October Student of the Month winner for Science. Courtney is a member of the National Honor Society as well as president of the Junior Class. She attends St. Matthew's Episcopal Church where she is an acolyte and lay reader. She hopes to attend a four-year college in North Carolina and study sports medicine or physical therapy.

Bonnie Ruston, a junior, is the daughter of Sarah Steyer, Deer Park. She is a member of the ski racing team, track, and color guard at Southern. She has been on the honor roll several terms and is a member of the Society of Distinguished American High School Students. Bonnie hopes to attend college and major in art.

Sonya Hilton, a senior, is the daughter of Pint and Katie Hilton, Kempton. She is a member of the National Honor Society and the Society of Distinguished High School Students. She was the best defensive player on last year's Southern softball team and was a student exchange student to Germany. She is a member of the Science Club and was a Student of the Month winner in Social Studies. Sonya is a part of the Maryland Conservation Corps and plans to become a marine biologist.

Mt. Storm Church Slates "Harvest"

The Mt. ## Gives Presentation To Gifted Students In New Orleans

Dr. Gail N. Herman, Swanton, delivered a presentation at the National Association for Gifted Students annual conference in New Orleans on November 11. The title of the presentation is "Identification, Programs and Enrichment Strategies for the Gifted Learning Disabled Youth." Two other educators from the College of New Rochelle and the University of Connecticut participated in the presentation.

Dr. Herman also chaired a meeting for the Creativity Committee on the Visual and Performing Arts in Gifted and Talented Education. In addition, Dr. Herman was selected to conduct a workshop for New Orleans junior high school students on Communication Through Movement. A variety of movement experiences using group process and mime with guided discovery was presented. Students were also exposed to the elements of movement (space, time and force), and the experience of movement memory.

Recently, Dr. Herman was a keynote speaker at Bates College for the Maine Educators of the Gifted and Talented (MEGAT) Fall Conference, held October 23. Dr. Herman's speech was entitled "Evolution of the Child on the Visual and Performing Arts." She also presented workshops in mime and in storytelling.

Maine recently mandated legislation requiring schools to provide programs over the next five years to service gifted and talented students in academic and visual and performing arts areas.

November 13 To Be Special Day For Adventists

November 13 will be more than "Friday the 13th" to Seventh-day Adventists of West Virginia and western Maryland.

Herbert H. Broeckel, president of the Mountain View Conference of Adventists (regional headquarters office in Parkersburg, W. Va.), has asked church members to set apart this day for fasting and prayer.

"November 13, 1887, was the date 100 years ago that a small group of less than 100 Adventist believers in West Virginia became a part of the Seventh-day Adventist world organization," Broeckel said. "In this Centennial year, we want also to rededicate ourselves to the goals of our church pioneers. November 13 will be a day to evaluate our spiritual condition. Are we ready for the Second Advent — Christ's second coming? Are we living out, and sharing, the good news of the gospel?"

Thirty-three Adventist churches with some 2,400 members comprise the Mountain View Conference, which includes the state of West Virginia and western Maryland's Allegany and Garrett counties. The Seventh-day Adventist denomination now numbers 5.2 million worldwide.

Begins Voluntary Service With Mennonite Board

Bradley L. Yoder, son of Delmer and Eva Yoder, Accident, has begun a one-year term of Voluntary Service with Mennonite Board of Missions, Elkhart, Ind.

Yoder is working as recreation coordinator at San Antonio, Tex.

Yoder is a graduate of Northern High School and was graduated from Roanoke College, Salem, Va., where he was a captain of the basketball team. Before entering service he worked for Garrett County Board of Education as a career employability field advisor. He is a member of the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

Some 80 volunteers commit themselves each year to serve in VS households throughout North America. They are involved in a variety of assignments ranging from professional services such as teaching and nursing to social services such as day care and home repair.

Mennonite Board of Missions is an agency of the 100,000-member Mennonite Church, one of several Mennonite groups in North America.

Madrigal Yuletide Feast Tickets On Sale At FSU

by Cindy Stacy

Frostburg State University began ticket sales this week for its second annual "Madrigal Yuletide Feast," to be held December 1, 2, and 3 at 6:30 p.m., in the Lane Center.

Like last year's event, guests will be taken back to the 17th century and in the great chamber of a nobleman's hall, be asked to put aside the routine and worries of everyday court life. The banquet hall will be prepared, the fires will be lighted and the trumpeters will sound the first fanfare and the second annual Madrigal Dinners will get underway at FSU.

The procession of minstrels and singers, including the Lord of Misrule (FSU's Dr. Keith Schlegel) will wind their way through to the Madrigal Table. The entire program is a time for merriment, feasting and in keeping with the holiday spirit, of peace and goodwill among all men.

The Feast will feature a student cast of over 20 and it is hoped by those presenting the program it will continue to be an annual tradition for those in Western Maryland. Besides FSU students as Madrigal singers, selected students will also be featured as litter bearers, bringing guests into the Boar's Head, Wassail Bowl and other special foods. The Madrigal Feast will be climaxed with a recessional that includes inviting all guests to join in singing traditional carols.

Tickets for the Feasts are now on sale at the Office of Conferences in the FSU administration building. There will be no tickets sold at the door. Tickets are $15 per person with 240 tickets available for each performance and dinner. Tables are arranged to seat eight persons and seating charts will be available in the Office of Conferences. Tickets are being sold daily, Monday through Friday, from noon to 3:30 p.m. Mail orders will also be accepted by calling 689-4020.

Sarbanes Rep To Visit November 19

Senator Paul Sarbanes has announced that his Western Maryland representative will be in Oakland Thursday, November 19, to seek citizens' views and assist with problems relating to the Federal Government.

"I have asked Nina Conway, my Western Maryland representative to be available in the Garrett County Courthouse Annex, County Commissioners Meeting Room, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m., so that she may meet with concerned citizens and report to me the views of Garrett County residents about current national issues and the difficulties they may be having with Federal agencies.

"This meeting is very important in helping me stay informed of my constituents' needs and to better represent their interests in the Senate," Sarbanes said.

Constituents who are unable to meet with Mrs. Conway during this time may contact her at 1906 Frederick Street, Cumberland, MD 21502; (301) 722-5369.

Monroe: A Miami show; Selleck: Broadway bound

By Cindy Adams

Marilyn Monroe will rise yet again. Marilyn. In Her Own Words, a one-woman show exploring MM's life, is coming at us. Playing Marilyn will be Julie Miller, holder of the title "Atlantic City Entertainer of the Year." I don't know which year. The musical drama is headed for Broadway and then HBO. It will break in at the Castle, the new Miami Beach hotel owned by Abe Hirschfeld, who, for an hour, was nearly NY's lieutenant governor. Hirschfeld the Humble has built in his hotel a 1900-seat theater called The Hirschfeld.

Marilyn Monroe

After six months the six-foot miniseries "Hemingway," which airs in April and stars Nancy Kerrigan, finally wrapped in Puerto Rico, where the Cuban sequences were shot. Kerrigan stood the company of 70 to a fiesta.

Tom Selleck is going legit. This young man's looking to go to Broadway. Nobody involved will speak to a news creature as scruffy as myself. But somebody, namely myself, will tell you what I know. Tom Selleck wants to do a New York stage show. He has cast his bread upon the waters, and it has already come back buttered. Negotiations will be protracted. They're only in the early stages. But they're moving along. The production is costly enough to require multiple producers. In terms of production, we're looking at a year from now. The house will be the Neil Simon. Selleck has ordered No. 1. Grown men are shivering lest this scorching news go out. Lordy, I haven't seen this much fear since the harrier-naked John Gotti's face.

Actress Donna Reed had a long and varied career

By Toni D'Amato

I am an avid watcher of "The Donna Reed Show," which is in reruns. I'd like to know if Reed starred in any movies other than "It's a Wonderful Life," "From Here to Eternity" and "The Ben-Hur Goodman Story." — A.B., Shrewsbury, Mass.

Donna Reed

Donna Reed, who was known as Donna Adams before her film career, broke into films in 1941's "The Outcast" and "Babes on Broadway." That year she became known as Donna Reed, and also starred in "Shadow of the Thin Man."

The following year brought such films as "The Bugle Sounds" and "Apache Trail." Her long list of movies includes "Thousands Cheer" (1943) and "The Picture of Dorian Gray" (1945). Reed's big break came in

Frank Capra's 1946 classic, "It's a Wonderful Life." She won a Best Supporting Actress Oscar for her work in "From Here to Eternity" (1953). Her other films include "The Last Time I Saw Paris" (1954) and "The Ben-Hur Goodman Story" (1954). In 1959, Reed turned to TV with "The Donna Reed Show," a popular series that aired until 1966. In the mid-1980s, she also did a short stint as Ellen Ewing on CBS's "Dallas."

I'd like to know when the series "Naked City" aired, what actor played Adam Flint and if he was in any other series. — R.K., British Columbia, Canada.

Paul Burke played Det. Flint from 1960 to 1963. The series aired from 1958 to 1964. Burke was also a regular in "Nashville" (1956-58), "Harbourmaster" (1957-58), "Five Fingers" (1959-60), and "Twelve O'Clock High" (1964-66). Burke joined the cast of "Dynasty" in 1982 as Congressman Neal McVane.

Who played Johnny Staccato in that old detective series? — P.O., Cleveland, Ohio.

Johnny Staccato, aired from 1959 to 1960 and starred John Cassavetes.

"Rick Nelson" He's so cute! So swooned millions of teenage girls in the late '50s and early '60s when "The Adventures of Ozzie and Harriet" came to a close and son Ricky picked up his guitar to sing his last song. But Nelson, who died in a plane crash in 1985 at age 45, is remembered by the public with much more sentiment than subsequent TV teen idols like David McCallum or David Cassidy. A generation grew up with Ricky as they listened to his parents' radio show and watched the TV series, which aired from 1962-1966.

Ricky's life past age 8 was documented in some kind of TV or movie footage, there's a plethora of visual material here.

David Nelson chooses to begin Rick's story with extensive background on Ozzie and Harriet Nelson's younger days. Harriet Nelson was an RKO star and singer. She was signed to sing with a band led by Ozzie, and married him a few years later. Savvy Ozzie eventually got the couple and their two sons their own radio show; he subsequently became the producer, director and writer of the hit TV series.

Ozzie's shrewdness and tenacity made the Nelson family a success. Even in later years (he died in 1975), Ozzie was involved in Ricky's rock 'n' roll career. Ozzie was nothing like the bumbling guy in the cardigan sweater he made himself out to be in the TV series. Ricky Nelson took his rock 'n' roll seriously and Ozzie Nelson helped his son parlay his talents into a lifelong music career.

David sensitively chronicles his brother's battles against changing musical tastes, and shows through clips of Ricky performing that he was indeed talented. And by spotlighting Rick's children, actress daughter Tracy (who starred in the film "Down and Out in Beverly Hills") and twin rock 'n' roller sons, Matthew and Gumar, David shows that both the family torch and talent have been passed on to the next generation of Nelsons.

Rick Nelson

David Nelson, his brother and co-star, lovingly looks back on Ricky's life in "Rick Nelson: A Brother Remembers," airing Nov. 16 on the Disney Channel. And he cautions almost every year of

A serial rapist stalks McCall (Stephanie Kramer) in part two of a three-part episode of NBC's "Hunter." It airs Saturday, Nov. 14.

Father and son actors both appeared on this soap

By Kimberly Redmond

Several months ago I had the good fortune to meet Scott Bryce, who portrays Craig Montgomery on "As the World Turns." He mentioned that his father, Ed Bryce, once appeared on "Guiding Light." Can you tell me what character Ed Bryce portrayed? — E.B., Jacksonville, Fla.

Scott Bryce

Ed Bryce portrayed Bill Bamber on "Guiding Light" from 1959-1960, and again in 1977. His last appearance on "GL" was in 1983 when Bill, who was thought to be dead, was resurrected for a short period of time.

Whatever happened to Eugene Bradford, the character that John de Lancie portrayed on "Days of Our Lives"? He seems to have vanished. — M.K., Johnstown, Pa.

Eugene dropped his wife Calhoun (played by Helen Sorokin) and left town. John de Lancie had wanted out of the role he began in 1982, and is currently seen in various commercials.

Jane Elliott

I'm sure that Jane Elliott, who portrays Angela Deveraux on "Days of Our Lives," had a role on "General Hospital," but I can't remember what character she portrayed. Can you help me out? — T.M., Atlanta, Ga.

Elliott portrayed Tracy Quartermain on "GL" from 1978 through 1980.

Can you tell me who originated the role of Dinah Morgan on "Guiding Light"? — C.A., Elyria, Ohio.

The role of Dinah was originally portrayed by Jennifer Gatti.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Exercise guru Jane Fonda takes on weighty matters

By Frank Lovece

Jane Fonda

The addition of weight training for women to a line that has stressed aerobic conditioning is a sign, says the star of the times.

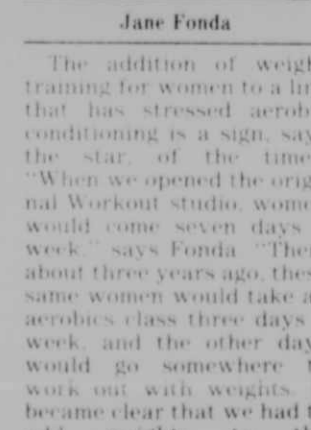

"When we opened the original Workout studio, women would come seven days a week," says Fonda. "Then, about three years ago, these same women would take an aerobics class three days a week, and the other days would go somewhere to work out with weights. It became clear that we had to add weights to the Workout."

It also became clear that safety precautions had to be built into the tape to help prevent another injury law suit like the one that eventually drove the original "Jane Fonda's Workout" from the market. "We were very careful," Fonda asserts. "To show people the right way to pick up weights and how to hold them properly. We're very careful to tell people what signs to look out for."

The fitness-video boom Fonda initiated has allowed other women instructors, like Kathy Smith, to flourish in a field dominated by the likes of Jack La Lanne. "I know Kathy and I like Kathy," says Fonda. "Among all of us, we're only touching the tip of the iceberg. I think it's real good for people to try different things." Her own success, she feels, "is partly that while I'm not an expert or a doctor, I am a communicator. It's not just that I'm an actress; other actresses have tried this, too. But I've been exercising for 30 years, and when I believe in something strongly I have a real ability to communicate it."

"When I was young," she elaborates, "I had a screwed-up image of myself and thought I was fat. And doctors gave me amphetamines and diuretics. It took me a long time to recover. I think that's another reason I have an ability to talk to women and particularly to young girls. I've had that kind of anxiety," she confesses. "I've had that kind of warfare with food."

It also became clear that safety precautions had to be

SUNDAY

Candice Bergen stars in the title role of CBS's "Mayflower Madam," which is based on the life of Sydney Biddle Barrows, the socialite who ran a high-class escort service. It airs Sunday, Nov. 15.

Training Fund For Teachers In Computer Classrooms Is Established

Teachers whose schools will receive computer-networked classrooms as part of Potomac Edison's Maryland Education Project will be eligible for in-service training thanks to a $100,000 fund established last week by Gov. William Donald Schaefer.

Schaefer said the Maryland State Department of Education would use this training fund to support the electric utility's $750,000 project, which places 19 technology-based classrooms into public schools and colleges throughout the company's Western Maryland service territory.

At a Hagerstown reception and banquet October 20, the governor pledged his support for the educational program, initiated by Potomac Edison President Elmer B. Kaelin.

"In a way, he said to me, 'OK, governor, I'm going to give $750,000 to set up these classrooms, now what are you going to do?'" Schaefer said. "He said to me, 'You know, there is something you can do. You can train the teachers.'"

Kaelin said the company has the easiest role in the project, that of providing 20 computers and networking hardware for each of the 19 classrooms. "The hard part rests with the local districts and their teachers," he said. "The teachers have a tremendous adjustment to make."

"The ability to apply these classrooms is limited only by the imagination and creativity of the educators and teachers who are responsible for them," Kaelin said he hopes Maryland schools will be in the forefront of transition from traditional blackboard classrooms to computer-based classrooms.

Potomac Edison will place two classrooms in Garrett County public schools; four classrooms each in Allegany, Washington and Frederick schools; and one classroom in Montgomery County. Hood College, Frostburg State University, Hagerstown Junior Col-

BENEFICIAL STUDIES — Following a mini-study of the United Nations, Dennett Road School fifth grade students of Linda Fleming collected money for UNICEF. lege and Garrett Community College will all receive one classroom for teacher training and support. Allegany Community College will receive hardware to upgrade an existing computer classroom.

SUNNYSIDE-UNDERWOOD

The Ladies Bible study group met Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Wilma Waybright. Scripture reading was in second Chronicles in connection with the lesson in second Kings, which was taught by Jane Kope. The opening prayer was by Bessie Canan. Others attending were Elaine Beckman and daughter, Amanda; Sybil Merrill, and Mildred Peterson.

Closing prayer was by Sybil Merrill and table grace was by Mrs. Canan, who will be hostess of next Thursday's meeting.

A jewelry demonstration was given November 5, in the home of Hazel Upole in Oakland. Those attending were Mrs. Upole's mother, Mrs. Ruth Cosner, Joyce and Carolyn Foster, Janet Wilt, Arlene Dilley, Marian Friend, Linda Spink and daughter, Amanda; Hazel White, Elaine Beckman and daughters, Vicki and Amanda. Ruth Thorpe, Della and Theresa Glaze. The demonstration was given by Norma Frazee and daughter for the "Helping Hands" group of Underwood.

The wedding of Rebecca Starr Skipper and Kevin Arbogast was attended in the Fairview Church in Location by a capacity crowd. The new Mrs. Arbogast is the daughter of Pastor Iris Skipper and the late Leo Skipper. The reception which followed was held in the fire hall in Aurora, W. Va.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Canan and family were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Sibre Skipper.

Savings Bonds Semiannual Rate Set At 7.17%

The semiannual market-based interest rate for United States Savings Bonds, in effect from November 1987 through April 1988, has been set at 7.17 percent, the Treasury Department announced last week. The rate is 85 percent of the average market yield on five-year Treasury marketable securities during the preceding six months, 8.44 percent.

Bonds must be held five years or longer to receive market-based rates. Series E Bonds, Savings Notes, and Series EE Bonds issued through April 30, 1983, begin receiving market-based yields — retroactive five years — as they reach their semiannual interest dates on and after November 1, 1987. The yield on these Bonds, held through the first five years of the market-based interest program, is 8.75 percent.

Yields at redemption are the average of semiannual market-based rates during the time held rounded to the nearest quarter percent and compounded semiannually, or a minimum rate — whichever is greater. The current minimum rate is six percent. EE Bonds held less than five years earn interest on a fixed rate, graduated scale.

Savings Bonds semiannual rates are changed each May 1 and November 1 to reflect market activity during the preceding six months. The last semiannual rate, in effect from May through October 1987, was 5.84 percent.

As of September 30, the value of Savings Bonds held by Americans was $98.5 billion, the most ever.

Consumers may call toll-free for current rate and other information, 1-800-US BONDS.

GRANTSVILLE NEWS

WOW News

The Woodmen of the World Lodge No. 41, Grantsville, held the dedication of the new hall on Sunday afternoon with a large attendance. All officers of Lodge No. 41 took part. Ronald Ford, State Manager, was the dedication officer.

Walter Younkin read the objectives of Woodcraft. Rose Lee Folk played the piano.

The hall will be used by members of Lodge No. 41 and Unit 128 for various activities, with the proper supervision of the trustees or officers in charge.

Among those in attendance were persons from Dunkirk, Hagerstown, Cumberland, Oakland and the Grantsville area. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bender, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Younkin and Janet Wable attended the Awards Banquet at Bittinger.

Walk for Freedom

The Walk for Freedom of the Vietnam Veterans and Nurses arrived in Grantsville Friday afternoon, at the Grantsville Fire Hall. The GVFD Ladies Auxiliary served them dinner and they stayed in the fire hall all night.

On Saturday morning the Ladies Auxiliary and men from the American Legion served them breakfast. The food for the breakfast was donated by Grantsville Foodland and the Hill Top Fruit Market. Following breakfast they resumed their walk, with their next stop slated in Cresaptown.

TRACKING NEW DEVELOPMENTS

The advances in hearing aid technology of the past two decades is nothing short of amazing. Hearing aids can amplify a broad range of frequencies or just the ones that have been lost. Others will control recruitment (a disproportionate increase in the sensation of loudness) so that when sound gets louder, it will automatically cut out a certain level. Some devices with directional microphones eliminate background noises. Still others build up just those frequencies where speech intelligibility is critical. There are devices that have microphones on both sides of the head, causing the sound to swing from one side to the other, wherever the nerve may be better. With all the developments in the research laboratories, hearing aid wearers should stay in touch with their dispenser to learn when something better has appeared.

The latest in technology is available to you at ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES. For the current user as well as those seeking assistance for the first time, we offer the choices of hearing assist devices suited to your particular needs. For the joys and comfort of improved hearing, come to ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES.

In essence, hearing aids began with the invention of the telephone.

Final Tally From Maryland Tax Amnesty Program Over $34 Million

Maryland's Tax Amnesty collected $34,248,608 from more than 17,500 individuals and businesses, and added hundreds of new accounts to the state's tax rolls, Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced at a Baltimore press conference held November 10.

About 45% of the total was brought to Amnesty offices on the final day, November 2nd, or arrived by mail with a November 2nd postmark. The pattern of receipts was as predicted by state officials.

"The last taxpayer to claim Amnesty in person in Annapolis arrived ten minutes before the deadline and paid $51,000." In Baltimore, the last taxpayer showed up at the stroke of midnight in a taxicab. She first went to the I.R.S. office, but the driver realized her mistake, and gave her a ride to our office at 301 West Preston at no charge," Goldstein said. "That's the only Amnesty taxpayer we know of to get a free ride."

"The mail was very heavy after the deadline, and we've been working extra hours in the evening and on weekends to catch up. Amnesty returns came from as far away as Alaska, Hawaii, Guam and even Spain," he said.

The comptroller noted that nearly 3,000 businesses paid more than $19.5 million during the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to pay back taxes and interest without penalty, while approximately 15,000 individuals paid nearly $15 million.

The Department of Natural Resources collected $1,096,466 in boat excise tax from the owners of 463 vessels.

"Of the total amount collected, about $24,657,748 million will be deposited in Maryland's general fund and approximately $4.0 million will be distributed to the subdivisions, based on revenues from the local piggyback income tax and admissions and amusement tax," he said.

"The Maryland Department of Transportation will receive $3.5 million and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources will retain the nearly $1.1 million in boat excise tax revenue they brought in, which will be earmarked for the Waterways Improvement Fund," the comptroller added.

Goldstein noted that a 20-cent payment on a sales tax obligation was the smallest Amnesty payment, while the largest amount submitted by an individual totaled $630,336 for a three-year income tax liability. The $2.6 million paid in corporation income taxes by an out-of-state firm was the largest Amnesty payment overall. The oldest liability resolved during Amnesty by an individual appeared to be an individual income tax obligation dating back to 1949, the comptroller stated.

Goldstein attributed the success of the Tax Amnesty Program to the cooperation provided by the media, the Image Dynamics advertising agency of Baltimore, Governor Schaefer and the General Assembly, and the dedicated teamwork of state employees in the State Comptroller's Office and Department of Natural Resources.

"Despite the demands of the two-month campaign, everyone pitched in to get the job done," Goldstein said. "I traveled throughout Maryland to promote Tax Amnesty and I can tell you that many of those visiting our offices felt a real sense of religious revival," he added.

Some of that feeling was evident in the mail. One taxpayer mailed in original returns for 1961 and 1962 and answered the question "Did you file a return last year?" on the form by writing, "No — reason: pure neglect." On the second form, he wrote, "No — and it's been a burden on my 77-plus years."

"So we know the taxpayers were happy with Tax Amnesty," Goldstein said. The largest total Amnesty revenue came from Montgomery County, where businesses and individuals paid nearly $5.5 million in delinquent taxes. Other large totals included Baltimore County ($3.3 million), Prince George's County ($3.0 million), Baltimore City ($2.9 million), Anne Arundel County ($1.9 million) and Washington, D.C. ($1.5 million). Other out of state taxpayers contributed $9.9 million.

Garrett County will receive $4,296 from the Tax Amnesty program.

Gov. Schaefer May Be Contacted On TV Program

Marylanders will have a chance to talk directly to Governor William Donald Schaefer as he prepares next year's budget for the state when Maryland Public Television (MPT) — TV 22, 28, 31, 36 (Oakland), 62 and 67 broadcasts its fifth electronic town meeting Monday, November 16, at 7 p.m.

"Ask Governor Schaefer" will give viewers an opportunity to talk directly to the Governor as he develops a spending plan and legislative package to submit to the 1988 General Assembly. The Governor's appearance on MPT is especially timely, since many "pocket-book issues" are now being decided.

Governor Schaefer has already announced that he will include measures in the next legislative session to facilitate construction of new state prisons, restructuring of the governance of higher education and liability insurance reform. The Governor will also have final say over possible changes in the Critical Area Law that controls development along the banks of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

The two-way television special will feature a live on-location remote from Mount Hebron High School in Ellicott City; phone lines will be operating one-hour before the program to take viewer questions. The number viewers can call is 1-800-223-3MPT.

Seasoned journalist Dave Durian, MPT's new public affairs host, will moderate this one-hour special, assisted by several in-studio political reporters. Questions not answered on the air will be logged and answered by the Governor's staff.

Other issues facing state government include the end of the tax amnesty program, distribution of the state budget surplus, how to proceed with the Ocean City beach restoration plan, recent developments in the fight to bring the National Football League back to Baltimore and the coming change in leadership in Baltimore City.

MPT President Raymond K.K. Ho said, "The electronic town meetings are part of MPT's continuing effort to bring government closer to the people." He noted that these programs have given viewers access to Maryland policy-makers Governor Schaefer, Senator Mikulski and State Superintendent of Schools David Hornbeck. "Viewer response to these 'live' meetings has been overwhelming, resulting in hundreds of calls by interested Marylanders," Ho said.

"Ask Governor Schaefer" is produced by MPT's news division. Everett Marshburn is executive producer and John Grassie is producer.

DAY CARE PROVIDERS GATHER — The second meeting of the Garrett County Day Care Providers Association was held at Garrett Community College on November 3. The guest speaker was Billie Gilpin who outlined the Child Care Food Program. The next meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, December 2, at 7 p.m. at GCC. The guest speaker will be Darlene Giotfelly from H&R Block, who will discuss tax preparation for day care providers. Pictured, front row, left to right, are: Debi Spear, Cathy Case, Elizabeth Hart, Social Services representative; Dean Wilson, president; Paula Seaman, vice president; Debbie Workman, secretary/treasurer; and Mrs. Gilpin, guest speaker; second row, same order, are: Wendy Warnick, Susan Hughes, B.J. Miller, Davindra Magoon, Cathy Serbia and Sharon Yoder.

Christmas Stamps Available By Phone

The Postal Service has announced that Christmas stamps are now available through the new "Stamps By Phone" program being tested in Baltimore.

The contemporary and traditional Christmas stamps can be ordered by dialing 1-800-STAMP-24 and using a VISA or MasterCard for payment. "It's a great way to beat the holiday rush at the post office," says Field Division General Manager/Postmaster James A. McDougald.

The contemporary stamp features red, blue and gold glass balls hanging from the limb of a Christmas pine. This year's traditional stamp is based on the painting "A Gentleman in Adoration Before the Madonna," by Giovanni Battista Moroni.

Customers can also order First-Class and Express Mail stamps via Stamps by Phone. There is a $2.00 service fee and a minimum order of $11.00 is required.

Mrs. Annie E. Shaffer, 70, Aurora, W.Va., died Sunday, November 8, at her residence. Born in Crellin, she was a daughter of the late Joseph and Matilda (Rumer) O'Haver.

Mrs. Shaffer attended the Underwood United Brethren in Christ Church, Oakland. She was an accomplished musician, playing the piano, accordion, banjo, organ, guitar and ukulele. She was a judge of the fiddle contest at the Elkins (W.Va.) Forest Festival.

She was preceded in death by her husband, Harold H. Shaffer.

Surviving are three daughters, Ellen C. Bowman, Barbara A. Fike and Mickie E. Elliott, all of Brookside, W.Va.; four sons, Walter D. Shaffer, Lonnie N. Shaffer and Bennie G. Shaffer, all of Brookside; and Robert F. Shaffer, Horse Shoe Run, W.Va.; two sisters, Thelma Giotfletty, Hutton; and Helen King, Arcadia, Fla.; 11 grandchildren, one step-grandchild and four great-grandchildren.

Friends were received in the Stewart Funeral Home, Oakland.

A service was conducted Tuesday in the Underwood United Brethren in Christ Church by the Rev. Donald Matthews. Interment was in the Mount Carmel Cemetery, Aurora.

Memorials may be directed to the family.

JOHN CALVIN GOLDEN

John Calvin Golden III, 14, Hampstead, was killed instantly Saturday, November 7, in a head-on collision on State Route 7, just north of the Westminster city limits.

State Police at Westminster said the boy was a passenger in a car driven by a neighbor, Gary Caudrill, 20, also of Hampstead.

Caudrill and the other driver involved in the accident, Ralph Bennett Walter, Jr., 45, Taneytown, were injured and transported to University Hospital, Baltimore.

Born in Daytona Beach, Fla., young Golden was a son of John Calvin Golden II and Celeste L. (Osbourne) Golden.

He was a ninth grade student at North Carroll High School and played right field in the North Carroll Babe Ruth League. He was a member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Hampstead.

Besides his parents, survivors include a brother and a sister, Jared Raymond Golden and Malia Ann Golden, both at home; his maternal grandparents, Raymond R. and Josephine T. Osbourne, Cumberland, and his paternal grandmother, Helen Mae Golden, Grantsville.

Friends were received in the Pritts Funeral Home and Chapel, Westminster. A service was held Tuesday in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Hampstead, by Bishop L. Carey Bolster.

Interment was in Leister's Church Cemetery, Westminster.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to MADD, Box 20336, Towson, Md., 21204.

Local Chapter Of NSDAR Meets: Pins Presented

Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution, met recently at the Bethel United Methodist Church, Mtn. Lake Park. Regent Mrs. Richard Sherwood presided.

The President General's message was given by Regent Sherwood. Interpretations of the resolutions adopted by the NSDAR Continental Congress were presented by Mrs. Charles Thomas, who also spoke on national defense.

Miniature American flags will be distributed to the local nursing homes in observance of Veteran's Day, November 11. Information on the American History Essay Contest has been distributed to the local schools. Mrs. Willard Hayden may be contacted for more information.

In honor and recognition of those who have served as past regents of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, and in honor of the Chapter's 20th Birthday Anniversary, Mrs. James Hutchinson, vice-regent, presented past regent pins to the following: Mrs. Paul Calderwood, founding regent, 1967-1971; Mrs. Edward Kovach, 1971-1974 and 1980-1982; Mrs. Lewis Jones, 1974-1976; Mrs. Lindsay Gonder, 1976-1978; Mrs. Robert Ruckert, 1978-1980; and Mrs. Luther Parrack, 1982-1984. Mrs. Calderwood was recognized for 45 years of NSDAR membership. Mrs. Kovach, 44 years, and Mrs. Stanley McGuire, 50 years.

Special guests, Mrs. George Williams Jr., State Librarian from Millers, and State Organizing Secretary, Mrs. Lowell Seim, Rockville, presented the slide program on the NSDAR Library in Washington, D.C. Thank-you gifts of Garrett County maple syrup and American flag pins were given them. Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Seim were overnight guests of Mrs. Paul Calderwood.

Other members in attendance were Mrs. Leo Helbig, Mrs. Edna Lewis, Mrs. Charles McIntyre, Mrs. Eugene Nordeck, Mrs. Robert Lohr, Mrs. Hugh Echard, Mrs. James Quinet, Mrs. Gerald Durst, Mrs. Thomas Browning, Mrs. Charles Briner, Mrs. Ralph Lee, Mrs. Robert Zeller, Mrs. William Naylor, Mrs. Willard Hayden, Mrs. Randall Kahl, Mrs. Carlton Bowser, Mrs. George Porter, Mrs. Roger DeWitt, and Mrs. Lindsay Gonder.

The next meeting will be Monday, November 16, at Bethel United Methodist Church at 7:30 p.m. Milton Proudfoot, re-enactor and noted expert in the ways of mountaineers, will be the featured speaker. Hostesses will be Mrs. James Quinet, Mrs. William Hesen, Mrs. John Reckner and Mrs. James Thomas.

Gabriele Urges Caution With Kerosene Heaters

The Maryland State Fire Marshal's Office is concerned with the number of fires in the state attributed to kerosene space heaters. Maryland Fire Marshal Rocco J. Gabriele stated that during 1986 there were 196 kerosene heater fire incidents in the state. These fires resulted in $1,391,291 in property damage, killed six people and injured 29 others.

Kerosene heaters are designed to be safe, but occasionally they malfunction and, if used improperly, can result in serious fires, he said. Recently, two young children died in a home fire in Southern Maryland as a result of a kerosene heater.

Gabriele reminds all Marylanders that portable kerosene space heaters are allowed only in single family dwellings. They are banned from use in apartments, hotels, motels and other multi-family occupancies. Additionally, in Baltimore City portable kerosene space heaters are not allowed for use in any dwelling.

In an effort to reduce fires and burn injuries, Gabriele offers the following safety tips for persons who use portable kerosene space heaters:

—Heaters should be used only in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions and in a well ventilated room.

—Heaters should not be left burning unattended. Extinguish the heater if you leave the room or area for more than a few minutes.

—Remember to use only the correct fuel in the heater. Gasoline and other flammable liquids must never be used in a kerosene heater. Only 1-K "clear" kerosene should be used in a kerosene heater.

—If there are children in the home, they should be taught never to touch or play with a portable kerosene space heater.

—If our citizens who use kerosene space heaters would simply use good common sense and follow the recommended safety precautions, the majority of our kerosene space heater fires could be eliminated," advised Gabriele.

For additional information on portable kerosene space heaters, citizens should contact their local fire prevention bureau or the State Fire Marshal's Office.

Holiday Caravan Slated Nov. 14-15 In Cumberland

Time is drawing near for GFWC LaVale Century Club's 27th Christmas Caravan, to be held November 14 and 15 with Saturday hours from 1 to 9 and Sunday hours from 1 to 6. Four area homes featured on the tour are: Mr. and Mrs. J. Galen Metzger, 520 National Highway, LaVale; Mr. and Mrs. Garland Whitacre, Gramlich Road, LaVale; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wittman, 203 Sunset Drive, Cumberland, and Mr. and Mrs. George Lapp Jr., Knob Road, Cumberland.

This year's theme "A Collective Christmas" refers to collections of the host families. Mrs. Lapp has a collection of teapots and teddy bears; the Metzgers have an antique cut glass collection, old Christmas cards dating from 1907, old Bibles with family records dating from 1834, and old toys;

Mrs. Whitacre has an array of antique pitchers and Victorian dishes; and the Wittmans have collected artifacts from their world travels, such as unique musical instruments, elephants, and Mexican accessories. Mrs. Wittman, an artist, will exhibit some of her paintings.

An added attraction at the Western Maryland Station Center is the "Kist Kindie Markt" where handmade ornaments and decorations will be offered to those who may want to add to their own collections. Musical entertainment by choral groups has been arranged and baked goods will be available from the Homemakers.

Tickets will be available at each caravan site at the appointed hours, as well as at Dove Crafts, Country Club Mall, Christmas Corner, National Highway, LaVale, The Gift Buggy, McCoole, Bouquet Boutique, Lonaconing, Nancy's Etc., Hunt Club Plaza, Short Gap, Crafts n' Things, LaVale Plaza and Allegany County Office of Tourism, Cumberland. Proceeds from this event support five scholarships to Allegany Community College and Frostburg State University. The historic Toll Gate House on National Highway, LaVale, also benefits because since 1966 it has been maintained by LaVale Century Club.

Donations are also given to several special causes for youth, elderly and the community at large.

NOTICE

There will be no gun hunting, bow hunting, fishing, trapping, or trespassing on the Interstate Lumber Company Property.

Violators will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. 33-121

Something To Think About

R. Mark Durst

NO HIDDEN COSTS

All of us have had the experience of opening a bill and being staggered by the amount. This is often because what we THOUGHT we were paying has been considerably augmented by "hidden costs," — taxes, service charges, surcharges, interest charges, etc.

The great majority of funeral directors adhere to a professional code of ethics which include provisions for seeing that this doesn't happen. In order to eliminate those hidden costs, you will find that these funeral directors are explicit about the costs of goods and services. In addition, once the family decides on the kind of service desired, the funeral director should provide a written document for the family to review and approve.

This should include a description of the service and the price. Any supplemental charges for merchandise or service should be listed. It should also make mention of any sums which the funeral director will advance on behalf of the family, e.g. news paper notice.

Grantsville Man Sentenced On Assault Charges

During Garrett County District Court proceedings last week, a young Grantsville man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail after he was found guilty, in a previous trial, of three counts of assault and one count of possession of fireworks.

Jay M. Miller, 19, was found guilty of the four counts and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Two additional counts of assault were not prosecuted because of plea agreements. Sentencing was then suspended and Miller was fined a total of $300 for the guilty verdicts. He was also placed on 12 months supervised probation.

The charges were filed by Maryland State Police officer, Tfc. R.C. Resh, following a June 28 incident, south of Grantsville, when Miller reportedly assisted in throwing and detonating an explosive device toward a camp site occupied by five persons. Detonation of the device, according to police reports, resulted in a four-foot area there being cleared of any vegetation. John R. Toston, public defender, represented Miller.

Eugene D. Kuykendall, 26, was found guilty, in two separate cases, of three counts of indecent exposure and pre-sentence investigations were ordered.

Two of the counts were a result of a July 20 incident at Curt's Corner, located on Rt. 495 at North Glade Road, when Kuykendall reportedly exposed himself to two women there. Tfc. R.M. Hershberger was the complainant in that case.

The third count was the result of another incident July 10 when Kuykendall, according to complainant John K. Sines, Oakland City Police chief, exposed himself in a public place along Dennett Road in Oakland.

Another case against Kuykendall was not prosecuted because of a plea agreement. In that case, he was charged with bawdyhouse prostitution after he reportedly, according to District Court records, attempted to procure a 19-year-old female for the purposes of lewdness in a July 20 incident along State Park Road. Complainant in that case was Sgt. R.E. Friend of the Maryland State Police. Robert E. Watson was the defending attorney.

THE OAKLAND CIVIC CLUB was recently commended for its outstanding achievements this year when state officers joined the local club for a luncheon meeting at the Will O' the Wisp. Marin Day, center, president of the Oakland Civic Club, introduced Katherine Mizell, left, president of the Maryland Federation of Women's Clubs; and Sara Lindsay, Western District president. The local club benefits many non-profit organizations and supports community projects. During the recent meeting, Dr. Mary I. Love, local historian, outlined the early history of the club, once known as the Mtn. Lake Park Civic Club.

William H. Collins, 19, Mtn. Lake Park, was found guilty of a felony theft and a pre-sentence investigation was ordered. Two charges of forging private documents were not prosecuted.

The charges were filed by Detective L.E. Gnegy, Garrett County Sheriff's Department, following incidents on October 5 and 6 when Collins withdrew $2,700 from the First United National Bank and Trust at the Thayer Center in Oakland. According to Gnegy, he did so by forging another person's name to a passbook savings account.

He then attempted to withdraw an additional $500 the following day using the same account but was informed that the account had been closed.

A pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Paul E. Ferguson, 20, McHenry, who was found guilty of wanton trespassing following an August 17 incident in Mtn. Lake Park.

According to the complainant, Deputy Russell Drenning, Ferguson was found climbing on the water tower at Kelly's Furniture and Appliance Store, owned by Michael Vance.

James A. Tasker, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was given 10 days probation before judgment after he was found guilty, in a previous trial, of two counts of theft, malicious destruction of property and unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. He was also fined a total of $200.

The charges stem from a July 5 incident in Oakland, when Tasker reportedly stole two walkie-talkies from Concrete General, Inc. He also reportedly stole a 1978 Ford pickup truck belonging to Glen Sines, Friendsville, temporarily depriving Sines of use of the vehicle. While in Tasker's possession, the truck was damaged.

A charge of felony theft, filed against Tyler V. Rouse, 41, Arlington, Va., was placed on the Stet Docket with the condition that Rouse make restitution of $1,035 to the complainant.

Terry W. Chapman, Oakland, filed the charge after, according to him, Rouse agreed to purchase a 1986 Yamaha all-terrain vehicle from him last February. Chapman stated that Rouse took the vehicle for a test drive and failed to return, giving him only $65 of the full payment. The ATV was valued at $1,550. Robert C. Hesen was the defending attorney.

Organ Recital Scheduled At Emmanuel Church

Emmanuel Lutheran Church at Bittering recently purchased, installed and dedicated a new Allen Digital Computer Organ. In celebration of this event, an organ recital of sacred music will be presented this Sunday, November 15, at 5 p.m. by McMahon-Schroeder Organ and Piano Company of Pittsburgh.

Robert G. Olsavick II will be the recitalist. He is minister of music of the Community Alliance Church of Butler, Pa., and had the honor of being chosen organist and music director of the annual National Conference of the Christian and Missionary Alliance held in Columbus, Ohio in 1982. He also recently filled the position of organist/recitalist for the Western Pa. District Conference of that denomination which convened in Indiana, Pa.

In addition to being an organist, Olsavick is an accomplished vocalist. His credits include several principal roles with the Cleveland and Pittsburgh Opera Companies and several dramatic leads with the John Kenley Players of Ohio. He holds a bachelor of music degree from Duquesne University and a master of fine arts degree from Carnegie Mellon University.

Among the works he will be performing at Emmanuel are Voluntary in D Major by Stanley; Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring, O Sacred Head Now Wounded, and Sheep May Safely Graze, by J.S. Bach; Trumpet Tune in D Major, by Jeremiah Clarke; A Mighty Fortress, by Luther (Arr. Diane Bish); and The Lord's Prayer, by Albert Hay Malotte.

The public is invited. A fellowship period will be held in the church social room immediately following the recital.

Christian Women's Club To Hold Luncheon Meeting

The Oakland Area Christian Women's Club will conduct a luncheon meeting Wednesday, November 18, beginning at 11:30 at Will O' the Wisp. Cost of the luncheon will be $5.50.

Sybilla Sharps, Oakland, will be presenting "Origins of the Laubach Way To Read" at the meeting. A special feature of the meeting will be a presentation by Barbara Zaharoff, member of the Garrett County Literacy Council.

A free nursery will be provided during the meeting. Reservations for the luncheon can be made by calling 387-9465.

What's Happening at

Spotlight On Scholarships

Garrett Community College has approximately 31 scholarships sponsored by local groups, businesses and individuals.

For the next several weeks GCC will issue press releases on current scholarship recipients.

Anyone interested in more information on scholarships may contact GCC Financial Aid Office at 387-6666.

Gail Lynne Aldridge, a sophomore at Garrett Community College, was selected to receive one of the women's volleyball scholarships for this year. This scholarship is awarded each year to outstanding players.

Miss Aldridge is a forestry major, who plans to transfer to West Virginia University and pursue a career as a forest ranger.

She is the daughter of Dale Lee and Linda Kay Aldridge, Ridgeley, W. Va.

Dawn Kight was recently chosen as the recipient of the Patience Grant Memorial Scholarship. The scholarship is sponsored by the Civic Club of Oakland. It was formed in memory of the late Patience Grant, a member of the club, to help local women return to college to complete their education.

Mrs. Kight is employed at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and is working toward a degree in nursing. She desires a career in a hospital intensive care unit.

Dawn resides in Deer Park with her husband, Doug. She is the daughter of Beryl Hanlin, Bayard, W. Va.

Karen Marie Frank, a sophomore at Garrett Community College, was chosen as a recipient of several scholarships this year. She has been awarded the Deep Creek Lion's "Stewart Jackson Memorial," the "B.O. Aiken Memorial" scholarship for education majors and a partial scholarship from C & P Telephone Company.

Miss Frank is a member of GCC's women's volleyball team and served as statistician for the men's basketball team. She plans to transfer to Frostburg State University next fall and major in elementary education.

Karen is the daughter of Nancy P. Frank, Accident and Paul S. Frank Jr., Aurora, Colo.

Loretta M. DeWitt has been selected as one of two recipients of the Aza Stanton Memorial Scholarship for art majors.

Mrs. DeWitt enjoys classes in oil painting and sculpture. She is also an active volunteer for many projects, including Special Olympics.

Loretta plans to pursue a career in Art Education so that she may "teach people to use art to enjoy life." She resides in Accident with her husband, Joe.

She was also the recipient of the Grantsville Business and Professional Women's Scholarship.

Continuing Ed. Classes Offered By Garrett CC

A variety of Continuing Education courses is now being offered by Garrett Community College. Persons desiring more information about the courses should call the Oakland Center of the college at 334-8266.

Two Basic Cardiac Life Support: CPR Training courses are being offered by the Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College. Each course will meet for three sessions between 6 and 9:15 p.m. as follows:

Course No. 1, November 17, 24, December 1, Oakland Center; and Course No. 2, December 8, 15 & 22, McHenry Campus.

CPR is emergency maintenance of heartbeat and respiration for an individual who is in cardiac arrest.

WORDSTAR IN THE OFFICE

A course entitled Utilization of WordStar in the Office is being offered by the Continuing Education Division beginning Wednesday, November 18. Sessions will be held each Wednesday from 6 to 9:15 p.m. at the Oakland Center of the College for 10 sessions.

This intermediate word processing course is designed to develop skills in record-keeping, tracking, mailing lists, base letters, protecting data and transfer of information. A prerequisite course is Word Processing I or demonstration of equivalent skills using WordStar.

GCC Bloodmobile Visit Yields 50 Pints Of Blood

A quota of 50 pints of blood was met for the first time in two years of Red Cross Bloodmobile visits to Garrett Community College, McHenry, on October 15, as 60 persons responded to the visit, 10 of whom were deferred for various reasons. There were 18 first-time donors.

Coordinating the project were Cissy VanSickle, Beverly Miller and Manning Smith, of the Student Services staff, and Lucy Burnett, R.N., of the local American Red Cross Chapter.

First-time donors included: Jennifer Arnett, Gary Bernard, Steve Brandlen, Susan Breen, Clyde Fike, Alex Flanagan, Leo Foreman, Chester Friend, Tina Friend, Robert Green, Lila Hebb, Patricia Helmick, Miranda Hicks, Gayle House, Cynthia Kisner, Scott Lohr, William Murray, Jeff Peck, Margie Pertetti, Ron Richter, Susie Smith, Judy Umstot, Jim Wiley and Paul Wilson.

Becoming a six-gallon donor at the visit was Mildred Shilke, Deer Park, while John Culp, McHenry, reached the four-gallon level.

Students, members of the GCC staff, and others who helped with the effort were: Valerie Dunithan, Cissy VanSickle, Mary Lou Buckley, Kathy Shannon, Steve Brandlen, Cynthia Kisner, Bev Miller and Kathy Carnes, all with registration; Cora Jane Stark and Brenda Kisner, recording temperatures and pulses; Beth Friend and Judy Umstot, medical technicians; Lucy Burnett, R.N., Cheryl Miller, R.N., and Wilma Minor, R.N., recording histories and

VETERANS PRESENT CHECK TO GCC FOR SCHOLARSHIP FUND — The Garrett County Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of America, Chapter 245, recently presented a check to Garrett Community College. The check, in the amount of $245, is to be added to the Coors Vietnam Veteran Scholarship fund, established by Lohr Distributors to help Vietnam vets and Vietnam era vets and their children pursue a college education. The local chapter is part of a nationwide organization sanctioned by U.S. Congress and the President for the well-being of the Vietnam veteran. The group acts as a support group and referral service for many aspects of the veteran's life such as educational benefits, and outreach counseling, according to Manning Smith, director of student services at GCC. Shown above is Jim Shipe, president of Chapter 245, presenting the check to Cissy VanSickle, financial aid director at GCC. Anyone desiring more information on the VVA should contact Shipe at 334-8330.

Garrett Community College Salutes Veterans November 11, 1987

You've Earned Them

Educational benefits are yours to compensate for the time you spend serving your country. They are to help you pursue the education that you might not otherwise have the resources to afford. In today's competitive and changing job market, a college degree is a valuable tool for a successful future. As a veteran you have provided yourself with a source to help pay the costs of going to college.

Remember, the Old Bill is scheduled to terminate December 31, 1989. If you have earned this benefit, use the benefits for retraining before that date.

The time is now! Take this opportunity to make the benefits you worked for — work for you — at Garrett Community College.

Use Them

GCC Offers:

- Certification of benefits.
- Benefits counseling.
- Tutorial service.
- Vocational rehabilitation.
- VA work-study.

Vietnam Vet's Scholarship
Coors Scholarship for Veterans or

Preston Has State Winners

At the 46th annual meeting of West Virginia Soil Conservation Districts held November 3 and 4 at Jackson's Mill, Roscoe and Ruth Teets of Eglon were selected as winners in the annual competition among farms. They were recently honored as winners of the Monongahela District in a banquet held in October at the Aurora United Methodist Church. Along with the plaque and recognition go a set of engraved watches, cash prizes and VCR tapes of the various entrant farms in the contest. They will be attending a meeting of national conservationists at Boston in August.

Attend Agway Meet

Mark and LaDeana Teets of Eglon, were Young Farmer guests of Agway, Inc., at its annual meeting held October 28-30 in Syracuse, N.Y., the company headquarters. Accompanying them to Syracuse was their fieldman, Clyde Marsteller, of Somerset. The Young Farmers were given a tour of the Agway Research Farms, attended a showing of all Agway products, attended banquets, business meetings and were entertained by the National Scottish Pipe and Drum Corps.

Personals

A group of members from the Gortner Union Church and Brookside Church of the Brethren went Sunday to Morgantown where they visited with and sang for Mrs. Zelda Snyder, a resident at the Morgan Manor Nursing Home. Ross and Naomi Teets of Aurora, visited Sunday in Bridgewater, Va., with Frank and Mary Crites, and while enroute home on Monday, visited with Lester and Frances Branner near Broadway. Dorothy and Jim Burroughs have returned to their home in Valparaiso, Fla., following a two-week visit at Eglon with her parents, Russell and Maude Feather.

Band Calendars

Aurora Band Boosters are currently preparing birthday calendars for 1987. Listings are $5 each and calendars are $2.00. A representative will call and persons are asked to have their listings and money ready (there will be no COD this year). The deadline for this effort is November 18 and those who are not contacted may call a band parent for further information.

Workday for Homemakers

The Eglon Extension Homemakers met at the Eglon Memorial Building on November 3, to begin work on crafts, such as stars, bird feeders and cross-stitch ornaments. In charge of the day's activities were Brenda Hartsell and Mary Rembold and assisting them were Ruth Teets, Avenell Parsons and Mildred Wilt.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon centered around Mexico, the theme for the day's lesson. Hostess for the day, Nina Layman, provided the beverage. The afternoon was spent completing the morning effort and in making wind lanterns. Because of the length of time required, the study of Mexico had to be postponed.

A brief report from Achievement Day was given by Nina Layman and Lillian Knotts who attended. Cook books were sold and yearbooks filled out. Rebecca Teets will serve as vice president for the coming year. Plans for serving the Mt. Lions Club on December 3 at the Memorial Building will be made by Linda Lewis, Mary Rembold, Avenell Parsons and Brenda Hartsell.

The December meeting will be in form of a covered dish supper for members and their families at the Maple Spring Church, December 1, at 7 p.m. There will be a gift exchange, at a $3.00 price limit, and men are to bring gifts for a man, ladies for a lady and children for a child. Plans for the entertainment will be made by Norma McCombs at 1 Rose Ina Harsh. A membership tea will be held at the Wesleyan United Methodist Church in Kingwood on November 9, at 7 p.m. Each attendee is asked to contribute $5. Four members are needed from each club to complete an economic survey being attempted by the West Virginia University and Cooperative Extension Service.

There were 13 members and two children present. In addition to the above mentioned, they were Sandra Hauser, Linda Lewis and Sara, Ruth Parks and Craig Rembold.

Buckwheat Cake, Sausage Supper

A buckwheat cake and sausage supper will be served at the Mt. Grove Community Building on November 14, sponsored by the Mt. Lions Club. Hours will be 4 until 8 p.m. and donations asked are $4.00 for adults and $2.00 for children under 12. Persons may have all the cakes they can eat, but extra sausage is 50¢ per cake.

Pioneer 4-H Dinner

Aurora Pioneer 4-H Club held a covered dish dinner and meeting on Saturday, November 7, in the Aurora Community Building, Preston County 4-H Extension Agent Conrad Arnold was present and spoke to the group on what 4-H has to offer on local, county, state and national levels. He also gave mention to the IFIE (International Foreign Youth Exchange) program.

The Aurora Pioneer Club welcomes new members. Any boy or girl in third grade or above in the Aurora area is invited to become a member. The club meets on the second Monday of each month. Those interested in enrolling, may contact Kitty Myers at 735-5718 or 735-5411 by November 16.

The next meeting of the club will be December 14 at the home of Opal Myers for a Christmas party and gift exchange at 7 p.m. Members are asked to bring food for the Preston Food Pantry.

Seniors Hear Quartet

There were 35 who signed the register at the November 7 meeting of the Union District Senior Citizens in the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building. The blessing for the 6:30 p.m. meal was asked by Charles Whetsell.

Prior to the meal, Linda Garletts, senior nurse, took blood pressure checks and gave flu shots to 39 of those present. Get-well cards were signed to be sent to Beulah Hardesty and Wade Hauser.

Glady's Lockhart led devotions reading from the book of Psalms and concluding with prayer. Beulah Dunbar read a Thanksgiving meditation.

Annie Ringer presented a quiz on fire safety. Ted Hardesty, president, was elected to represent Union District on the Preston County Board of Directors. Several members brought groceries for the Preston Food Pantry.

It was decided to have a ham and turkey Christmas dinner which will be December 5 at 6 p.m.

Entertainment was provided by a quartet from Kingwood composed of Tom Harriman, Charles "Bud" Whetsell, John and Joann Wills and accompanied by Linda Joyce.

Ruth Snyder dismissed the group with prayer.

United Methodist Women Meet Thursday evening, November 5, was the regular meeting of the Aurora United Methodist Women at the Memorial Building. Alma Snyder presented a program using "Thanksgiving" as her theme.

Presiding at the business session was president Ressie Conrad. Decisions were made to pay for subscriptions to "Response" and "New World Outlook" for vice president Betty Fint; to place meeting dates on the band calendar; to send $10 for a Christmas gift for the Compassionate child which they support; to send $25 each to the following: Charlie and Robin McCrum, Heart and Hand House, Home of the Carpent, Burlington Children's Home and to Hopemont for patient Christmas gifts.

A letter from Betty Rizer concerning the Northeastern Jurisdiction Methodist Meeting April 8-10 in Baltimore was read and concern for a charter bus expressed. A thank-you note from Connie Groves for serving the September Hopemont birthday party was read.

On November 19 there will be a congregational fellowship dinner for which the group will be expected to furnish the table service. The next meeting is planned for December 3 with a gift exchange and each member is also asked to bring finger foods for refreshments. There were 11 members present.

On Sunday, November 8, a lay leaders workshop held in Keyser was attended by Rev. Annabelle Childers, Ressie Conrad, Alma Snyder, Ruth Snyder, Ted Hardesty and Wilda Wilt.

Local Realty Participating In Special Campaign

A&A Realty/Better Homes and Gardens is participating in the national "Share our confidence in the American Dream of home ownership" campaign with over 530 Better Homes and Gardens member firms. The purpose of the campaign is to help answer consumer questions regarding local market conditions, housing availability in specific neighborhoods, mortgage options, and finding or financing their next homes.

According to Karen F. Spiker, president of A&A, reduced mortgage rates on primary homes make this an excellent time to invest in a home.

"The purchase of a home is one of the most important financial decisions a family ever makes. Being informed about such things as mortgage options and housing availability in specific neighborhoods can make the search for exactly the right home far more enjoyable," Spiker said.

A&A Realty has been a member of Better Homes and Gardens Real Estate Service since 1986. A nationwide network of more than 530 locally owned and operated firms, Better Homes and Gardens has more than 1,250 offices and over 25,000 sales associates. Subscribe to The Republican

Carey-Powell Couple To Wed

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Carey, Star Route, Frostburg, announce the engagement of their daughter, Susan Pearl, to Billy J. Powell Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Powell Sr., Lonaconing.

A May 28, 1988, wedding is being planned.

Catherine Bowser, Timothy Murphy Are Wed In Double-Ring Ceremony

Catherine Louise Bowser and Timothy Patrick Murphy were wed during a double-ring ceremony at St. John's Lutheran Church in Accident. The May 16 ceremony was performed by the Rev. Stephen Yelovich.

The bride was given away by her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Max Bowser, Accident. The groom is the son of Mrs. Patricia Lee Murphy, Dunkirk.

The wedding party included Rhonda Bach and Sherry Umbel, matrons of honor; Brenda and Anita Bowser, sisters of the bride, and Kathleen Murphy, sister of the groom, bridesmaids. The best men were Charles and Marty Deise; and Mike Register, Keith Mertz, and Harry Taylor were groomsmen. All are friends of the groom.

All of the gowns and headpieces, including the bride's gown, were made by Mary Sutton, the bride's aunt. The matrons of honor were attired in aqua taffeta gowns with lace Ciderella skirts. The bridesmaids were in pink taffeta with lace Ciderella skirts. Their hats were crocheted and decorated with ribbon and flowers. They all carried fans with pink and aqua roses and lilies of the valley.

The bride's gown was white satin with a lace top. The collar was a Queen Ann style with a cathedral-length train.

The groom, the best man, and the groomsmen wore gray tuxedos.

The organist was Mary Catherine Bach and Roy Denker was the vocalist.

A reception was held at the Grantsville Fire Hall, with the Grantsville Ladies Auxiliary serving a turkey dinner. A toast was given by Charles Deise and the prayer was offered by Roy Denker. The yellow cake with white frosting trimmed in pink flowers was made by Ruby Bowser, the bride's aunt.

The couple now resides in Stafford, Virginia, where the groom is an industrial engineer at Atlantic Research Company in Springfield, and the bride is a receptionist for Graebel/Potomac Movers, also located in Springfield.

Aurora-Egdon

World Community Day Celebrated
Church Women United for this area observed World Community Day Friday, November 6, at the Bethel United Methodist Church. A covered dish luncheon was followed by a program concerning "Sojourner for Justice" with a discussion led by Frances Roth.

Election of officers for the next year was held and Alma Snyder will serve as president, Rennie Conrad as vice president, and Grace Bachtel as secretary-treasurer.

Among The Ill
Wade Hauser was able to return to his Stemple Ridge home after being a patient last week in Garrett County Memorial Hospital for a few days.

John Judy of Horse Shoe Run was a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital last week undergoing tests.

Beulah Hardesty of Mt. Top is a patient in Garrett County Memorial Hospital where she was admitted the latter part of last week.

Kathleen Evans of Egdon, continues her recuperation from recent hip surgery in Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Also a patient in Cumberland at Memorial Hospital is Grace Roth of Horse Shoe Run who is reportedly doing well after hip surgery there last week.

Of Personal Interest
Gene and Thelma Simpson of Martins Ferry, Ohio, were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Mildred Wilt, at Egdon.

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spaid in Aurora this weekend was their daughter, Mrs. Nancy Sisler, and her family of Cranestown.

Norman and Ruby Feather of Egdon, visited in Baltimore this past weekend, with her mother and stepfather, Grace and Sal Giordano.

Mrs. Anna Feather was taken to the emergency room of Garrett County Memorial Hospital on Sunday, but returned home to Egdon.

Visiting with Mrs. Clayton Harsh and Robin Lipscomb at Aurora were Olive Beckman, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Starr and Viola McWilliams, all local; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Doolittle of Randolph, Ohio; Lois Coleman of Akron; Oran and Delores Harsh of Brunswick, Ohio; her brother, Wayne Kight, Michigan, and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Rembold, local. Lorain and Mary Jane Hanline were accompanied Sunday to a reception for the Grand Master of International Order of Odd Fellows of West Virginia at Weirton by Melvin and Dove Stemple, all of the Mt. Top area.

Deaths This Week
Two local families experienced this week the sudden death of a family member. Geneva Bachtel Junkins of Gnegy Church died Wednesday, November 4, after being flown to Pittsburgh earlier in the day. On Sunday morning, November 8, Mrs. Anna Shaffer, widow of the late Harold Shaffer, was found dead at her home at Brookside.

From Your Correspondent
Recuperation seems to go along very well and I am sure that a lot of the credit goes to the concern shown while I have been hospitalized and at home.

It is nice to know I have so very many friends. Mrs. Jean Winters

Whoo's News

by Loretta Wotring
Public Relations chairman

With the approaching holidays the Extension Homemakers are very busy. Many of us are working on the "Dressed Dolls" for the Rotary Club, giving demonstrations at various meetings and workshops, and starting Christmas projects for the local nursing homes. One such club that has done this faithfully is Loch Lynn. They are now working on felt boots and draw-string bags to give to the local elderly this Christmas. They will be finishing them and filling them with candy at next month's meeting. This club is very proud of their president, Mrs. Vella Imhoff, who has just completed the quilt block for the State Homemakers 50th Anniversary. The quilt block was designed by Kiyo Dolan of Swallow Falls Club. The Extension Service and the County Homemakers say, "Thank You, Kiyo and Vella!"

We also congratulate the Deer Park Homemakers on receiving the "Honoring Yesterday Award" from the State Convention meeting held at Blacksburg, Virginia, in July of 1986, for their 50 years of continuous service as a club. These gals meet once a month at the fire hall and are very active in the community as well as their club. Last month Leona DeWitt demonstrated "Fashion Trends for the Fall and Winter." Betty Thrasher, the club president, read a letter requesting $1.00 donation per member to be used for "Bucks for Bulbs" on the Oakland downtown Christmas tree. The group made turkeys with pipe cleaners and feathers to be used as refrigerator stick-ups. Meadow Glade Club was also busy last month learning from their guest, Lorraine Ledden, how to make braided rugs. This group reports having four members and one guest to attend Achievement Day.

OUT FOR AN AUTUMN TOUR — The Oakland Rotary Club chartered a bus on October 13 and took 33 residents of Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home on a two-hour tour to see the splendor of the fall season. The bus, which was driven by Richard Cropp and chartered through Garrett Bus Systems, traveled to Blackwater Falls State Park in Davis, W.Va. The residents were accompanied by Willard Elliott from the Rotary Club, Carol Steward, volunteer; Michelle Meale, dietitian from Cuppett and Weeks; Joyce Livengood, activity assistant; and Beckie Amfower, activity director. Pictured on the bus are volunteer Carol Steward (in the back); Grover Murphy, resident; and Joyce Livengood, activity assistant. Pictured below at Blackwater Falls are Blanche Frederick and Glenn Broadwater.

As you may know the Maryland Extension Service programs are open to all citizens without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age, or national origin. There are 19 clubs throughout the county and we all invite you to join us! Call the Extension Office, 334-1990, for more information.

Joining together is what homemakers do best. We proved that November 4 when the Garrett County Extension Homemakers held their 20th Annual Christmas Workshop. Attending the workshop at the Grantsville Fire Hall were 80 ladies. Of this total, 14 guests were from Garrett County and two clubs from Allegany County — Barton and Frostburg — were represented. The event was hosted by New Germany Homemakers Club. The highlight of the day was the mini-workshops with hands-on demonstrations of a Christmas ball, needlepoint tulip, and a lace-bear ornament. Kits were put together containing all the materials for that project and sold at a minimal cost to those

4-H News

MONTE VISTA 4-H CLUB

by Susan Goad, Reporter
At the November meeting of the Monte Vista 4-H Club, Richa and Rachna Magoon and Shannon Dabney opened the meeting with a demonstration on making cheese tortillas, which were later served as refreshments along with drink served by Kara Freyman and Kristi Harvey.

President Tara Wildesen called the meeting to order and Kara Freyman led the pledges. Roll was called with members stating "their favorite TV program." Susan Goad read the minutes of the previous meeting. Members were reminded that dues for the coming year should be paid by January.

A Christmas tea for mothers was discussed and further plans will be made at the December meeting. Elections were held with Lori Dodge announcing the following slate of officers who will begin to serve in January: Tara Wildesen, president; Ruth Evans, vice president; Kristi Harvey, treasurer; Susan Goad, secretary; Kara Freyman, photographer; Richa Magoon and Burnice Steuber, refreshments; Jennifer Barnard, Angela Comfort and Tammy Eisentrout, reporters; Michelle Callis, Sara Paugh, Rachna Magoon and Shannon Dabney, recreation.

Teresa Feather, former member and leader of the club gave a demonstration on bread making. She will be teaching a class on this subject beginning November 7 in the Extension Office from 1 to 3 p.m.

The Monte Vista 4-H Club invites new members. The club's programs are open to all youth without regard to race, color, sex, handicap, religion, age or national origin.

Correction Noted

In a photo caption on the front page of last week's issue of The Republican, it stated that Michael Steyer of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department was among the runners-up for the Garrett County Fireman's Association's Fireman of the Year award. It should have stated that Mr. Steyer represented the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department. We regret the error.

Yough River Local Advisory Board To Meet Tonight

The Youghiogheny River Local Advisory Board will meet tonight, November 12, at 7:30 p.m. in room 351 of Garrett Community College. On the agenda is the approval of the scope of work for the recreational capacity study and the approval of the wording for white water proposals. Recommendations for the remaining goals and objectives for the draft management plan will also be made.

MA BELL ALWAYS ANSWERS!

Imagine yourself at home alone, when, without warning, an emergency arises. You pick up the phone, dial "O" for the operator, and there is no answer. Or, imagine a worse scenario, you dial "O", and hear a stange voice say "I'm sorry but we are unable to answer your call right now. Please leave your name and phone number, and we'll call you back when we return!" Fortunately, we are not likely to experience such a situation.

But, let's change the cast of characters for a moment. Imagine that you are a home buyer who is moving into the city. You are prepared to purchase a home, have sufficient ready cash to make the purchase, and need to move into the home you choose within 45 days. When you arrive in town, you begin looking in the newspaper at the homes that are "For Sale". You pick out three homes which seem to have possibilities. Two of them are "For Sale

By Owner", and the third is offered by a local real estate company. You call the first number and no one answers. The second number yields a voice recording of a homeowner who promises to call back. At the third number, the real estate office, a pleasant voice offers not only complete information on the home you had circled in the paper, but offers to devote the day to locating other homes which meet your needs. You agree, and the outcome is your purchase of the home you've always wanted. Being available to buyers is but one of many services offered by a real estate professional.

If you're planning to sell your home soon and would like information on its current value, give us a call at 387-5303 or come by our office located at McHenry Plaza.

Governor Appoints Members To Md. Ag Commission

Governor William Donald Schaefer announced the appointment of three new members to serve on the Maryland Agricultural Commission. Bill Hanna, of Whiteford, and Richard Wilcke, of Jarrettsville, have each been appointed to serve "at-large" for a three-year term to expire in June 1990. Leon LaChance, of Salisbury, has been appointed to a three-year term to represent Maryland's poultry industry, filling the vacancy left by the retirement of Paul V. Twining Jr., former chairman of the Commission.

Twining, a prominent spokesman for Delmarva poultry interests, served as commissioner the maximum six years allowed by Maryland law. He received a Governor's Citation in appreciation for his "unstinting hard work and dedication to Maryland agriculture." Tom Mason and Wally Ewalt, retiring commissioners at-large, each received a Secretariat Citation from Secretary of Agriculture Wayne A. Cawley Jr., for their contributions to Maryland agriculture.

The Agricultural Commission serves as the advisory body to Maryland's Secretary of Agriculture on all matters pertaining to agriculture, and is representative of commodity groups within the agribusiness community.

"I am very grateful to all those who serve on the Ag Commission," said Secretary Cawley. "I want to express my appreciation and thanks to the retiring commissioners and welcome to new members. We are in the midst of challenging times," said Cawley, "and I value the expertise provided by the Ag Commission."

Drew Stabler, a grain farmer from Montgomery County, has been elected as the new chairman of the Commission, and poultry farmer Simpson Dunahoo, of Hebron in Wicomico County, is the new vice chairman.

Garrett Co. Fair Stockholders Hold Annual Dinner

The annual Garrett County Fair Stockholders dinner meeting was held November 5 at the Deer Park Fire Hall. President Gerald Gloflety welcomed the group and Claude Wagner Jr. gave the invocation. Wagner also led the group in silent prayer for two fair directors in the hospital, Dennis Margroff and Harley Brennenman.

After dinner a business meeting was conducted by the president, who thanked all those who worked to make the fair a success. Fair Manager Wagner spoke on the improvements made at the fairgrounds and a discussion was held on the subject by the stockholders.

President Gloflety stated that the fair board was saddened by the deaths of five directors, Allan S. Paugh, Walter DeBerry, Emma Gloflety, Lula Bell Shives, and Ira Yaste, over the last year.

A financial report was given by Treasurer Merrell Wilburn. An election of directors was held with the following to serve a term of four years: Claude Wagner Jr., Leslie Guard, Joyce Brennenman, Marvin Miller, and Robert Custer.

Three bond numbers were drawn for refunding. They were: number 74, Garrett National Bank; number 136, Allan Paugh Jr.; and number 32, First Federal Bank of Maryland.

Weeds With Triazine-Resistance Cause Problems For Growers

Many farmers remember when a pound of atrazine herbicide controlled all the weeds in a corn field.

Those days are gone, says Russ Hahn, Extension weed scientist, Cornell University. A new group of super weeds, resistant to triazine herbicides, has emerged as the number one pest problem facing farmers today, according to Hahn.

Over the past decade, triazine-resistant weeds have spread from corn fields throughout the Great Lake and Mid-Atlantic states. The broadleaf weeds lambsquarters and pigweed are most prevalent but at least one case of triazine-resistant velvetleaf has been confirmed in Maryland.

Documented infestations of triazine-resistant weeds cover an estimated 123,500-acre crop in Maryland alone. Resistant lambsquarters and/or pigweed also are found in 20 counties of New York and at least 20 counties of Pennsylvania. All counties of Delaware and 41 Virginia counties have recorded triazine-resistant broadleaf weeds.

Triazine-resistant weeds are probably present, without being documented, on many more farms, says Hahn. "Farmers must accept the fact that their weed control practices have to change in order to control triazine-resistant weeds," he says. "And once they implement a program that works, farmers must continue using the new program for several years."

The triazine family includes atrazine (Aatrex, Atranex, Griffex, Simanex); cyanazine (Bladex); and metribuzine (Sencor, Lexone).

"Prevention is the key to stopping the spread of triazine-resistant weeds," says Ron Ritter, Extension weed scientist, University of Maryland. "Triazine herbicides shouldn't be used year after year and weed escapes should be controlled through cultivation and herbicides having a different mode of action than the triazines."

Resistance to triazine herbicides develops through the genetic process of natural selection, explains Sandoz Crop Protection Product Development Specialist William O'Neal. "Triazine-resistant weed biotypes have always been present," says O'Neal. "They just didn't become numerous until herbicides killed off susceptible, non-resistant biotypes. Now weed species that were once susceptible to triazines at labeled rates can withstand 10 to 30 times recommended rates."

"Normally, triazine herbicides kill weeds by bonding to the plant's chloroplast membrane and preventing photosynthesis," O'Neal explains. "In resistant weeds, a chemical change in this membrane structure alters triazine bonding, so treated plants continue to grow."

Pesticide resistance is not a new phenomena. Many instances exist of insect and fungi developing resistance to commonly used chemicals. Today, 43 plant species worldwide are documented as resistant to triazine herbicides.

Court Decides In Favor Of Pioneer Hi-Bred Seeds

U.S. District Court Judge Donald O'Brien, in a decision handed down Friday, October 30, ruled in favor of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc. in its suit against Holden Foundation Seed Company of Williamsburg, Iowa, and Corn States Hybrid Service, Inc. of Des Moines, Iowa.

Pioneer originally filed suit in February, 1981, charging Holden with "unauthorized use" of a Pioneer-developed inbred. This inbred line was a parent of one or more popular Pioneer corn hybrids.

In the 108-page ruling, the court found that the defendants had violated the Lanham Act, possessed and used trade secrets which had been misappropriated from Pioneer, enriched themselves unjustly and interfered with Pioneer's business advantage. All counterclaims filed by the defendants were dismissed.

The ruling resolved the liability issue in the litigation. Additional discussion, including the possibility of trial, will be necessary to establish damages or other remedies. The decision is subject to appeal by Holden and Corn States.

At a press conference November 4, Thomas N. Urban, chairman and president of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., stated, "we're delighted that the court has reaffirmed our rights to the exclusive use of the products of our own breeding programs." He also said they were pleased that the court recognized and acknowledged the value of the chemical analyses, as well as the grow-outs, which were submitted as evidence in identifying the misappropriated breeding material.

"This is significant because the knowledge that this technology exists should forestall future 'adventurism' of a similar nature," he said. He added that, incidentally, even more sophisticated "fingerprinting" techniques are now available through biotechnology than those which were used in this case in 1985.

"Pioneer didn't sue to put Holden Foundation Seeds or anybody else out of business," Urban said. "Our primary objective was to call a halt to a practice that puts farmers at risk and might ultimately have a profound effect on all consumers."

"What was really at issue in this case was whether a private company which invests considerable sums of money in research to develop unique and, arguable, better products can recoup that investment in the marketplace."

If the answer to that question is no, he said, then research programs will dry up. "Pioneer, for example, invests approximately 50 million dollars a year in genetic research. We obviously couldn't afford to maintain that level of investment very long without the opportunity to recoup some of those costs through product sales," he said. Urban also explained that if another company is able to sell those same or very similar products without incurring the costs to develop those products, then the research company is at a decided disadvantage.

"It takes us eight to 10 years to develop a new corn hybrid. If another company can misappropriate proprietary breeding material and sell a similar product one or two years after the release of the original, research stops," he said.

The company president says that, of course, the research company would probably be the first to lose in that kind of a situation, but the real loser will be the farmer and ultimately, the consumer. "Without the research investment," he said, "new and better products stop coming. In the case of Pioneer, it's the farmer who will feel it first; but down the road, it's the ultimate consumer — everybody who eats, basically — who picks up the tab in the form of higher prices."

Livestock Slaughter Up Significantly

Commercial red meat production in Maryland and Delaware for the month of September totaled 6.3 million pounds, up 19 percent from August and up 24 percent from September 1986. Total live-weight of cattle slaughtered was down five percent at 5.2 million pounds. Calf live-weight slaughtered was down 35 percent at 780,000 pounds. Sheep and lamb live-weight slaughtered was down six percent at 189,000 pounds. Hog live-weight slaughtered was up 283 percent at 3.6 million pounds.

Commercial red meat production for the United States in September totaled 3.33 billion pounds, up two percent from September 1986. January-September red meat production, at 28.3 billion pounds, was down three percent from last year.

Deere & Company Presents Series On Tillage Practices

Tillage systems, their cost, their performance, fertilizers needed, and the results of new research, are some of the topics in this series of articles on tillage printed by Deere & Company of Moline, Ill. Gordon D. Tjelmeland, agricultural product information specialist with Deere & Company, says that misconceptions persist about tillage and agricultural chemical practices, and that the most current data has shed new light on the matter. In printing the series of articles, Tjelmeland says, Deere & Company hopes to provide sensible, balanced, straightforward information that people can put to good use.

The following is the second in a series of six articles from Deere & Company scientists and technicians.

CHANGING TILLAGE SYSTEMS: WHAT DOES IT REALLY COST?

Conservation tillage should pay its own way. That's the message Deere & Company soil scientists are getting from farmers these days. Simple enough, but reaching that economic goal is a little tougher, farmers have found.

"The first step in making a judgment is to know your current tillage costs," says Dr. Lyle Stephens of the Deere Technical Center in Moline, Ill. "Then you can compare costs point-by-point. You might be surprised."

"There's a tendency to believe that conventional tillage costs more than it really does," Stephens says. "In both reduced and conventional systems, tillage usually costs less than 25 percent of the overall expense of owning and operating farm machinery. Conventional tillage on a midwestern corn/soybean farm typically runs between $10 and $16 per acre."

Conventional tillage today requires fewer passes than in the past. It is not uncommon in some areas to see farmers follow right behind the combine with a high-clearance moldboard plow, then use only one secondary tillage pass in the spring before planting. Twenty years ago, working the soil to a similar condition took up to five passes.

To figure your real tillage costs, Stephens says, start by compiling an accurate listing of all expenses involved in getting the soil ready for planting, including weed and insect control, fertilization and seedbed preparation. All of these expenses are interrelated; they can go up or down when you change tillage practices.

"Some costs associated with changing tillage systems aren't readily apparent," Stephens explains. "What you might save with fewer tillage trips can quickly be offset by an increase in chemicals needed for weed control, or lost profits because of inefficient fertilizer utilization."

"If you're strict about no-till, you won't shank-in anhydrous ammonia before planting. But since other forms of nitrogen are more expensive, this can add $13 to $19 per acre to the cost of a crop, using 150 pounds of nitrogen per acre."

Dr. Richard Johnson, a Deere & Company agronomist, adds: "Most farmers know their costs of purchased inputs, but are less sure about the costs of individual tillage operations. Herbicide costs for clean and reduced tillage systems are often similar. No-till systems generally involve more expensive herbicides. Trade-offs exist among chemicals. For example, some herbicides that require incorporation are less costly than those that don't."

Johnson recommends figuring total costs on a per-acre basis, not just cash costs per acre. "Cash cost comparisons can be misleading," he warns. Total cost per acre would include associated operations such as pest control.

One way to start, without detailed records of operations, is by using machinery cost estimates made by state universities or local farm management groups.

"But don't just accept their information blindly," Johnson says. "Find out the exact basis and formulas used to calculate their published cost estimates. Methods can vary tremendously and so can the applicability of the information. Costs for a given machine operation will vary depending on factors such as annual hours of machine use, tillage speed and depth, soil condition, or field size."

"I see too many tillage machinery cost estimates that have not kept pace with changes in technology. Today's farm machinery lasts longer, covers more acres between repairs and gets more done per hour. I've seen some published tillage budgets that overestimate fuel, lubrication, repair and maintenance costs by as much as 100 percent," Johnson says.

There's more potential for pest and plant disease problems when more residue is left on the soil surface, so Johnson says it's important to consider the costs of controlling those problems when exploring alternate tillage techniques.

"If a greatly reduced tillage system or no-till permits you to double-crop, or profitably farm land that would otherwise be erosion-prone, it probably pays. Otherwise, be cautious. Do your cost calculations carefully. There is more to changing tillage systems than simply eliminating a trip or two across your fields," Johnson says.

"Don't get locked in on a system that requires you to do things only one way. Flexibility in tillage helps reduce risks by allowing you to adjust to weather changes, soil conditions between fields, or future cropping patterns."

"If you can find a more efficient tillage system that has the capability to produce high yields while keeping costs within range of conventional tillage, you've probably got a winner."

Barley and rye were 90 percent planted, equal to the average. The overall condition of small grains was good.

The harvest of apples was 98 percent completed, the same as normal. The supply of hay ranged from adequate to short, mostly adequate. Pasture remained in good condition for this time of year.

Weather for the week ended October 30 was cool with one day of rain. Temperatures averaged 48.1 degrees, 3.1 degrees below the normal 51.2 degree normal for the week.

Low temperatures were mostly in the upper 20s to low 30s except high teens in extreme Western Maryland. High temperatures reached into the high 60s to low 70s. Precipitation averaged 1.13 inches for the week, with most areas receiving some rainfall. Precipitation totals for the week ranged from a low of 0.19 inches at Oakland to a high of 2.46 inches at Snow Hill.

Harvest Continues Despite Precipitation

The precipitation received during the week ended November 1 did not significantly slow the fall harvest in Maryland. There was an average of 5.8 days suitable for fieldwork, according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Topsoil and subsoil moisture was short to adequate overall, with most of the shortages in Southern Maryland and the middle eastern shore counties.

Corn was 100 percent mature, but had ripened slightly behind the normal pace. The corn for grain harvest was 95 percent completed, 10 percent ahead of normal. Corn remaining in the field was in fair condition. Corn silage was virtually all cut, equal to the normal pace.

Soybeans continued to average in poor to fair condition. Soybeans were 100 percent turning color, slightly behind the average pace and 99 percent shedding leaves. Fifty percent of the soybeans were harvested, 10 percent ahead of normal.

Fall planting of winter wheat was 75 percent completed, five percent ahead of normal.

Farm Toys:

As Popular With Collectors Today As They've Always Been With Children

by Bernice Kepple

Do you remember your favorite toy? I do! Although I had lots of dolls when I was a "little girl," my favorite toy was a model farm tractor "just like Daddy's."

Model farm tractors are still favorites of children everywhere. But, children aren't the only ones who enjoy owning them. Roy, Glenda and Bob Shultz, of Meyersdale, Pa., began collecting farm toys about 25 years ago when Bob was about five years old. Bob still has one of his first toy tractors — a Cockshutt. A little "worse for wear," that Cockshutt sustained some structural damage during the years that

Bob played with it, including a broken front axle. Bob has plans to refinish it someday, however, with replacement parts and a new paint job. Bob considers himself lucky to have found another Cockshutt exactly like his old one at a toy show and sale, and now has both a "before and after" in his collection.

In the last five years, the family's collection has really grown, and now John Deere, International, Oliver, Cockshutt, Ford and some steam models are among the 800 pieces in the collection. There are also quite a few pieces of construction equipment that the family has collected in the past few years.

Toy tractors and equipment come in several scale-model sizes — 1/64, 1/43, 1/32, 1/16, and 1/12. Bob explains that some collectors attempt to obtain the same model in each scale size for their collections. Many of these collectibles were sold only by machinery dealers, and were made by toy companies of the day. The Ertl Company has produced many models and is still in the business, with models of both new and old tractors coming on the market all of the time.

Many of these new models are made as commemoratives, such as the Canadian show tractor purchased by the Shultzes. For that purchase, their name was engraved on a plaque at the National Toy Museum in Dyersville, Iowa.

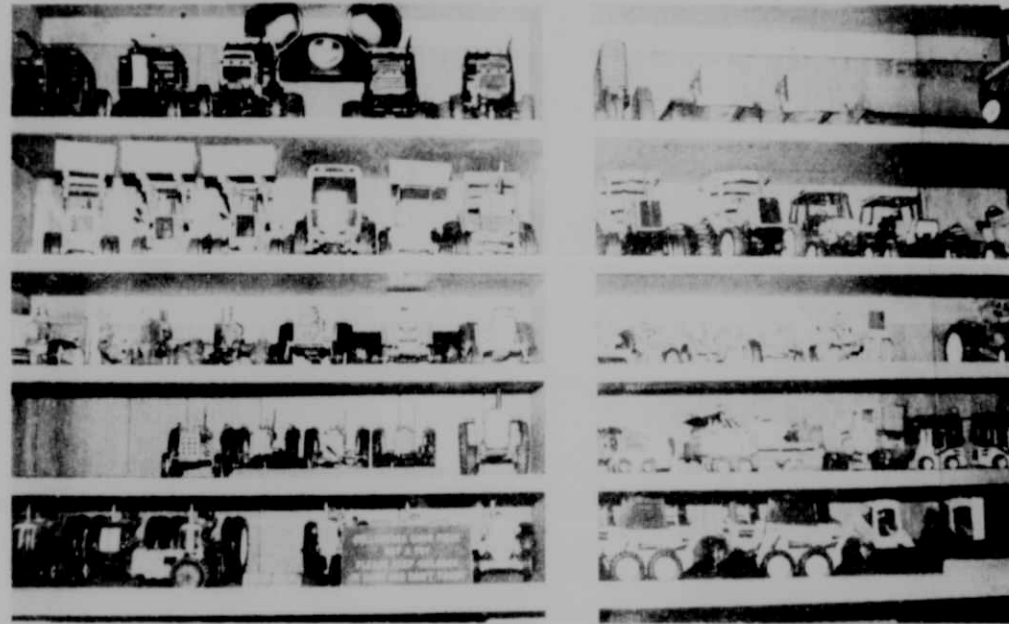

Roy is responsible for many of the steam models in the collection. Several of those were purchased by him at an auction in Loch Lynn. "When I walked into that house and saw them, I knew I was going to take them home with me," he said. He ended up bidding against an antique dealer, however, but believes he still got a good deal on the steam models at $25 each. Roy also collects delivery truck banks, which is a nice addition to the collection.

The value of these model tractors is increasing all the time. Models purchased for $6 to $12 in the late 1960s may now be worth $100, unless they've served time in the sand box. Some of the more rare models may be worth as much as $400 to $500. Coincidentally, the original boxes the tractors came in are often worth as much as the models. As an example, Bob recalled a model post hole digger, in its original box, which was made in 1962 by Hubby of Lancaster, Pa. The price marked on the box was 65 cents. Bob purchased it from a dealer in Washington state at a cost of $95. Recently, he saw a similar model sold at auction which brought $200.

Also in the Shultz collection are two children's books, in mint condition, which were distributed by John Deere dealers in 1958. One of the books, "Corny Cornpicker Finds A Home," is currently valued at $75; while the other, "Johnny Tractor," is now valued at $80.

Many model tractors are customized and some are built from scratch. Even mass-produced models from the past were made from many different materials, such as the model Allis Chalmers in the Shultz collection which came from England made from a resin compound. Many of the older models are cast iron, some being die cast and some sand cast.

"Many of the older toys are becoming hard to find," says Glenda. "Those of the 1940s that were made out of plastic are especially hard to come by. These were farm toys made during and right after World War II."

Glenda says that there are many books written about farm toys and implements that are very informative. Three monthly publications keep collectors up to date on all the latest models, prices, and happenings.

Spring, summer and fall weekends usually find the Shultzes at farm toy shows in the east and mid-west. Some regularly attended are in Lancaster, Pa.; Lafayette, Indiana; Frederick, Md.; and Bridgewater, W.Va. Shows are also held in the south, far west and Canada. "Many friends have been made from all over the United States and England," Glenda says. Bob says, "We meet folks from all walks of life. We've met collectors who are college deans, one who works for the United States Department of Agriculture, one who is in the Coast Guard, and many, many farmers."

A national show is held each November in Dyersville, Iowa, with thousands attending to buy, sell and show their toys. Like the Shultzes, most of those involved are entire families.

For the first time ever, a farm toy show and sale will be held in the tri-state area. Sponsored by the Penn-Jersey Farm Equipment Dealers in conjunction with the Penn-Jersey Farm Equipment Dealers Convention, the show and sale will take place this Sunday, November 15, at Seven Springs Resort in Somerset County, Pa. For a small admission, thousands of farm related toys can be seen — some can be bought.

In addition to their model collection, the Shultzes also own a collection of 20 full-size antique tractors, some restored and some to be restored as time permits. Roy recalls growing up with a UC Allis Chalmers row-crop tractor his family used on a threshing machine. He owned that tractor until moving to his current home, then traded it for one with a snow plow. After beginning to collect farm machinery, he tried to find the US AC again, but had to settle for one just like it.

The Shultzes dream of getting into the toy making business themselves, and the future looks pretty bright for that dream. Presently, Bob is working on the prototype of a model "green" L tractor which he will be able to reproduce for sale in the future.

The Shultzes have their collection on display for those who are interested in farm toys. "We do it just for the fun of it," they all agree.

October Weather Summary Shows Below Normal Temperatures And Precipitation

October in Maryland was cool and dry. Temperatures averaged five degrees below normal and precipitation was 0.92 inches below normal. Almost one-half of the month's precipitation fell on October 27.

The overall condition of major crops did not change significantly in October. As of November 1, topsoil and subsoil moisture was short to adequate overall, with most of the shortages in southern Maryland and the middle eastern shore counties.

Corn was 100 percent mature, but had ripened slightly behind the normal pace. The corn for grain harvest was 96 percent completed, 10 percent ahead of normal. Corn remaining in the field was in fair condition. Corn silage was virtually all cut, equal to the normal pace.

Soybeans continued to average in poor to fair condition. Soybeans were 100 percent turning color, lightly behind the average pace and 99 percent shedding leaves. Fifty percent of the soybeans were harvested, 10 percent ahead of normal.

Fall planting of winter wheat was 75 percent completed, five percent ahead of normal. Barley and rye were 90 percent planted, equal to the average. The overall condition of small grains was good.

Cattle-On-Feed Highlights Given

Cattle and calves on feed October 1 for slaughter in the 13 quarterly states of Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Texas and Washington totaled 8.99 million head, up 10 percent from October 1 last year and 13 percent above 1985.

Placements of cattle and calves on feed during the July-September quarter totaled 6.56 million, up three percent from last year and 20 percent above the comparable period in 1985.

Cattle feeders expect to market 5.51 million head during the October-December quarter of 1987. This would be three percent more than the fourth quarter marketing in 1986 and six percent more than in 1985.

Cold Storage Food Amounts Reported

Frozen stocks in refrigerated warehouses on September 30 were greater than year-earlier levels for turkeys, juice concentrates, fruits, frozen eggs, vegetables, chickens, and potatoes. Cooler items with stocks above those of the previous year included nuts, fresh fruits, shell eggs, and dried and evaporated fruits.

Total red meats in freezers increased five percent from August 31 but were four percent less than the September 30, 1986, holdings. Total frozen poultry supplies increased 12 percent from August 31 and were 21 percent above last year.

SSCC Discusses Pilot Program At Oct. Meeting

A pilot program will be used in an effort to increase participation in the Conservation Reserve Program, according to Dave Mason of the USDA Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS). Mason described the program to the members of the State Soil Conservation Committee (SSCC) at its monthly meeting October 15. Highly erodible land will be identified in Montgomery and Carroll counties. Public information will be targeted to owners of this land in order to promote increased enrollment in the Conservation Reserve Program.

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is a component of the 1985 Federal Food Security Act which provides annual rental payments to farmers who agree to remove highly erodible land from production for a ten-year period. Low participation rates by farmers in the Chesapeake Bay Region have caused state and federal agencies in Maryland to re-examine the program. Criticism of the program has focused on the low rental payments in relation to land values and lack of outreach to potential participants.

USDA's Soil Conservation Service and ASCS will be cooperating on this pilot project to evaluate intensive outreach targeting. Statewide outreach efforts and publicity will continue in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) and the 24 Soil Conservation Districts.

Program development designed to achieve the water quality objectives of the proposed Chesapeake Bay Agreement was also discussed by members of the SSCC. MDA has been working to help farmers reduce agricultural nonpoint source pollution. Possible program modifications were reviewed.

James Dunmyer, the new director of the Water Resource Administration in the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), was introduced as DNR's representative on the SSCC. Dunmyer replaces James Peck who is now an assistant secretary at DNR.

SSCC will meet on November 19 at the Maryland Department of Agriculture in Annapolis.

The United States consumption of ice cream in 1985 totaled almost 900 million gallons, over 15 quarts per person.

Introduction of the cone for ice cream at the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis touched off a dramatic increase in the popularity of ice cream. The ice cream concessionaire, running out of dishes, served ice cream in cones rolled from dough intended for zelabia, a crisp wafer-like Persian pastry offered by a neighboring concessionaire. The idea was an immediate and spectacular success, and by 1924 some 245 million cones were sold.

Hazardous Household Products

Increasingly we become aware that we are not only part of the problem concerning any type of pollution, but that we are also part of the solution. Big industry has long been seen as the culprit, but that is only part of the picture. Soil erosion, pesticide run off and now unsafe use and disposal of hazardous residential materials claim the attention of professionals actively concerned with pollution reduction and control. This recognition has brought to light how little reliable data exists to document the extent of the problem.

Officers elected were: president, Lillian Bates; vice president, Bonnie Stanton; treasurer, Jane Garletts; and secretary, Dorothy Spear. Meetings will be cancelled from January to April when new officers will assume duties.

Pauline Fawcett gave the topic on "Self-Love is Part of It." Evelyn Jenkins and Dorothy Spear served refreshments.

Methodist Items
For the remainder of 1987, members of the Friendsville Charge of the United Methodist Churches are requested by Pastor Myers to bring their Bibles with them both to church and Sunday school. It is suggested that those who forget make a voluntary contribution of $1.00 to World Hunger. This is an attempt to develop the congregational use of the Bible in Sunday services.

A Creative Discipline Study

OUTLOOK on Aging

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE AND RELATED DISORDERS MONTH

Have you ever been on your way out to your car and realized you did not have your keys and could not remember where you had placed them? Have you ever remembered that you promised a friend you would have lunch with him or her on a certain day but could not remember which day or which friend? Most of us have experienced situations of this kind at one time or another. For the majority of us, we can attribute these moments of forgetfulness to temporary memory loss. However, for others who happen to be old, these moments can be frightening because they conjure up thoughts about the devastating disease with severe memory loss known as Alzheimer's Disease.

We recently received a call from an articulate, forty nine year old woman who stated she had become more forgetful than usual and felt she might have Alzheimer's Disease. She went on to ask various questions about the symptoms of the disease, the age group affected, and services available. She was told her forgetfulness might be the result of a condition other than Alzheimer's and that she should contact her doctor for a complete physical including neurological testing.

A short time later, we received a letter with no return address and no phone number from a man who wrote that he believed his mother had Alzheimer's because she had started to wander and appeared disoriented. He wanted to know what services were available and what he should do at this point. We located this gentleman through the telephone directory, called him and gave him the telephone number of the Johns Hopkins Alzheimer's Center, which performs diagnostic testing for Alzheimer's disease. This same man called back about two hours later nervously stating he had either forgotten or misplaced the number and needed to have it again.

I share these cases with you for three reasons. First, to demonstrate the stress that even the thought of Alzheimer's places on not only a potential victim, but family members as well. In the man's case, his signs of forgetfulness might have been caused by the fear that he too had or would contract the disease because he believed his mother had it. While researchers have linked the probability of getting Alzheimer's to hereditary factors, they have also emphasized how little is known about the disease at this time.

Scientists have determined that Alzheimer's disease is the result of a deterioration of cells in the brain. They do not know what causes the brain cells to deteriorate; however, they are continuing to explore such possible causes as genetic defects, a slow virus, and environmental toxins such as aluminum.

The second reason I share these cases with you is to emphasize the importance of receiving a professional diagnosis before assuming that signs of forgetfulness mean you have Alzheimer's Disease. Currently, doctors have no way of knowing that a person truly has or had the disease until after the person dies and an autopsy is performed. But doctors can do diagnostic testing to rule out other diseases or conditions and can track a person's behavior to conclude that it is more probable than not that the person has Alzheimer's. Suspected Alzheimer's victims will be checked for signs of increases in forgetfulness or irritability, difficulty with language, such as hesitation or stumbling over words, disorientation to place and time, and inability to recognize loved ones.

For many people, the final diagnosis will reveal that the person does not have Alzheimer's, but some other condition which imitates the symptoms of Alzheimer's, such as a vitamin deficiency, a reaction to the amount or type of prescription drugs the person may be taking, a brain tumor, or the after-effects of a stroke. It is estimated that across the United States, about 10% of persons 65 and older (2.5 million people) have Alzheimer's. In Maryland, it is estimated that about 25,000 elderly people have the disease. These numbers are expected to increase in the future as the elderly population in general increases.

The third and final reason I share the two cases with you is to point out that even if the person is diagnosed with the disease, the situation is not hopeless, for help is available. From the point of diagnosis, Alzheimer's victims who are generally in good physical health, can expect to live as much as 20 more years. Most will be cared for at home by family members for as long as possible. To assist families in providing care, the Maryland Office on Aging's Gateway II Program offers services such as personal care, respite, and day care. The Office has worked with the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association (ADRA) in the establishment of various support groups around the State which provide information on caregiving and legal issues associated with the disease. The Waxter Center in Baltimore recently opened an Adult Day Care Program specifically designed for Alzheimer's victims.

In closing, I want to remind you that Governor Schaefer has declared November as Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Month. To obtain information on activities scheduled to observe this month, or information on services available for Alzheimer's victims and their families, contact your local Gateway II Program or Assistance Office. The number may be found on page 2 of the Community Services section of your local telephone directory.

ACS Hope Lodge Provides Home Away From Home

Cancer patients who must travel to Baltimore for extensive treatments now have an alternative to daily trips. Hope Lodge is available for those who qualify.

Hope Lodge provides a home-like atmosphere for outpatients, friends and family. A project of the American Cancer Society, Maryland Division, Inc., the Lodge provides lodging, transportation service and activities — free of charge — for people who otherwise would have to travel daily or stay in expensive hotels.

The Lodge is located only minutes from some of the nation's leading medical institutions. The Lodge serves up to 2,000 patients and their companions a year.

The homey, two-story brick building has 26 guest bedrooms with private baths, a central kitchen, dining room, great room, library and recreation room, and features a large, enclosed garden and several open decks and balconies.

The Hope Lodge is one of the first of such facilities in the country and the first in Maryland and was built on the philosophy that the sharing of common experiences can be a source of strength for people living with cancer.

Guests are referred by their physicians, social workers or treatment facility, and may stay as long as necessary. The Lodge is staffed at all times by a resident manager, weekend relief manager or American Cancer Society volunteer to help patients upon arrival, departure and throughout their visits.

Persons desiring additional information about Hope Lodge may contact the American Cancer Society, Maryland Division, Inc., 636 West Lexington Street, Baltimore, Md., 21201.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Oakland Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on November 24, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. in the Oakland Town Hall. The Board will review an application made by the American Legion Post 71 for a Special Exception permit and a Variance from the terms of the Oakland Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirement. Specifically, the American Legion management is requesting the Special Exception to allow the construction of an addition to the rear of their present building. The Variance request is for a 5 foot variance for a portion of the total addition (approximately 13 feet) will extend to within 15 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 20 feet. The property is located at the corner of 4th Street and Memorial Drive (Zoned R-18 Town Residential). Interested citizens are urged to attend.

Literacy Council Completes Third Tutor Workshop

The Literacy Council of Garrett County, in conjunction with the Literacy Council of Frederick County, recently completed its third Tutor Training Workshop at the McHenry campus of Garrett Community College.

Seven new tutors completed their training and several more are in the process, according to a council spokesman.

The spokesman also noted that the organization is now celebrating its first anniversary.

Since early last year, the council has been providing tutoring services to adults with low-level reading skills. Tutoring is tailored to the needs of the individual and is confidential and free.

"As the pool grows, the council hopes that additional students will make use of this volunteer program," said the spokesman.

Students are matched with the tutors by the area coordinator. Interested persons in the northern part of the county may contact Linda Buckel at 245-4287. Those in the southern part may call Lorraine Ledden at 334-4280. All branches of the Ruth Enlow Library also serve as contact points for literacy inquiries.

Current officers of the council are: Ferne Beachy, president; Bonnie Evans, vice president; Nancy Bailey and Beulah Moon, co-secretaries; and Joan Sprangel, treasurer. Council membership is open to all interested persons. Dues are $2 for

Day Care Group Forms Recently

A new service group has been formed in the county. The Garrett County Day Care Providers Association held their first meeting in October at the Garrett County Department of Social Services.

Family day care providers attending were: Dean Wilson, Paula Seaman, Davindra Magoon, Debbie Workman, Margaret Umbel, Lisa Fike, Ginny Thayer, Linda Beckman, Wendy Warnick and Shirley Buckingham.

Representing day care centers were: Jane Pritts and Becky Friend, Rainbow Cottage; B.J. Miller and Susan Hughes, Hug-A-Bunch; and Sharon Yoder, Maple Meadows. Elizabeth Hart represented Social Services.

Others in attendance were: Cathy Serbia, Angie Upole, Cathy Case and Debi Spear.

Officers appointed included: Dean Wilson, president; Paula Seaman, vice president; and Debbie Workman, secretary.

Persons desiring additional information about the organization may contact Mrs. Hart at Social Services.

Donations to the council are used primarily for the purchase of text materials and may be sent to the Oakland branch of the Ruth Enlow Library.

"Illiteracy affects everyone and especially the labor force," stated the spokesman. "As unskilled labor jobs decrease, the literacy rate needs to increase. The 1980 census indicates that 28 percent of Garrett County's residents over 25 years of age have not attended high school."

Through the Laubach Literacy tutors, persons may be assisted as they work toward Adult Basic Education and the county's GED program.

Michigan Balloon Found Near Mettiki

Ed Dragovich, of Table Rock, was surprised last week to see a balloon descending down through the trees as he walked along a wooded trail to his tree stand near Mettiki Coal Mine.

A card attached to the balloon identified the sender as Justin Hallenbeck, an elementary student at Addison Community School in Addison, Michigan. A handwritten note on the card said that the balloon launching took place on "Balloon Day/Grandparents Day" at the school. In the note, Justin asked how the finder of the balloon was feeling, and said "I'm feeling fine because I'm drug free and high on myself."

Dragovich plans to return the remains of the balloon and the card to Justin so that he'll know just how far his balloon and his message traveled.

Family Renewal Services Scheduled At Pleasant View

Darrell Orman, of Hollywood, Fla., will lead the Family Renewal Services this Sunday, November 15, at 10:45 a.m. and again at 6 p.m. at the Pleasant View Baptist Church. The services will continue Monday through Wednesday evenings at 7 p.m.

"There are so many things tearing at the security and safety of the family: drug addiction, AIDS, alcoholism, sexual exploitation, pressure from work, school, financial problems, threat of nuclear war. We all need help to stabilize our homes and our marriages," says Pleasant View Pastor Marty Herron. "Whether you are single or married, teenager or elder, divorced or separated, find stability and answers by attending the Family Renewal Services."

The public is invited. Pleasant View is located two miles south of Oakland on Route 219. For more information, call 334-8515.

Continuing Ed. Center To Be At McHenry Campus

The monthly meeting of the Garrett Community College Board of Trustees was held Tuesday evening at which time Dr. Stephen Herman, president of GCC, reported that the Mining Tech Center at the McHenry campus is being planned as the new "primary home" for the continuing education center, currently housed at Center Street in Oakland.

Although Herman indicated that plans had not been finalized and details not yet worked out, the task force formed to study the project reported that the general direction would be to clean out all the current equipment housed at the Mining Tech center, and an area set aside there as "flexible space" which will allow the college to "feel its way" into the new program and space allocation, according to Herman.

The tech programs will thus be allowed to expand or diminish according to the demand. Herman stated that the program would be observed over the next five years to determine the allocation of the flexible space.

Chairman Wayne Hamilton emphasized that external services to the community through continuing education would not be neglected, citing the 20 satellite operations now in existence around the county. Hamilton stated that he was pleased that the task force made outside services a prime consideration in its recommendations.

Bill Nedrow, director of maintenance and operations, was on hand at the meeting to present his concerns regarding the maintenance of GCC's physical plant, emphasizing that his staff's "mission" is not only to maintain the physical plant but to provide services that will enhance the use of each building.

Nedrow noted that, in comparison with some other community colleges around the state, GCC is clean, well-groomed and well-maintained and added that the general environment in Garrett County was a contributing factor, stating, "This area makes GCC what it is."

But, he cautioned the board that more manpower and more money would be needed in the future to keep up with maintenance. "As the buildings get older," he said, "we have to control the deterioration." He cited the Vo-Tech building as one example where "preventive maintenance" could save money for the college.

He explained that the roof there is deteriorating and recommended its restoration before it had to be replaced at a much higher cost to the college.

Nedrow noted that there are currently 10 people on his staff

Oakland Council Sends Letter To Governor On Bradley Manor Decision

As a follow-up to the decision of the Oakland Town Council to turn down the state's offer to help redevelop Bradley Manor Housing Complex, Council President Francis D. Seifert sent a letter to Governor William D. Schaefer late last week stating the town's position.

The town council turned down the proposal they had tentatively supported as the result of a public hearing in early November, where town residents came out in strong voice against the proposal. Council member, Bob Boal, was also opposed to the proposal.

In his letter, Seifert expressed the council's "gratitude for the initiative" the governor "demonstrated to correct this anomaly." He also spoke of the governor's "sincerity, sense of propriety and dedication to duty."

"It has given us renewed hope that this administration will be both receptive and sensitive to our needs," the letter stated.

Seifert also informed the governor of the results of the public hearing which set attendance records for town meetings. "The reaction of the people toward the proposal was unmistakable," he said. "Our sense of direction became abundantly clear: we must withdraw our tentative support of this proposal."

The letter continued, "This is not to say that we are ungrateful for that we do not see any merit in the proposal. On the

Regional Information Meeting On Gypsy Moth Program Scheduled

Maryland has suffered from the effects of the gypsy moth since 1981, when severe defoliation of hardwoods began. Since 1982, the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has been waging a cooperative suppression campaign with support from the federal government and participating counties.

This program, which has been highly effective in protecting specific target areas, is faced with controlling an ever-growing infestation of gypsy moths. Each year another 100,000 acres of trees are threatened with extensive damage, and 1988 is no exception, says MDA officials.

Robert H. Tichenor Jr., chief of MDA's Forest Pest Management Program, will be sharing program facts and figures and what MDA sees in the future for the Gypsy Moth Program. New challenges exist in the coming season regarding the protection of valuable forest and shade trees in virtually all jurisdictions of the state.

"Each area and situation has its own needs and concerns," says Tichenor. "Many citizens have questions or concerns about citizen participation in control actions, the overall effectiveness of our program, and the environmental effects of the control measures themselves," he continued. "Still, many others are concerned about the danger caused by the gypsy moth unless something is done," Tichenor added. "We feel that these matters should be addressed before we begin the 1988 suppression season," he concluded.

In order to get citizen input, a series of public scoping sessions will be held to hear concerns and to answer questions regarding the program. Informally entitled, "Where Do We Go From Here?", the Western Maryland meeting will be held in Cumberland, at Allegany

B. Beeson Snyder, Former FmHA Official, Dies

B. Beeson Snyder, 69, Oakland, died Saturday, November 14, in the Washington (D.C.) Hospital Center. He had retired from the Farmer's Home Administration in 1977, where he served as the chief of the farm program for Maryland, Delaware and New Jersey.

Born in Martinsburg, W. Va., April 9, 1918, he was the son of the late Harry V. and Lora (Whitmore) Snyder.

Mr. Snyder was a U.S. Navy veteran of World War II, having served in the Pacific Theatre Operation. He was a member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church, Oakland, the Oakland Zoning Appeals Board and a former trustee at the Ruth Enlow Library.

He was also a member and past commander of Garrett Lodge 113, Knights of Pythias; member and past commander of Oakland Lodge 192 AF&AM; past president of the Past Masters Association of Western Maryland; member of the Cumberland Consistory Scottish Rite Masons, and past president of the Oakland-Mtn. Lake Park Lions Club.

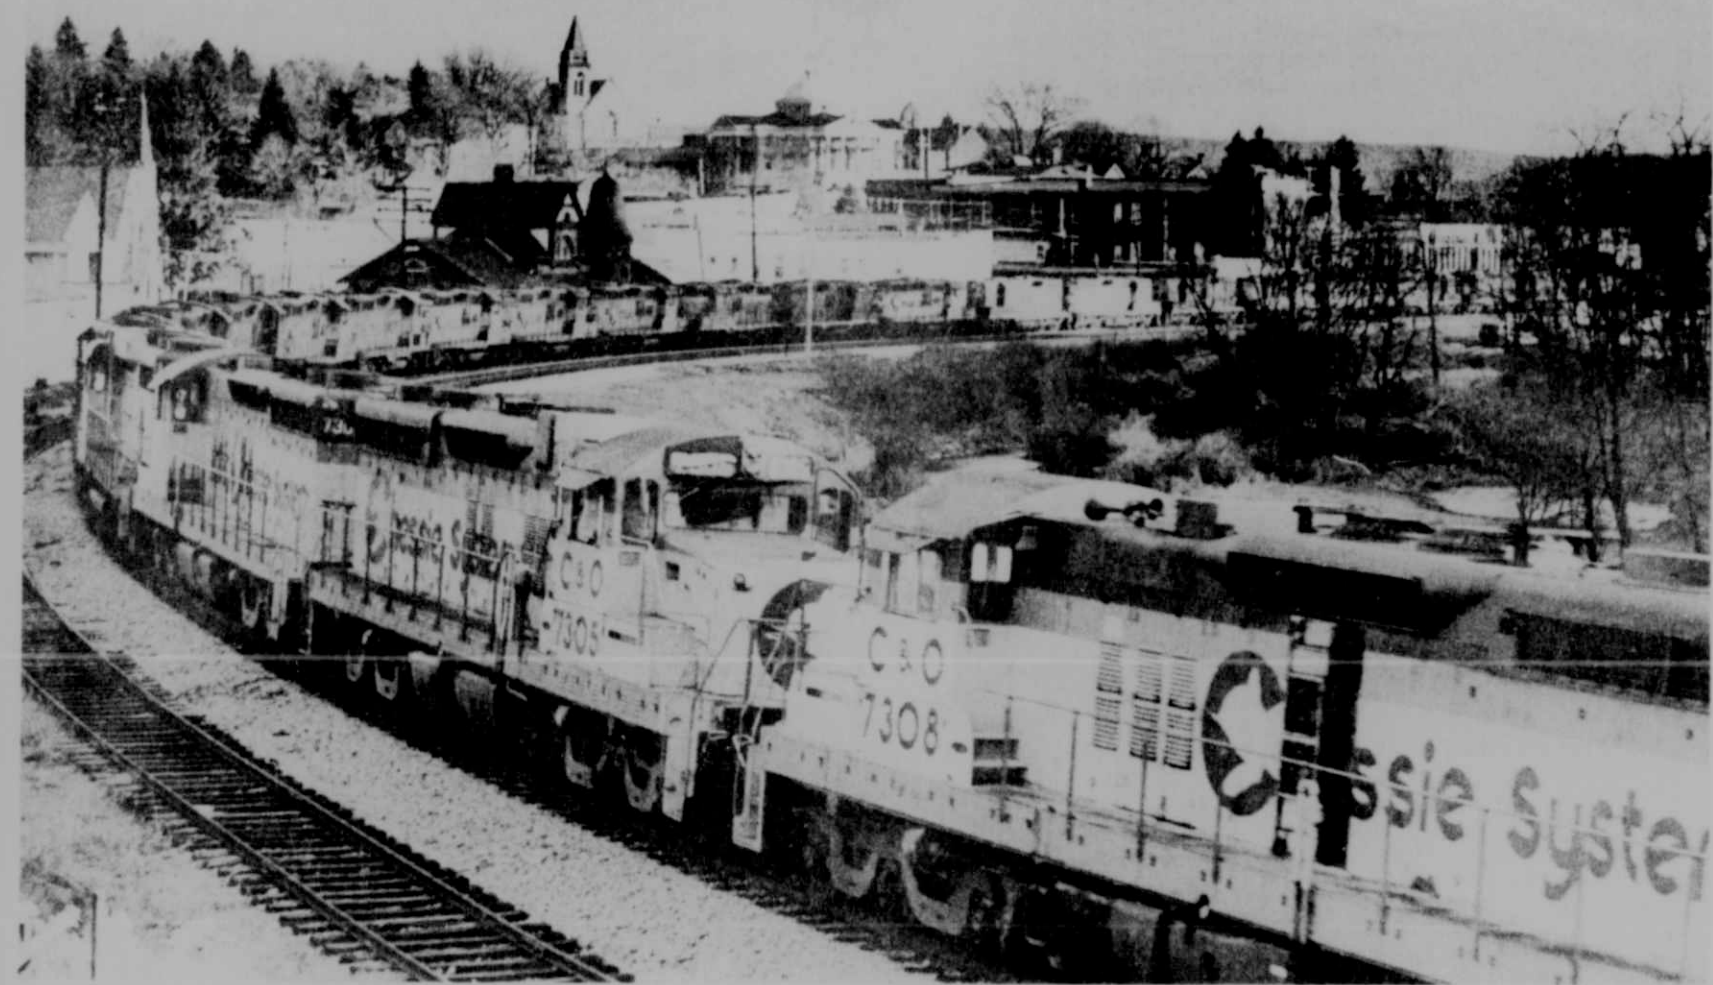

Surviving are his wife, Ethel Rae (Welling) Snyder; one son, Dr. Richard W. Snyder, Salisbury; one daughter, Mrs. Barbara Sides, Atlanta, Ga.; one brother, H. Paxton Snyder, Martinsburg; one sister, Mrs. Lee Watson, also of Martinsburg; and three grandchildren.

Friends were received in the Durst Funeral Home, Oakland, where a memorial service was conducted Tuesday evening by Oakland Lodge 192 AF&AM.

A funeral service was conducted Wednesday morning in St. Paul's United Methodist Church with the Rev. Dr. Allen C. Ridenour officiating.

Interment was in Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

The family requests that memorials take the form of contributions to the Southern Rescue Squad or the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

Supreme Court Refuses To Hear Case Against County Commissioners

The U.S. Supreme Court recently denied to hear a case taken to them against the Board of Garrett County Commissioners.

The case had been filed by Theodore Raynovich Sr. against Commissioners Ernest Gregg Jr., Elwood Groves II and John G. Braskey. Raynovich contended that they had trespassed on his property.

Raynovich had taken his case to the Supreme Court after he had lost the case in both the Garrett County Circuit Court and the Maryland Court of Special Appeals.

Documents indicated that Raynovich had originally sought "injunctive relief, other relief and compensatory and punitive damages."

Facts in the case revealed that Raynovich had purchased a tract of land on the north side of Deep Creek Lake in 1953 that adjoined the Glendale Road.

The Glen Cove Road, which proceeds east from the Glendale Road, runs across private property owned by persons not involved in the case, as well as across property owned by Raynovich.

At the insistence of property owners, the Glen Cove Road was taken into the County Roads system in late 1960.

Raynovich had sold lots on both sides of the Glen Cove Road. That road is used by property owners as an access road to Glendale Road.

The Roads Department rocked, tarred and chipped Glen Cove Road in early 1961 and has maintained the road since that time.

Raynovich alleged that the Glen Cove Road trespassed across his property. He held the county commissioners responsible since they took the road into the county system.

When the case was heard in trial court it was the court's decision that Glen Cove Road was "a public thoroughfare, as it was taken into the county system in 1960 and had been maintained as a county road for a period of 26 years." The court also ruled that Raynovich had accepted the county maintenance and use and benefits from the county and that it was now "too late to complain."

Both aforementioned courts ruled against Raynovich previously and reportedly their decisions weighed heavily in the Supreme Court decision to refuse to hear the case.

Social Services Conference Being Held At Lake

The directors of local departments of social services from all of Maryland's 24 jurisdictions are meeting this week with top-level state administrators to assess the need for greater emphasis on programs for the elderly and adult disabled persons.

Hosted by the Maryland Department of Human Resources, the conference will continue through Friday, November 20, at the Will O' the Wisp, Deep Creek Lake. State administrators from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and the Office on Aging, as well as supervisors of adult programs in local departments are in attendance.

"The concept for this departmental conference was generated by the local directors of social services who daily see the struggles of elderly and disabled persons and who are trying to respond to the problems faced by this growing segment

Sally Schwing To Be Guest At Reception; Abrahamson To Speak

A reception for author Sally A. Schwing to celebrate the publication of her book, Do You Think It Snows In Heaven? A Journal About Christopher, will be held in the art gallery of Garrett Community College (Room 010 near the auditorium) on Monday, December 7, at 7:30 p.m. Following the reception, Craig Abrahamson, Oakland, will speak about traumatic death loss in a family and within a community.

Abrahamson, who counseled Christopher Schwing when he was terminally ill, will focus on the need for emotional and spiritual communication when there is a sudden or untimely death. He said he believes that a community such as Garrett County, "where people are known as individuals and not just as names on a page," feel this loss more deeply than larger communities, and that people need to verbalize about it.

Schwing wrote her book while she was a student in the creative writing class taught by Joan Crawford at Garrett Community College several years ago. The manuscript was prepared for publication during an additional semester of independent study, and the book was published this fall.

Abrahamson's presentation will be the first event in the Fireside Lecture Series being sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival at the college this winter.

Some invitations to the reception and the presentation have been sent, but all interested persons are invited to attend. There is no admission charge.

SCOUTING'S HIGHEST ACHIEVEMENT, the rank of Eagle Scout was awarded to Greg Few, Oakland Troop 31, Boy Scouts of America, last Saturday, November 14, at St. Paul's United Methodist Church. Young Few achieved the honor by progressing through six levels of advancement, earning a minimum of 21 merit badges in areas such as: first aid, camping, swimming, lifesaving and citizenship. He demonstrated leadership through service to the troop as patrol leader, senior patrol leader and participating in the Order of the Arrow. He also planned and carried out a major community service project this summer when he designed and built picnic tables accessible for the handicapped at Herrington Manor/Swallow Falls State Park. Among those attending the ceremony were Delegate George C. Edwards and Rep. Beverly Byron. Pictured, left to right, are Larry Lucas, assistant scoutmaster; John Smith, scoutmaster; Eagle Scout Greg Few and his proud parents, Robert and Lois Few.

Drug Usage By Md. High School Students Down

Drug usage among Maryland's junior and senior high school students has decreased almost by half of what it was five years ago, according to a survey released by the Addictions Services Administration of the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene.

Howard Silverman, acting director of the Addictions Services Administration, said he believes drug awareness, media attention and education may be responsible for the decline in drug and alcohol use among adolescents.

"The wave of publicity surrounding the recent death of Len Bias and the national mobilization against drug abuse have no doubt contributed to this result," Silverman said. "The message is getting out and these kids are realizing that drugs can really screw up their lives."

A sample of 14,302 students in sixth, eighth, tenth and twelfth grades from 186 schools in 19 Maryland subdivisions were part of the seventh biennial survey of Maryland students.

According to the survey, drug use among high school seniors (excluding alcohol and tobacco) dropped from 37.4% in 1982 to 22.3% in 1987. Drug usage among tenth graders decreased from 32% five years ago to 18.5% this year and for eighth graders usage dropped from 18.5% to 13%.

Frequent usage of drugs (several times a week or daily) showed similar declines 16.9% to 8.3% for seniors; 13.6% to 6.7% for tenth graders and 7% to 4% for eighth graders. Frequent alcohol usage decreased approximately by half for each grade level.

In addition, the survey showed that by the time students leave high school, most have tried at least alcohol and cigarettes and nearly a quarter of those surveyed were classified as current alcohol users.

"The evidence suggests that we've got to expand our prevention and education programming at the junior high and grade school levels so that

Gorman W. Va. Man Arrested On Bench Warrant

The Garrett County Sheriff's Department reported several arrests made recently, one involving a Gorman, W. Va. man who was jailed on a charge of failure to appear in Garrett County District Court.

Charles A. Overton, 34, was incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail following his arrest and was later released on a $500 bond. He was arrested by Detective Sgt. D.W. Tucker after he failed to appear in District Court September 18 on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Dannie A. Stemple, 33, Mtn. Lake Park, was also arrested and incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail. He was later released on his own recognizance.

Stemple was arrested by Deputy R. Drenning and charged with a CDS (controlled dangerous substance) violation after he was apprehended inhaling glue last Thursday, November 12, in Mtn. Lake Park.

A criminal summons was served to Rebecca S. Rhodes, 18, Loch Lynn, charging her with battery and disorderly conduct. The charges were filed by Lisa A. Butcher, Oakland, following a November 5 incident at Southern High School.

Deputy Drenning served the summons.

Elizabeth A. Reed, Mtn. Lake Park, filed charges of disturbing the peace against David W. Welch, 25, and Timothy A. Welch, both of Mtn. Lake Park, following a November 6 incident at her residence. Deputies P.J. Pratt and R. Drenning served the summonses.

Donna M. Beachy, 47, Oakland, was served a criminal summons charging her with disturbing the peace and operation of a dog kennel without a license.

The charges were filed by James L. Burns, also of Oakland, following incidents that occurred from January 1 to November 6.

Theft Of $15,000 Trailer Probed By State Police

The theft of an aluminum box trailer, valued at $15,000, from a service station parking lot near Grantsville is being investigated by the Maryland State Police, McHenry detachment.

According to the complainant, Thomas W. Bishop, Frostburg, the trailer, a 1984 Venco model, white in color, and a tractor were parked by him at Fuel City on Chestnut Ridge Road last Thursday, November 12. Two days later, he unhooked the trailer from the tractor and drove the tractor away, leaving the trailer behind.

Tuesday, according to police reports, Bishop returned to the scene and discovered the trailer missing. According to the investigating officer, Tfc. R.M. Hershberger, the trailer was equipped with New Jersey registration tags and is the property of Transport International Pool, Inc., Bridgeville, Pa. The load-lock device, valued at $60, was also stolen.

A breaking and entering and theft that resulted in a $3,000 loss was reported by Nancy M. Bertholdt, Frostburg (Garrett County), who stated that sometime between November 3 and 7, a barn at her residence was entered and the following items were removed: a 50 cc Yamaha three-wheel recreational vehicle, a 185 cc Honda three-wheel recreational vehicle, a 1986 60 cc Yamaha four-wheeler, a 1986 100 cc Yamaha four-wheeler and a box of miscellaneous three- and four-wheeler vehicle parts. Tpr. Paul R. Brown is investigating the incident.

A breaking and entering and theft was reported by Junior E. Goodwin, Swanton, that occurred at a private residence on Rt. 135. Property stolen included a Remington 700 ADL bolt-action rifle, a Ruger Super Black Hawk 44 magnum revolver, a Raven automatic 25 caliber pistol, a General Electric VCR and $400 in cash.

According to investigating officer, Tfc. D.G. Riggelman, total loss amounted to $1,250.

A breaking and entering and theft at Billy Bob's Inn, Grantsville, November 11 resulted in the loss of $425 in cash and damage to three vending machines, a cash register drawer and a door jamb.

Police reports indicated that a hammer and a prying tool were used to break into the vending machines. The money was removed from them and is in the form of one dollar bills and quarters. Tfc. R.C. Resh is investigating.

A breaking and entering and theft reportedly occurred at the Old Mill Restaurant in Friendsville sometime between October 27 and 28, resulting in the loss of $400 in cash.

"Common Bread" Concerts, Youth Retreat Slated At St. Mark's

An ecumenical retreat for youth (grades 9-12) and a concert by "Common Bread," sponsored by the Lutheran Youth Encounter, will be held at St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland, November 27-29.

"Common Bread" will be in concert on Friday, November 27, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, November 28, at 8 p.m. They will also conduct the Sunday worship service on November 29 at 10 a.m. The public is invited to attend both concerts and worship service which will include sing-along music and puppetry as well as personal word and witness.

The concerts are free, theft at a woodworking shop owned by Melvin L. Fletcher, Frostburg, resulted in the loss of a Craftsman electric sander and two Craftsman socket sets. Loss was estimated at $130.

The theft occurred sometime between September and November 7 on Old Frostburg Road.

although there will be freewill offerings taken for the continued support of the program.

The group will also sponsor a youth retreat on Saturday, November 28, from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. and will include a pizza dinner. Registration is from 8-9 a.m. and participants are asked to bring a bagged lunch and a $5 registration fee.

A spokesman from Lutheran Youth Encounter noted, "Awareness of the growing needs for missions in this country is a challenge to team members; although the need for missions in other countries is obvious, people hesitate to consider this country's need for missions. The musical and relational programs of "Common Bread" allow the group the opportunity to meet this challenge and share their awareness with others."

"The group provides a faith-encouraging program which finds its base in the Christian gospel," said a church spokesman.

Persons desiring additional information about the retreat or concerts may call 334-9398, 387-9054, or 334-9133.

Local Rotary Members Support Polio Project

As a result of early leadership pledges of funds by Oakland Rotary members, 80,000 children in developing nations around the world are expected to benefit by immunity from polio.

The World Health Organization estimates that in developing countries, vaccine-preventable diseases annually kill 3.5 million children and disable another 3.5 million — one child dead or disabled every five seconds.

The diseases are polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and tuberculosis. Polio alone strikes 220,000 children a year — more than one case every three minutes.

PolioPlus is a program of the Rotary Foundation of Rotary International. Its purpose is to ensure that every child in the world is protected against the crippling effects of polio.

Through PolioPlus, Rotary is sharing the commitment of WHO and UNICEF to Universal Child Immunization by 1990. The ultimate goal is basic health care for all people.

Rotary International has pledged to raise $120 million to fund PolioPlus.

According to Barry Conger, Oakland Rotary's PolioPlus chairman, current and former officers and directors of the Oakland Club "have set a challenging pace for the 60-member local club."

He continued, "Against a $15,000 local goal, more than $10,000 has been pledged by 12 members in gifts ranging up to $1,500."

"This will impact the lives of 280 children, sparing them this crippling disease, and at the same time save the lives of 40 children who otherwise might be expected to die," he said.

While polio has been virtually eliminated in industrialized countries, it remains a serious health threat to millions of children in developing nations. It is of particular danger to those under three years of age.

Two Injured In Vehicle Mishaps

Two area residents were treated and released at Garrett County Memorial Hospital after they sustained injuries in separate accidents that occurred this past week.

Jonathan H. Harvey, 16, Deer Park, was operating a motorcycle Sunday on a private drive near Boiling Spring Road when the 1981 Honda CR-80 flipped over backwards, causing him to be thrown from the bike. He was taken to the hospital by Southern Rescue Squad following the 12:30 p.m. accident. Tpr. Paul R. Brown of the Maryland State Police investigated.

Felix J. Gonzalez, 27, Accident, was injured Friday at 11:40 a.m. when the 1980 Ford Mustang he was operating on Rock Lodge Road skidded off the roadway.

According to police reports, the vehicle then continued for approximately 20 feet before striking a split rail fence and a large tree. Investigating officer Tpr. Brown indicated that the road was icy at the time but had been treated with abrasives.

Gonzalez was charged with operating a motor vehicle on a highway with unsafe tires and failure to drive on the right side of the road.

Clarification Noted

In an article in last week's edition of The Republican, it was stated that Mrs. Linda Fleming's fifth grade class at Dennett Road School had collected $460 for UNICEF. In fact, Mrs. Pat Bonafide's class also collected to reach that total.

Since the photographer had been contacted by Mrs. Fleming to take a picture of her class, it was erroneously assumed that her students had solely undertaken the project.

Kingwood W.Va. Man Sentenced To Five Years

A sentencing hearing held in Garrett County Circuit Court last Thursday, November 12, resulted in a five-year sentence to the Maryland Department of Corrections being handed down to a Kingwood, W.Va. man after he pled guilty to assault and battery in a previous trial.

Andrew J. Romano, 24, pled guilty to the charge October 1 after which a pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Circuit Court Judge Fred A. Thayer. Charges of kidnapping, attempted kidnapping and assault had also been filed against him. The four charges were entered into Circuit Court April 23.

Cpl. G.D. Broadwater of the Maryland State Police filed the charges following a February 26 incident when Romano reportedly was given a ride by a Friendsville female on Rt. 219, three miles north of Oakland. He then reportedly assaulted her by grabbing her by the throat and threatening her. Romano stated that he had a gun.

He then ordered her to keep driving and not to notify the police. The woman then pulled into the parking lot at Sweet Stuff Bakery and was able to obtain assistance. John R. Toston, assistant public defender, represented Romano.

Covenant Players Visit Md. Salem Children's Trust

The Shenandoah Unit of the Covenant Players, an international repertory theatre designed to communicate the gospel of Christ through the medium of drama, recently gave a special performance for the children and staff of the Maryland Salem Children's Trust.

Headquartered in Woodland Hills, California, this international repertory theatre has, since its beginning in 1963, performed close to a million times in 65 countries throughout the world, in 12 languages. With 115 touring units, they have stirred and challenged people to take a closer look at themselves and the practice of their faith.

The Shenandoah Unit of the Covenant Players consists of four members: Todd Bacon of Louisiana, David Groves of California, Bonnie Barrett of Michigan and Lee-Anne Worth of British Columbia, Canada.

All of the plays are written by Charles M. Tanner and cover a diverse field of themes and topics, including Bible, stewardship, drug and alcohol abuse, parent-youth relationships, commitments, peer pressure, motivation and purpose. The plays of this special group range in length from 15 seconds to two and a half hours.

Among the many types of settings for the Covenant Players have been professional theaters, school rooms, church sanctuaries, military outposts, businesses, camps, hospitals and prisons.

A Giving Community . . .

Garrett County has always been a generous, compassionate community, examples of which could fill this newspaper from page one through the classifieds. Although we are certainly far from being one of the wealthiest counties in the state, our citizens have always reached out and shared with those in need.

One example that comes to mind is how Garrett County responded to the needs of the many West Virginia neighbors two years ago following the devastating flood.

In times of personal loss and tragedy, such as when a local family is burned out of their home, the donations always come rolling in, even from strangers.

Our school children continually conduct various drives and charitable activities, particularly during the holiday seasons, to brighten the lives of the less fortunate.

But our giving is not restricted just to those in the county and nearby surroundings. Indeed, Garrett County's generosity has reached as far away as Africa, referring to when we donated nearly $14,000 to the Children for Children Fund to aid the starving in Ethiopia. That gift was the largest per capita donation of any community in the United States.

Right now there is another major campaign which offers the opportunity to help children all over the world, and already there has been a fantastic response by just a handful of local people.

Rotary International, of which the Oakland Rotary is a part, has pledged to wipe out polio in the world by immunizing every single child by 1990. PolioPlus hopes to raise $120,000,000 to accomplish this goal and Oakland Rotary's share of that amount is $15,000. Over $10,000 of that goal has already been pledged by just 12 Oakland Rotary members!

We wish to commend this organization and especially these local members for this wonderful expression of love and caring for the children of the world. Polio is almost unheard of in the United States and it is easy for us lucky Americans to turn out backs on the needs of the third-world nations. There are many who believe that our contributions to charity should aid just those in our own towns, county or nation. But it is so heartwarming to see that these Rotarians recognize that children are children, no matter where they are in the world, no matter what color they are, no matter what system of government happens to be in control. Every single one of them is precious in God's creation and not one of them deserves to suffer.

In the next several weeks the rest of the community will have an opportunity to contribute toward this project. We sincerely hope that people will find it in their hearts and in their budgets to be able to make a donation to keep alive our reputation of giving. After all, that's what Thanksgiving and Christmas are all about.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The Southern Garrett Girls Athletic Association would like to thank the following businesses and people for helping to make Football Homecoming '87 such a tremendous success: Jan Florists, Proudfoot's, Green Acres, Natural Reflections, Bunny Shank, B.J. and Brenda Buser, Don Bittlinger, Cindy Stern, Dane Craver, Mary Lou Stemple, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Bosley and Josh, Mr. and Mrs. David Bender and Andrea, Mrs. Leota Martin, Chaperones, and all other parents and teachers who donated their time.

Thank you,
The Girls'
Athletic Association

To the Editor:

I wish to respond to the recent letters to the Editor by Jeffery A. Durst and Angela Durst Verill.

On behalf of myself and the American Legion Proctor Kilow Post 71, I wish to express my sincere condolence to Mrs. Durst and the children of the late Veteran Staff Sergeant Wendell Durst. I personally was not aware that a request for a military funeral had been made until I received a letter from Mrs. Durst condemning the American Legion Color Guard and members for their failure to appear at the funeral. I called on Mrs. Durst and was told that a request had been made. Investigation revealed that the request had been received by someone other than the Club Manager who normally is contacted and that in fact the message was not then directed to the proper person who would have handled the arrangements. For this I apologize. However, I feel it is grossly unfair to blame the members of Post 71 and the Color Guard for what was obviously a communications breakdown over which they had no control or knowledge.

Our Color Guard is composed of dedicated men who devote their own time, equipment and funds to honor Comrades of all the services of the United States with a military funeral. Included in the roster are Medal of Honor winners, DAV, VFW and SAL members. These people take time off from work, often without pay, because of this patriotism and respect for those who have served to protect this great country.

Murphy's Law will at some time prevail in any organization. We are sorry that this one time our Color Guard failed to get the message of request for a military funeral. To our knowledge this is the only time this has happened in our many years of providing this service. Steps have been taken to preclude a repeat of this unfortunate breakdown of communication. This is where the blame should be. Not on our Commander, Color Guard and Members of Post 71.

Sincerely,
Ronald L. Friend
Past Co. Commander

To the Editor:

We'd like to thank the managers and staffs of Browning's Foodland, Fratz Oakland Red and White, and Ralph's Richfood for their tremendous support of the "Food Festival" held in Oakland from October 12-19.

The "Food Festival," produced by the American Heart Association, provided materials to local residents from the AHA and American Cancer Society, and the Maryland Department of Health & Mental Hygiene's "Enjoy the Great Taste of Health" campaign.

Each store manager greeted the opportunity to share information with their customers about heart-healthy food selection and preparation with enthusiasm. All food provided for the low-fat cooking demonstrations were donated by the stores.

We are grateful for the spirit of cooperation that prevailed as we launched our first "Food Festival." Next year we plan to invite more stores to participate and follow the event with an AHA "Culinary Hearts' Kitchen" program held in northern and southern sites in Garrett County.

To the Editor:

It was recently headlined in the Preston County News, "Crime rate dropped sharply in West Virginia." This report put me in mind of children playing "pretend." Psychologists say this can be a healthy form of play, especially for Presbyterians. I disagree.

For Presbyterians, the usual game is, "Let's pretend we have a real Sheriff's Department and police." That is the hardest pretense except pretending all police will act in "good faith" and keep the rules.

Now pretend you call the Sheriff's Department and say, "There is a crime in progress, come and get them while they're hot!" But the police are playing too, and they want to pretend there wasn't any call. So, we all can pretend the crime rate has dropped, and that will make the Sheriff look good.

Now you're mad, because this isn't how the game should be played. You find some magistrates that like a fair game, and honor all the rules. You swear out a warrant or two; these magistrates affirm them by signing them, and according to the rules, send them to the (oh, no) Sheriff's Department! They still like their own game, and they say again, "Let's pretend we didn't get the warrants, then we still don't have to arrest anybody, and our crime rate will drop and the prosecuting attorney will like that. Because then he will have more time to go golfing . . . with the Sheriff."

I would like to pretend it's all "just a game," but I am not a child any more. In fact, I am a grandmother. I'd like to pretend they won't keep rooting around for a reason to arrest me so they can prosecute me. But I can't because they have, and I'm not guilty.

I guess I could pretend Preston County isn't really in West Virginia, and they really won't shoot.

Sincerely,
Norrean J. Goehl

A Final Walk Together

The following article was written by Cathy Chapman, R.N. director of nursing for Hospice of Garrett Co., Inc. November has been designated National Hospice Month by President Reagan.

The hospice of the Middle Ages provided rest and comfort to the weary pilgrim or traveler as he went on his journey. Today's hospice provides rest and comfort to the terminally ill patient and his/her family as they take life's final walk together.

Since Hospice of Garrett County is a community base organization, providing this support to hospice patients and their families involves commitments of many different kinds from many different people. At Hospice, we are aware and appreciative of each individual effort that makes Hospice such a special organization. The $5 donation from an elderly person on a limited income is valued just as much as a larger donation from one who may be more financially fortunate. We appreciate those "little extras" that the hospital and nursing home staffs give to the hospice patients and their families — that unasked for cup of coffee, the extra blanket during the long final nights. We appreciate the efforts of the doctors who take time out of their busy schedules to make house calls to a patient that is too weak to come to the office. We appreciate the Home Health team that seems to have adopted their own version of the postman's creed making home visits. But I must confess there is one group within Hospice that has a very special place in my heart — the volunteers.

Volunteers are people who add new meaning to the word "give." First they give 3 hours a week for 10 weeks to complete the hospice volunteer training class. When these volunteers are assigned their first patient, they understand that a commitment of four hours per week is expected. Our volunteers ALWAYS exceed this commitment. Hospice volunteers have spent nights sitting with a restless patient so the family could get the rest they needed to face the next day. Volunteers have stayed with a patient on a scheduled basis so the family could take care of business matters. Our volunteers have been "the hand to hold" with the spouse as he or she made funeral arrangements. They have been the "heart to listen" when the family member needed someone to talk to.

Hospice volunteers go beyond giving their time — they give of themselves. They get emotionally involved with their patients and families. They care.

Our Turn

Sound Familiar?

by Susan Alvarez

It begins subtly, almost imperceptibly, on the first day you spread your peas all around your plate so your mom will think you ate them all. Then it progresses on to more divergent areas of expertise — like sticking the Old Maid Card up high in your hand so your little brother will pick it and lose the game and cry. It is reinforced when your mother leans over to you in church and says through her clenched teeth, "If you'll be quiet, I'll buy you an ice cream sundae on the way home."

It hits a snag or two, occasionally. Like on the day you came home and somehow, some way, your mother knew that you hadn't taken the dog for a walk but had indeed been playing football in Johnny's muddy back yard.

But it progresses rapidly on in the pre-teen years. Sticking dirty socks back in your drawers, shuffling toys under the bed and throwing the spread loosely over the bed and declaring your room "clean" is a major step. In the teen years techniques are polished, refined. The day you announce you are going downtown to a movie and omit the fact that you meant downtown Washington, D.C., is a milestone event.

What is this, then? Bribery, deception, con-artistry? No, it's simply early training in an artform called parenting. You see, there's this old saying that goes, "It takes one to know one . . ."

as opposed to 11 in 1978 when there were three fewer buildings and less students, and that those 10 staff members are responsible for 88,000 square feet of building space, as well as 18,000 square feet at Center Street, and 30 acres of ground. He added that members of his staff were on duty 24 hours per day, seven days per week.

Dr. Herman commended Nedrow for "work done with pride" and his diligence in maintaining the plant despite his small staff.

Self Study Status

Dr. Herman informed the board that the college's self-study was in line with the timetable set forth and that master and individual calendars were being produced. The calendars, he said, will represent the five-year plan set forth, and will include a description of GCC college life, an evaluation to appraise its adequacy, and a prescription or recommendations.

He noted that he did not "anticipate problems in completing the project successfully and on time."

Endowment Grant

The board agreed to withdraw application made for a Title III endowment grant after it was learned that the principal sum of the monies was to remain untouched for a period of 20 years, and that only the interest could be used during that time.

Dr. Herman stated that the money would be better used to enhance the college with more immediate results. He noted that the application was submitted under a larger Title III grant application.

Advisor Manual and Advisor Training

Dr. Herman stated that a "major project was coming to fruition" in the form of a student advisory manual now being compiled. He explained that the manual would be a valuable reference tool in the "complex undertaking" of student advising, and that a common orientation could be achieved through the use of the manual as a guide, noting that the biggest problem in advising students has been lack of uniformity.

Herman added that the

OTHER SPECIAL AWARDS were presented at the Northern Rescue Squad 15th anniversary banquet to, left to right, Hilda Wilburn, Bryan Miller, and Harry K. Edwards. Ms. Wilburn was recognized as a 10-year member of the squad, while Miller was presented the Number One Award for having responded to the greatest number of rescue calls during the past year. Edwards was inducted into the squad's Hall of Fame for his many years of service with the squad and also in rescue work with the Newman Funeral Home ambulance before the existence of the squad.

THE MOST COOPERATIVE PATIENT award was presented by Don Newman, right, to Carl Stanton, who came all the way from his home in Ohio to accept the honor. Two years ago during Grantsville Days, Stanton collapsed with a cardiac arrest and was transported by the Northern Squad. Members performed CPR (cardio-pulmonary resuscitation) on Stanton until they reached the hospital where he was revived and received a pacemaker. Newman served as master of ceremonies for the anniversary dinner.

A SPECIAL THANK YOU award was presented to members Danny and Brenda Dursi by the Northern Rescue Squad for their extra work "above and beyond the call." The Dursis have devoted considerable extra time on squad fund-raising activities and administrative duties, besides their active duty time on calls.

manual, when completed, would be given to each advisor, and that training for new advisors would primarily consist of "walking through the book."

Board member Richard Peake asked if the manual would be kept up to the standards of accountability and if updating it would be a problem. Herman responded by saying that the manual consisted of an "ornate pagination system" that would allow for easy pulling out and replacing of pages.

Garrett Lakes Arts Festival

According to Dr. Herman, a tentative schedule has been drawn up for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival that is to be extended this season into the spring and will include a Fireside Lecture Series, a concert by the Paul Hill Chorale, a music festival and puppetry.

Dr. Herman called the program "exciting," and said he was pleased that the student government at GCC was going to be involved in the program, noting that the festival "would greatly enhance and enrich the student's education."

Student Services Report

Patrick Mitchell and Kyle Martz, representatives of the Student Government Association, reported on their recent trip to Towson where they attended a conference to learn and share ideas concerning programs and activities adopted by community colleges in an effort to get students more involved in student government.

Some of the topics that were of particular interest to GCC, said Mitchell, were two-year college programs and the non-traditional student. Some of the activities planned for the near future are a "Meet the Basketball Players" rally, a Thanksgiving dinner, and a Christmas dance.

In another report on student services, Dr. Herman stated that a small grant from the Veterans' Administration received by the college would provide advertising monies so that veterans could be made aware of benefits due them.

Herman stated that most veterans were not aware that they could receive the G.I. Bill up to 10 years after they finished military service, not, as some may have thought, 10 years after the conclusion of the Vietnam War. He added that veterans should be made aware that, in some cases, college credits are awarded for military training experiences.

Academic Report

Dr. Lillian Mitchell, dean of academic affairs, announced to the board that the articulation program between GCC and the county high schools had begun Friday with 26 seniors taking part in the program. Although a limit of 20 students had been previously set, she said, it was decided that since the 26 students were all well-qualified, they would each be allowed to interim basis, from January 1 to 30. The only cost to GCC, said Mitchell, would be a stipend for traveling expenses.

Financial Report

John Culp, GCC comptroller, presented a report on the cash flow forecast to the board, stating that the forecast was good, and that GCC is now in a stronger position, financially, than it had been in the past.

Culp stated that enrollment figures for this semester (after adds and drops are tallied) would be the determining factor in whether or not the college would have to borrow additional money but that the forecast had allowed for a decline of enrollment in the Spring Semester.

Culp, in his budget report, informed the board that expenditures so far are at 31 percent which places GCC two percent under in even spending. He added that auxiliary enterprises, such as the bookstore and the cafeteria, were now having a "positive effect" on the budget.

The next meeting of the board of trustees will be held January 19. It will be a combination of the December and January meetings.

Peace Corps — The Toughest Job They Ever Loved Is Helping People Help Themselves Worldwide

by Pam Ashby

They joined for various reasons — to experience other cultures, for the excitement, to use their skills — but they all shared one common goal. That goal was to share their skills in underprivileged countries with the overriding theme of world peace through understanding.

As the Peace Corps begins its 26th year of operation, it seems fitting to peel away the mask of mystery that often surrounds an organization that has endured, even in the face of adversity, for a quarter of a century.

What Is The Peace Corps?
The Peace Corps is an agency of the United States government established by President John F. Kennedy on March 1, 1961. It became a permanent agency under the Department of State the following September when Congress approved the Peace Corps Act. The first annual budget of the Peace Corps was $30,000,000.

The Peace Corps was transferred from the State Department in 1971 to ACTION, an independent umbrella agency within the executive branch of the government.

Who's In Charge?
J.F.K.'s brother-in-law, Sargent Shriver, served as the first director of the organization. Jack H. Vaughn succeeded Shriver in 1966. He was later replaced by Joseph H. Blatchford. The current director is Loret Miller Ruppe.

Peace Corps volunteers must be U.S. citizens and be at least 19 years old. There is no upper age limit.

Volunteers with dependents under age 18 are not eligible to participate; however, married couples without dependent children are eligible if both husband and wife can do needed jobs.

Each volunteer must complete a questionnaire and take a one-hour general aptitude placement test. Volunteers with a college degree need only take a foreign language aptitude test. Selected volunteers are then assigned a project and undergo a three-month training program.

No volunteer ever became rich while serving in the Peace Corps. Each volunteer receives a living allowance comparable to that of his counterparts in the host country.

At the end of a normal two-year term, each volunteer receives a termination payment of $1,800 — less taxes!

More About Volunteers
There were 900 volunteers that first year of the Peace Corps' existence. They served 16 countries of Latin America, Asia and Africa.

More than 1,000 Americans a week applied for Peace Corps service in 1964.

There were 12,300 volunteers in 52 countries in 1966. The annual budget was $110,000,000.

The Peace Corps does not pick and choose the countries that need them, rather, the host countries request its services.

Volunteers do not enjoy diplomatic immunity or privileges and are not exempted later from military service.

For each month of satisfactory service, volunteers receive about $125 a month. Volunteers are also given a month's leave each year for travel in the host country and surrounding countries.

In professional background, volunteers range from students who have yet to finish their education, to men and women who have temporarily left their careers in mid-stream, to others who have passed the normal age of retirement.

What Do They Do?
Peace Corps volunteers build roads, administer polio vaccine to children, supervise leper colonies, care and teach care for animals, teach farming and mechanical repair, teach health programs . . . the list goes on. If there is a need, chances are the Peace Corps can fill it. The four major fields in the Peace Corps are: education, agricultural extension, community development and public health. There are more than 300 job categories in the Peace Corps.

The objectives of the Peace Corps are: 1. Help the people of other countries meet their needs for trained manpower. 2. Help promote a better understanding of the American people on the part of the people served. 3. Help promote a better understanding of other peoples on the part of the American people.

Where Do They Go?

Volunteers are now serving in: AFRICA: Cameroon, Ethiopia, Gabon, Ghana, Guinea, Ivory Coast, Liberia, Morocco, Niger, Nigeria, Nyasaland, Senegal, Sierra Leone, Somalia, Tanganyika, Togo and Tunisia. ASIA: Afghanistan, India, Indonesia, Iran, Malaysia, Nepal, Pakistan, Philippines, Sabah/Sarawak, Thailand and Turkey.

LATIN AMERICA: Bolivia, Brazil, British Honduras, Chile, Columbia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, El Salvador, Guatemala, Honduras, Jamaica, Panama, Peru, St. Lucia, Uruguay and Venezuela.

They Are Among Us
They represent a cross-section of the American people. They come from all 50 states, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam. They are among us right here in Garrett County — the past, present and future volunteers.

Some of the past volunteers who now reside and work in the county were more than willing to share their views and experiences of the Peace Corps.

Through communications to his family, excerpts from Scott Giotflety's letters are sprinkled throughout these following personal accounts of the Peace Corps to give the reader a sense of Scott's work and experiences. A veterinarian, he is now serving in Togo, West Africa.

"The humidity is playing havoc on my skin. I have to use liberal amounts of calamine lotion to fight the rashes. I'm going to have another shirt made. This one will have open sides to let some air move over my spine and let me stay a little drier . . . made friends with my host family . . . I ate so well there. The mother was really impressed that I readily ate all of the foods offered me. I'm getting pretty good at eating with my fingers now and am developing some favorite meals. It's too difficult to describe all of the doughs or mashed cereals . . . flavors are quite varied and the sauces can be quite hot."

Dr. Karl Schwalm, practices family medicine and obstetrics at the Garrett Medical Group, Oakland, served in the Peace Corps from 1970-73. Two years were not enough for him and he says he'd do it again if he were eligible.

Karl served in Malaysia, the Philippines, and was involved with the Malaria Eradication Project.

"I finished college and wasn't sure what I wanted to do," said Karl. "I figured the Peace Corps was a constructive way to see the world while I decided what I wanted to do."

He found the Malaysians to be a friendly people. "It was not a hostile environment at all," he recalled.

When Karl was in training for the Peace Corps there was an activism movement afoot. "There was a lot of idealism in the early 70's," he remembered. "Very few joined to serve themselves . . . they were looking for something . . . Peace Corps had something. We were not missionaries, though."

Although the usual term of service is two years, Karl opted to stay an additional year. "At the end of my second year, I had a more realistic view of how long it would take for change to occur."

When Karl spoke of changes, he didn't refer to religious or cultural changes. He was simply there to help reduce the incidence of malaria. Most of his time was spent in educating the people about how the disease was contracted and how to get rid of it.

"I woke up with quite a fever and headache . . . hunch it was malaria . . . managed to cool myself . . . came down to Lome for cure. I had the medicine with me and took it Saturday night . . . Today I have not had a fever . . . tired . . . mild headache. The chief government officer has found me a new house. If it isn't ready when I arrive, I will stay with him a while."

"Americans don't have a perspective on the rest of the world," he mused. "They really don't see both sides. The Peace Corps provides a better understanding of another culture."

"Actually, Malaysia is divided by three cultures. There are racial problems similar to our country. Peace Corps volunteers aren't out to change world politics."

Speaking of world politics, Karl reflects, "I hope the work of the Peace Corps offsets the other image we (Americans) project; that of a materialistic nation."

Although Karl wouldn't be pinned down as to his best personal experience in Malaysia, he hinted that climbing the highest mountain in Southeast Asia was an exciting experience.

"Aside from educating many about malaria, the biggest value of my experience was the interchange of ideas," he said. He recounts that the worst experience he had was when he became lost in the jungle and emerged covered with leeches.

Learning the language was admittedly the simplest task for him. Leaving the country at the end of three years appeared to be the most difficult. "I don't think any of us (volunteers) feel we've quite finished what we started," he stated.

Karl is still somewhat unsettled about his Peace Corps experience because as he puts it, "Unless you're willing to give your life to it, you're going to be frustrated."

So, 14 years later, Karl is perhaps a little more cynical or maybe just realistic about hoping the world will change when he says, "Now I work a little for myself and a little for others. For whatever reason, I matured a great deal from the experience. I set goals but I wish I had accomplished more."

Fran Pope and Dr. William Pope (she's a nurse who is active with the Southern Rescue Squad and he's a doctor who heads the Garrett County Health Department) had visions of joining the Peace Corps even before they met and married.

In loving memory of my dear husband, John L. Fitzwater, Jr.

Visions

I see you in each falling snowflake,
In raindrops and early morning dew.
In moonlight, feel your presence,
See your smile in skies of blue.
I hear your footsteps in the wind,
Your voice in the ocean's roar.
In tender moments, feel your touch
As when we walked along the shore.
I feel your lips each time
I press mine against a rose.
Lovely memories of you still linger
As each season comes and goes.

Peace Corps

The Popes joined the Peace Corps in the summer of 1966. Both had traveled a fair amount and the idea of living in a foreign country for two years didn't seem too unusual.

Fran, in fact, had been born in Panama and lived in the Canal Zone most of her life. "It seemed rather ordinary!" she stated.

Bill and Fran served in the Amazon region of Brazil in the small rural town of Amapa with under 1,000 people — about the size of Mtn. Lake Park.

They were assigned to a rural health post operated by the state government in that region.

Bill was the only physician within eight hours of travel by land or two hours by air. They worked with a Brazilian dentist and 10 local staff people at the health post.

"We are provided with good medical supplies, but if there is a medical emergency, it's basically up to us to get help or treat ourselves. People want to be with me in case of an emergency. . . . Last weekend was enjoyable. . . . got to sit outside and enjoy my first full moon in Africa. . . . sat for hours playing music, singing and telling stories. . . . I find it more difficult to write these sentences now that I'm writing and speaking in French most of the time."

Their job was to organize the health post, prepare continuing education for the staff, plan community health studies and develop community health improvement projects. They met the challenge.

Of their foreign hosts, the Popes stated, "They had a chance to see what we were like, compared to how we were perceived from news stories," they recounted. "Bobby Kennedy's assassination drew negative comments from the Brazilians who held J.F.K. and his brother in high esteem. They felt the U.S. should do more to protect its leaders."

The biggest problem the couple had was with the language, according to Fran.

Bill talked about another problem. "One of our most difficult adjustments was the prevailing health and medical practices," he said. "For example, every adult resident of Amapa has access to all medications without prescription, so self-treatment and trials with many drugs are common."

"To compete, local physicians invariably prescribe a variety of new products in the hope of maintaining their aura of special therapeutic capabilities and of insuring the patient's cooperation with further diagnostic efforts or specific therapy."

"In our short time in Brazil, we were forced to conform to pattern in order to maintain our own credibility, and in training local people to take our place after we left. We did not discourage drug prescriptions by the non-professional health post attendants, but tried to train the most capable ones in basic dispensing."

Bill also remembers that he taught a high school graduate the basic techniques of dental anesthesia and extraction "so that he could sometimes relieve me and continue this function after my departure."

"Apparently, there is a graveyard next to the house and if one falls while walking by it, it is dangerous for the one's soul. I haven't walked through it yet and probably won't. . . . I helped diagnose an apparent nutritional problem in a group of three-month-old pigs. . . . I thought of salt poisoning. . . . hit the nail on the head. I later visited a laboratory that does admirable bacteriology analysis of fluids and antibiotic sensitivity. It was the coldest room I've been in."

Tetanus infection of the newborn was another persistent problem in Amapa. "Although a young government-trained midwife was attached to our health post, pregnant women had confidence only in the local midwives."

They, therefore, set up a course for those local midwives, teaching them the simplest principles of cleanliness.

"We incorporated them into our health system (or vice versa) by giving them sterile materials and official recognition in exchange for accurate birth recording and for encouraging their patients to participate in pre-natal care at the health post," said Bill.

"Our Brazilian experience emphasized the gap between the achievements of medical knowledge and their successful application to those in need," he said. "Terrible diseases continued to reappear, cripple or kill, despite the fact that we know how to eliminate them. This paradox led me to return to school for additional study in medical care organization, the cultural aspects of medicine and theories of change. And the same challenge continues in seeking solutions for the problems of ill health and poverty in the midst of the richest nation in the world."

Fran summed up their experience this way. "We learned that people are pretty much the same no matter where you go; just language and circumstances are different. They laugh at the same kinds of things; they cry when we cry, and the differences are few. We're more alike than different."

Robert Dunkin, a nurse at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, served in the Peace Corps from 1978-80 in Kenya, East Africa.

Robert's reasons for joining were like most others — excitement; to see life with a new perspective; to help the poor.

His duties during service were to teach biology in a secondary school. He also helped develop a library and a science laboratory.

When asked about his experiences during the time he served, Robert related an amusing, yet frightening incident. "I can't help but recall one night when I was awakened by a ruckus out in my chicken house," he said. "I ran out, stark naked, with a flashlight in one hand and an ax in the other. A wild dog had just killed my favorite chicken. Having one of my brighter ideas, I stepped into the pen and threw a brick at the dog. Unfortunately, I was between the dog and the door. He lunged at me. You can surmise where he was aiming. So I stepped aside, whacking him with the handle as he yelped and fled out the door. It must have been quite a funny sight."

"This time I chose a really hot sauce with brutal peppers. . . . for meat, I chose some tough meat and cow rumen."

... had to eat it with my scissors. The peppers had me in tears, and I was glad to have my plop of yams to take away the burns."

On a more serious note, Robert said he saw many ill people while there which encouraged him to attend nursing school upon his return.

Robert feels the Peace Corps was a wonderful experience for him. "The salary is limited, but the rewards are great," he said.

"I think each volunteer's experience is different."

Beth Hurley teaches developmental classes, language and social sciences at Garrett Community College. She was in the Peace Corps in 1974-75 in Cameroon, West Africa.

Beth's duties in the Peace Corps were that of a teacher of English as a foreign language (TEFL). "I taught 150 12-year-old boys during the day and then taught adults at the American Culture Center at night," she recounted. "My second summer there, I was administrative coordinator for new TEFL volunteers."

She said she joined the Peace Corps for two reasons. "On the practical side, I had studied French for 15 years and I wanted to go somewhere where I could use it and experience other cultures," she stated. "On the loftier side, I was influenced by J.F.K. to strive to do more for someone else. I wanted to help in some way — to go where I was needed and wanted (1960's idealism). But the reason for staying was tied in with the warmth and appreciation of the people. It's difficult to explain. They touched me."

Beth, like Robert, experienced an amusing, but terrifying experience. "It takes some time to adjust. At three in the morning during training, I was on my way to the bath-house, when out of the darkness of the bush came a Cameroonian wearing a loin cloth and carrying a spear. As all the old 'Tarzan' movies I had ever watched came rushing into my head, I thought, 'Oh no, it's all over!' What I didn't know at the time was that he was the night watchman."

Peace Corps volunteers have countless heartwarming stories to share. Beth recalled, "Another volunteer and I were

A YOUNGER DR. WILLIAM POPE is shown training local, unskilled midwives in the proper birthing techniques. Cleanliness was heavily stressed. Each midwife received a diploma to encourage her to practice what she had learned. Below, a visit from Bill's father proved to be a sometimes soggy experience. Bill and his wife, Fran, were sent to Brazil for their Peace Corps experience.

Peace Corps

walking into the town of M'balmayo one morning when we saw a woman crawling into town on what was left of her hands and legs. She had leprosy. We stopped to say hello to her and talk. She got the brightest, warmest smile on her face when we did. She was used to being ignored. I'll never forget that smile."

"Right now, the calves are being weaned . . . the nights are filled with the bawling of distraught mothers and lonely calves. I find it difficult to sleep with such noises . . . they think I am crazy. Maybe I am, but I refuse to quit empathizing with animals. At night the stars are incredible. They are good in Garrett County, but I've seen nothing to rival this night sky . . . most of the planting here is done by hand and insects are chased out of the field with pans that make loud noises. Animals are also used and hedge hogs are favored. I await my first sighting of a hedge hog."

Ask Beth what one of her funny experiences was. She'll simply say, "Babysitting for three chimpanzees."

Beth was quick to say that the people of Cameroon were warm, loving and appreciative. "They liked Americans," she said. "They may not have many material objects, but they are rich in all the important areas and with those they are generous."

"The mountains were piled on each other like huge scoops of green ice cream with lush grass frowning amidst few trees. At the base of these hills, the forest ran into the blue distance. Out of these trees came a huge troupe of baboons. . . you can imagine my excitement . . . I feel quite fortunate. It's easy to see how these trees can have a sacred quality . . . they have problems in this country when a road is being built and a sacred tree is in the way."

She recommends the Peace Corps to others, but admits its not for everyone. "It is the toughest job you'll ever love." There's a heavy emphasis on tough and love."

THE MALAYSIAN CULTURE was greatly enjoyed by Dr. Karl Schwalm during his service in the Peace Corps. It appears that these children are enjoying a celebration similar to our May Day Maypole Dance. Karl said the interchange of ideas between the people of two countries is one of the most important aspects of the Peace Corps.

"I heard the choir practicing and realized there was a church service . . . A brass band paraded into the church to open the service . . . were four or five professional choruses . . . sermon was brutal . . . it was over for me when I sneaked out after giving offering . . . Pastor Louise would love such a service."

All the volunteers interviewed agreed that they would join the Peace Corps again. "No matter how much of yourself you give, it comes back a hundred-fold," said Beth. Just last month, all 120,000 past and present Peace Corps volunteers were informed that they were the recipients of the Beyond War Foundation's "1987 Beyond War Award."

Browning's Foodland, Oakland Red and White, and Ralph's Richfood provided their customers with printed information and tasty samples to raise their awareness of heart-healthy food selection and preparation during the local "Food Festival", October 12-19, a program sponsored by various health agencies. "The store managers and their staffs were very willing to work with us on this project, right from the start", offered Ann Carroll Sherrard, registered dietitian at the Garrett County Health Department. "They gave us their lists of foods that would go on sale during 'Food Festival' week and we checked labels of the sale items to determine if they could have an American Heart Association (AHA) emblem placed by them in their ads."

week of the "Food Festival" also featured illustrated information from the American Heart Association, which sponsored the "Food Festival" nationwide in September, and from the Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (MDHMH)'s "Enjoy the Great Taste of Health" campaign.

"At the beginning of 'Food Festival' week, Liz Rees Gilbert and I placed cards by heart-healthy foods in each of the three stores. These cards were provided by MDHMH's 'Enjoy the Great Taste of Health' campaign and indicated the fat, fiber, and calorie content of each heart-healthy food item," said Ms. Sherrard. "The cards were held in place with AHA emblem stickers and still remain in the stores by the heart-healthy foods they describe. Each of the foods featured is low in fat and/or high in fiber, in accordance with AHA and American Cancer Society (ACS) guidelines for lowering risk of heart disease and cancer," she continued.

Low-fat cooking demonstrations in each of the three stores highlighted the end of "Food Festival" week. Each store donated the food and marinated the meats used overnight. Browning's Foodland featured an orange roughly fish stir-fry, Fratz Red and White had a lean-cut beef stir-fry, and Ralph's Richfood offered a chicken stir-fry. "Several people visited each store to try each dish," commented Mikal Moomau, community relations coordinator at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Over 200 people picked up printed information from the AHA, ACS and the MDHMH's "Enjoy the Great Taste of Health" campaign as they stopped to sample the stir-fry dishes. Preparing the food and explaining the importance of heart-healthy food selection and preparation were: Irmgard R. Koscielniak, Garrett County agent for the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension Service; Helen Stallings, executive director for Allegany and Garrett County units of the American Cancer Society; Cathy Marketto, division director, American Heart Association, Western Maryland Division; Connie Bowser, diet aide, Garrett County Memorial Hospital; Ms. Sherrard, and Ms. Gilbert, health educator, Garrett County Health Department.

According to "Food Festival" coordinators, more stores will be invited to participate next October. Several sets of materials provided at the food demonstrations are still avail-

Great American Smokeout Is Today

The Great American Smokeout is held each year on the Thursday before Thanksgiving. This year's date is Thursday, November 19. The event, now 11 years old, is sponsored by the American Cancer Society, but thousands of other organizations, businesses, schools, and hospitals, in addition to millions of individuals, join the nationwide effort.

"The Smokeout is an upbeat, good-natured effort to encourage smokers to give up cigarettes for 24 hours. It focuses supportive attention on cigarette smokers from coast to coast, and nonsmokers join in the fun, helping them to quit for the day," an ACS spokesman said.

The goal of the 1987 Great American Smokeout is to get at least one in every five smokers to give up cigarettes from midnight to midnight on Thursday, November 19. Anyone getting a late start on Thursday can extend the 24-hour period as long as necessary past the midnight deadline to get in a full day. "It's great when smokers can prove to themselves that they can reach the goal of 24 hours of abstinence," the spokesman said.

The Smokeout is celebrated in a variety of ways in the American Cancer Society's 58 Divisions and more than 3,000 units across the country. National programs, such as "Adopt-A-Smoker," will be used in most units, and actor Larry Hagman, National Chairman for the Smokeout '87, demonstrates his commitment to the nonsmoking cause by returning to head up the event for the seventh consecutive year. Local programs will include programs in the middle and high schools. Smoking cessation materials are also available in the lobbies of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital and Garrett County Health Department.

This year the Great American Smokeout begins a new decade as an annual nationwide celebration. The first mass movement by smokers to give up cigarettes was led by Lynn R. Smith, editor of the Monticello (Minn.) Times in 1974. Smith's idea, called "D-Day" (for "Don't Smoke"), quickly spread throughout Minnesota. In 1976, it skipped west, to California, where it became known as the Great American Smokeout. In 1977, the Smokeout was observed for the first time nationwide.

Smokeout 1986 set an all-time record for participation in the day-long event. More than 23½ million of the nation's 54½ million smokers tried to kick the habit for the day.

Last year's Smokeout was a special celebration — the 10th anniversary of the national event. A nationwide "Star Search" was conducted for smokers who kicked the habit during the past 10 years. The former smokers were made the "stars" of GAS 1986 and honored with parades, rallies and prizes.

As the Great American Smokeout enters its second decade, smokers are urged to "Take a Breather". In addition to the familiar programs, college, corporate and hospital quit-smoking clinics, and popular materials like the GAS greeting card, there's a new Smokeout logo and a novel "I'm a Born Nonsmoker" baby T-shirt.

In just one decade, the idea of taking a day off from smoking has spread to other countries, such as Canada, Great Britain, Ireland, France, Australia, South Africa, Norway, Finland and Sweden. Although names and dates vary in other countries, there are increasing signs that nonsmoking efforts are growing in other countries. The World Health Organization recently announced an increase in its budget for antismoking efforts in third world nations, and governments in countries like Cuba are backing nonsmoking education programs.

Family Health Update

Cardiovascular Clean Up

One powerful motivation for giving up cigarettes is that a couple of nicotine-free years can put you back in the nonsmoker's category as far as most health risks are concerned. But the case for lowering blood cholesterol has never been as clear. If diet, you can certainly keep more plaque from building up in your coronary arteries, but what about the plaque already there? Can you actually reduce blockage? People at high risk for heart disease and their physicians have long yearned for an answer to this question. And, of course, it's of interest to healthy people too.

Limiting fats and cholesterol is indeed hard. It takes willpower as well as an intellectual effort. So knowing just how far dietary modifications can actually take us would certainly help. But while blood cholesterol levels are comparatively easy to measure, alterations in arterial plaque are difficult to gauge in a living human being.

Now, however, doctors at the University of Southern California School of Medicine have completed a two-year study showing that arterial plaque can be reduced. Men who had undergone coronary bypass surgery modified their diets and received cholesterol-reducing drugs. Their coronary plaque was monitored with X-rays. At the end of the study 16% showed perceptible improvement, compared with only 2% in the control group.

This is excellent news for healthy people as well as for those who already have heart disease. If you lower your blood cholesterol, you may not only halt arterial damage but start to unclog your arteries as well.

Win 11th Straight

Rams Defeat Campers In Overtime To Earn Berth In State Semi-Finals

A key interception by Bobby Bernard and a 10-yard touchdown run by J.R. Bosley in overtime highlighted an exciting Southern High Rams' 12-6 win over the visiting Allegany Campers Friday night in a Maryland State Class B quarterfinal contest. It was estimated that over 4,000 persons were in attendance, the largest crowd ever for a Garrett County sports event.

The victory was the 11th straight for Coach Tom Woods' squad, the most ever in a single season by the Rams, and was another major step toward Southern's first state championship. The Rams will travel to Fairmont Heights, just east of Washington, D.C., this Saturday for a 1 p.m. state semi-final clash, while James M. Bennett will play at Walkersville Friday night in the other semi-final game. Fairmont Heights earned its spot in the semi-finals by nipping Forrestville, 7-6, on Monday.

The Rams totally dominated the first half of the Southern/Allegany contest, although they had only a 6-0 advantage at intermission. The tenacious Southern defense held the Campers to just 20 yards and not a single first down in the first half, while the offense rolled up 156 yards against the Allegany defense, described as Woods as the best defensive unit faced this year by the Rams. However, turnovers prevented the Rams from putting any more points on the board.

The frustration of not scoring more points in the half seemed to cause a let-down by the Rams in the third quarter, as the Allegany offense took over the momentum and marched 78 yards for the only Camper points of the game. Fumbles again plagued the Rams in the second half, as they finished with a total of four, all of which were turnovers. The Campers lost two of three fumbles.

Both defenses tightened in the fourth period, which forced the use of the Kansas tie-breaker.

The game opened with Southern taking the kickoff, but soon fumbling the ball on their own 29-yard line. But the Allegany offense was unable to move the ball, as quarterback Robbie Robinette fumbled a snap and lost five yards on second down. Todd Mower carried the ball on the fourth down play, but was nailed at the 30 by Bernard and Gary Long, which is where the Rams began their scoring drive.

With the Allegany defense keying heavily on Bosley, who had come into the game with 1,584 yards rushing and 21 touchdowns during the regular season, Coach Woods mixed the play selection, sending fullback Mike Bittinger up the middle for 16 yards and a first down on the 47.

Southern quarterback Zack Gibson then scrambled away from Allegany defenders Randy Wolford and John Kaylor and tossed to Brent Sanders who pushed to the Allegany 43.

A screen pass to Bosley was good for 16 more yards, Gibson carried for nine yards on a bootleg, and Bittinger followed with 10 more through the middle to give the Rams a first-and-goal from just inside the 10-yard line.

A nine-yard run by Bosley around the right side behind a strong block by Sanders put the ball on the one. Gibson then sneaked the ball into the end zone, but the play was nullified by a holding penalty, which gave the Rams' a second and goal from the 11. An illegal procedure call then moved Southern back to the 16.

A 15-yard pass from Gibson to Sanders gave the Rams a third and goal at the one. Bosley then dove over the left side of the line on the next play to score at the 1:30 mark of the first quarter.

John Milligan's kick for the extra point was low and short.

Two other first-half scoring threats by the Rams were halted because of fumbles. Robinette recovered a fumble after a 20-yard run by Sanders in the second quarter and Paul Reid jumped on a mishandled snap by Gibson at the Allegany 16 with just 26 seconds remaining in the half.

Although Camper Coach Jack Gilmore said he made no adjustments on his offensive line, it was a different Allegany offense, and a different Southern defense, that took the field after halftime. Greg Harper returned the opening kickoff to the Allegany 22, from which Robinette engineered the scoring drive. Robinette, Todd Mower, and Gary Henry took turns carrying the ball, primarily over the right side, with Henry capping the effort with a two-yard scoring dive at the 3:36 mark of the third period.

Wolford's kick for the extra point was almost an instant replay of Milligan's attempt, as the ball did not have nearly the necessary height or distance.

The Ram offense was unable to move at all in the fourth period, as they were held to minus one yard during that 12-minute span; however, the Allegany offensive unit was also unsuccessful, even when John Kaylor recovered a Ram fumble at the Southern 35. The Rams regained possession after a fourth-and-one attempt was stopped cold at the 26.

After an exchange of punts, Allegany ran out the clock with the ball on their own 17, to send the contest into overtime.

The Rams won the toss and elected to go on the defensive first, as each team is given four downs to score from the 10-yard line.

Robinette attempted a sweep to the right on the Campers' first down, but Southern's Chris Helbig met him at the nine. After a timeout, Robinette went to the air, but the ball was tipped by Gibson and pulled out of the air by Bernard at the goal line. The Allegany intended receiver was wide open on the play.

It took just one play by the Southern offense to win the game, as Bosley got the call off right tackle, bounced off an Allegany defender at the five and ran over a second one to go into the end zone standing up. It was Bosley's longest run of the evening.

Bosley, who came into the game averaging nearly 160 yards per contest, was held to 67 yards on 23 attempts. Bittinger finished with 36 yards on six carries, while Mower paced Allegany with 51 yards on 13 carries. Henry picked up 34 yards on 14 attempts.

The Rams led in first downs, 11-7, and gained a total of 180 yards, compared to 121 for Allegany, all on the ground. Gibson was four-for-five through the air for 46 yards.

Coach Gilmore praised the Rams, calling them "an excellent, well-coached team that was certainly prepared for this game."

Of great concern to both coaching staffs prior to the game was the condition of the Southern field, which had not only recently undergone excavation for a new drainage system, but also had about eight inches of snow on it just 48 hours before the game. Blue Marucci, who has been the volunteer "caretaker" of the field for several years, members of the Garrett County Roads Department, and a host of other volunteers worked all week on the field to have it in the best condition possible. Although a few areas of the field were soft and muddy, neither coach felt that those conditions had a significant bearing on the outcome of the game. The only major slip was by Bosley on a run in the first half that it appeared could have gone for a touchdown.

"This was just a super win for us," Coach Woods stated, "not only because it was a playoff game, but also in terms of area prestige. There is no longer any doubt that our program is on a comparable level to those of the Cumberland schools."

Although it was the first meeting ever between Southern and Allegany in football, it was actually the sixth victory by the Rams over the Campers in the past year. The Southern boys and girls varsity basketball teams each won twice over the Campers last season and the Ram baseball team also defeated them this past spring.

Woods said he believed the turning point in the game, after the Southern let-down in the third quarter, was when the Ram defense held Allegany on the fourth-and-one play at the 26 in the fourth period.

"They were bigger and stronger than we are," he said, Continued on Page A-11

"and as the game wore on, I knew we were beginning to wear down. Our good conditioning is what kept us in the game."

Woods said he felt the Rams had a good opportunity to win the game when they recovered an Allegany fumble at the 50 with over three minutes to play, but penalties and good penetration by the Allegany defense took away that chance.

When asked about the interception by Bernard in the overtime period, Woods said that the Rams were "very fortunate" because the intended receiver was so open.

"We had a breakdown in our secondary and really blew the coverage," he said. "Fortunately Zack was able to tip the ball."

Woods' game plan for the Rams' overtime offensive series was to attempt three straight off-tackle plays, hang on to the ball, and then have Milligan kick a field goal, if necessary.

BREAKING LOOSE for a 16-yard gain against the visiting Allegany Campers Saturday night is Southern Ram fullback Mick Bittlinger, No. 39. The Rams won the state quarter-final Class B contest, 12-6 in overtime, to earn a spot in the state semi-finals.

Defensive standouts named by Woods were Marty Sharpless and Chris Helbig, who each finished with 12 tackles. Bernard and Mike Ingles. "They did a great job in stopping just about every phase of the wing-T offense," he said.

Offensively, Woods said he was pleased with the blocking of Gordon Savage and John McCartney and the running of all four backs. "Each one of our backs (Bosley, Sanders, Bittlinger, and Gibson) contributed at various points in the game, which gave us the variety and versatility we were hoping for in our running game," he said.

He also complimented Gibson's passing effort, noting that his only incompletion was a long bomb to Bosley that was just off the mark.

Coach Gilmore called Bosley "one of the finest backs in the area" and extended good luck to the Rams in the rest of the playoffs. "I hope they can continue to play well and keep up the integrity of Region I football," he said.

The next giant step for the Rams is slated for this Saturday afternoon at Fairmont Heights (see separate story).

More Than 1,000 Antlerless Deer Permits Available

The Maryland Forest, Park and Wildlife Service has announced that 1,047 antlerless deer permits are still available. Surplus quantities are as follows: Allegany/Zone 1, 312; Carroll, 311; Cecil/Zone 2, 354; and Garrett/Zone 2, 70. All other permits were awarded during the recent computer drawing.

A total of 21,874 people applied for the 18,300 antlerless deer permits offered in 1987; 17,253 permits were issued.

The remaining 1,047 permits will be available on a first-come, first-serve basis starting Monday, November 23. Hunters must apply in person at DNR Service Centers. No permits will be available until 8:30 a.m. at any Service Center, although some facilities officially open doors at 8 a.m. This way, hunters across the state have equal opportunities to obtain permits, the DNR says.

A valid hunting license is necessary to obtain an antlerless deer permit at Service Centers. One person may pick up permits for three other friends and hunting partners, but must have the hunting licenses of those people in his/her possession. No more than three extra permits will be disbursed.

Permits may be obtained locally at the Western Regional Service Center, Naves Crossroads (Route 8, Box 22), Cumberland, MD 21502.

Southern Girls Finish 1-5 At State Tourney

The Southern High girls volleyball team traveled to Walkersville High last Friday to participate in the Class B girls volleyball championships, where they were met with the stiffest competition they had seen all year. Despite the fact that the Lady Rams did not have a winning season, they nonetheless edged out the other regional teams for the final spot in the playoffs.

Coach Helen Rostosky's squad finished with a 1-5 mark in the six-game, round robin tournament. They were walloped in the first two games by Catonsville, the number one ranked team in the tournament, 15-0 and 15-3.

Kendra Wagner and Tabitha Sliger each had one spike for the Rams.

Despite the lopsided score, Coach Rostosky was pleased her team had the opportunity to play such a powerful team. "Catonsville was a Class A school until last year and several of their players have qualified for the Junior Olympics," she said. "It was a great experience for our girls to play them."

The next opponent was Chesapeake, also a powerful squad, who topped the Rams 15-2 and 15-11.

Debbie Bateman recorded four ace serves against Chesapeake, Cheryl Wilt had four points, including three aces, Wagner finished with three spikes, and Regina Crew and Cathy Kimble each recorded two spikes.

"We had a lot of good digs against Chesapeake, but they just kept coming back at us," Rostosky said.

Southern then met Eastern Vo-Tech, losing the first game, 15-10, but coming back to take the second one, 17-15.

"The crowd was really behind us in the final game," Rostosky said.

Bateman finished with eight points, while Sliger had seven, including three aces, and also recorded three blocks and five spikes. Wilt added five points and Katie Grove had four aces and five spikes.

"All in all, we were very pleased with our performance and we had a great time," Rostosky said. "We are already looking forward to next year, when we will be a more experienced team."

Rams To Meet "Hornets' Nest" In Next Encounter

It's 11 victories down and two to go for the Southern Rams in their quest for the first state championship in any sport for Southern High School. The most recent step toward that goal was a 12-6 overtime win over visiting Allegany Saturday night in a Class B state quarterfinal game. The next hurdle, which is expected to be still more difficult, will be to get by Fairmont Heights, a Washington, D.C., area team that is sporting a 10-1 record.

Fairmont Heights, the second-seeded team in the Class B rankings, earned a semi-final spot by edging the number seven seed, Forestville, 7-6, on Monday afternoon. The Rams are seeded third.

The third largest Class B school in the state, Fairmont Heights' only blemish this season was a loss to Laurel, a Class A school. The last time they were in the state playoffs was in 1983, the same year the Rams lost to James M. Bennett in the quarterfinals; however that year Fairmont Heights was a Class A school.

Coach Tom Woods and members of his staff have seen the Hornets play twice and are concerned about how the Rams are going to be able to contain their outstanding team speed.

"They are very, very quick and they have good size," Woods said, noting that most of their linemen and linebackers are at least six feet tall and weigh in the area of 190 pounds. "We have gone against bigger teams this year, but none that possess the kind of quickness this team has," he said.

Offensively, the Hornets are led by three quick, strong running backs: Jeff Turner, a 5-9, 175-pound senior halfback; William Massey, a 5-4, 145-pound sophomore halfback; and Garnell Wilson, a 5-8, 190-pound senior fullback. Providing much of their blocking this season have been senior guard Bo Hillian, 5-9, 195, and senior tight end Tim Hall, 6-3, 195.

The Hornets utilize both the wing-T and the wishbone offenses, running mostly outside, off-tackle plays from the wing formation and power-oriented plays from the wishbone. They also have given their opponents problems by their frequent use of an unbalanced line.

"They really don't throw the ball that much, maybe 10 to 15 times per game," Woods said, "but that's because they haven't had to. We really need to be ready for them when they do throw, though, because if we're not, they are going to run right by us."

Defensively, Fairmont Heights runs from 5-2 and 6-2 formations and is led by a host of seniors, including guard Eric Myers, 6-4, 197; defensive end Dwight Freeland, 5-11, 195; tackle Calvin Graves, 6-2, 206; and linebacker Carl Cooper, 5-8, 190.

"They do a lot of blitzing and really put the pressure on a backfield in a hurry," Woods said. "Our backs are going to have to hit the seams quickly if they expect to move the ball against them."

Prior to the Allegany game, Woods described the Campers' defense as the strongest the Rams had seen all year. When asked to compare Allegany's defense to that of Fairmont Heights, he said he believed Allegany's was stronger, but Fairmont Heights' makes up the difference with their speed.

"To give some idea of how quick they are and how good their coverage is," he said, "Forestville has a wide receiver that is being heavily recruited by universities including Notre Dame and Florida State. He did not catch a single pass Monday against Fairmont Heights."

"So, we do not expect to be able to throw much at all against them, unless we can come up with a quick surprise play of some kind."

Coach Ralph Paden of Fairmont Heights was equally complimentary of the Southern Rams, having seen them play last Saturday night against Allegany.

"They are not that big," he said, "but they come off that ball so hard and so quick, and they do a great job of blocking for Bosley. He's one of the finest backs I've seen. We're just holding our breath about him."

Paden said his team is "a little bruised" from Monday's quarterfinal game, but in generally good shape for Saturday's contest.

"Our boys know this is the toughest game on our schedule so far and that we're just one step away from Byrd Stadium. So it's a challenge for them and we're really excited about it," he said.

Woods said that, although the seating capacity at Fairmont Heights' field is rather limited, he was impressed with the facilities and the friendliness of the local people. "Everyone there went out of their way to be friendly and make us feel welcome, especially the principal and athletic director," he said. "The school is located in a very nice neighborhood."

The seating capacity at the field is 1,500, half of which will be roped off for Southern fans, and Woods hopes that there are "a lot of friendly faces in the stands."

"This is just like another game against a Musselman or Tucker County or Allegany," he said. "The further you go in the playoffs, the more difficult it becomes. There are no easy teams left. We are going to have to have an outstanding effort from our kids and a big part of being able to do that is having loud support from the stands. So I hope a LOT of local people will be able to make the trip."

The team will depart Friday and will stay at the Quality Inn in College Park. The Inn is offering special rates for Southern High fans and reservations may be made there by calling 864-5820. The special room rate for four persons is $45.

There is also an adult chartered bus as well as a student bus scheduled to make the trip. Persons wishing to ride either bus may contact Sandy Smith at Southern High School for reservations. The cost for a seat on the chartered bus is $17 and the student bus tickets are $10.

Persons going directly from Garrett County to the Fairmont Heights field for the game should follow U.S. 48 and 70 east to Frederick; take 270 South to Rt. 495, which is the Washington beltway; follow 495 toward College Park; take Exit 17-B, which is a right turn off the beltway; go to the first stop light and turn left onto Sheriff Road; proceed through six stop lights and at the seventh stop light, turn right on Addison Road; travel four-tenths of a mile and turn right onto Inglewood Drive, at which point the school will be in view.

If the Rams are victorious this Saturday, they will face the winner of the Walkersville/Bennett game the following weekend for the state title. The championship game will be played in Byrd Stadium at College Park.

Mt. Top League Opens Season With Upsets

The Mt. Top Basketball League opened its 1987-88 season last Thursday with two upsets by teams that finished at the bottom of last year's standings.

The major upset of the night and most exciting game was registered by Ferrel's Mart over Old Mill Restaurant, 67-64. Ferrel's Mart, who finished last year as unimpressive 3-11, topped Old Mill, a semi-finalist last year, when Pat McCloud nailed a 20-foot, 3-point jumper at the buzzer.

Ferrel's stole the ball at half-court with one second remaining and called a time-out. The inbound play was set-up and McCloud's shot from the top of the key left his hand just before time ran out.

McCloud finished with 26 points for Ferrel's and Brian Selders of Old Mill led all scorers with 27 points.

In other games, Video Connection, 4-10 last year, knocked off Fairfax Stone, fifth place in 1986-87, 55 to 42.

Martin's Auto baptized new Entry Bausch & Lomb into the league with a 71-55 win. Miner's & Merchant Bank rolled over the 76ers, 115-45, and A&A Realty cruised past Deep Creek Pharmacy, 77-48.

Coors WINTERFEST 1987
BREWED EXCLUSIVELY FOR THE HOLIDAYS

That festive newcomer at your favorite tavern and on your liquor dealer's shelf — the one called Winterfest — is a special stout lager brewed by Coors especially for the holidays.

Adolph Coors Company and Lohr Distributors, Inc., are making this special brew available in retail accounts throughout Garrett County in celebration of the holiday season.

Winterfest follows a well-known European tradition of brewing seasonal beers for special occasions. In 1986, Coors produced just enough Winterfest to offer it for sale in Colorado. It was so well received, Coors has decided to expand distribution of the holiday brew throughout its marketing territory.

This Year, Maryland residents will have the opportunity to experience and enjoy this robust, European-style beer.

"It's always great to be able to introduce a new Coors product," said Bob Lohr, President of Lohr Distributors, Inc. "We're especially happy to have Winterfest for this holiday season."

In 1986, Winterfest sold out in Colorado within a few weeks of its introduction.

"It's a great beer," said Lohr. "Winterfest gives us a special chance to wish our customers a 'Happy Holiday'."

Winterfest will be available in 12-ounce non-returnable bottles beginning November 23. Sales will continue only until supplies are depleted.

Cheerleaders Honor Former NHS Advisor

Mrs. Jo Ann Robinson, physical education teacher and cheerleader advisor for the past 25 years at Northern High School, was honored by past and present cheerleaders at the half-time festivities at the Northern-Southern football game on Friday, November 6.

The event was coordinated by Nancy Thomas, captain of the 1971 cheerleading squad, who presented Mrs. Robinson with a dozen roses from the cheerleaders. Other gifts given to her on behalf of the cheerleaders included: a blue and gold afghan given to her by Pam Cutler and Linda Severe, captain and co-captain of the 1970 squad; a cross-stitch Husky picture, presented by Ellen Housley, captain of the 1972 squad; a scrapbook, given to her by Patty Rice, co-captain of the 1972 squad; and a box of cards from each cheerleader, presented by Debbie Brenneman, 1982 captain.

The scrapbook contained past and present photos of each cheerleader. Each cheerleader also sent a card expressing their gratitude to Mrs. Robinson.

Also on hand for the festivities was Delegate George C. Edwards, who happens to be Mrs. Robinson's brother-in-law. Del. Edwards read a letter to Mrs. Robinson from the tearful cheerleaders.

Over the years, Mrs. Robinson has advised a total of 67 varsity cheerleaders. All but nine responded to the letter sent by the planning committee for

"ALL MY CHEERLEADERS" would have been an appropriate title for the portion of the half-time show at the Northern-Southern football game on November 6 which honored long-time cheerleader advisor, Jo Ann Robinson. Of the 67 varsity cheerleaders she had advised over the past 25 years, 31 braved the frigid temperatures to honor her. All but nine responded with letters. One is deceased. Mrs. Robinson has taught at Northern for 30 years, with 27 of those years in the physical education department. "We did this to tell her 'thank you for your sense of humor, for your love of sports and for your wisdom.' The final gift we give to her is the first gift she gave to us — the gift of love," said a spokesman for the cheerleaders. Pictured in the foreground are Mrs. Robinson, left, and Patty Rice, presenting the scrapbook. Onlooking former cheerleaders, left to right, are Terry Jo Stough (Mrs. Robinson's daughter), Kathy Swartzentruber, Tammy Omerzo, Kim Kamp, Debbie Brenneman, and Ellen Housley.

Speaker at the opening dinner meeting on Wednesday evening was Michael Creedon of the National Council on Aging. Today, a panel led by Dr. Maxie T. Collier, commissioner of the Baltimore City Health Department, will consider the state's long-term care system for disabled adults. On Friday, Stanley Herr, law professor at the University of Maryland School of Law, will discuss the legal problems encountered in providing service to this population.

According to Anita Marshall, director of Adult Services at DHR, the purpose of the gathering is to evaluate the need for services and to plan for the possible expansion of programs to fill those needs.

The department currently operates four programs to serve elderly and disabled adults. They are:

•Social Services to Adults — A case management program, part of Maryland's community-based long-term care system, for adults who require assistance in maintaining their independence because of advanced age, poor health, or disability.

•Adult Protective Services — A program to prevent or remedy the neglect, self-neglect, abuse, or exploitation of adults who are at risk of immediate harm or who are unable to protect their own interests.

"Do You Think It Snows In Heaven?" — A Mother's Story Is Told

by Bernice Kepple

"Do You Think It Snows In Heaven? A Journal About Christopher," by Sally A. Schwing, is a touching account of how one mother confronted the illness and death of her teenage son.

The Schwing family resides in The Cove in northern Garrett County, and that is where Christopher, the well-loved and very-loving youngest child in the family, grew up and went to school. It was as Christopher approached his teens that unexplained behavioral problems began to appear.

Written in diary form, the author make the reader a witness to her thoughts, her fears, and her faith. In a diary entry just before Christopher's 13th birthday, his mother reveals, "I am well aware of Chris' growing problems — the low opinion of himself, the antennas, his distrust of others, his need to dismantle things. But, until yesterday, I knew nothing about his driving the car."

An entry early the following year begins, "Christopher ran away for the umpteenth time today. After being disciplined, he packed a sleeping bag, put on his coat, strapped on his toboggan and started walking out through the field, knee deep in the snow."

As Chris' problems continued, accompanied by severe headaches, the one bright spot in his life seemed to be the time he spent on the slopes skiing. "Even though his days seem to be filled with turmoil, his love for skiing has a tranquilizing effect on him as a total person," the diary says.

When Chris' continuing problems called for a CT scan and a brain tumor was discovered, the family was pulled between fear for Chris and relief that his "bizarre behavior" had been a definite symptom of a brain tumor. "Without saying anything, he radiates: 'Hey world, look at me. There's a real physical reason that I have been so mixed up . . .'" his mother wrote in her diary after that sad discovery.

"I felt a lot of guilt," Schwing said in a recent interview. "I told him how guilty I felt; he told me he forgave me. He really made it easy."

Major surgery gave Chris only one year to live, and the book gives the reader a picture of how his mother and brothers, neighbors and school friends strive to make it a quality year. "No one really knows how they will react to a situation like this," Schwing said. "Different people act differently."

This, Schwing said, and just wanting to say, "Chris, I love you," were the main reasons for writing the book. Hospice was another big reason she had for writing the book. Schwing has worked with other terminally ill persons since Chris' death and serves on the board of Hospice. "I would love to be a 'death nurse,'" she said.

The book is something Schwing knew she was going to do even before Chris died. "Chris knew I was going to write the book," she said. Several people told us that they thought a book should be written about Chris' life and death. Schwing explained. "I told him: I knew him better than anyone; I would write the book."

Schwing started the book, but came to a point where she said she was just foundering around. At that point, she entered a creative writing class at Garrett Community College, taught by Joan Crawford. "It really helped," she said. She went on to take a second semester of independent study to prepare the manuscript for publication. The book was published this fall.

"It was a real inspiration to work with Sally," Crawford said recently. "It was inspirational for everyone in the class. That she could tell her story as she did will help many people. It's very gratifying."

Craig Abrahamson, an Oakland psychologist who counseled Chris, said: "I feel the book does a good job, not only by verbalizing, but by bringing people together within the death process of a young person." He continued, "Now that the book is in print, I feel it will help members of this particular community in their conception of what I would call premature death."

The book is available at businesses throughout the county. It can be purchased at Debbie Stemple's Beauty Shop in Accident, Yoders Country Market in Grantsville, The Book Mark'et in Oakland, and The Free Spirit Book Store in Oakland. The book will also be available at a reception in Schwing's honor at Garrett Community College on December 7 (see separate story).

Pvt. Roy Bittinger, Oakland, has recently completed 13 weeks of basic training and advanced individual training at Fort Benning, Ga., where he received a badge for expertise in bayonet use. He also placed second in missile, rifle and grenade use.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualifies the soldier as a light-weapon infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Bittinger, presently stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., also completed three weeks of Airborne Jump School where he received his parachute jump wings.

He is a 1987 graduate of Southern High School and is the son of Mary Lou (Keller) Bittinger, Westernport, and Roy Bittinger, Oakland.

Pvt. Roger L. Tasker, son of Roger L. and Carlyn S. Tasker, Route 3, Deer Park, has completed basic training at Fort Dix, N.J.

During the training, students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He is a 1986 graduate of Southern High School.

Health Views

by Dr. Earl N. Williams, D.C.

THE SECRETARY'S MOST COMMON COMPLAINT

The secretary's most common complaint, believe it or not, has nothing to do with the company she, or he, works for or the boss. Although her attitude toward her job may very well be influenced by her work load and her respect for the company and person she works for, most often the complaint centers around the equipment provided her to do her job.

Bad typewriter, you ask? Not at all. Most secretaries are satisfied with their typewriters, desks, and work environments. But their beg gripe is their chairs. That is, if they are aware enough to associate that chronic nagging backache with an inadequate sitting posture.

In spite of the prevalence of national and local secretaries' associations and special weeks for "being good to your secretary," secretaries may very well be the largest group of neglected employees in the world. The reason: most people tend to think that any job that requires sitting is "easy work." Thus, they tend to overlook a severe occupational problem (one that executives and students suffer from as well). They overlook the fact that the devoted secretary who keeps her boss' appointment book straight, can read the boss' writing better than he can, and types 20, 30, or 40 letters a day is prone to severe postural stress and back pain.

Is it any wonder then, that at times she moves a little slower than she used to and doesn't have the smile on her face that customers find so attractive? Is it any wonder why the "typewriter" isn't quite as fast as it used to be, and even makes mistakes at times?

Consider the possibility that your valued secretary may have strained muscles and a sore back from sitting in the same strained position for hours on end.

Your doctor of chiropractic, a specialist in treating health problems related to the back and spine, has some good suggestions on how you can keep a secretary happy and more efficient. They deal with maintaining the structural integrity of the body.

1. Get her a good posture chair.
2. Advise her to sit erect with her feet firmly on the floor.

3. Suggest that she change sitting positions frequently.
  4. Let her take standing breaks occasionally, perhaps by giving her a variety of duties.
  5. Emphasize to her the importance of exercise and physical fitness.
  6. Explain that you're interested in her welfare as well as performance.
- If you are a secretary, clip this column and give it to your boss. If you are an executive, hand it to your secretary. If you are a parent of a student, suggest that it be read for the sake of a happier career and better health.

Education Board

Also at the meeting, the board acted favorably on the revision of board policy concerning the home instruction program. The program, which allows for home-instruction of students, is contingent on numerous standards being met by the home instructor.

The program, as the result of lobbying groups, is now less stringent in its requirements, and is patterned after the state by-law. The board, according to Ryscavage, will review the program for one more month before taking action at the next meeting.

Ryscavage added that involvement in the program will be limited to the monitoring of the home instruction program through the superintendent's office.

Regarding administration concerns, it was announced at the meeting that the architect selection process for the planned renovation of Southern High School has yielded the selection of three architectural firms (narrowed down from 11 applicants) to be interviewed by the selection committee by the end of the month.

Those selected to make presentations to the committee were Gande and Partners, Inc., Charleston, W.Va., Altman and Altman, Architects and Planners, Uniontown, Pa., and Jacob J. Gresh, Associates, Pittsburgh, Pa.

According to Ryscavage, an appointment will hopefully be made by the board before the December meeting.

Upon a recommendation made by Dr. Ryscavage, a shortfall of $62,000 in the FY 1988 budget will be balanced by excessive monies in the health insurance program. Ryscavage explained that $100,000 had been budgeted for in the insurance program but that only $25,000 had been used.

The board decided to use the leftover money for the shortfall, and this decision will now be taken to the Garrett County Commissioners for final approval.

The board also voted to appoint a committee to review appeals for school bus stops, consisting of two school board

PAYING A VISIT to the students of Loch Lynn Elementary School recently were several residents of Cuppett and Weeks Nursing Home, Oakland, who presented the children with Halloween baskets filled with candy. The children responded by giving the residents decorated Halloween cards which they had made. administrators, a school bus driver or contractor, the assistant superintendent of administration services and the superintendent of transportation.

Ryscavage explained that a need for this type of committee was the result of numerous complaints regarding the location of bus stops and the considerable amount of time taken by the board to review the appeals.

The board responded to a request to revise the board policy regarding enrollment at Yoder School by extending the enrollment period from February 15 to August 15.

It was also determined that if a child transfers to Yoder School from another kindergarten, re-enrollment would not be necessary, but that the intent to transfer to Yoder would have to be indicated when the child enrolled in kindergarten.

A report was presented to the board by John Ledden, career employment co-ordinator, on the progress of evening high school.

According to Ledden, 14 students are currently enrolled in the program which gives students an alternative opportunity to work toward a high school diploma. He emphasized that this is the first year students will be allowed review credit for classes already taken in the regular curriculum.

Direct transfer of credits is now also an option for evening students. Formerly, said Ledden, withdrawal from school resulted in a drop-out status for the student who then had to reapply for the credits later.

Ledden noted that one of the 14 students enrolled in evening classes is able to receive full credit after having arrived in Garrett County late in the school year. Previously, credit would have been lost.

The satelting of food service to Red House School was also a topic presented to the board for consideration. Because of the recent death of the cafeteria manager there, the possibility exists, said Ryscavage, that Red House is a candidate for the program. He added that, because of the suddenness of the situation, a decision would probably not be made until the beginning of next year.

Al Ringer, assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction, presented an update to the board regarding the AIDS curriculum to be added to the regular curriculum. He noted that the state by-law to approve the addition will not be passed until December. After that time, he said, more information will be made available.

WCI Executives Meet To Discuss Championships

The executive committee of Whitewater Championships, Inc. (WCI) met November 5, at Whitewater Headquarters in McHenry. They continued discussions on the upcoming 1988 Pre-World's and 1989 World Whitewater Championships to be held on the Savage River near Bloomington.

It was announced at the meeting that Nancy Nemith would be assuming the position of chairman of the Media and Public Relations Committee of WCI. She replaces Fred Bolton who will now serve as protocol director.

George Small, assistant district engineer with the State Highway Administration was also named chairman of the newly created Transportation Committee.

Others attending included officers of WCI, all committee chairmen and co-chairmen, state representatives from various departments, Maryland National Guard officials, engineers, and representatives from the Department of Natural Resources.

GENERAL INSTRUMENT VIDEOCIPHER® II 2100E SATELLITE DESCRAMBLER

FEATURES

Automatic Descrambling of Authorized Signals	After the 2100E descrambler is installed, your local cable company or programmer will authorize your unit to receive the scrambled programming to which you subscribe. Then the descrambler will automatically decode those channels.
Multi-Channel Reception	With a single 2100E descrambler, you'll be able to process all channels, up to 240, that are coded with the General Instrument VideoCipher® II scrambling system.
Assist Displays	The 2100E descrambler is designed for easy operation. Twenty-eight "assist" displays appear on your television screen showing you how to operate many functions.
Enhanced Video Performance	When a satellite signal is scrambled with the VideoCipher® II system, the audio subcarriers are eliminated from the video signal. Elimination of subcarriers, combined with digital processing means that more power can be supplied to the video signal. This results in better video performance of the descrambled channels.
Wireless Remote Control (Optional)	The optional wireless infrared remote control allows you to operate all descrambler features.
Superior Digital Audio	All scrambled audio signals are digitized and error-coded so you'll receive high-quality, noise free audio on all descrambled channels. And if programmers offer stereo broadcasts, just connect your stereo-equipped TV set or home audio system to the 2100E descrambler for rich stereo sound.
Special Programmer Services	Programmers may offer special features that are fully operational with the 2100E descrambler. These built-in features include: second language audio; password-controlled program ratings; personal data and teletext messages; and special event pay-per-view programming.
Compatibility	The 2100E is designed to operate with most satellite receivers that use a 70 MHz, 70 MHz IF loop-through or composite baseband interface (some receivers may require modification to provide the composite video output). See our current receiver compatibility sheet, or contact your receiver manufacturer for more information.

We also will include with your purchase a very special deal on programming packages.

You can be watching your favorite movie channel or sports channel within minutes of your installation.

Glofelty Couple Celebrates 50th

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Glofelty celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary with 230 of their family and friends at a buffet dinner-dance on October 18, held at the Colonial Room, Silver Spring.

The couple's two children, Mrs. Dorothy Granger, Seattle, Wash., and Edward Glofelty, Haymarket, Va., planned and hosted the affair and joined their parents at the head table with John Granger, Dorothy's husband, four children, Dean, Kevin, Eve and Sherry, and Mrs. Jeri Walters, Edward's guest. After welcoming guests and introduction of the head table, Mrs. Granger gave the invocation.

The head table was decorated by a centerpiece and garlands of gardenias, white roses and stephanotis which also made up the bridal bouquet 50 years ago. The buffet and dessert tables were decorated with floral arrangements and a large ice swan figure. Floral arrangements on pedestals provided the background for the head table and band areas. Flowers and palms, a collection of pictures of the original wedding party, pictures of the couple during their courtship and other mementos decorated the entrance lobby.

Six tables reserved for the original wedding party and family members were each decorated with an arrangement of white snapdragons, Gerber daisies and stephanotis mounted on top of a 36" high clear glass vase. Other guest tables were decorated with candles, white satin roses and wide gold colored streamers. Favors for the ladies were small gold colored baskets decorated with white lace, miniature white flowers and seed pearls and filled with mint wafers.

Background music by Greg Echolm and his band accompanied dinner with popular tunes from the 20's, 30's and 40's, together with refrains from the Glofelty's favorite, Ray Noble's "The Very Thought Of You." After dinner, introduction of guests who were part of the original wedding party and family members and recognition of those who had come from long distances was

PERFORMANCE TESTING

Once a hearing test indicates the need for a hearing aid, a person should submit to a hearing aid evaluation. This test, performed by an audiologist, is invaluable because it matches a hearing aid with its user. This is important because it assures the user that the final selection of an aid is based on its ability to actually help the individual's hearing. An evaluation takes about an hour and consists of the user being fitted with a variety of different aids. The user's hearing is then measured as each aid is worn. The final choice is based on the best hearing performance with a specific aid. This hearing aid evaluation effectively rules out any performance dissatisfaction with an aid at a later date.

Based upon the needs detected by your evaluation we at ALLEGANY HEARING & SPEECH ASSOCIATES will help you select the hearing assist device suited to your problem. Our helpful staff also takes the time to insure a comfortable fit so that your satisfaction will be complete. Come and "hear" what we have to say. The selection of a hearing aid should not be based on size, but performance.

Mary Harrison Weds Barton Sweitzer In October Double-Ring Ceremony

Mary Louise Harrison and Barton Leo Sweitzer were wed in a double-ring ceremony at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland. The October 18 ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ray Ursin.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Callis Jr., Oakland, and escorted to the altar by her father. The groom is the son of Mrs. Barbara Sweitzer, New York City.

Ms. Laura Harrison, of Oakland, sister of the bride, served as maid of honor. She wore a tea-length, russet-colored, lace dress with a satin bow.

The groom wore a dolphin-grey tuxedo with grey bowtie and cummerbund, while his bestman, Bret Sweitzer, of roses and lace-covered leaves. The headpiece had belonged to the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Loretta Beckman, and was re-designed by the bride and her mother.

The bride wore a pearl necklace with a matching pair of clustered pearl earrings belonging to her grandmother, Mrs. Loretta Deter, Cumberland.

All flowers, including the bridal bouquet, were made by the bride and her sister. They consisted of various types of carnations in shades of wine and ivory.

The vocalist for the ceremony was George Scheffel, who was accompanied by Marcella Kerins at the organ.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. All church decorations, which included ivory satin bows with burgundy highlights, and floral basket arrangements were made by the bride's aunt and grandmother, Mrs. Nancy Luague, Galax, Va., and Mrs. Mary L. Callis, Oakland.

The four-tier wedding cake with flowers of ivory and wine was baked by Mrs. Ruth Harvey, Oakland, a friend of the couple. The punch was served by Mrs. Beverly McGann, Mt. Savage, and Mrs. Cathy Pannone, Cumberland, both aunts of the bride, and Ms. Elaine Baker, a friend of the couple.

Wedding mints in the shape of tiny bells and flowers were made by the bride and her aunt, Mrs. Geraldine Turney.

Bridal packets were made by Marie Shroot, friend of the couple, the couple's mothers, the maid of honor and the bride. They were distributed by Selena McGann, cousin of the bride.

Church programs and the register were handled by Mary Beth Pannone and Lori Luague, cousins of the bride.

Music at the reception was provided by the bride's father, James Callis Jr.; the bride's grandfather, Garland Deter; and a family friend, George Butler of North Carolina.

Gifts were registered by Linda Callis, Oakland, and Geraldine Turney, Mtn. Lake Park, both aunts of the bride.

All photos were taken by family and friends.

Out-of-town guests were from California, New York City, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia. Special guests included: Mrs. Mary Martin, Cuppet and Weeks Nursing Home, grandmother of the groom; Mrs. Henrietta Propst, Cumberland, grandmother of the bride; and Mrs. Elizabeth McGann, Cumberland, great-grandmother of the bride.

A rehearsal dinner was given by the groom's mother at the Will O'the Wisp. Following a honeymoon to New York City, the couple are residing in Oakland.

The groom is a 1980 graduate of Southern High School, employed by Appalachian Crossroads, Oakland, and the bride is a 1983 graduate of Southern High School.

Teresa A. Rivenbark, Mark A. Weeks Exchange Vows In October Ceremony

Teresa Ann Rivenbark and Mark Allen Weeks were wed during a double-ring ceremony at Pleasant View Baptist Church in Oakland. The October 24 ceremony was performed by Pastor Marty Herron Jr.

The bride was given away by her cousin, Douglas R. Hoover, Gaithersburg, and her mother, Ms. Shirley Rivenbark, Oakland. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Weeks Sr., Pleasant Valley.

Rhonda Wharton Sisler, friend of the bride, served as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Jodi Wilt, Tamra Kelly, Brenda Butler, friends of the bride, and Robin Andrews, sister of the groom.

The matron of honor wore a yellow satin floor-length gown with a white lace skirt coming up in gathers with white satin bows. Mrs. Sisler carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white silk lilies and azaleas with yellow satin ribbon. She wore a matching hairpiece of lilies and ribbons.

The four bridesmaids wore yellow satin floor-length gowns with a yellow lace skirt coming up in gathers with yellow satin bows. The bridesmaids carried yellow lily bouquets of silk with matching hairpiece of lilies and ribbons.

The flower girl was Rebecca Harvey, cousin of the groom. She wore a white lace dress and carried a yellow basket of lilies, azaleas and ribbon. On her head she wore a circlet of yellow and white blossoms and streamers.

Serving as best man was Randy Sheltra, friend of the groom. He wore a black tuxedo with tails, and a yellow bow tie and cummerbund.

The groomsmen were Bruce Bosley, and Norman Wawzinski, friends of the groom, Michael Nealis, cousin of the bride, and Keith Andrews, brother-in-law of the groom. They all wore black tuxedos with yellow bow ties and cummerbunds.

The ring bearer was Billy Harvey, cousin of the groom. He wore a white suit with a yellow bow tie.

The bride wore a white silk chiffon gown. Her bodice featured a high neckline, leg-o-mutton sleeves and princess waistline, all with Chantilly lace and satin ribbon. Her full skirt fell into four tiers of illusion and lace flowing in a semi-cathedral train. To complement her wedding gown the bride chose for her headpiece a French wreath attached to silk illusion. The bride carried a white lace and silk bouquet of roses, lilies, azaleas, Queen Anne's lace and baby's breath with accents of yellow. The baby's breath was highlighted with white and yellow satin streamers filled with love knots.

The groom wore a white tuxedo with tails, a yellow bow tie and cummerbund. The groom also sang "I've Waited a Lifetime" to the bride during the ceremony.

Other soloists were Debbie Weeks singing "The Wedding Song", Wally Weeks singing "Our Love in Christ" and together they sang "Our Love". Wally and Debbie Weeks are the groom's brother and sister-in-law. The pianist was Melanie followed by a short program of recollection and levity highlighting the couple's courtship, wedding day and early married years. "The Very Thought Of You" was sung by Joseph Zeis. A five-tier wedding cake, topped by a decoration created by Mrs. Glotfelty, was furnished by Clements Bakery of Washington who also made the wedding cake 50 years ago. Cutting of the cake, renewing old friendships and dancing filled the rest of the evening. Those present of the original wedding party were Jack Emerins, Herbert Farmer, Kenneth Tunnell, Mrs. Evelyn Hofmann and Mrs. Marguerite Young, sister of Mrs. Glotfelty. Guests from the mountain top area included Mrs. Okareda Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. June Bolyard, Mr. and Mrs. David Cogan and Miss Jane Baumann. Other out-of-town guests included Mrs. Eleanor Robey, White Plains, sister of Mr. Glotfelty; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clare, Long Beach, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Hobbs, Tell City, Ind.; Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Hart, Prattville, Ala.; Mr. and Mrs. James Martin and children, Nicole and Jimmy, Melbourne, Fla.; Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Snyder, Corpus Christie, Tex.; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schiller, Raleigh, N.C., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fritzen and Mrs. Charlene Parnell and children, Kimberly and Gregory, Aiken, S.C.

Loch Lynn on Lothian Street. The groom works for Bausch and Lomb in the tortuga room and the bride is employed by Garrett National Bank as a loan administrator clerk.

Joseph Glotfelty, son of the late Joseph T. Glotfelty Sr., and the late Carrie Lelia Browning Glotfelty, who were residents of Oakland, and his wife, the former Dorothy Louise Rausch, Washington, D.C., maintain a second home in the Oakland area.

Lewis-Morgan Wedding Slated

ARTICULATION REVIEW — Garrett Community College and Garrett County public school representatives are shown above reviewing English course materials for a GCC-high school course for college credit as provided for under the articulation program between the high schools and GCC. A total of 26 Garrett County seniors are participating in the program which began Friday. The students will receive three college credits for completion in the course. Joan Sussman, instructor for the course, stated, "I was delighted with the talent and enthusiasm of the class members. Our first session was very lively — the students show enthusiasm for both thinking and writing." According to Sussman, students applying for the course completed writing samples which were submitted to the college English faculty for evaluation. The writing samples were then approved on the basis of content and mechanical correctness. Shown above, left to right, are Dr. Stephen Herman, GCC president; Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, superintendent of Garrett County schools; Joan Sussman, William Goldsborough, president, Garrett County Board of Education; and Wayne Hamilton, chairman, GCC Board of Trustees.

BITTINGER-GLADES

Church News
Several members from Emmanuel Church and St. Paul's, Accident, attended the installation of the first bishop of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synod in Wheeling, W.Va., on Saturday. The Rev. L. Alexander Black was installed by the Rev. Herbert Chilstrom, bishop of the Evangelical Church in America. The services were held in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church of Wheeling. The church facilities were offered due to the expected large crowd which would attend. There were 800 in attendance.

Special music was part of the ceremony, and the College Choir of Thiel College rendered several special selections. Duane Giotfely, grandson of Martha Giotfely, Bittinger, is a member of this college choir.

The assisting minister for the day was the Rev. Anna Ritter-Esborn, pastor of the Sugar Valley Parish, Loganton, Pa., a member of Edgewood, Wheeling, and Pastor Black's first daughter in the ministry.

A pectoral cross was placed around the bishop's neck by his friend and his bishop for the past 13 years, Bishop Kenneth May of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America. The cross will be Bishop Black's personal cross and was a gift from his Edgewood congregation where he served for over 16 years.

A Synodical Bishop's Cross which will be passed on from Bishop to Bishop will be designed by an artist on the territory of the synod, crafted by a craftsman of the synod and made of materials found on the territory of the synod.

The bishop was vested in a cope, ceremonial ecclesiastical garment, which was a gift from Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell Harmon, Mr. Harmon was the presenter.

Also installed were the vice president, Mr. Wayne Sayre, First Church, Parkersburg; secretary, Pastor Richard Gast, of St. Mark's, Wheeling; and the treasurer, Robert L. Heffner, Grace Church, Fairmont.

Receptions were held in the Fellowship Halls of both the Episcopal Church and the Lutheran Church across the street.

Attending from Emmanuel were Pastor Louise Knotts, Audrey Brenneman, Margie Brenneman, Ida Reckner, (St. John's) and Martha Giotfely.

From St. Paul's, Accident, were Pastor William Carlson, Mary Zinkan, Orpha Miller, Cora Bowser and Helen Keller.

Joseph and Linda Buckel also attended. They were overnight guests at the home of Rev. and Mrs. John Haberle of First English Church, Wheeling.

The organ concert in Emmanuel on Sunday evening was well-attended.

On Sunday evening, George Lohr and his wife, Shirley, sang several songs and gave a talk at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church.

On Tuesday evening, eight members of the singing group called the "Gospel Express" will give a musical recital at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church. The time is 7:30 p.m. and the public is invited to attend. There are several children in the group.

Thanksgiving Schedules
The Cherry Glade Mennonite Church will hold a Thanksgiving Day service at 10 a.m. Food is to be brought for the House of Hope.

A joint Parish Thanksgiving service will be held on Thanksgiving Eve at Emmanuel.

Presentations
Linda Buckel gave her presentation of her trip to Europe on Sunday afternoon at the First English Church in Wheeling. On Monday evening, she will give her presentation at a dinner meeting in St. Mark's, Clarksburg. Her presentation is entitled "Pilgrimage With a Purpose."

Personal Items
A birthday party was held on Sunday for Mrs. Allen Brenneman. Her family was present, as was Pastor Dwaine and Thelma Swartzentruber and Wilbur and Hilda Bowser. Tom and Anita Bropst were afternoon visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Junior Brenneman, Mr. and Mrs. William Brenneman and children were dinner guests on Sunday of Miriam and Amelia Brenneman. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Meredith Brenneman and children and Mr. and Mrs. David Beiler.

Rev. and Mrs. Elmer Maust visited Orval and Salome Schrock in the Goodwill Nursing Home on Sunday afternoon.

Never cut flowers in the morning because during the day the leaves manufacture food which is transported in the form of sugars to feed the plant. Cutting in late afternoon when they are fullest of sugar will assure lasting bouquets.

Miller Family Holiday Concert To Be Presented

Sounds of the season will ring through the auditorium of Garrett Community College the evening of November 30 when the Ivan J. and Della Miller family share their Christmas joy with the community in an acapella concert beginning at 7:30 p.m. The concert is being sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and is free to the public.

It isn't often that people begin planning for Christmas as early as August, but the Miller family did just that. Last August, members of their extended family came from six states to the family's Mapleshade Farm near Grantsville to rehearse for and record a cassette of Christmas carols and anthems. Four generations were represented by the 37 family members who were present.

The evening concert will reflect the kind of a capella singing which the family has enjoyed since the first children fell asleep listening to their mother's lullabies," according to an Arts Festival spokesman.

Over the years the family has sung in a number of churches and has recorded five long-play albums, all in four-part harmony.

The program on November 30 will consist of several original numbers, Christmas anthems and carols that are favorites of this Mennonite family, and familiar Christmas songs.

Everyone is invited to attend the program.

Good Food

and how to prepare it!

Try Eggs...

CAM'S CRAB AND CHEESE QUICKIE QUICHE

- 8 oz. shredded Cheddar cheese
- 3 oz. cream cheese, cubed
- 1 cup milk
- 3 eggs
- 2 oz. chopped pimientos, drained (optional)
- $\frac{2}{3}$  cup steamed broccoli
- 8 oz. lump crab meat
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup buttermilk baking mix
- $\frac{1}{8}$  teaspoon nutmeg

Preheat oven to 400°F. Grease a 9x1 $\frac{1}{4}$  inch pie plate. Mix cheese, broccoli, crab meat and pimientos in the pie plate. Lay cubed cream cheese on crab mixture. Beat milk, eggs and buttermilk mix in blender for 15 seconds on high. Pour into pie plate. Bake 30 to 35 minutes, or until knife inserted into center is clean when removed. 6 to 8 servings.

QUICK 'N' EASY EGGS FLORENTINE

- 1 package (9 oz.) frozen creamed spinach
- 3 tablespoons canned salad toppings
- 6 eggs
- 6 slices whole wheat bread, toasted OR 3 English muffins, split and toasted
- Paprika, optional

Remove creamed spinach from cooking bag and place in medium saucepan. Cover and cook over medium heat about 2 minutes. Break apart with a fork and continue cooking, covered, until heated through, about 5 minutes. Stir in salad toppings. Keep warm while poaching eggs. In a 3-quart saucepan or 10" to 12" omelet pan or skillet, heat 2 to 3 inches of water to boiling. Reduce heat to keep water simmering. Break eggs into large bowl. Then, slip eggs into water, holding bowl close to water's surface. Cook 3 to 5 minutes, depending on desired doneness. With slotted spoon, lift out eggs. Drain in spoon or paper towels and trim any rough edges, if desired. Spoon about  $\frac{2}{3}$  tablespoons of hot spinach mixture over each toast slice. Top each slice with 1 poached egg. Sprinkle with paprika, if desired.

WARM SALAD MIMOSA

- 4 eggs
- 1 medium (about 6-inch) zucchini or summer squash, cut into julienne strips (about  $\frac{1}{2}$  cups)
- $\frac{1}{2}$  medium onion, thinly sliced (about  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup)
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 2 tablespoons cooking oil
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup red wine vinegar
- 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard
- 1 teaspoon Italian seasoning
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon sugar
- 1 medium (about 5 oz.) tomato, wedged
- 4 cups (about 6 oz.) loosely packed, torn mixed greens
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup (1 oz.) grated Parmesan cheese

In a medium saucepan, put eggs in single layer. Add enough tap water to come at least 1 inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand, covered, in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for Large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller). Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until cool enough to handle, about 3 minutes. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell. Meanwhile, in a 10-inch omelet pan or skillet over medium heat, cook zucchini, onion and garlic in hot oil, stirring occasionally, until crisp-tender, about 3 to 4 minutes. Stir in vinegar, mustard, seasoning and sugar. Add tomato wedges and cook 1 minute more. Remove from heat. Arrange greens on 2 salad plates. Chop peeled eggs and arrange on greens. Pour hot vegetable mixture over eggs. Sprinkle with cheese. 2 servings. Serve immediately.

OMELETS QUESADILLA

- 8 eggs
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup water
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter, divided
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded taco-seasoned cheese
- 1 can (4 oz.) chopped green chilies, drained

Mix eggs and water until blended. For each omelet, in 7 to 10-inch omelet pan or skillet over medium-high heat, heat 1 tablespoon of the butter until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour in  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of the egg mixture. (Mixture should set immediately at edges). With an inverted pancake turner, carefully push cooked portions at edges toward center so uncooked portions can reach hot pan surface, tilting pan and moving cooked portions as necessary. While top is still moist and creamy-looking\*, fill with  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup of cheese and 2 tablespoons of the chilies. With pancake turner, fold omelet in half or roll and invert onto plate with a quick flip of the wrist or slide from pan onto plate. Repeat for remaining omelets. 4 servings.

*It is better to fill omelet when it is slightly underdone. Heat retained in eggs completes the cooking.

for Meals in Minutes!

An Easy Entree Almost Anyone Can Make!

When you work, getting dinner on the table can be difficult, especially when the rest of the family gets home before you do. Wouldn't it be great if dad or the kids could start dinner before you arrive? They can—and they'll probably enjoy it—if you make sure all the ingredients for a quick and easy menu are on hand.

A Spinach Quiche would be a great entree for less-than-experienced cooks to prepare. It's simply a main dish custard pie flavored with spinach, Swiss cheese and mushrooms. The littlest one could beat all the ingredients together while dad or the oldest cooks and drains the spinach and pops a frozen pie shell into the oven to brown.

While the quiche is in the oven, there's plenty of time to set the table, toss a green salad and put out bread or rolls. That's all you need to round out a well-balanced meal.

Put Spinach Quiche on the menu and let your family discover how easy it is to prepare a simple, but sensational supper.

SPINACH QUICHE

- 4 to 6 servings
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen chopped spinach
- 1 9-inch frozen deep-dish pie shell, thawed
- 5 eggs, beaten
- 1 cup (4 oz.) shredded Swiss cheese
- 1 can (2 to 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained

- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup half and half or light cream
- $\frac{1}{8}$  teaspoon pepper

Cook spinach according to package directions and drain, pressing out excess water. Set aside. Brush the inside of the pie shell with a small amount of the beaten eggs. Prick bottom and sides with fork. Bake shell in preheated 425°F. oven 5 minutes or until light golden brown. Set pie shell aside. Reduce oven temperature to 350°F. Stir together spinach, cheese and mushrooms. Turn into pie shell. To the beaten eggs, add remaining ingredients. Beat until well blended. Pour over spinach mixture. Bake in preheated oven 45 to 50 minutes or until knife inserted near center comes out clean. Let stand 5 minutes before serving.

CALIFORNIA SCRAMBLE

- 1 medium ripe avocado, peeled and sliced or chopped
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup blanched slivered almonds
- 2 tablespoons butter
- $\frac{1}{3}$  cup minced green onions with tops
- 8 eggs
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon pepper seasoning*
- $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt

In small bowl, toss avocado with lemon juice. Set aside. In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet over high heat, toast almonds, shaking pan or stirring occasionally, until lightly browned, 2 to 3 minutes. Remove pan from heat. Stir in butter and onions until butter is melted. Beat together eggs, milk and seasonings. Return pan to medium heat. Pour in egg mixture. As mixture begins to set, gently draw an inverted pancake turner completely across the bottom and sides of pan, forming large soft curds. Continue until eggs are thickened but still moist. *Do not stir constantly. Spoon onto serving plates. Top with reserved avocado. Serve immediately. 4 servings.

*It is better to remove scrambled eggs from pan when they are slightly underdone. Heat retained in eggs completes the cooking.

\*Or, substitute  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon grated lemon rind,  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt and  $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon pepper.

ANY-WAY EGG CURRY

- 6 eggs
- 2 tablespoons butter
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon curry powder
- $\frac{1}{3}$  cup chopped onion
- $\frac{1}{3}$  cup chopped celery
- $\frac{1}{3}$  cup "extra"\*
- 1 tablespoon flour
- $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon chicken bouillon
- $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon garlic powder
- $\frac{3}{4}$  cup water
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

In medium saucepan, put eggs in single layer. Add enough tap water to come at least 1-inch above eggs. Cover and quickly bring just to boiling. Turn off heat. If necessary, remove pan from burner to prevent further boiling. Let eggs stand, covered, in the hot water 15 to 17 minutes for Large eggs. (Adjust time up or down by about 3 minutes for each size larger or smaller). Immediately run cold water over eggs or put them in ice water until cool enough to handle, about 3 minutes. To remove shell, crackle it by tapping gently all over. Roll egg between hands to loosen shell, then peel, starting at large end. Hold egg under running cold water or dip in bowl of water to help ease off shell. Meanwhile, in medium saucepan over medium heat, cook and stir butter and curry powder until bubbly. Add onion, celery and "extra." Cook, stirring occasionally, until onion is tender but not brown, about 5 minutes. Combine flour, bouillon and garlic powder. Sprinkle over vegetables and stir to blend. Combine water and lemon juice. Add to pan. Cook and stir until mixture boils and is smooth and thickened. Chop peeled eggs and stir into creamed mixture. Heat to serving temperature. 3 servings.

*"Extra": Use any one of the following chopped or shredded zucchini, carrot, cucumber, apple, banana, peanuts or flaked coconut.

SPANISH RICE 'N' EGG SKILLET SUPPER

- 1 can (15 oz.) tomato sauce special
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cups quick-cooking rice
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup chopped green pepper
- $\frac{1}{4}$  cup water
- $\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon salt
- 8 eggs
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup (2 oz.) shredded Cheddar cheese

In 10-inch omelet pan or skillet, combine tomato sauce, rice, green pepper, water and salt. With a spoon, make 8 indentations, about 2 inches in diameter, in rice mixture. Break and slip an egg into each indentation. Cover and cook over medium heat until egg whites are almost set, about 7 to 9 minutes. Uncover and sprinkle with cheese. Re-cover, remove from heat and let stand until whites are set and cheese is melted, about 2 to 3 minutes.

QUICK VEGETABLE-SAUCED "CREPES"

- 1 package (8 oz.) frozen peas with cream sauce
- 1 can (4 oz.) sliced mushrooms, drained
- $\frac{1}{3}$  cup dairy sour cream
- 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
- 8 eggs
- $\frac{1}{2}$  cup milk
- 4 slices day-old bread, torn into chunks
- 3 tablespoons butter, divided

Cook peas according to package directions. Stir in mushrooms, sour cream and bouillon. Bring just to simmering. Remove from heat. Cover and keep warm while preparing crepes. Place eggs and milk in 5-cup blender container. Cover and blend at medium speed about 30 seconds. Add bread. Re-cover and blend at medium speed until thoroughly blended, about an additional 45 seconds. For each crepe, in 10-inch omelet or crepe pan over medium-high heat, heat about 1 teaspoon butter until just hot enough to sizzle a drop of water. Pour  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup batter into pan, tipping and tilting pan to move batter quickly over bottom. Cook until lightly browned on bottom and almost dry on top. Remove from pan, or if desired, turn and brown other side. Roll up\* and place in 12x7 $\frac{1}{2}$ x2-inch baking dish. Keep warm while preparing remaining crepes. Repeat for remaining crepes. For each serving, top 2 rolled crepes with about  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup hot vegetable mixture.

*If necessary, set pan off heat while rolling. 4 servings.

GOD'S REFLECTIONS

Copyright 1987
Kestler-Williams Newspaper Services
P.O. Box 8005, Charlottesville, VA 22906

"You are my mentor," said the young minister to me in serious tones. "Tell me what to do. I have been invited to speak to the students at a local school, but the school official told me not to mention God or anything religious. How can I do this?"

"Well," I said, scratching my head for wisdom and grabbing time to think. "Talk about God as reflected in the best person you know, give thanks for that person."

The young minister left me, unhelped I'm sure. But he was thinking.

A few days later he told me what he had done. "I simply talked about my grandfather, the most Godly person I ever knew. I told about how his goodness had taught me about good things, how his lifestyle had touched people's lives, how he stood tall in his community through his honesty, fairness, and willingness to help the lowest and highest people he knew."

Then the young man ended his presentation by saying that thanksgiving is best expressed in living by the highest example of the inward image in which we are created.

Paul would have liked that because in I Thess. 3:9 he says, "For WHAT THANKSGIVING can we render to God for you, for all the joy we feel for your sake before God."

And that is true thanksgiving—God reflected through others and us.

GOING WITH THE FLOW

November 22, 1987

Background Scripture: Genesis 41:38-44, 45-52

Dr. Joan Boyenko, in her book, Minding the Body, Mending the Mind (Addison Wesley, 1987), tells of watching two children at play on the seashore. A little boy, about four, was building a sand castle. As the tide moved in, however, he became frustrated in trying to maintain his creation against the relentless force of the tide. Frantically, he struggled, but it was hopeless.

Nearby was a little girl of about the same age. She too was building a sand castle, but she soon realized the inevitability of the tide and, instead of becoming frustrated, began a new game of digging holes and watching the tide fill them. Dr. Boyenko concludes: "The first child ended up angry and frustrated—his castle had been destroyed in spite of every effort to control the tides. The second child had instead discovered a new game and spent a doubly pleasant afternoon. She had both literally and figuratively learned to let go—"to go with the flow."

JUSTIFIABLY BITTER

The little girl had learned as a child what Joseph learned as a young man. In light of everything that had happened to him, he would have been justified in staying bitter for the rest of his life. Sold into slavery by his own brothers, unjustly accused by Potiphar's wife, thrown into a dungeon in a strange, alien land, who could have blamed him if he had spent the rest of his life cynical of both man and God? Someone else might have said, "Let Egypt starve to death—serves them right!"

Joseph could have chosen that course, but he didn't. There was nothing he could do to change what evil had befallen him at the hands of others, so he chose to make the best of the situation in which he found himself. Thus, instead of being closed to God's guidance, he was ready to follow wherever he might lead.

SPECIAL NAMES

We can detect his attitude in the names he gave his two children: MANASSEH, meaning "God has made me forget all my hardship and all my father's house," and EPHRAIM, "For God has made me fruitful in the land of affliction" (41:51, 52). Joseph would have been justified in eating the fruits of bitterness for the rest of his life. Instead, he responded to the voice of God, letting go of the past and making the most of the present.

Scientist Uses Novel Study To Show Vitamin C Helps Fight Common Cold

A presentation last week at The 1987 International Symposium on Medical Virology by Elliot Dick, Ph.D., professor of preventive medicine at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Medical School, revealed results of a novel human study on vitamin C and the common cold.

"Our findings show, in this first experiment," Dr. Dick said, "that the severity of cold symptoms was much lower in those taking vitamin C. Symptoms were twice as severe, especially coughs, in the placebo (non-vitamin C) group. These results suggest," he added, "that vitamin C supplementation may be useful, not only for lessening the severity of the disease, but also for reducing virus transmission." Further studies are planned.

In the past, a major obstacle in studying the effects of vitamin C supplements on the common cold has been the lack of a suitable experimental model for humans. But recently, Dr. Dick has developed a human model in which rhinoviral colds can be transmitted from infected to non-infected persons under controlled conditions with highly predictable results. This study method is unique because earlier experiments have failed to adequately control the vitamin C status of the subjects and allowed variations in the types of virus infecting the control subjects.

Using the new model in the present study, Dr. Dick obtained measurements to determine the effects of vitamin C supplements on signs and symptoms of the cold and on transmission of rhinovirus 16, one of the most common cold-causing agents. The experiment utilized a double-blind design in which 16 men without colds (eight control and eight test) were given either placebos or 500 mg. vitamin C supplements four times a day. At the start of the study, levels of ascorbic acid (vitamin C) were measured and found to be similar in both groups.

Vitamin C supplements and placebos were given to the respective groups for three and one-half weeks prior to the study, during the seven-day interaction period and throughout the following two weeks. The 16 uninfected men were housed together for one week, under supervision, with eight men infected with laboratory-induced colds. Daily logs of symptoms and signs were kept, and nasal washings for virus strength were collected daily during this period.

For most people, colds are a source of considerable discomfort but are not medically serious. However, for certain population groups, such as those with underlying respiratory impairments, colds can have serious health consequences. In addition, colds and other respiratory infections have a significant economic impact. According to the National Center for Health Statistics, Americans annually suffer a total of more than 64 million colds and lose about 45 million school and work days.

As to vitamin C supplementation, a recent Gallup Organization study showed that approximately 12 million adults take vitamin C regularly as a single entity vitamin supplement. The most frequent reason mentioned for taking vitamin C supplements by the people interviewed in this study was to protect against colds.

In his position as professor of preventive medicine, Dr. Dick is also chief of the Respiratory Virus Research Laboratory at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Center of Health Sciences.

Arthritis Group Gives Information On Osteoporosis

Preventing osteoporosis involves more than drinking milk and taking calcium supplements, reports the Maryland Chapter of the Arthritis Foundation.

In addition to the highly publicized need for increased calcium in the diet, the foundation suggests that young women implement a regular program of weight-bearing exercise, and avoid smoking and heavy consumption of alcoholic beverages. Some women may benefit from supplements of the hormone estrogen, according to the foundation.

"The key to preventing osteoporosis as you grow older seems to be building strong bones while you're young," said Frederick M. Wigley, M.D. of the Medical and Scientific Committee of the Maryland Chapter. "Regular exercise, like brisk walking, and a diet rich in low-fat, calcium-containing foods can build bone density. Smoking and heavy drinking can weaken bones."

Osteoporosis is a condition which commonly affects women after they reach menopause. It causes the bones to lose strength and break easily.

"The condition affects as many as half the women in the United States over 45 years of age. It usually occurs after menopause of a reduction in estrogen produced by the ovaries, which causes bone loss," said Dr. Wigley. "The women at greatest risk are thin, white women who start menopause before the age of 45."

Treatment after osteoporosis occurs sometimes involves taking estrogen, increasing calcium intake and exercising regularly. "Some drugs which may help rebuild bones are being studied now," said Wigley. "But the best measures are preventative ones taken before age 35 while the bones are still building. Ideally, preventative measures should begin during the teen years."

The foundation is also urging people who have osteoporosis to take special care to avoid falls. Even a minor fall can break a bone weakened by osteoporosis.

THE GOSPEL EXPRESS EVANGELISTIC TEAM from Gordonville, Pa., will be appearing at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, November 24, at 7:30 p.m. The program will consist of singing, a short slide presentation, and a challenge from God's word. The public is invited for an evening of fellowship. A free will offering will be taken for the prison ministry. The Cherry Glade Church is located on the Accident-Biffringer Road, approximately four miles from Accident.

Local residents may contact local representative John Clickener, at 719 Heritage Court, Mountain Lake Park; telephone 334-8990 between 5 and 7 p.m.

WE'VE REMODELED YOUR GAS BILL.

SO IT'S NOW EASIER TO READ & HANDLE.

Your monthly gas bill now includes some improvements to make it more convenient for you to find the information you need, and to handle payment. Among the changes, you can look for these:

- A tear-off payment stub has been added to enclose with your check, replacing the separate computer card.
- The facts and figures about your Columbia account have been rearranged somewhat to make them easier to find and read.

- The back of the bill has helpful information about Columbia services and payment plans, and explanations of terms and codes used on your bill.

Your first bill with the new design will come with a folder describing its features in more detail. If you have questions after reviewing the folder, we'll be glad to answer them for you. Just give us a call.

HBO's 'The Impossible Spy' left its mark on John Shea

By Connie Passalacqua

This week's "HBO Showcase" film, "The Impossible Spy" (debuting Nov. 28) is so absorbing and so beautifully executed you forget it's on television let alone a cable movie. And although its unfortunate title leads one to believe it's some kind of James Bond fantasy, it's a true story.

John Shea

In 1939 Israeli intelligence recruited 45-year-old Eli Cohen, an accountant, to go undercover and infiltrate the highest ranks of Syrian politics. For years Cohen lived in Damascus impersonating a rich businessman who became a personal friend of Syrian president General Gamal Hafez. Although he was ultimately found out and executed in 1965, information he had passed on about the location of Syrian munitions on the Golan Heights was key to Israel's winning the Six-Day War in 1967.

John Shea, the intense, intelligent actor who plays Cohen, found it an easy role to understand. "What really made him fascinating for me is that Cohen was, in a sense, an actor in his own right and I have great admiration for his acting ability," says Shea. When he was in Syria, he was in effect on stage, playing his role 24 hours a day. When he got a phone call in the middle of the night, he had to remember to say hello in Syrian.

After he accomplishes the most dangerous part of his mission, Cohen is given a chance to stop his impersonation and return to his normal life in Israel, but he refuses. Says Shea, "I can understand. Sometimes when I play a role on Broadway for six months, I find it very hard to shake that character. There starts to be a blur between your personal life and your character's. You have to learn when it's time to take off the mask." Shea has played other historical figures, including Bobby Kennedy in the NBC miniseries "Kennedy." "You can only go so far reproducing physical similarities," he explains. "I try and capture the person's inner spirit. Some day when I'm in Hades, I might run into Kennedy or Cohen and I want to be able to say to them, 'I tried the hardest I could to convey your true spirit.'"

Some high-flying facts about the Man of Steel

By Toni D'Amato

Can you tell me when the series "Superman" began, and how they made the character fly? — J.H. Lawrence, Mass.

Christopher Reeve

The Adventures of Superman, starring George Reeves as Superman Clark Kent, aired from 1951 to 1957. Whenever Superman "flew," invisible wires kept him suspended in mid-air. Because of budget considerations, the same flying sequences were used over and over. Once to show Superman flying in the opposite direction, the film was turned over and has "S" was backwards.

paper comic strip that ran from 1939 to 1967.

A radio series that aired from 1940 to 1951 also helped to boost Superman's popularity, as did 17 Superman cartoons produced by Paramount between 1941 and 1943.

The "Man of Steel" starred in theatrical serials from 1948 to 1950, and in a feature-length film in 1951 called "Superman and the Mole Men."

Since then, Superman has come to life in the four feature films that have starred Christopher Reeve. The most recent of these was "Superman IV: The Quest for Peace" (1987).

Is the actor John Forsythe from "Another World" related to the John Forsythe of "Dynasty"? — E.M. Peoria, Ill.

The name of the actor on "AW" is David Forsythe; he plays John Hudson on the soap. He is not related to the John Forsythe of "Dynasty."

Who sang the theme song for the television show "Three's Company" and what is it called? — C.F. Oshkosh, Wis.

Titled "Three's Company," the song was written by Don Nicholl and Joe Raposo and sung by Ray Charles and Julie Rinker.

BEHIND THE SCENES

Waitress on 'Frank's Place' finds mediocrity daunting

By Frank Lovece

She's not exactly Alice and she's not exactly Flo, and if Anna Mae, the head waitress on "Frank's Place," were to tell you to get lost, she'd say something a lot spicier than "Kiss my grits." It's the mark of a true actress that Francesca P. Roberts, who plays Anna Mae on the Monday night CBS series, is so unlike her alter ego. Anna Mae is satisfied where she is; Francesca may never be.

Being on the outside often leads to a career in make-believe. Pursuing her interest in theater, Roberts studied drama in Paris, returned to New Orleans for a college drama degree, and joined black theater troupes that, she says, "were investigated for five years by the FBI. They said we incited riots. We didn't," she adds. During this time, she gave birth to a son, Lee, now 12. The father, she says, is "long gone, out of touch."

"Normally, scares me," Roberts confesses. "Mediocrity, the mundane—they don't allow the opportunity for growth. How can you grow when you've chosen a routine and don't even want to change?"

One switch on the usual is that Roberts, who in her 30s, plays a 47-year-old on "Frank's Place." Most actresses try to appear as young as they can, but Roberts stoically endures what she says is an hour-and-a-half of makeup each shoot, making her look older. And years before, she had also chosen Los Angeles and television although her years of stage training pointed to New York. Theater, she says, led to a regular role in the TV series "Private Benjamin."

"It's been a struggle, especially being a single parent," she admits. "I'm not a religious fanatic, but I tell everyone I'm God's entertainment on earth. My life is His sitcom," Roberts laughs. "I keep Him amused."

Francesca P. Roberts

I was always different, always on the outside," she explains. When I lived in the country—Togalusa, La., where she was born—"my mother taught me to read before I was old enough for school. None of the other kids knew how, and they resented that. We moved to New Orleans and I was different there, too. It was country girl versus city girl."

Guest star Mary Wilson (l.), formerly of the Supremes, shows up to belt out some songs with Sandra (Jackee) in NBC's "227." The show airs Saturday, Nov. 21.

Vanna White

Shoes for Vanna White; A gangster for Peter Falk

By Cindy Adams

Next for Vanna White is a line of shoes in her name. Then she'll take piano lessons. Then she'll take acting lessons. Vanna was offered $1 mil for a beer commercial. She foamed at the mouth at the idea, and said "Uh-uh." "It isn't my image," she told me. So what's she want to be someday—a senator? "No. Just continue doing what I'm doing."

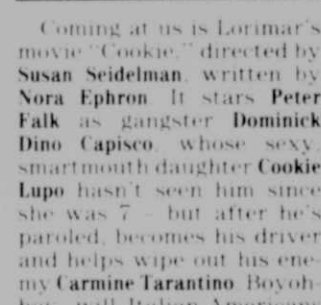

Peter Falk

Vanna White

"We're very selective," says her manager Ray Manzella. Vanna was offered the movie "Caddyshack II," playing herself. "Playing any departure from Vanna is difficult for now," says Manzella. "She could only do a real role now with someone like Woody Allen, who's her fan and who is creative, sensitive, and artistic." Right. And maybe Vanna could teach Mia Farrow to turn letters.

Vanna White

I don't know what a Brian Ross Duffy is, except that he attended private schools in Connecticut and has just written the Penguin paperback "The Poor Man's Guide to Marrying a Rich Girl." (You meet her at schools that have polo teams.) Movie producers are currently courting this Duffy person, who wants Michael J. Fox for the lead. Maybe Mr. Duffy won't end up with a rich girl, but he won't end up a poor schmuck either.

PBS

Amelia Shankley stars as Sara Crewe, a young girl who becomes a penniless orphan in PBS's "A Little Princess." Part two airs Saturday, Nov. 28, on "Wonderworks." (Check local listings.)

SOAP OPERA WEEK

'DOOL' actors has 'Brides' and baseballs in his past

By Kimberly Redmond

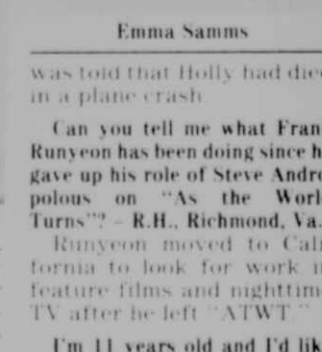

Can you tell me where Drake Hogestyn worked before he joined "Days of Our Lives" as Roman Brady? — L.H., Tampa, Fla.

Drake Hogestyn

Hogestyn was drafted by the New York Yankees after he graduated from the University of South Florida. He played in the Yankee farm system until 1978. His first TV role was as Brian McEaden in the series "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers," which aired from September 1982 until July 1983. Hogestyn joined "DOOL" in 1986.

Can you tell me what happened to Holly Scorpio, the character that was portrayed by Emma Samms on "General Hospital"? — R.G., Olney, Ill.

Emma Samms

was told that Holly had died in a plane crash.

Can you tell me what Frank Runyon has been doing since he gave up his role of Steve Andropoulos on "As the World Turns"? — R.H., Richmond, Va.

Runyon moved to California to look for work in feature films and nighttime TV after he left "ATWT."

I'm 11 years old and I'd like to play a role like that of Mariah on "Guiding Light." How can I get on a soap? — C.C., Greenville, N.C.

The best way to break into acting is to appear in school productions. If you have an agent you can send a photo and resume to the casting directors of the soaps.

Bauman's Opera To Be Performed Nov. 6 At FSU

A Christmas opera called "Dialogues," composed by Frostburg State University music professor Jon Bauman, will be performed for the first time in a concert version, Saturday, December 5, at 8 p.m. in Pullen auditorium on campus. The public is invited to attend the free concert.

Four opera stars from Baltimore will sing the opera's soprano, baritone, tenor and bass parts which, explained Dr. Bauman, represent a series of conversations between Mary, Joseph, a shepherd and a townsman.

The opera's text is derived from Psalm 52 and two poems written by Sister Maura, a Maryland poet and English professor at the College of Notre Dame of Maryland.

Sister Maura received a B.A. degree from Notre Dame and a M.A. degree from Catholic University in Washington, D.C. She has also studied at Johns Hopkins University, the University of Minnesota and the University of London. She received grants for academic residences at the Virginia Center for the Arts and the Notre Dame Women's College in Kyoto, Japan.

She is the author of nine books of poetry and her work has been published in over 20 periodicals. Among her numerous awards, she holds the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education award for Distinguished Teaching the Theodore Hesburg Award for Contribution to Higher Education and the Achievement in Literature Award by the Women Legislators of Maryland.

Dr. Bauman received a bachelor of music from the University of Colorado and a master of music and doctor of musical arts from the University of Illinois. He also studied under a Fulbright grant in Germany. An active composer, he has written instrumental and vocal music in all genre, from solo works to music for full symphony orchestra and has had his works performed throughout the United States and in Europe. The musician is a member of the American Music Center, the American Society of Composers and is cited in over two dozen biographical reference books.

Earns Master's Degree From Vermont College

Carolyn Collen-DuBose, Grantsville, recently received a master of arts degree from Vermont College of Norwich University in Montpelier, Vermont. Her area of concentration was counseling psychology, and her final presentation was entitled "Heightening Self-Awareness in Children Using Art." She is an art teacher for the Garrett County Board of Education. Collen-DuBose is a member of the Maryland State Teachers' Association and is affiliated with Business and Professional Women, and the Maryland Art Education Association. She also holds a bachelor of arts degree in art theater from Whittier University and has done post graduate work at the American University and Maryland Art Institute. Collen-DuBose earned her master's through the graduate program at Vermont College which provides students with the opportunity to work independently toward their M.A. under the guidance of a core faculty advisor and a field specialist in the student's area of study.

World Community Day Program Held By Church Women

World Community Day, sponsored by Church Women United, was held at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church on Friday, November 6. The theme for the event was "Sojourners for Justice" and concerned the plight of refugees entering the United States in search of religious and political freedom.

Guest speaker for the program was Mary Strauss, Accident. Participants in the program were: Ida Maust, Luella Baker, Audry Brennenman, Fern Beachy, Beulah Moon, Mabel Brennenman, Helen Glatfelter, Charlotte Mousch, Mareva Teets, Evelyn Steyer, Pearl Rush, Helen Silber, Helen Keller and Lori Schmuck. Martha Glatfelter was the accompanist.

After the worship service, outgoing president Mary June Harvey installed the new officers for the 1988-89 term. They are: president, Charlotte Mousch; vice president and program director, Lori Schmuck; secretary, Evelyn Steyer; and treasurer, Martha Glatfelter. Refreshments were served by the host church.

Twenty-four women were present for the service, from 13 different local churches, representing five denominations. An invitation was received from the Otterbein United Methodist Church, Swanton, to host the World Day of Prayer Service on March 4, 1988.

State House By Candlelight Stated

The annual State House by Candlelight celebration will be held at the Maryland State House, Annapolis, on December 11 and 12, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Friday's entertainment will include the Maryland State Employee Choir, presentations from the Angus Violin Studio of Crownsville, and the Bowie Sound of Music.

Saturday evening music will be provided by the Singers Madrigal of Annapolis, the Baldwin Bell Ringers and the Mormon Tabernacle Choir of Washington, D.C.

The Annapolis Area City Council of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, which has arranged this holiday event since 1976, is working in sponsorship with the Maryland Department of Economic and Employment and in cooperation with the Maryland State House Trust. Maryland State House guides will be stationed in the historic rooms of the State House to provide information. Admission is free.

For more information, persons may call the Maryland State House Visitors Center at (301) 974-3400.

On Dean's List

The Art Institute of Pittsburgh has announced that Kristin Rosenberry, Oakland, was named to the Dean's List for the summer quarter. A graduate of Southern High School, Ms. Rosenberry is majoring in visual communication.

The Art Institute of Pittsburgh is a two-year commercial design school with majors in visual communication, photography, interior design, and fashion illustration. AIP offers an associate in specialized technology degree and is accredited by the Accrediting Commission of the National Association of Trade and Technical Schools.

DHMH Anticipates Higher Demand For Birth Certificates

The Maryland Department of Health and Mental Hygiene's Division of Vital Records expects an increased demand for birth certificates in the next several months because of the new income tax reporting law requiring children over 5-years-old to have Social Security numbers.

Paul M. Winkler, Chief, Division of Vital Records (DHMH), said the Tax Reform Act of 1986 requires taxpayers to show social security numbers of each dependent child, age 5 or older, on their 1987 tax return.

To receive a social security number, an application must be filed along with your child's birth certificate and one other proof of identification such as a report card, health card, school I.D., hospital plate, or any other document showing the child's identifying information.

The application should be submitted to your local Social Security Office.

The Commissioner of Social Security has indicated that a properly completed Maryland Certification of Birth card would meet the birth certificate requirement.

Children born in 1972 or after were issued a buff and black colored wallet-sized birth card officially called "Certification of Birth" (Form No. DHMH 1292-A). This card can be used in place of a Certified Copy of a Birth Certificate when applying for a social security number.

Persons unable to locate a Certification of Birth card for children age 5 or older should apply in person, or by mail, for a Certification of Birth card or a Certified Copy of a Birth Certificate. Winkler encourages Marylanders to apply as soon as possible to avoid any delays that may occur during the tax reporting period.

A fee of $3.00 per copy, which includes the cost of a search, must accompany all applications.

The Division of Vital Records is located in Room SS-5 of the Herbert R. O'Connor Office Building at 201 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201. Those persons visiting Vital Records can be served quicker before 10 a.m. and after 4 p.m.

For further information regarding Vital Records, persons may call 225-5988 between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Hospital Notes Employee Of The Month Winners

The Administration of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently announced that Deborah K. Gaither, medical records clerk, has been selected August Employee of the Month, and Alice Dunithan, laundry worker, was selected September Employee of the Month.

Mrs. Gaither has worked in the Medical Records Department for over four years. Her duties include assembling and reviewing medical records of patients discharged from the hospital. She also compiles statistics from medical records for various reports. She related that she likes "everything about her job." She said she loves working with the physicians and all other aspects of her job.

A native of Elkins, W. Va., Mrs. Gaither, her husband, Daniel (also employed at the hospital), and daughter, Danielle, age 9, reside in Oakland. On her selections as Employee of the Month, Mrs. Gaither stated, "It is such an honor. It's so nice to be appreciated for the job you do. I just feel so excited about being chosen. It's great being part of such a great hospital family."

Mrs. Jacqueline C. Kenner, director of Medical Records, commented, "Debbie has worked in Medical Records four years. She is a dedicated, trustworthy employee. She goes ahead with her work not complaining about what or how the job is to be completed and does not stop until it is finished. Her working relationship with physicians as well as fellow employees is exceptional."

A laundry worker for 11 years, Mrs. Alice Dunithan's duties include gathering, processing, washing and distributing hospital linen. When asked what she liked best about her work, Mrs. Dunithan replied, "Everything!"

A native and resident of Bayard, W. Va., Mrs. Dunithan is married to Edward Dunithan and they have two children: Lisa 21, and Tracy, 18.

Mrs. Dunithan stated that she "really feels great" about being selected Employee of the Month.

Thomas E. Dunbar, director of Housekeeping/Laundry, stated, "I chose Alice Dunithan for the Employee of the Month because of her work performance. Alice has never been late for work. She is always here at least 1/2 hour before starting time, and she will go ahead and work. Her attendance has been great and she works very well with other hospital employees. She is very loyal, dependable, and will work any time when needed."

Consumers Warned That Heat Tapes Can Be Dangerous

Mobile home residents and homeowners using electric heat tapes to protect exposed water and drain pipes from freezing over the winter are being cautioned by government safety experts to check tapes for fire hazards.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that 3,500 home fires involving heat tapes occurred in 1985. These fires resulted in an estimated 30 deaths, 150 injuries, and $27.4 million in property losses.

Heat tapes are commonly used in crawl spaces and in the substructure of mobile homes, beach houses, mountain cabins and other dwellings where exposed water and drain pipes freeze during the winter. Some heat tapes are plugged in year-round and are activated by a thermostat when the outdoor temperature approaches freezing.

According to CPSC, tapes should be checked now for bare wires or cracks in the plastic insulation. Defective tapes should be replaced.

Homeowners or licensed electricians should also check to see that tapes have been installed properly. Some fires have been started by tape lapped over itself instead of being spread around the pipe according to manufacturer's directions.

The agency said consumers buying heat tape should use the proper tape for the proper pipe. They should know the pipe material (copper, plastic, etc.), pipe diameter and length to be protected when shopping for new or replacement tape. Tapes are labeled for specific pipes, diameter and length. Persons should follow manufacturer's directions carefully for proper installation since they may vary, depending upon the type of tape used.

Team Effort Adds New Dimension To Local Fire Suppression Service

New construction is at an all-time high in Garrett County, particularly in the Deep Creek Lake and Oakland areas, and because of that fact, a local fire department recently took a major step to better prepare and equip the county's volunteer firefighters to do their job.

A ladder truck, the first ever for any of Garrett County's volunteer fire departments, has been added to the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department to serve the entire county and surrounding West Virginia areas. The refurbished 1972 American La France is equipped with a 100-foot aluminum hydraulic ladder, complete with piping that allows application of water on a fire from the tip of the ladder. The truck also carries numerous pieces of support equipment, including nine other assorted ladders, a large diesel-powered generator, an electric generator, lights and power cords, an assortment of pikes, poles and axes, large exhaust fans, and self-contained breathing apparatus (or air packs). The vehicle is also being equipped with an air cascade system used for refilling the air pack tanks.

The large Detroit diesel engine which powers the truck was recently overhauled and the Allison automatic transmission is new.

The vehicle originally served Howard County, operating out of the Columbia station, where it was replaced this year by a new truck. Through a cooperative effort by the Garrett County Commissioners, the Howard County government, Howard County Fire Commissioner Richard Shaw, and the Oakland VFD, the fully-equipped truck was purchased in July and placed into service a few weeks ago.

According to I. Robert Rudy, chief of Oakland VFD, although the vehicle was received in excellent condition, there were several things that needed to be done before placing it into service, such as re-painting, re-upholstering, installation of a radio, plus the proper training in the use of the vehicle and the ladder, which is on-going.

A number of local businesses contributed toward getting the

A TEAM EFFORT by local government, businesses, and volunteer firefighters has resulted in a new addition to Garrett County's fire suppression service. This 100-foot ladder truck was recently acquired from Howard County and placed into service by the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department. In the photo are representatives of local businesses and agencies who made contributions toward getting the vehicle ready for service. Pictured left to right are: Harold Cannon, owner of Tomanetti's vehicle ready for service. The paint was donated by Bausch & Lomb, the tires were re-capped free of charge by My-O-Tire, the lettering was donated by Signs by Domineck, hand lights were donated by Gonder's Insurance, the upholstery was paid for by Durst Funeral Home and Tomanetti's Pizza. Shaffer Ford provided the state inspection, Island Creek Coal Company donated electric wire and salvage covers, and George Comp, of the Deer Park Community Volunteer Fire Department, serviced the radio.

Rudy also noted the cooperation of Paul Shockey, director of the Garrett County Roads Department, who provided the use of its painting facility at the county garage.

The chief also cited the "endless hours" of work on the truck by the members of OVFD, including all the sanding and painting.

Rudy said the vehicle will automatically respond to alarms at target areas in Oakland's first-due area where the risk of life and property is particularly high, such as industrial sites, nursing homes, hospitals, hotels and apartment buildings. He also said it is available to respond to any fire in the county, if requested by the officer in charge.

Training for the Oakland firefighters is being provided via the University of Maryland Fire and Rescue Institute, plus during intra-department training exercises and by public service efforts. The truck has already been used to replace the light bulbs at the Northern High School football field, to repair a flagpole at Accident Elementary School, and for a project at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. It has also responded to a few structure fires in the Oakland area.

"When most people look at a ladder truck, they first think of the 100-foot ladder," Rudy said. "My first consideration is not the ladder, but all of the extra support equipment that the truck carries, such as the various hand ladders, extra lights, exhaust fans, and breathing apparatus. The advantage that the large ladder provides will be secondary in most cases, unless the fire happens to be at a target area, where that extra advantage could make a big difference."

Rudy noted that, even though there is still not an excessive number of tall buildings in Garrett County, that number is growing. "Plus," he added, "height is not the only consideration. The ladder also allows you to reach out over a large span to attack a fire. The Bausch & Lomb facility, for example, is not a tall building, but it covers a large area. With the ladder truck, we would be able to reach out over a building like that and hit the fire from an angle that would be advantageous."

Rudy also stressed that the truck is available to all departments in the area upon request of the officer in charge. "We have the space and the manpower to be able to operate this truck, but we will not hesitate to respond outside of our first-due area if we are called," he said.

Rudy called the acquisition and preparation of the truck a "real team effort" and one that "looks toward the future to ensure that local residents receive the best-possible fire suppression service available."

TERRA ALTA NEWS

PTO News

Persons are asked to continue saving Campbell's labels for the Terra Alta Elementary PTO to obtain supplies for the students.

The week of November 16-20 is Story Book Character Week. Various activities to encourage and promote reading are being held. Activities will conclude on Friday with "dress as your favorite story book character day."

The playground at the Intermediate Building is well underway.

The PTO noted appreciation to those who helped with the PTO Fall Dinner.

School News

The Terra Alta Elementary Students are again participating in the Read It Program. This year flowers will be used instead of apples. The students are also participating in a Math Program.

Lay Leadership Meeting
A Lay Leadership training event was held Sunday, November 8, at the First United Methodist Church, Keyser.

Representing Faith United Methodist Church, Cranesville area, were Rev. and Mrs. Berlin H. Wilhelm, Marie Metheny, Dwight Gibson, Chris Pifer, Jenny Friend, Donna Pifer and Dick Gibson.

Classes which were attended by the above were: Trustees, Finance, Youth, Evangelism and family ministry. Rev. Wilhelm was the instructor for Stewardship.

Women of the Moose News
Chapter 510 Women of the Moose held their annual Women's Banquet on October 24 at the Terra Alta Moose Lodge.

The men of the Moose No. 1395 cooked and served the dinner which consisted of baked steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, coleslaw, rolls, apple and cherry pie with vanilla ice cream, coffee and iced tea.

The following men cooked and served the banquet: Junior DeWitt, Charlie Anderson, Mike Anderson, Dennis Wilhelm, Jim Akire, Harold Sharps, Paul Graham, Harold Sereno, Danny Layton, Lynn Cramer, Doug Keller, Edward Mahaffey and James Glotfelty.

The dinner was called to order by Senior Regent Linda Sharps who discussed Open House on February 14, 1988 and she also announced a change in Chapter 510 Women of the Moose meeting to the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at 7 p.m. The second Wednesday of the month is long-gown night and the fourth is street-length dress night.

Charlene Bennett led the prayer.

4-H Club Meets

The Corinth Local 4-H Club was organized by leader Linda Sharps recently with the first meeting on October 31 at the Corinth Methodist Church.

The first item of business was election of the following officers: president, Melissa Roy; vice president, Jennifer Delaney; treasurer, April Sharps; reporter, Belinda Pritt; song leaders, Teresa Severe, Patty Thrasher and Kelly Felton and game leaders, Darl Roy, Mary Thrasher and Michelle Glotfelty.

Beef, hog and lamb tickets were sold by members. Fund raising catalog by Revere will be the sales campaign item for the year.

Liability insurance will be purchased by each member for $1.

Officer training was attended by the new officers on November 7 at West Preston High School.

New membership cards were given to each member attending.

Hospital News

Nathaniel Grimm was admitted recently to Preston Memorial Hospital, Kingwood.

Brenda Feather was admitted recently to Monongalia General Hospital, Morgantown.

Education Week Activities

East Preston Senior High School will be observing American Education week from November 15-21 with open House Monday through Friday. Guests are invited to the school during this special week. Parent Teacher Conferences were held Tuesday, November 17.

A Poster contest with the local theme "Quest for Excellence," will be sponsored by the library classes to help generate interests in American Education Week. Also, various members of the faculty will have a display of students' work.

In cooperation with the West Virginia Library Commission, the school participated in a half-hour "read out" from 1:30-2 p.m. on November 16. This consisted of silent sustained reading or reading aloud, helping participants to see that reading is a life-long activity.

Halloween Party

The annual community Halloween party was held at the Corinth United Methodist Church on October 31. The event was sponsored by the church.

Those attending participated in an old-fashioned cake walk, a walk through a haunted house and played several Halloween games.

DEER PARK

The United Methodist Women's Group met Friday, November 6, at 1:30 p.m. with Mrs. Pleasant Thrasher in charge of the business meeting. It was decided that the Christmas meeting will be held at Mrs. Alice Underwood's home.

Ms. Lola King presented the lesson, "A Time To Give Thanks." The Bible lesson was Psalm 100. Hymns used were "My Heart Overflows," and "Help Somebody Today."

Rev. Montgomery and others gave comments on the lesson. Mrs. Mary Rollman closed the worship service with prayer.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Laura Flanigan and Ms. Lola King. Thirteen members were present.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Friend and Kathy Crocco visited Mrs. Lena Friend and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl L. Friend, Oakland, and Mrs. Florence Webb, Parsons, W.Va., were guests of Mrs. Laura Flanigan recently.

Mrs. Laura Belle Harvey attended the wedding of her son, Mark Edward, on November 14 at Madison, Tenn. She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Ula Mae Sims, Kitzmiller, and Mr. Patrick Haney and son, Kenneth, Kingwood, W.Va.

ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK is a new record shop which will open December 4 in Loch Lynn. Located just across the railroad tracks, next to Network Video, the shop will offer LP's, 45's, cassette tapes, compact discs and compact disc players. A Grand Opening will be held December 4 and 5. A drawing for a tape, record or disc will be held Friday, December 4, while a drawing to win a "boom box," compliments of Larry Friend, Electronics Unlimited, will be held the following day. The shop will be managed by Lorian Ludwig, and will be open Monday through Thursday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Friday, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. According to the owner, Terry Knotts, "If we don't have what you want, we'll get it." Anyone desiring more information is asked to call the shop at 334-8117. Knotts is shown above in front of the store.

Mark was married to Rhonda Kay Nicholas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Nicholas, Hendersonville, Tenn. He is employed by Bob Williams Lincoln and Mercury while Rhonda is employed as a data entry processor at Carroon and Black Industries Co. They will reside at Pleasant Run Apartments, Hendersonville, Tenn.

Baltimore City, Counties Receive Amnesty Revenue

Governor William Donald Schaefer, State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein and State Treasurer Lucille Maurer handed over nearly $4 million in Tax Amnesty revenue to the state's 23 counties and Baltimore City November 18, 1987. The money represents the local "piggy-back" income tax collected along with delinquent state income tax during the Amnesty Program.

Goldstein noted that, in addition to the revenue distributed to local governments, the Department of Transportation will receive $3.5 million based on delinquent corporation income taxes collected under Amnesty and the Department of Natural Resources will retain the nearly $1.1 million in boat excise taxes they collected.

"Maryland's general fund will receive more than $24.6 million of the more than $34.5 million in Tax Amnesty revenue collected under the program," Goldstein said.

Maryland's Tax Amnesty Program began September 1 and concluded at midnight, November 2. Under the program, businesses and individuals could pay six types of delinquent taxes plus accumulated interest without civil or criminal penalties. The eligible taxes were: individual income tax (including the local "piggy-back" tax), employer withholding tax, corporation income tax, sales and use tax, admissions and amusement tax and boat excise tax.

Garrett County received $4,296, the smallest check among those mailed to Maryland's 23 counties and Baltimore City.

Garrett County Cooperative Extension Service FARM-O-GRAM

by Jim Simms
Extension Agent, Agriculture Science

FERTILIZER PRICES UP THIS FALL

The down trend in fertilizer prices since the spring of 1984 appears to have ended last fall. Prices were up modestly last spring, and prices this fall have strengthened further. The index of all fertilizer prices in October was up four percent from a year earlier. Nitrogen prices haven't changed much, but phosphate is up 13 percent from last year. Potash is up 26 percent, due largely to the import duty on Canadian potash. Fertilizer producers will probably exercise sufficient production restraint to at least maintain firm prices into next spring, but we suspect that the bulk of this season's strength has already occurred. Any further gains will be limited by continued strong dealer competition for a declining market. Farmers may idle 80 to 81 million acres in 1988.

NEARBY HAY AUCTION

Tom McConnell, Extension agent in Preston County, W. Va., says the hay auction at the Terra Alta Livestock Sales is going very well. The hay auction begins at 1 p.m. each Friday. You are requested to bring your hay to the auction yard by 11 a.m. If you have a good forage analysis results on your hay, it will help in bringing top price.

UPDATE ON GYPSY MOTH

There is a lot of concern about the damage that gypsy moths may do next year to our forest trees. There is certainly a high potential for another large hatch of the moth. Last summer, Garrett County had 6,502 acres of trees defoliated. Part of this defoliation was also due to the canker worm. The Maryland Department of Agriculture originally were going to spray approximately 17,000 acres but ended up spraying 24,758 acres. During the last month or so, MDA has had people in the area taking egg counts for predicting next year's population. At this time MDA has not initiated a suppression program that would be available to the private land owner who is not included in the spray pattern. If you would like to express your needs and opinions, MDA has scheduled a public meeting in Cumberland, Allegany Community College Theatre on Thursday, December 3, at 7:30 p.m. If you are experiencing a gypsy moth problem, I would appreciate knowing.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE 1986 TAX REFORM ACT

During the next few Farm-O-Grams I will touch upon some important items concerning taxes.

Depreciation: A new seven-year class has been added, which will include almost all farm machinery and special-purpose structures such as hog facilities, poultry houses, and dairy milking rooms. The five-year class will include autos, light trucks (pickups), computers, and cows. Sows will be in the three-year class. Farm buildings, machine sheds, barns, must be depreciated over 20 years. Only straight-line depreciation can be used. Assets with shorter lives — three, five and seven years — can be depreciated at 200 percent declining balance. Current legislation may reduce this to 150 percent straight-line rate. A straight-line rate may also be used if desired. If more than 40 percent of assets put in service are acquired in the last quarter of the year, the mid-month convention is used. This may reduce depreciation sharply.

Farming In Maryland

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

MARYLAND YOUNG FARMERS IN GARRETT COUNTY — Approximately 80 members of the Maryland Young Farmers Association attended the group's annual retreat, held this year at the Wisp in Garrett County. A reception was held for the Young Farmers Friday evening, November 6, with Garrett County Young Farmers joining in the activities. Saturday morning, the farm couples from all over the state were hosted by Garrett County Young Farmers on a farm tour. Visited were Mack Rush's veal farm and Carl Bender's dairy farm. Above, the group donned hard hats for a tour of Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation's gas pumping station near Accident. Following the tour, the group traveled to Double G Ranch in McHenry for horse-drawn hayrides (below), volleyball games, and a cookout. That night a banquet was held in the Bavarian Room at The Wisp with Garrett County farmer Bill Aiken the guest speaker. Aiken is also a West Virginia Farm Bureau field man, and related many of his humorous experiences as a field man to the group. The annual retreat, which is held to give young farm couples a chance to get together on an informal basis, concluded with a group breakfast Sunday morning.

No Rain Reported For First Week Of Month

During the week ended November 8, virtually no rain fell in Maryland. There were 7.0 days suitable for fieldwork according to the Maryland Agricultural Statistics Service. Topsoil and subsoil moisture averaged short to adequate, mostly short. The Maryland piedmont area had adequate moisture.

Soybeans averaged poor to fair condition, mostly fair. Soybeans were 65 percent harvested, 10 percent ahead of normal. The corn for grain harvest was 96 percent complete, six percent ahead of average.

The fall planting of winter wheat and barley was 85 percent and 97 percent complete, respectively, both equal to the normal pace. The fall planting of oats was 95 percent complete, the same as average. The condition of small grains had decreased to an average of fair to good. The supply of hay averaged adequate.

Weather

Weather for the week ending November 6 was warm with no rain. Temperatures averaged 55.1 degrees, 6.1 degrees above the normal 49.1 degree average for this time of year. High temperatures for the week reached from the mid to upper 70s except in extreme Western Maryland where the high reached only the low 70s. Low temperatures were mostly in the 30s except in extreme Western Maryland where temperatures fell to the low 20s.

There was zero precipitation recorded for the week.

Ag Secretary Cawley Represents U.S. Trade Association In Japan

Wayne A. Cawley Jr., Maryland's Secretary of Agriculture and President of the Southern United States Trade Association (SUSTA), returned on November 3 from a week-long visit to Japan, where he officially opened the "First Nichii American Fair," a 4.3 million dollar promotion of American products and lifestyles sponsored by the Nichii Company, Ltd.

Cawley, who represented 14 southern states and Puerto Rico, visited five of the 149 Nichii supermarkets and department stores, where he participated in events designed to introduce American products and culture to Japanese consumers. He was welcomed warmly by Mr. Kobayashi, president of the Nichii Company, Ltd.

"It gives me great pleasure to be able to promote products from the American south," said Kobayashi. "I feel most privileged and honored to have your presence at the official opening of the First Nichii American Fair."

According to Suzanne Hale, of the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service, the Nichii Company promotion was the most impressive plan for an American food promotion she had seen in Japan. An estimated 16.6 million Japanese visited the nationwide promotions and special events.

Secretary Cawley was very favorably impressed with the outstanding reception given SUSTA and the cooperating agencies, noting that the fair was the result of more than a year of hard work, and that it was the largest promotion of American food products ever held in Japan. Stating that SUSTA's primary aim is to increase agricultural, food, and seafood exports from the region, and that the region accounted for over 25 percent of American agricultural exports in 1986, Cawley announced that "SUSTA will continue to put great emphasis on developing and implementing promotions such as Nichii's American Fair."

Cawley stated, "I look forward to enhanced, long-term relationships based on trust and mutual benefit between the Nichii Company and SUSTA. And most important, between our nations and our peoples," he concluded.

ACR Maintenance Required Through End Of Year

The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service says conservation protection established on acreage conservation reserve (ACR) land must be maintained through December 1987. "These acres must be kept free from weeds, insects and rodents through the end of the year," said Olin S. Davis Jr., chairperson, Maryland State ASC Committee.

The 1987 acreage reduction and land diversion programs removed about 139,912 wheat and feed grain base acres from production to the ACR. Farm program participants have since planted cover crops and installed conservation practices on the land to guard against soil erosion, according to Davis.

If ACR grazing has been approved by the state ASC committee, Davis said farmers need to keep sufficient cover on the land and not overgraze the acreage.

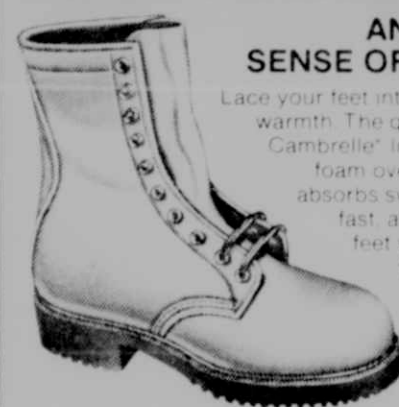

"To qualify for total 1987 farm program benefits, producers are required to protect ACR land in accordance with program requirements."

The ASCS official said farmers will be out of compliance and could lose payments and other benefits if they fail to carry out conservation practices to protect ACR from wind and water erosion; or if they do not take necessary measures to control weeds, insects and rodents; or fail to comply with harvesting and grazing restrictions on the land.

To ensure that farm program participants are meeting these requirements, ASCS periodically checks ACR land.

Deere & Company Presents Series On Tillage Practices

Tillage systems, their cost, their performance, fertilizers needed, and the results of new research, are some of the topics in this series of articles on tillage printed by Deere & Company of Moline, Ill. Gordon D. Tjelmeland, agricultural product information specialist with Deere & Company, says that misconceptions persist about tillage and agricultural chemical practices, and that the most current data has shed new light on the matter. In printing the series of articles, Tjelmeland says, Deere & Company hopes to provide sensible, balanced, straightforward information that people can put to good use.

The following is the third in a series of six articles from Deere & Company scientist and technicians.

CHANGING TILLAGE SYSTEMS CAN MEAN CHANGING FERTILIZING METHODS

Farmers who use reduced tillage practices frequently mention two problems. First, it's difficult to get fertilizer down into the crop root zone and not disturb residue needed on the soil surface to control erosion. Second, the cool, moist soil conditions with conservation tillage can limit fertilizer utilization, particularly during early stages of crop growth.

Getting full value from fertilizer dollars is a major challenge for conservation tillage, which is defined as any tillage system that leaves at least 30 percent of the old crop residue on the soil surface at planting. (No-till is an extreme form of conservation tillage.)

"Conservation farming requires better fertilizer management," says Dr. Richard Johnson, senior scientist at the Deere & Company Technical Center in Moline, Illinois. "No-till or severely limited tillage can cut crop yields if soil fertility programs are not adjusted to fit the new conditions."

The new conservation tillage farmer who hasn't done his homework can get some unpleasant surprises, he says.

As Johnson puts it, "There are many good reasons for considering conservation tillage, but saving money isn't always one of them. Too many farmers think conservation tillage will increase their net profits. After harvest they often discover their yields have dropped or their fertilizer costs have increased."

Johnson stresses that a farmer should examine all the economics involved before deciding to change tillage practices. In fact, on most farms, tillage isn't the biggest expense. Total tillage costs for corn in the Midwest can range from $10 to $16 per acre.

"To determine tillage costs on your farm, break out current machinery expenses into tillage, planting, harvesting, grain hauling, and chemical application," Johnson says. "Per acre, tillage should total roughly 25 percent of the cost."

"Next, compare tillage costs with fertilizer and pesticide costs. These costs are closely related. Reduced tillage often means increased fertilizer and herbicide costs. More insecticides may also be needed."

"And remember that every farm, and often every field, is different. No one tillage system works best in all situations. Tillage practices are always site-specific. Fertilizer requirements and application methods can also vary considerably."

Johnson says soil testing is a necessary first step with conservation tillage. "Knowing the nutrient availability in your soil is essential, and regular soil testing is the only way to find out. It's also helpful to supplement this with crop tissue testing during the growing season. Conservation tillage is usually easiest where soils are not low in major nutrients."

How do conservation tillage soil conditions differ from those of conventional tillage? Johnson explains: "Soil is mixed less thoroughly, and most crop residues are not incorporated. Residues that are mixed into the soil are layered in the top two to four inches. Heavy surface residue cover promotes cooler, more moist soils. Nitrate nitrogen is more subject to loss by denitrification, or leaching. Plant nutrient distribution can become stratified. Also, the upper two inches of soil tend to become more acid if nitrogen is surface applied."

Conservation tillage changes nitrogen availability. Increased surface residue reflects solar radiation and shades the soil, so soil temperature is lower; and more water is held in the soil during early spring — there's less runoff. The result is that soil remains cooler and wetter later into the growing season, affecting seed germination and growth rate.

"To maintain crop yield potential under high residue conditions, more nitrogen fertilizer is often required. This increases production costs," he says.

It's also more difficult to apply nitrogen fertilizers effectively because too many fertilizer particles fall on crop residues instead of the soil surface. Without rainfall or mechanical incorporation into the soil, the fertilizer volatilizes and nitrogen is lost.

No-till eliminates any sort of separate operation to inject ammonia fertilizer down into the crop root zone before planting. This often forces a switch to alternate nitrogen fertilizers which are more expensive.

Many things change under conservation tillage. "Good fertilizer management is essential," Johnson says.

His suggestions for making the most of a conservation tillage program also include periodic use of tillage practices to thoroughly mix the upper eight to 10 inches of soil, using injected nitrogen, if possible, and watching expenses carefully. "Do not spend more than you save," he says.

Supply Of Turkeys Slightly Higher This Thanksgiving

Traditionally, Thanksgiving has always been the holiday to serve turkey. This year the supply will be large enough to carry on the tradition, according to the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA).

Nationally, there is a slight increase in the supply of turkeys; the supply of Maryland produced turkeys is also slightly higher than in 1986.

Hens and toms are larger in size than last year. The range in size for hens is 10-22.4 pounds and Toms, 21-35.6 pounds. The cost per pound, in most instances, should be about the same. According to the latest statistical estimates by the USDA, the average consumer eats 16 pounds of turkey per year.

Maryland turkey producers contend that the flavor of a freshly dressed turkey far exceeds the taste of a frozen bird.

As the MDA says, "After all, your turkey was produced in Maryland... With Pride."

Garrett County turkey producers registered with the MDA and retailing fresh dressed birds are: James Giotfely, Bitter-Rock Lodge Road, Accident, 245-4345, hens from 15 to 20 pounds and Toms from 25-30 pounds; and Harold Smith, Frog Pond Acres, Rt. 2, Accident, 826-8167, hens from 15 to 19 pounds and Toms from 25 to 28 pounds.

Diversification Conference Trip Is Scheduled

The Marketing Services Section of the Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) and the Delaware Department of Agriculture (DDA) are co-sponsoring a trip to Kansas City, Mo., to attend ADAPT 2 (Agricultural Diversification Adds Profits Today), a meeting sponsored by "Successful Farming Magazine" on December 3 and 4, it was announced by Brad Powers, chief of MDA's Agricultural Marketing Services.

Last year more than 6,000 farmers attended ADAPT 1 to learn about new ways to make a profit, according to Powers. This year's theme is "ADAPT 2 — 100 Ideas for Diversification," and features 45-minute seminars where farmers will learn about the hands-on experience, marketing niches, costs, and returns of different types of diversified agriculture.

This conference provides local and regional farmers the opportunity for face-to-face discussion with some of the most innovative farmers in America, and a realistic look at the ups and downs of diversification in real life.

Free transportation to Kansas City by bus will be furnished by the state Departments of Agriculture, which have arranged for a special half-price registration fee. The bus will leave Dover, Delaware, on the morning of Tuesday, December 1, arriving in Kansas City on the evening of Wednesday, December 2. Expenses include: lodging for three nights at $44 to $77 per night, food, and a $30 conference registration fee.

For further information, or to reserve space on the bus, call 1-800-492-5590, extension 5770.

WVU Researcher Studies Dangers Of Hydrocarbons

MORGANTOWN, W.Va. — If you've ever pumped gas at the service station and had it accidentally spill on your hands, you might have been exposed to some sinister compounds that could one day cause health problems.

"There's no way in the world you can avoid these substances in everyday life. The problem is that your body can't always oxidize these toxic substances effectively enough to provide for their safe removal from the body," said William Canady, professor of biochemistry at West Virginia University.

Canady is currently conducting research on the hydrocarbons found in gasoline and other petroleum products. In addition to physical contact with gasoline or oil, potential methods of exposure include breathing polluted air, contact with evaporated hydrocarbons that return to earth in rain, and consumption of water from rivers, lakes and other sources contaminated by petroleum products.

"Hydrocarbons such as those found in gasoline products do dissolve in water only to a small degree," Canady explained. "If you have ingested any of these toxic hydrocarbons, it is often very difficult for the body to dispose of them."

Canady is studying an enzyme found in the liver, adrenal gland, and other tissues, called Cytochrome P-450, which can oxidize hydrocarbons, making them more soluble in water and more easily removed from the body.

He says the oxidizing abilities of Cytochrome P-450 could be a mixed blessing. According to Canady, Cytochrome P-450 creates additional chemicals during its oxidation of hydrocarbons. Some of these new substances can react with other seemingly harmless chemicals to produce extremely toxic substances that are detrimental to the functioning of the human liver and may cause cancer.

"What you have is an enzyme that can activate other compounds that are not particularly harmful in themselves — but which, when they're oxidized, can be very toxic," Canady said.

The best safeguard against exposure to petroleum hydrocarbons is common sense, Canady added.

"Don't go out of your way to come into contact with gasoline products or exhaust fumes. If you're a mechanic, be sure to have escape routes for car exhausts in your garage. If you're at home and need to dispose of old oil or gasoline, be sure to dispose of it properly so that it will not leak into sewage disposal facilities, ground water, or water supplies," he said.

CELEBRATE NATIONAL FAMILY BREAD BAKING MONTH

November is National Family Bread Baking month. Bread baking should not become a lost art. Aside from the sentimental "homey" feeling we have at the smell of baking bread, this activity extends family resources, improves nutrition and can unite the family in a fun and educational activity.

Breads are nutritious, especially if enriched and/or made with fortified ingredients to extend keeping quality, improve texture and flavor various additives are included. If you bake your own bread, you control what and how much of it you want to add to the recipe. The variety is endless.

Flavorful breads have been baked by creative cooks for years, but to add pure nutrition to basic ingredients may be a new concept. In need of extra calcium or on a low sodium diet? Why not try the following recipes:

SWISS DILL LOAF

3 to 3½ cups all purpose flour
3 ounces Swiss cheese, grated (about ¾ cup)
1 package Rapid Rise Yeast
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
¾ cup evaporated skimmed milk
¼ cup water
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 egg white, beaten
Dill and/or sesame seed, optional

In a large mixing bowl, combine 2 cups flour, cheese, yeast, sugar, salt and dill weed. Heat milk, water and butter in saucepan over medium-low heat until hot to touch (125 to 130°F); stir into dry ingredients, blend well. Mix in enough reserved flour to make soft dough. On floured surface, knead 4 minutes or until smooth and elastic. Cover, let rest 10 minutes. Roll dough to 12x8-inch rectangle. Roll up from short end into loaf. Pinch seam and ends to seal. Place in greased 8½x4½x2½-inch loaf pan. Cover. Place large shallow pan on counter; half-fill with boiling water. Set rack over shallow pan, set loaf pan on rack. Let dough rise until doubled in size, about 30 minutes. With sharp knife, cut 4 diagonal slashes in top of loaf. Brush with egg white and sprinkle with dill and sesame seeds. Bake at 375°F for 25 minutes or until done. Cool on wire rack. Makes 1 loaf (about 16 slices).

Swiss Dill Loaf Nutritional Information: 1 slice: 114 calories, 5 gm. protein, 2 gm. fat, 19 gm. carbohydrates, 92 gm. calcium.

SALT-FREE

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

4½ to 5 cups all purpose flour
1 tablespoon sugar
2 packages Active Dry Yeast
2¼ cups water
¼ cup honey
½ cup sweet unsalted margarine or butter
2 cups whole wheat flour

In a large bowl, thoroughly mix 2 cups all purpose flour, sugar and undissolved Active Dry Yeast. In saucepan, over low heat, heat water, honey and unsalted margarine until very warm (120°F to 130°F). Margarine does not need to melt. Gradually add to dry ingredients and beat 2 minutes at medium speed of electric mixer, scraping bowl occasionally. Add ½ cup all purpose flour. Beat at high speed 2 minutes, scraping bowl occasionally. Stir in whole wheat flour and enough remaining all purpose flour to make a stiff dough. On lightly floured surface, knead until smooth and elastic, about 8 to 10 minutes. Place in greased bowl, turn to grease top. Cover, let rise in warm, draft-free place until doubled in size, about 50 minutes. Punch dough down, turn onto a lightly floured surface. Divide dough in half. Shape each half into a loaf. Place in 2 greased 8½x4½x2½-inch or 9x5x3-inch loaf pans. Cover, let rise in a warm draft-free place until doubled in size, about 1 hour. Bake at 400°F for 30 to 35 minutes or until done. Remove from pans, cool on wire racks. Makes 2 loaves, 15 slices per loaf.

Nutrition Information: 1 slice: 126 calories, 3 gm. protein, 2 gm. fat, 24 gm. carbohydrate, 1 mg. sodium.

Theft, Destruction At SHS Probed By Sheriff's Dept.

A breaking and entering and theft and destruction of property, which occurred recently at Southern High School, is currently under investigation by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

According to Arthur Refosco, principal there, a person or persons entered through a rear window of the school, breaking it in the process, then broke a window pane in the library door and in the door of a conference room within the library.

Taken from the library was an RCA Selecta Vision VHS cassette recorder, valued at $387, and two Knight Stereo speakers, valued at $250. According to police reports, a typewriter and an electric pencil sharpener were moved from atop desks in the library and placed on the check-out counter. There is no total estimate yet of loss and damage, according to Detective L.E. Gnegy, investigating officer.

A theft at Broadford Elementary School is also under investigation by the Sheriff's Department. The theft was reported after rooms there were ransacked and cash and checks were removed from first, second and third-grade rooms. Amount of the loss has not yet been determined. Detective Gnegy also investigated that incident.

A theft was reported by Ralph J. Hardesty, Mtn. Lake Park, that occurred sometime between November 6 and 9 at his residence. Hardesty stated that a 12-inch, 10-speed, bicycle, red and silver in color, was removed from his yard. The loss amounted to $170. Deputy P.J. Pratt investigated.

Another theft was reported by Anna P. Fike, Mtn. Lake Park, who stated that on November 11, $101 in cash and $27 in food stamps were removed from her residence. Deputy J. Murphy is investigating.

Frederick W. Baker, Friendsville, reported a destruction of property that occurred Monday at his residence on Main Street when a person or persons entered his yard and struck the top of a small block Chevrolet engine with a blunt object.

The carburetor and the interior of the motor were damaged, amounting to $150.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Oakland Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a public hearing on November 24, 1987 at 7:00 p.m. in the Oakland Town Hall. The Board will review an application made by the American Legion Post 71 for a Special Exception permit and a Variance from the terms of the Oakland Zoning Ordinance as it affects the rear yard setback requirement. Specifically, the American Legion management is requesting the Special Exception to allow the construction of an addition to the rear of their present building. The Variance request is for a 5 foot variance for a portion of the total addition. A portion of the total addition (approximately 13 feet) will extend to Johnson 15 feet of the rear property line instead of the required 20 feet. The property is located at the corner of 4th Street and Memorial Drive (Zoned TR Town Residential). Interested citizens are urged to attend.

Becky Meyers Receives Award From Jobs Club

Becky L. Meyers was recently selected by members of the Northern High School Jobs Club as October Student Employee of the Month. This is a new award being given in the school this year to help recognize students for their part-time work efforts and achievements based on work attendance, punctuality, dependability, performance and attitude.

Miss Meyers has worked at Spear's Convalescent Home in Markleysburg, Pa., as a dietary aide for five years. Her work duties include preparing meals for residents of the home. Her employer describes her work as "super."

In addition to her work responsibilities, Becky is also actively involved in the following school activities: Student Council, softball, Girls Varsity Club, Camp Hickory counselor, and Powder Puff football.

SUNNYSIDE- UNDERWOOD

The Thursday afternoon Bible study group met in the home of Bessie Canan. The opening prayer was by Sybil Merrill. Scripture reading was in Second Kings with Jane Kope instructing the lesson. Closing prayer was by Wilma Waybright. Table grace was by Anna Cannon.

Those attending included Sybil Merrill, Florence Hamill, Elaine Beckman and daughter, Amanda; Wilma Waybright, Anna Cannon and Jane Kope.

Mildred Peterson will be hostess for the next meeting, weather permitting.

The "Helping Hands" group met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George White. The meeting opened with prayer by Mildred Peterson. All attending recited or read a favorite scripture verse.

The business meeting followed, conducted by the leader Hazel Upole. The committee decided to buy a family Bible for the neighbors who had lost their homes in a fire recently.

The next meeting will be held in conjunction with the Ladies Aid and will be in the Community Building in Crellin on December 11, at 7 p.m.

Those attending were Marian and Earl Friend, F. and Iva-dine Cummings, Becky and Elaine Cummings, George and Hazel White, Joyce and Carolyn Foster and Lori and Jamie Hebb, Hazel Upole, Elaine Beckman and daughters, Vicki and Amanda, Arlene Dilley, Linda Spink and son, Mildred Peterson, Cheryl Cosner and Bessie Canan.

FSU Collegiate Chorale Concert Set For Sunday

The Frostburg State University Music Department will present the Collegiate Chorale Concert this Sunday, November 22, at 3 p.m. in Pullen Hall auditorium. The Chorale, under the direction of Sharon C. Davis, will present the Vivaldi Gloria with soloists Susan Knisley and Desiree Witt, sopranos, and Sheila Cunningham and Carol Rheinsmith, contraltos.

The program includes "Hodie Christus natus est" by Francis Poulenc, "A Hint of Winter" by Richard Davis, and "Jubilant Song" by Norman Dello Joio.

The Chorale is comprised of 43 university students and is accompanied by Kim Cassell. The concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

Dunmyer Named WRA Director

Dr. Torrey C. Brown, secretary, Maryland Department of Natural Resources, named James W. Dunmyer as the new director of the Water Resources Administration for the Department. Dunmyer comes to the post from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers where he was a senior policy maker in the Policy Branch at the Office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington, D.C.

Secretary Brown said, "We are most fortunate in being able to obtain the services of Mr. Dunmyer. He brings to the administration extensive knowledge of water resource regulatory programs and has broad management experience."

Dunmyer succeeds James W. Peck, who has been director since 1983. Peck has been named an assistant secretary of the Department of Natural Resources with supervisory responsibility for five DNR units: Water Resources Administration; Maryland Environmental Service; Maryland Geological Survey; Power Plant Siting Program; and Hazardous Waste Facilities Siting Board.

As WRA director, Dunmyer will head an agency with 122 employees and an annual budget of more than $7 million. He will be responsible for conservation, management and development of Maryland's water resources including wetlands, water supply, watershed and flood management, dam safety, non-fuel surface mining, geo-technical services and coal mining.

Dunmyer has extensive experience with the Corps of Engineers in the management of water resources. Following graduation from West Point in 1962, he subsequently earned a master of science degree from the University of Illinois and a master of business administration from Pepperdine University. Dunmyer resides in Annapolis with his wife, Vallory, and son, Mike.
